R. MICHELS WELDING COMPANY

Welding, Frame, Wheel and Axle Service

This old reliable concern, located in Covington at 722 Washington St., has finished over 21 years of satisfactory service to automobile owners, industries, etc., of Northern Kentucky. The phone number is Colonial 0670.

The manager, while he is an authority on the subject and has an excellent eye as to trueness, does not depend upon his sight or judgment and has installed the famous Bendix National Four Way System, which is designed to give accurate test and show exactly what must be done to line up the wheels, frame and axle so that the car will run true. Their system is recognized as one of the very best in the industry.

The automatic alignment of wheels saves rubber, wandering, weaving, shimmying, hard steering, and accidents. It is best to have them aligned occassionally to see that everything is O. K. in this age of fleety cars. Their balancing equipment will give you the most accurate service.

A bent axle or wheel that is out of line is liable to give trouble that will cost a lot of money if continued in use. They are dangerous in this age of fast driving as you may throw a wheel and the fellow behind may hit you. Wear on tires, also, will cost money and if you will have them inspected occassionally you will avoid all this.

They have always insisted that the very best of attention be given to every patron and as a consequence people from every point of the compass are praising the excellent service at this popular establishment.

MONTGOMERY COAL CO.

Distrdibutors of Peerless and Lincoln Block Coal—Also Blue Ribbon Oil Treated Stoker Coal

This is Northern Kentucky's greatest coal house, located with main office and yards at Second and Philadelphia Streets and branch at 21 W. 19th St., Covington, Ky. It is directed by prominent coal authorities who long ago won the confidence and patronage of the home owners and business houses of this section. The main office phone number is Hemlock 4040.

They are distributors of the famous lines of Peerless and Lincoln block coals. In addition, (they handle Blue Ribbon oil treated stoker coal, which is a nationally famous type of hard structure coal known for its high heat content. Blue Ribbon stoker coal is also known for its adaptibility to use in all stokers due to the proper sizing and also because of the fact that it burns more thoroughly, making possible an extremely low ash content.

This is an establishment that would do credit to any community and in this Commercial Trade Edition we recommend them and their dependable services to all readers in this territory.

There is a great deal more to the business of conducting a coal house than the average person appreciates. It is a most essential business that requires at its head men of experience in true coal values, as well as executives who are familiar with the details and the necessity for adequate distribution.

In conclusion we are pleased to direct the attention of the trade of our territory to The Montgomery Coal Co., as a very distinctive feature of the commercial efficiency of this section. For further information call at the offices, write, or telephone.

HAEHNLE PROVISION CO.

Northern Kentucky's Leading Pork and Beef Packers

By means of this review of the commercial, agricultural, and industrial progress of Covington and vicinity, we wish to call the attention of our readers to this leading members of the meat packing industry. They are packers and distributors of the famous line of Haehnle Quality Meats Products which include hams, bacon, sausage and other meat specialties. This firm under the direction of Mr. Frank Haehnle was founded July 5, 1910 and has been in continuous operation since that time. The phone numbers are Hemlock 5000 and 5001.

The plant, located in Covington, at 309-315 W. 12th is under the personal supervision of well-known local business men who attained their success by means of furnishing a metropolitan distribution service to their dealers at the lowest price possible in line with good business practice, and because the people know that they purchase only the choicest cuts which they in turn process under their own special formula.

A dozen times a day we make comparisons with accepted standards of quality with which we have long been familiar. People in this section use "Haehnle Meats" as the standard of quality.

One feature that immediately attracts the attention of all visitors to the plant is the complete order and cleanliness that prevails. All equipment is kept spotlessly clean, assuring the ultimate purchaser a product that not only tastes good, but is good, because its purity and cleanliness is continually checked by special trained inspectors.

You will find Haehnle meat products everywhere throughout Burlington and vicinity—sold by the better class retail dealers who serve the more discriminating trade.

Demand Haehnle meat products from your dealer and get the best on the market.

THE GENERAL BUILDING ASSOCIATION

Northern Kentucky's Oldest—Over 70 Years of Service

The General Building Ass'n. was founded and built-up on the security of City and Suburban Homes and the honesty and ability of its directors. The directorate is composed of such outstanding businessmen as Mr. John Hanauer, president; J. G. Heileman, vice president; J. C. Minderman, secretary; Mr. Chas. H. Feuss, treasurer. The offices are located in Covington at 629 Madison. Phone Colonial 7677.

At the General Building Association will be found men who have made a careful study of local conditions in Northern Kentucky and are therefore familiar with every detail of this comprehensive service.

Your estate may be already established or it may be in the making—whatever the case may be, you are adding to it with wise financial investments or subtracting from it with interest and bonus on borrowed money to tide you over the rough spots in the road.

They are offering you a secure investment that will protect you and yours from the deteriorating investment—an investment that accrues to your personal estate, with a liberal rate of earnings.

Another important factor—do not overlook the fact that money invested in this institution is used in turn to aid other local people to build and modernize their homes. Therefore by placing your funds with this institution you are helping other worthy people to become home-owners and at the same time helping to build a bigger and better community.

Remember, no matter how small the sum may be that you wish to invest, it will be handled to your satisfaction and will bring profitable returns if placed in the hands of the General Building Association, while also lends money on improved real estate.

Dr. Walter E. Tait, Optometrist

A Well Known Member of the Profession

Dr. Tait is a recognized leader and one of Northern Kentucky's best known optometrists, who has won wide public favor for his scientific examination of the eyes and the fitting of proper glasses. His offices are located in Covington at 27 East 7th St. Phone Hemlock 2088. By means of this Commercial Review, we wish to call our readers attention to his reliable service.

The eyes are the most delicate organs of the human body and demand the best of care from well skilled eye-sight specialists. By means of his success in correcting troubles that affect adults and children's eyes, Dr. Tait has gained a well merited reputation for a capable and comprehensive service.

Dr. Tait specializises in the correction of errors of refraction and defects of vision, and has been justly commended for his fine work in the correction of crossed eyes for both adults and children, and is backed by an extended record of more than 25 years of service.

The importance of the proper care of the eyes cannot be too strongly emphasized. The majority of our people are careful of their watches, their teeth, and their automobiles, but they let their eyes go until they are no longer able to function properly, before giving them attention.

Many different things requiring quick, keen eyesight contribute to eye-strain and exhaustion in many cases bring about the need for the services of such a reliable professional optometrist as Dr. Walter E. Tait.

LETTER TO BOYS IN SERVICE

Boys, wherever you are, here is a letter just for you.

Dear Boys:

We are thinking of you, and we say,
Most of us, have kneeled to pray;
The old and the young, down to the tot
Wants you to know we haven't forgot
That you're in service for just one thing,
To keep that old "Let Freedom ring."
We want you to know you're missed by all,
And with you in there, America won't fall.
Keep up the courage, give Uncle your best,
And the folk back home, will do the rest.
Thumbs up boys—on sea, air or land,
Just letting you know, we think you are grand.

—The Folk.

SERMON OF THE MONTH

The following sermon was prepared by Rev. H. M. Hauter, a member of the Boone County Ministerial Association. A series of sermons will be published in this, paper, appearing once each month, and will be composed by members of the association. The sermon follows:

"WE HAVE NOT DONE ENOUGH"

The Christian Church is faced with the greatest challenge of modern history, and now is the time to see and prepare for the stupendous hour of bringing Christ to the heathen world. This tremendous privilege of fulfilling Jesus' last command, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature," is ours—yours and mine.

The present world wide war is bringing such ancient and pagan countries as Japan, China, India, much closer than ever before. There rests in those lands and adjacent seas the bodies of Christian American soldiers and sailors, blood of our blood, and there will be many more. We are learning some very important and heart-rending lessons in geography. The Christian Church, her pastors and missionaries, have for generations been imploring the American people to take a real interest in the Christianizing of the Far East, but today you can hear many say, "I don't believe in foreign missions."

May we reieate a parable? A certain missionary, we know not his name, nor does it make any difference, while on furlough was preaching in a Christian Church of his denomination. He was pleading for action from the church to send more and more helpers into the vineyard. Of course the offering for this service was to contribute to this glorious cause. After the missionary's sermon of love and brotherhood for all mankind, the offering was being received a truly faithful and long suffering deacon. In due time as he passed up one aisle and down the other he came to one of the richest men of the congregation. As the basket was passed to him, he whispered to the deacon, "You know I don't believe in foreign missions!" And the deacon in an audible whisper replied—"then take out of the basket, you know it is for the heathen."

If there was as much Christianity in the Far East today as there are false religions we would not be fighting a war.

The heathen Japanese are putting their trust in false gods whom they hope will give them the victory. However, they will know when the smoke of battle has cleared and the Stars and Stripes glorify the sky over Tokyo, that their gods are false. Then in their ignorance and imperative need they will seek new gods. This then will be the Christian's hour to bring Christ to the Far East. With tremendous energy and an all consuming zeal we, the Christian Church, must now prepare. Yet, there is a war to win, but there is also a peace. Will our young men and women hear the cry?—"Go ye." Will our churches be filled to overflowing when our missionaries tell us of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man? Will we whisper—"I don't believe in foreign missions?" Will we be prepared with unfathomable love and mercy, when the victory is won, to win a lasting peace? We must be prepared to follow the armed forces with Bibles, prayers and the Word of God in the mouths of consecrated men and women. Will we be prepared to give to them who will carry the message of "Peace on earth, good will to men," our unswerving loyalty and cooperation? Or shall we hear the echo, "too late!" We have heard these words whenever we heard of defeat. Always, "we were not prepared," "reinforcements arrived too late." If Christ does not enter Japan and the Far East the moment victory is proclaimed and the false gods die, then they in their ignorance and sorrow will carve out of wood and stone other gods, and our children will have to fight another war. Will then, these many thousands of children lying in their cribs today, point their fingers at us, and say—"too late!"

In a few days Christian America will celebrate Easter, the day our Lord came forth from the dead to prove to the world that He is the King of Kings, the Lord of Lords, the Saviour of the World; your Saviour and mine. He came to give life, life everlasting, to seek and to save those who are los He picked His Apostles. He mad us His disciples, to follow Him, t do His will.—"Go ye."

"And He said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned." This command was not meant only for ministers, but for every one who confesses Him as their Lord and Saviour. It is your unutterable joy; it is mine. A few days pass and we see Him, our Lord, on the Mount of Ascension. Others are there to witness His invincible power and glory and hear the command of the angel, and the echo comes down thru the ages to us.—"And while they looked steadfastly toward Heaven as He went up, behold, two men stood by them in white apparel; which also said, "Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? There is work to do."

REV. H. M. HAUTER.

Gayety Theater News

SATURDAY

The chase, which has played an exciting part in screen plots since the days of Mack Sennett comedies is given important footage in the new M-G-M picture, "Down in San Diego," to be shown at the Gayety.

The principals involved are Bonita Granville, Ray McDonald, Leo Gorcey and Stanley Clements, who seated on a motorcycle, race a fleet of police cars in an effort to lead the police to the headquarters of an espionage gang.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

For his second assignment as a producer with 20th Century-Fox, William Perlberg was given the enviable job of "Remember the Day," starring Claudette Colbert.

Perlberg, who handled the reins of the successful "Charley's Aunt," thinks that the picture version of the former Broadway hit will be even more successful.

TUESDAY
(Double Feature)

For one week Alan Curtis was the world's highest paid motorcycle messenger.

When Curtis was assigned to an important role in "We Go Fast," the new 20th Century-Fox film, he found that he would have to be able to ride a motorcycle. This was a new experience for the actor as he had never before ridden or driven one of the vehicles.

Plus

Lynn Bari's newest hobby is photography. The lovely actress, who is now in 20th Century-Fox's "Moon Over Her Shoulder" has converted a clothes closet in her home into a darkroom.

Not only does she develop her own films, but she has asked her friends to bring their photos to her so she can get extra experience by developing their films.

WED., THURSDAY, FRIDAY

Silent film technique may be due for a revival in Hollywood with the new method of story telling in pictures which has been used recently by Director John Ford in the Darryl F. Zanuck production of "How Green Was My Valley," the 20th Century-Fox film.

The script gave dialogue to the actors only in alternate sequences in the picture. The other sequences were filmed without sound, with a narrator's voice over the action detailing the first-person development of the story.

This was the first time since the advent of sound that entire sequences of a picture had been filmed without dialogue.

OBITUARY

Frank D. Mullins was born January 30, 1857 and departed this life March 18, 1942, at the age of eighty-five years, one month, and eighteen days.

April 1, 1889 he was united in marriage to Mary Ellen Mitchell. To this union seven children were born, of whom one son and two daughters survive. Namely, Mrs. William R. Horton, Mrs. Kenneth Stamper and Stanley Mullins. He is also survived by one half-brother, Sam Pettit, seven grandchildren, and a number of nieces, nephews, other relatives and friends.

His first wife preceded him to to the grave thirteen years ago. Four children, Ora Edith Mullins, Clara Jane Dresser, Irvin Mullins and an infant son have preceded him in death.

Later in life he was united in marriage to Mrs. Sarah Mullins, who survives him.

GUNPOWDER

We are glad that those on the sick list are improving.

Several plant beds have been burned in this neighborhood the past week.

Miss Myrtle Smith and Mrs. Maggie Clarkson spent Thursday in Covington, shopping.

Mrs. Maggie Clarkson entertained Mrs. Maggie Wilson and Miss Anna Lee Wilson over the weekend.

BIRTHDAY IS CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. Lora Mullin, of Union, entertained Sunday, March 22, in honor of her father, Mr. W. D. Ecklar's 77th birthday. A lovely dinner was served at the noon hour including turkey, ham and vegetables too numerous to mention to say nothing of the cakes and ice cream. The birthday cake, a lovely angel-food was baked by Mrs. Claude Lemons.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Claude Lemons and four children, H. T., Kenneth, Donald and Gayle Lemons, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Slade and daughter, Pattie, Mr. and Mrs. Frew Ecklar and son, Alfred, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hill and four children, Wayne, Russell, Junior and Phyllis Ann Hill, Mrs. S. L. Lyons and children, Denver, Garnett and Bonnie Lyons, all of Harrison County and Rev. R. A. Johnson of Covington.

They were entertained in the afternoon by Mrs. Lucy Garrison with readings and poems. A fine day was spent and all seemed to enjoy themselves to the uttermost. All left at a late hour wishing Mr. Ecklar many more happy birthdays.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our relatives, friends and neighbors for their help and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our father,

Frank D. Mullins

Especially do we thank Rev. Branham for his words of comfort; those who brought the message in songs; and Tharp and Stith for the efficient manner in which the funeral was conducted. 1t-p

Hello Myrt.
Ain't it cold?

You have finished your Red Cross sweater and think you will put it on?

Not a bad idea Myrt. How are your chickens doing?

They are! Well mine have the droop and buckles. Yes sire, they just squeak, buckle and from then on, it's legs up. The big boss bought me 25 and you would have thought it was a leg show. Shore nuf. Five left.

Wasn't the Home Nursing Class interesting last night? Didn't you think you would die when Lula fell out of bed? She rolled once too much didn't she. Miss Lowry shore knows hows to tell the lesson, and from all the diplomas coming into the county from Washington we shure are going to be good and well after we get boomed.

Yes, I know there is to be a First Aid class at Florence. It is nice of Dr. Daugherty to teach it too. You are going every time? Well that's fine, Myrt..

Give some of my blood? Give some of my blood for what and why?

For the Blood Bank?

What's a Blood Bank, do they pay interest?

h! they don't eh.

Oh, it's for the soldiers, what's the matter with them?

When they get all shot up, well, my goodness why didn't you tell me that in the first place, of course I'll give my blood. A gallon anyway.

They don't need a gallon, just a pint. Well let me know when they start drilling.

Hey you! Stop that scratching on the phone. I'll talk as long as I want to. Myrt are you still there? It's getting so a person can't even use the phone without some one bringing up the forty hour week.

Goodbye Myrt,

SADIE.

DOG QUARANTINE MUST BE OBEYED

WARNING ISSUED BY COUNTY JUDGE AND COUNTY BOARD OF HEALTH—MAD DOG KILLED IN EAST BEND MONDAY.

Dog owners throughout the county are required to keep their dogs muzzled, tied or confined for the next six months, according to an official anouncement from the Boone County Fiscal Court and the County Board of Health. This order will be strictly enforced.

During the past week approximately fifty dogs have been killed in the northwestern part of Boone County, most of which were known to have been in contact with the mad dog killed here Sunday evening of last week.

Both the fiscal court and the County Board of Health have ordered Sheriff Williams to dispose of all dogs found running at large without being muzzled. This order was given in the interest of public safety and health and will be fully carried out.

Sheriff Williams was called to Union, Sunday to kill a dog owned by Tom Knox, which was thought to be infected with rabies. The dog's head was sent to Lexington for examination and proved positive for rabies. The following letter was received from the University of Kentucky:

"Mr. J. T. Williams,
Sheriff Boone County,
Burlington, Kentucky.
Dear Sir:

"The bacteriological laboratory of this department reports that an examination of the dog head submitted by you and delivered to the laboratory on April 6, 1942 by bus, gave the following results: Lab. No. 190885. Specimen: Dog, head; owner, Tom Knox, Union, Ky. Examination, positive for rabies.

"Inasmuch as the examination of the brain indicates that this animal was infected with rabies or hydrophobia, anyone exposed to the saliva through handling or feeding or from having been bitten within a period of ten days prior to the first symptoms, should take the Pasteur or anti-rabic treatment immediately, to guard against contracting the disease.

Yours very truly,
LINWOOD A. BROWN,
Director, Department of Public Service Laboratories
University of Kentucky."

Reuben Kirtley of East Bend, reported to Sheriff J. T. Williams Monday that he had killed a dog in the East Bend neighborhood that showed every indication of being affected with rabies. He stated that the dog attacked one of his dogs.

Persons owning dogs throughout the County are urged to abide by the order issued through the health department and the fiscal court. Persons violating this quarantine are subject to prosecution.

FIRST AID CLASS TO MEET AT HEBRON APRIL 9TH

The First Aid class at Hebron will begin Thursday night, April 9th. The class will be held at the school at 8:00 p. m. E. W. T.

Mr. and Mrs. Cam White entertained Sam Hamilton and family Thursday and Friday evenings of last week.

SCHOOL MUSIC FESTIVAL SLATED

WILL BE HELD AT FLORENCE SCHOOL TUESDAY, APRIL 14—IS NEW EVENT AMONG LOCAL SCHOOLS.

The schools of Boone County will hold their first Music Festival at Florence school Tuesday, April 14, 1942 at 8:30 p. m. (E. W. T.), according to an announcement made Monday.

This is a new event among the schools of this county and it is hoped that it will continue from year to year. Each school in the county may use four numbers of their own selection.

A competent judge will be secured to rate the different numbers. An admission of 17c for children and 28c for adults will be charged.

Let's encourage the children in this event, and show them that we desire a music festival again next year, by our support this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, of Park Hills were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wahl, Sunday evening.

Burcham Renamed To County Road Engineer Post

Sherman Burcham, Grant, was re-appointed County Road Engineer for Boone County by the Boone Fiscal Court Tuesday. Mr. Burcham has made considerable progress in road construction in Boone County, as well as kept most of the county roads in good repair.

Two wills were probated in County Court Monday by County Judge N. E. Riddell. Mrs. Francis Zimmer, wife of Chas. Zimmer, Sr., qualified and was named Executrix of her husband's estate. The will of Missouri A. Grant, of Florence was also probated and Virginia Crisler was named Executrix of the estate. Kenneth Stamper appeared and was qualified as administrator of the estate of Frank D. Mullins.

Florence Youth At Navy Training Station

Great Lakes, Ill.—John W. Miller, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Huey, (guardian) Lloyd Ave., Florence, Ky., arrived here this week and will begin his active duty in the Navy by undergoing several weeks of recruit training. This training teaches the new recruit elementary naval procedure and allows the Navy an opportunity to decide whether or not he will be retained for further specialized instruction, or will be sent directly for service at sea.

BOONE COUNTY JOINS IN DRIVE

FOR CANCER CONTROL FUNDS—SCHOOLS, P.-T. A., HOMEMAKERS AND CHURCH GROUPS ARE COOPERATING.

For centuries cancer threatened humanity with its hopeless fear. Today the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the control of cancer carries to every home the message that cancer can be cured if discovered early.

Launched in 1936 the Army today has divisions in 47 states and District of Columbia. It has the approval of the American Medical Association, American College of Surgeons and the U. S. Public Health Service. It has the guidance of State and local Medical Societies and the assistance of thousands of individuals.

The Congress of the United States in 1938 set aside the month of April as Cancer Control Month. During April an appeal is sent to everyone, both men and women to help in its work. No one is drafted in this war against the second greatest cause of death in the United States, but the help of everyone is needed. Everyone can give copies of pamphlets you receive this month to as many friends as possible.

Any funds raised during this month in the Fifth District go directly toward maintaining a free bed in one of our Northern Kentucky Hospitals where indigent patients may go for diagnosis and treatment.

Boone County must have a part in this work. A contribution little or much may help save a life. The schools, P.-T. A. groups, Homemaker Clubs and Church groups are cooperating. You may give thru any of these organizations or to the committee.

The committee is composed of Miss Elizabeth Lowry, R. H. N., Mrs. S. B. Nunnelley, and Mrs. M. A. Yelton.

The eleven delegates were: Harry Moore, Beaver; Mark Cook, Burlington; F. L. McGlasson, Constance; L. D. Renneckar, Florence; Lee R. McFeely, Grant; Kenneth Stephens, Hamilton; Albert Willis, Hebron; Joseph A. Huey, Union; H. R. Fisher, Verona; and Albert Johnson, Walton.

The County Committee elected by the delegates were Mark Cook, chairman; J. F. Cleek, vice chairman; William Hill, regular member; Joseph A. Huey, first alternate; H. R. Fisher, second alternate; and John E. Crigler, secretary and treasurer.

All of the newly elected County Committee and regular members of the Community Committee have been notified to attend a meeting at the County office on Thursday, April 9th at which time Mr. C. H. Allen, Field Representative from the state office will address the group.

Soil Conservation Supervisors To Meet

The Boone County Soil Conservation District Supervisors will meet at the County Agent's office in Burlington on this Thursday, April 9th, at 2:00 p. m. (Eastern War Time).

This will be the first meeting of the newly elected board of supervisors. The meeting will deal with the organization of the board and with the making of plans for a program of work.

NOTICE

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE BOONE COUNTY WOOL GROWERS OF BOONE COUNTY.

Through an error and oversight we failed to publish a notice of the wool growers meeting to be held at the courthouse Monday, April 6th, consequently very few members were present at the meeting.

The officers of the association were in no way responsible, since this notice was given to us last week but was unintentionally omitted.

William Phillips Leaves For Defense Position

William Phillips, of Lexington, son of Mrs. B. E. Aylor, Burlington left Tuesday for Sun Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, Chester, Pennsylvania. He will be employed in the machine shop at the Pennsylvania shipyards after completion of the required number of training hours at the Federal trade school, under the supervision of the War Department.

Mr. Phillips is a former employee of this newspaper, and we join his many friends in wishing much success in his new location.

Miss Norma Dempsey

Services for Miss Norma Dempsey, Verona, Ky., who died Tuesday of last week at the home of Mrs. Matt Foley, Labanon, Ohio, were held at 11 a. m. Friday at St. Patrick Church, Verona, with burial in St. Patrick cemetery.

She is survived by another sister, Mrs. Kate Maddin and three brothers, John, Jerry and Patrick Dempsey.

VICTORY GARDENS BEING PLANTED

LOCAL CITIZENS WILL DO RECORD JOB OF RAISING VICTORY GARDENS—FERTILIZER SHOULD BE USED.

Boone County folks will do a record job of raising Victory gardens this year, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Farmers plan to grow bigger and better gardens and town folks were seen busy the past week spading and plowing lots that were not previously cultivated.

Now is the most important since the last war to grow a Victory Garden. The food supply is needed and the extra food produced will prove a big help to the already cramped family budget.

Care should be taken by the many new gardeners that successful crops are produced. The ground should be carefully prepared; only good seed planted at the right time should be used and once the seeds are planted, the crops should be followed through until harvested.

New gardeners would do well to secure a sack of good complete fertilizer for the average family size garden. A good garden fertilizer would be one of an analysis similar to a 5-10-5 or 6-10-8, 4-8-4 or 3-8-6. The furrow would be laid off, the fertilizer spread thru the furrow by hand, the plow run thru once or twice to mix the fertilizer good with the soil and then the seed planted. It is best not to put the seed directly on a ribbon of retilizer.

There are thirty agricultural garden leaders, 12 homemaker club leaders and garden leaders of other organizations that are glad to help new gardeners with their problems. Every new gardener and most other home vegetable growers should secure the agricultural Extension Circular No. 376, "The Vegetable Garden Month by Month" at the County Agent's Office. The circular is free upon request.

SCHOOL HOURS ARE STEPPED UP

WILL GIVE OLDER YOUTHS TIME TO AID PARENTS IN CULTIVATION OF CROPS AND GARDENS.

Schools throughout Boone County started classes one hour earlier beginning Monday morning of this week, according to D. H. Norris. This schedule will be in effect the remainder of this term.

Supt. Norris stated that this change will no doubt aid many parents who have children attending high school, who will be able to help in cultivating crops and gardens after school hours.

School now begins at 9:30 and dismisses at 4 o'clock. With this schedule children are arrive at home in time to work several hours in the cultivation of various crops.

Many 4-H members throughout the county welcome this schedule, as it provides more time for them to work on thir farm projects.

At the present time there is farm labor shortage, and every hour gained by the farmer will add that much to his production.

POOL MEMBERS HOLD MEETING

WAS ANNUAL ORGANIZATION MEETING OF WOOL POOL ASSOCIATION—NEW OFFICERS ELECTED.

The Boone County Wool Pool members held their annual organization meeting at Burlington courthouse at 2:00 p. m. on Court Day, Monday, April 6. All 1941 officers and solicitors were re-elected for 1942.

The secretary-treasurer report showed that the Association operated the past year on an efficient business basis and that sufficient money was in the treasury to secure wool sacks for members at wholesale prices. The members voted this year that because of the great difficulty encountered in securing sacks, they would be distributed to members at $1.00 each with the members being paid back in full for the sacks when the wool is delivered.

Wool pool members may secure their sacks and strings in the near future from one of the following convenient locations:

Gulley & Pettit's Store, Burlington; Hebron Bank, Hebron; Feed Store, Florence; Lusby's Store, Walton.

Officers reelected for 1942 are H. E. White, president; Lillard Scott, secretary-treasurer; Solicitors Lee R. McNeeley, Carlton; Lillard Scott of Grant; Charles Stevens, Petersburg; Clint Riddell, Bullittsville; Lloyd McGlasson, Constance; C. F. Blankenbeker, Florence; H. E. White, Burlington; Alma Riley, Union; J. W. Conley, Beaver; B. W. Franks, Walton; Walter Johnson, Walton.

All sheep raisers in the county are urged to pool their wool with their solicitor at the earliest possible date. Members do not sign contracts but every grower listing his number of fleeces is taken on his word that he will deliver his clip. Only pool wool that is signed up can be sold through the Association as buyers refuse to pay highest price except for specified pool fleeces.

The next meeting of the association will be held on Court Day, May 4th, at Burlington, 2:00 p. m. (E. W. T.) Mr. L. A. Vennes, Marketing Specialist, College of Agriculture, has been requested to address growers on the market outlook for wool and lambs. The date for selling the pooled clip will be set on that day.

Carrollton Man Killed In Service On April 2nd

Thirty-five-year-old Maj. Norman J. Lewellyn was killed April 2 in action with the air force in the Far East, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lewellyn, of Carrollton.

Major Lewellyn was well known by all bankers in this section, having been connected with the Bankers Bond Co., of Louisville for several years, prior to his entry into the air corps in the Far East.

Especially will Major Lewellyn be remembered by all residents of Burlington, for on several occasions he flew low over the town to greet friends here.

Maj. Lewellyn was decorated with the Order of the Purle Heart in February for distinguished service and heroism.

Wallace-Kenyon

Word has been received here of the marriage of First Lieut. Allen S. Kenyon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Kenyon, of Constance to Miss Margaret Elizabeth Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wallace, of Clearfield, Penn.

The ceremony was performed in the Riverside Baptist Church, New York City, Saturday, April 4th.

Lieut. Kenyon is stationed with the Experimental Engineers of the Air Corps at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio.

Elmo Thomas

Elmo Thomas, a former resident of Erlanger, died late Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Townsley, 214 Ludlow Ave., Cincinnati, after a brief illness. He was 46.

He is survived by a son Jack, a daughter, Joyce, and two brothers Morris and Logan, of Erlanger.

Philip Tallaferro, Erlanger funeral director, was in charge of arrangements.

Campbell County Man Fined, Charged With Game Violation

L. Lipscomb, of Campbell County was fined $29.50 in Judge N. E. Riddell's court Friday on a charge of violating the fish and game laws of Kentucky.

Lipscomb was arrested Friday by Conservation Officer, E. M. Johnson, when he failed to produce a fishing license while fishing on Gunpowder.

Law enforcement officers have been asked by sportsmen's organizations to enforce all fish and game laws throughout the county, and to especially check on gigging and seining activities.

Wife of William Aylor Arrives In Boone Co.

Mrs. William W. Aylor, of Honolulu, Hawaii arrived last Sunday at the home of her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Aylor, where she will make her home until it is possible for her husband to join her.

Mrs. Aylor was formerly Miss Mardell Claire Christian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Christian of Fort Dodge, Iowa.

Mrs. Aylor states that her husband is well and sends best wishes to all of his friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Snyder, Mrs. Hildreth Dolwick and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wahl were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Val B. Dolwick and family.

BURLINGTON GIRL SELECTED

AS REPRESENTATIVE FROM BOONE IN STATE BANKERS' SPEAKING CONTEST—WALTON GIRL WINS SECOND PLACE.

Miss Geraldine Yelton, Burlington, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. A. Yelton, was selected Tuesday night at New Haven to represent Boone County in the State speaking contest sponsored by the State Banking Association.

First prize for the local contest was a $25.00 Defense Bond which was won by Miss Yelton. Second place with $10.00 in Defense Stamps as the prize, went to Miss King, representing the Walton school. Virginia Tanner, Florence, Lucille Edwards, Hebron and James Stephens, New Haven each received $3.00 in Defense Stamps.

Harry Nogel, vice president of the Fifth Third Union Trust Co., A. W. Clark, attorney of Covington, and Russell Anderson, of Ft. Thomas were the judges of the local contest.

A. D. Yelton, County Chairman for the sale of Defense Bonds and Stamps was present and made a short talk, and introduced John L. Vest, of Walton, who gave a brief lecture on the sale of Defense Bonds and Stamps in Boone County. Members of the Union Boy Scout Troop passed out folders to the entire audience explaining in detail the program for the sale of Defense Bonds and Stamps.

James B. Jones Praised By University Head

James B. Jones, graduate of the Hamilton High School, under R. Z. Asbury, principal was highly praised in a letter to Mr. Asbury from M. M. White, Acting Assistant Dean of the University of Kentucky, Lexington. The letter follows:

"Mr. R. Z. Asbury,
Principal of Hamilton High School
Union, Kentucky.
Dear Mr. Asbury:

"The academic standing of James B. Jones, who graduated from your high school is unusually high. Less than five percent of the College of Arts and Sciences freshmen make as high a standing.

"Your high school deserves credit for this success. I hope students like James B. Jones will come in greater numbers. If there is anything this office can do to help you develop such students, please feel free to call upon us.

Sincerely,
M. M. WHITE,
Acting Assistant Dean."

Elmore Ryle, of Lexington, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Manley Ryle.

DEFENSE BOND MEETING HELD

MONDAY NIGHT AT BURLINGTON—GREATER EFFORT IS URGED BY COUNTY COMMITTEE.

The County Committee on Defense Savings met Monday night in the courthouse, Burlington, to discuss the sale of Bonds and Stamps for the months of February and March. From all information available it was determined that the sales for those two months was approximately $46,000.00. It was determined from this figure that the daily average of purchases was about $800.00 for the entire county, while the approximate amount which should be bought, based on population and income, would be greater than $800.00.

The committee believes that more consistent efforts should be made by the people of the County to buy Bonds and Stamps and increase this figure and maintain it at the increased level.

It was clearly pointed out that no goal was being established, and that there was no intention to establish one. However, the belief was expressed, that the patriotic thing for Boone County to do, was to accept and bear its part of the burden now resting on the American people.

Figures used and quoted herein are for the purpose of calling to the attention of the people, that more activity must be had throughout Boone County.

There was no inclination on the part of the committee to minimize the efforts of the past months, but it was pointed out that the preservation of the future is imminent. The great expenditures necessary to create our war machine must be, and will be met by patriotic Americans everywhere buying Defense Bonds and Stamps. Boone County must not be an exception.

Cub Scout Organization Will Be Completed Soon

Nine Burlington boys ranging in age from 9 to 11 years have registered for entrance in the Cub Scout organization during the past three organization meetings held at the Burlington school building. Those registered are: Robert Greene, Paul Yelton, Max Ryle, John Cropper, Jimmy Ryle, Roy Cook, H. R. Forkner, Billy McBee, and Bobby Ray Combs.

These boys will form two dens, and will meet once each week for their regular Den meeting, and once each month for the general Pack meeting.

The organization is being sponsored by the Burlington Baptist Church with Rev. Roy Johnson pastor acting as Cubmaster.

A social meeting was held Monday night at the school building. Refreshments were served and an entertaining program was given. The meeting was attended by Cubs, parents, visitors and Willard A. Friend, Scout Executive.

Completion of plans for final organization is under way, and it is expected that the organization will be operating within the next two weeks.

COUNTY BLOOD BANK PLANNED

MEN AND WOMEN BETWEEN AGES OF 21 AND 60 WILL BE ASKED TO VOLUNTEER TO PINT OF BLOOD.

Definite plans to set up a Blood Donor Bank in Boone County, through the American Red Cross, was announced today by the chairman, Rev. J. Russell Cross.

Dates for operation of the program have not been determined, but mobile equipment will be sent from the Hamilton County and Cincinnati Chapter's Blood Donor Service to carry on the work.

Boone County Chapter officials met in executive session with Mrs. Bess Augsburger, special Field Representative for the Blood Donor Service, from the Eastern Area Headquarters of the American Red Cross at Alexandria, Va., and agreed to coperate in this vital service to our armed forces.

Men and women, between the ages of 21 and 60, will be asked to volunteer to give a pint of blood for reduction to plasma, useable for transfusions in war areas.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

BY HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

Lesson for April 12

THE MISSION OF THE SEVENTY

LESSON TEXT—Luke 10:1-7, 17, 21-24.
GOLDEN TEXT—The harvest truly is great, but the laborers are few: pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth laborers into his harvest.—Luke 10:2.

Working with Christ for the salvation of men has been the privilege of believers since the time He chose the twelve. We learn today that there were at least seventy more whom He considered dependable and worthy to be sent forth. Knowing how brief was the time before His death, the Saviour called, commissioned, and cared for them as they went two by two, personally to evangelize "in every city and place."

I. Sent to Serve Christ (vv. 1-3).

Prayer is back of the calling of laborers for Christ. God waits for His people to lay before Him the need, and to enlist His grace in moving upon the ones who can best serve Him. There is mystery here which we cannot fully understand, but it is perfectly clear that prayer is the power which has been given to the church with which to "move" the hand of God. The reason the laborers are so few, even in our days is evidently, then, because there has been so little prayer.

Observe that the Lord sent His servants "two by two" so that they could encourage and assist each other. Christian work is best done in Christian fellowship. The "star performer" or the "lone wolf" may be acceptable in business or social life, but he has no place in Christ's program, unless by His special call and guidance for some particular task, such as pioneer work.

He sent them to go "before His face"—what a glorious place to be! That means that He was watching over them, expecting them really to "labor" for Him. But notice also that in loving thoughtfulness they were—

II. Sustained by Christ (vv. 4-7).

It is well when workers go out that they have proper backing. We speak of the "board" which is behind our missionaries. That is right and proper, but above all there must be the assurance of the provision and protection of Christ.

They were not to be concerned about money. Christ had already moved upon the hearts of His people to see that the laborer had "his hire"—which was food and shelter (v. 7).

Time is what life is made of, and the servants of Christ were not to waste it in lengthy oriental salutations (v. 4), or going from house to house to be entertained, thus losing much time and strength.

Nor was he to strive or become angry if some one did not receive him and his greeting of "peace" (v. 6). In any case his word would return in blessing upon himself (v. 6), and he could go on to another house. The point of all this is that the expectation of the Christian servant is from his Master, Christ, whose business requires diligence and haste (I Sam. 21:8b).

The outcome of such service is revealed in our third point.

III. Successful Through Christ (vv. 17, 21-24).

The seventy returned rejoicing that even the demons were subject to them in Jesus' name. He still has power over the demons of our day. Would that the church wielded that power more effectively!

While it is a great thing thus to see the power of God at work, Jesus told them in verse 20 that an even greater thing is to have one's name written in heaven. That means that we ought to be much concerned not only about having our own names written there, but the names of all those whose lives we touch—at home, at work, anywhere.

The secret of the disciples' victory is found in the statements which Christ in all humility and honesty made about Himself (vv. 22-24). He is the one to whom "all things are delivered"—unlimited in authority and power. The mystery of His person and work is not something man can think out or fully comprehend (how foolish have been the attempts to do it!) for He is God. The fact that the Father had revealed these things to the seventy humble, ordinary men caused Christ to magnify His Father's name in praise and prayer. Spiritual insight (vv. 21, 24) is something only God can give, and often He can give it in full measure only to humble and lowly men. "Men like D. L. Moody, who became spiritual giants, were usually humble men from lowly walks who gave themselves wholly to God" (B. L. Olmstead).

Need to Slow Up

The world is going too fast! Even the Church needs to slow up for it is attempting too much in social programs and is losing spiritual poise in many places. Paul said to the Church, "Put on the whole armor of God." The whole armor takes time to put on, yet it is dangerous to leave off any part of it.—Rev. A. E. Gregory.

Ossification Of The Bone

The process of ossification consists in the appearance within the cartilaginous skeleton of bone forming cells, and the deposition calareous or earthly matter which gradually displaces the cartilaginous matter.

These processes extend gradually in every direction from the original center of ossification until the entire cartilaginous mass becomes bony or is ossified.

The first bones in which ossification appears are the choule (collar bone) and inferior maxellary (lower jaw bone) about the fifth to seventh fetal week; the last ossification to appear is in the pisaform bone of the hand, about the twelfth week.

IT DOESN'T COST TO FEED PULLETS RIGHT— It PAYS!

A poorly balanced ration fed to growing pullets reduces the number of eggs as well as the weight per egg. Purina Chick Growena, an especially prepared ration, is built to help give you full, well-developed pullets, ready to lay lots of eggs in the shortest possible time. What's more, Growena is economical to feed. Actually it takes but 16 lbs. to carry a bird through the growing period. No matter how you look at it, it doesn't cost to feed pullets right— IT PAYS!
Come in to see us about your growing feed needs today.

NORTHERN KENTUCKY BUSINESS REVIEW

SEARS, ROEBUCK & CO., DEPARTMENT STORE

The World's Largest Store

Sears Roebuck & Co., in Covington, 13 W. 7th St., are recognized as leaders in lowest prices on men's furnishings, sporting goods, furniture, houseware, rugs, linoleums, carpets, window shades, farm implements, tools, hardware, poultry supplies, etc., builders' supplies, roofing, motor oils, electrical appliances, stoves, kitchen cabinets, radios, wallpaper, paints, auto tires (when approved by your ration board) and accessories. Batteries installed and tires mounted free of charge. Phone Hemlock 2004.

Sears Roebuck & Co., by their contact with mills and factories, and through large cash buying, occupy the ultimate position in economical distribution of merchandise, saving the public the profits usually going to wholesalers and middlemen, while the retail profit is minimized by means of their volume of sales and small profits.

The opening of stores all over the country as distribution centers to supplement their large mail order business, has placed them in the front ranks of operating according to the modern economic trend. They employ all local people in their stores and warehouses, thus giving employment to a number of local people and increases the payroll of this section.

Here you will find what you are looking for and at a much lower price than you are expecting to pay.

This store is under the direction of an experienced department store man, who is gaining many friends in this section as he personally sees to it that a shopping trip made through the immense store remains a pleasant memory to all. He wants you to come in and feel that your visit is appreciated.

THE A. L. BOEHMER PAINT COMPANY

Manufacturers and Distributors of "Wearmore" Paints

For many years the A. L. Boehmer Paint Co., located in Covington at 114 Pike St., has enjoyed a continuous, uninterrupted contact with painting contractors, dealers, home owners, and industries thruout Northern Kentucky, supplying them with their famous line of Boehmer's "Wearmore" paint products. The business is under the personal supervision of Messrs. A. B. and Louis Boehmer, who are both well-known local business men. They and their dealers well-merit the support of the trade in this section.

They also operate a complete glass service featuring a complete line for all uses including window glass, desk tops, structural glass for store fronts, etc.

The wonderful success of this organization, its growth and expansion to its present recognition as the largest distributors of paint and varnish products in the Northern Kentucky area, is due to the determination of its founders to manufacture only high quality products that pass all tests for durability, and lasting tendencies. These famous paint products will successfully withstand the climatic ravages of summer's heat and dews and winter rains, snows and storms.

Not content with any product short of perfection, the A. L. Boehmer Paint Co., has kept pace with every advancement in the paint line and make a complete line for all uses. They provide a prompt delivery service to the trade of our own and adjoining counties.

In closing, we desire to call the attention of all master painters, contractors and industries to the distribution service provided by the A. L. Boehmer Paint Company. For further information call at the offices, write, or if more convenient telephone Colonial 0212 and a courteous representative will be pleased to furnish details concerning prices, estimates, name of nearest dealer, etc.

A. J. OSTROW, INC.

Where VALUES in FURNITURE are ALWAYS GREATEST

By means of this Trade and Industrial Review it is a pleasure to refer A. J. Ostow, Inc., to our readers in our Northern Kentucky counties. They carry a complete line of modern household furnishings and supplies, including rugs, carpets, appliances, etc. A. J. Ostrow Inc., is under the direction of local business men who merit our support. They are located in Covington at 717 Madison Ave.

The stock has been selected with a view to perfection in three things: Comfort, beauty and durability, and embraces as a whole the most beautiful and durable productions of the American furniture makers art. It makes no difference whether it is a room you desire to furnish, the whole household or just a piece or two you want, you can secure it here on the most favorable terms that the market affords.

This is a store "of the people and for the people," a store built on the plan that aims to give mutual pleasure, satisfaction and benefit, for it is the aim of the proprietors to make the life of the people worth while by supplying at reasonable prices the necessaries comforts and conveniences of modern life.

The management and sales force of A. J. Ostrow Inc., are prominent citizens who are thoroughly conversant with the business and have always been boosters for all things that promise public improvement.

By means of their compresensive stocks, low prices and metropolitan distribution service they have gained a well-merited reputation as the household furnishing supply headquarters of Covington and vicinity.

The phone number is Hemlock 4255.

LUHN & STEVIE SHOE STORE

Featuring Peters Diamond Brand Shoes—X-Ray Fittings

Very conveniently located in Covington at 34 Pike St., and a popular store with people throughout this section of Northern Kentucky. They can save you money on the annual family shoe bills and feature such nationally known brands as Peters Diamond Brand shoes for women, men and for children. All durable and stylish makes of footwear. This concern will assure you of a saving and in this Spring Trade Review we refer their satisfactory service to all suburban families. Phone Hemlock 9558.

The whole world knows that a person suffering from ill-fitting shoes cannot be 100 per cent efficient in their work. By shopping here you have the satisfaction of knowing that your shoes were scientifically and correctly fitted to your feet at the minimium of expense. When you put your feet in their hands your shoe troubles will vanish like bubbles, as they feature X-ray fitting.

That these facts are appreciated by patrons from both city and suburbs, is strongly attested by the steadily increasing patronage.

In closing we wish to direct the attention of our suburban readers to a home owned shoe store of such a comprehensive character as the Luhn & Stevie Shoe Store.

QUALITY COAL CO.

This is one of Northern Kentucky's greatest coal houses, located with office and yards at foot of Washington St., Covington, Ky. It is directed by prominent coal authorities who long ago won the confidence and patronage of the home owners and business houses of this section. The office phone number is Hemlock 6400.

There is a great deal more to the business of conducting a coal house than the average person appreciates. It is a most essential business that requires at its head men of experience in the true coal values, as well as executives who are familiar with the details and the necessity for adequate distribution.

In conclusion we are pleased to direct the attention of the trade of our territory to The Quality Coal Co., as a very distinctive feature of the commercial efficiency of this section. For further information call at the offices, write or telephone Mr. Wm. Doerker, Jr., who is the general manager.

Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Inc.

A Burial Park or Rare Natural Beauty

This is a prominent home-owned cemetery that merits the support of our suburban and rural communities of Northern Kentucky. The offices and cemetery are located on the Dixie Highway at Erlanger. Phone Dixie 7172.

The Forest Lawn Memorial Park is beautifully landscaped with a rare natural setting that adds much to the appearance of the entire cemetery. A perpetual care clause is included in the deed to every lot and there are plenty of lots available for both single and family plots. Why not drive out and select your lot now and be prepared when the time does come; as come it must?

On last Sunday they inaugurated the first Easter Sunrise program which was attended by the writer and many other Northern Kentucky residents and this program will be conducted annually.

One hears so many people who have had unfortunate experiences in making funeral arrangements. Do you realize that most of these reported incidents occur because people refuse to learn in advance about the responsibility of bereavement?

Get in touch with these offices at once—let them explain their "Advance of Need Purchase Plan," which shows how they can save you time, annoyance and money in regard to this necessary service.

Kays Laundry & Cleaning, Inc.

Northern Kentucky's Leaders

The three crowning jewels of this concern are Quality Work, Prompt Service and Lowest oPssible Prices. Their modern plant, and main offices are located at 208 Greenup, in Covington. We are pleased to say they are satisfactorily serving patrons in both city and suburbs with a more distinctive service in odorless dry cleaning and a metropolitan laundry service. In this Spring Trade Review we are pleased to refer a concern of such character to all our suburban county readers. Their truck routes cover all of the metropolitan area of Northern Kentucky. The phone number is Hemlock 4400.

There is no one establishment in the city that has done more for the good of the people of the county during this area of high prices than this well-known cleaning and laundry establishment as every day brings more work from patrons who have been saved the purchase of new garments through the excellent work this firm does in cleaning and laundry work.

The directing head is an authority on dry cleaning and all work done by this establishment is under the direct supervision of experts.

For further information call at the offices, write or telephone.

CONSTANCE 4-H NOTES

The Constance 4-H Club held its monthly meeting March 25th. We opened the meeting by singing "God Bless America." We had a very interesting program, planned by our program leader Cecil Kenyon. Otho Daniel Heist and Virginia McGlasson each gave talks. Our community leader, W. E. Zimmer and one of our project leaders, Mrs. O. Fugate were present.

Mrs. Moore spoke on "Why Have a Victory Garden." Mr. Frazier showed us the model of a lantern brooder and explained how it worked. All of the girls taking the sewing project and several of the other members have received their Victory Pins. The leaders and members are very interested in their projects.

KENTUCKY FEDERAL SAVINGS & LOAN ASSOCIATION

The Kentucky Federal Savings and Loan Association was founded and built-up on the security of City and Surburban Homes and the honesty and ability of its directors who are well known local businessmen.

The Kentucky Federal Savings and Loan Association is of direct value to this and surrounding communities for the following reasons:

This old reliable institution, located in Covington at 1050 Scott St., corner of 11th, specializes in loans on homes and improved properties. These loans are available for many purposes, including building, buying, repairing, refinancing, remodernization, etc.

You can speed up your home ownership plans by financing through this local thrift and home financing institution. A "Quick Action" home loan is assured because:

1. Your loan application is considered promptly by local management.
2. "Red Tape" and unnecessary waiting for out-of-town OK's are eliminated.
3. Local money is available for immediate release.

When in need of home loans for any purpose, call at the offices, write, or telephone Colonial 2076.

RUBBER PRODUCTION KENTUCKY POSSIBILITY

In an effort to be of material assistance to the National Defense Program, officials of the Marketing Division of the Kentucky Department of Agriculture have been discussing the possibilities of producing rubber on Kentucky farms from the Kok-Sagyz plant now widely used in Russia to supplement the normal rubber production supplying the Russian war machine.

Information obtained from Russia indicates that Kok-Sagyz will produce from 100 to 150 pounds of crude rubber per acre in a single season and will grow on virtually any type of soil and in any temperature climate where there is more than twenty inches of rainfall a year. This would seem to indicate that Kentucky is ideally adapted to the production of this plant.

Kok-Sagyz belongs to the dandelion family, is perennial and reproduces by seed. The rubber is contained in the rhizome or root, which extends deeply into the soil. Planting should begin in March or Early April, depending on spring weather conditions, on well fertilized ground and while indications are that it is somewhat difficult to produce this plant, the normal care given to tobacco or any other highly specialized crop by a Kentucky farmer would serve to successfully produce Kok-Sagyz.

Normal rubber consumption in the United States in peace time equals about 563,000 tons annually, of which about 90 percent is imported and most of this imported rubber comes from sections of the world now under attack by the Axis Powers, since it is well-nigh impossible at present for this country to obtain any rubber. In addition to this fact, some 75 percent of the rubber consumed in peace time is required for transportation facilities. It appears likely that with the Army expanding at its present rate, primarily on a mechanized basis, the total need for rubber has increased by some 50 percent and the proportion diverted to transportation has probably risen to some 90 percent of the total production. It is not to be hoped that the production of Kok-Sagyz, or any other rubber producing plant, can rapidly overcome the tremendous rubber deficiency but any step in the direction of producing rubber in this country is desperately needed at the present time to meet the needs of the war emergency.

Some American authorities have scoffed at the idea of producting this rubber plant on the ground that the yield per acre was not great enough to be profitable to the farmer, but recent information seems to indicate that the plant can be produced profitably. In 1938 Russia had 170,000 acres of Koh-Sagyz under cultivation and at that time their land was to increase to two and a half million acres by 1940. This would certainly appear to conclusively prove the Russians' belief in the practicability of Koh-Sagyz production.

Assuming that the war needs for rubber can be met from some other source, there will, even after the war, be a demand for rubber far in excess of the supply available, since recent events in the Dutch East Indies and other rubber producing centers indicate that the great portion of the rubber production facilities of this section, which supplies most of the rubber in this country have been destroyed by the "scorched earth" policy of the Netherlands' Government.

Representations are now being made by the United States Department of Agriculture and leading industrial research men, including Dr. Paul J. Kolachov of Joseph E. Seagram and Sons in Louisville, to the Russian Government for the securing of a sufficient amount of Kok-Sagyz seed for experimental purposes in Kentucky and surrounding states. Naturally, nothing can be done until such seed can be obtained, but it may be reasonably expected that due to the mutual war effort Russia will not be reluctant to supply this country with much needed seed for this rubber producing plant.

SAVE WASTE MATERIALS

In dumps and back yards, in attics and cellars, in stores and on farms, tons of materials are now lying useless. We must now work this mine.

"Weapons from Waste" is our motto, weapons that can bring peace and freedom and justice to the world.

Here is a job for you and me and every member of our families to do. So let's go—Salvage now for Victory.

MRS. A. H. GAINES,
County Chairman.

Salvage for Victory!

BALANCE THE POULTRY INCOME WITH FALL HATCHED CHICKS

Everybody wants eggs!

Uncle Sam needs them for his army and for fulfillment of his lease-lend pledges. To show he means business he has set a bottom for egg prices until January, 1943—22c a dozen (Chicago market; which means relatively higher prices in markets normally hifher than Chicago).

The general public, with more money to spend because of increased payrolls, is demanding more and better eggs.

This all means that now is the time for every poultryman to load his guns and to keep firing them for maximum production.

One of the most satisfactory plans yet devised to help the average poultryman to produce a maximum number of eggs from his farm calls for starting a brood of fall hatched chicks.

C. S. Johnson, poultry authority with Purina Mills, explains, "The accepted practice in the past has been to brood chicks in the spring to go into the houses as layers in the fall. But it is only during the fall that the laying house is actually running at full capacity. By midwinter, due to culling, sickness, and related reasons, the number has increased. By spring, part of the house space and operating equipment is being waster because no replacement pullets are available for maintaining the flock up at full strength.

"Chicks brooded in the fall will be ready to fill these gaps in the laying house by spring," recommends Johnson. "Fall chicks also offer an opportunity to secure more efficient use from brooding equipment that otherwise frequently stands idle!"

Editor's Note: A bulletin describing the above "balanced income plan" can be had for the asking from our local Purina dealer.

Soldier Injured Near Union Tuesday Morning

Pvt. Walter Adkins, 20, of Sandy Hook, a member of a convoy of Camp Knox troops, suffered severe cuts and bruises, when his motorcycle skidded on the wet pavement on Route 42 near Union, Tuesday.

Pvt. Adkins was thrown 25 feet as his cycle overturned. At the time of the mishap the victim was leading a convoy of motorized troops en route from Camp Knox to an undisclosed destination.

The injured soldier was removed to Booth Memorial Hospital, Covington by State Highway Patrolman Clarence Brierly. After receiving treatment, the victim was removed to the Ft. Thomas military post hospital.

Hog Prices Soar To $13.90

Hog prices at the Cincinnati Union Stock Yards reach a new high for over a twelve year period. They sold Friday, April 3, for $13.90 the highest since 1930. During the period March 3rd to March 7th, 1942 a 60-day temporary price ceiling was established by the O. P. A. During this period the top price for hogs on the Cincinnati market ranged from 13.35 to 13.75. Since March 7th the price has gradually worked upward to the extreme top of $13.90.

EPWORTH LEAGUE NOTES

The Epworth League of the local Methodist Church is organizing an intermediate league for boys and girls from 8 to 12 years of age. The cooperation on the part of parents will be greatly appreciated.

At 5:00 o'clock Friday the members of the Epworth League are planning to hike to the home of Miss Jessamine Farmer where a barbecue will be held. All members are urged to attend.

This Week On The Home Front

This week's quote from Donald Nelson, WPB Chairman: "Every one of the problems we face is bigger than any of us. That is why we are tackling this thing in the traditional American way—getting together, co-operatively, to fight the thing through to a finish. Of course, it isn't easy and it's going to be harder. But we've got to stick together. I know there are plants where there has been little management-labor co-operation normally. I am also aware of the tradition of mutual rivalry and suspicion in some plants vital to our war production . . . but I was never surer of anything in my life than I am that we either work together for the common good or we shall inevitably share the evil of defeat . . . This is our last chance to show that a free economy can survive and be strong."

• • •

Federal Court in Los Angeles indicted a violator of the tire freezing and rationing regulations. He faces $10,000 fine and two years in the pen.

• • •

Office of Price Administration, the rationing and price-fixing agency, set up to stop inflation, has a big job on its hands. Sixteen new field offices were opened to carry the work into the communities. Other offices will be set up soon. These offices will handle price administration. Rationing will continue to be done by State Administrators and local boards, now functioning in 7,500 communities.

• • •

About this inflation question, Dexter M. Keezer, Assistant OPA Administrator says: "The simple fact is that today we are losing the battle against inflation. Prices are going up along the line at a dangerously accelerated pace . . . The nature of this pressure can be indicated by the fact that the national supplies available for civilians are being cut 1 per cent a month to meet military needs while money available to buy these supplies (in the form of wages, salaries, profits, etc.) is increasing about 3½ per cent a month. This sets up a situation which, left alone, can result in a monthly increase of 3½ per cent a month. This sets up a situation which, left alone, can result in a monthly increase of 3½ per cent in the cost of living a ruinous rate of inflation."

• • •

Wilful violators of OPA rationing orders and regulations face prosecution and heavy penalties under the Second War Powers Act, Acting Price Administrator John E. Hamm warned. Signed last Saturday by President Roosevelt, the maximum penalties are $10,000 fines and 1 year imprisonment. This for WPB priority orders too.

• • •

Owen Eby, one of three brothers owning a farm near Dayton, who had been getting $240 a year from Frigidaire, to let the company dump its culled ice cabinets in his ravine, refused to sell this steel scrap for war purposes. The War Production Board requisitioned the pile containing an estimated 10,000 of No. 2 scrap, and is paying Eby $4 a ton net. Government needed it. Eby wouldn't sell. Government took it.

A month ago a Valparaiso, Indiana, junk dealer, had the same experience.

Twenty-seven steel warehouses, which handled more steel than their quotas permitted, will be penalized by the WPB. For this quarter 100 to 150 per cent of what steel they handled in excess of their last quarter quotas will be deducted.

• • •

Leon Henderson warned junk and scrap dealers that prices of scrap metals will not be raised, so hoarding is unprofitable. All the junk hoarders will profit is "loss of self respect," said Mr. Henderson.

• • •

Some Beau Brummels are buying un-uffed trousers with plenty of turnup, and figuring on taking them pack and getting the cuffs finished. WPB rules that this kind of cuffing at the expense of national safety is unlawful.

WPB notified the Rural Electrification Administration that only 100 additional tons of copper will be alloted to it to complete projects already under way.

• • •

WPB revised 1942 farm equipment program to help farmers grow needed food. Order added 25,000 tons mostly of steel and iron to allocation for farm equipment manufacture, for the year ending October 31.

• • •

Farmers are asked by Division of Motor Transport, Office of Defense Transportation, to save tires and gas and truck wear and tear by pooling their hauling. This applies to general farmers, truckers, dairy farmers and cattle farmers. ODT urges voluntary cooperation. This is the same as the pooling of auto use, now being urged on factory workers in the city.

Acute rubber shortage brought OPA ruling that recapping materials will be wholly of reclaimed rubber for Class B passenger cars. Tires recapped with this lower grade camelback should be driven not more than 35 miles an hour," OPA reported. At that speed they ought to last 5,000 miles, and even then all care must be taken.

• • •

Applications for recapped tires or recapping service for List B passengers, can now be filed, but proof of need must be shown. For list B trucks, one must file before April 20.

• • •

By next Christmas even Santa Claus will be feeling priorities, rationings and allocations. After June 30, making of toys, games, Christmas tree ornaments with metal, plastics and other materials needed for wood, will be stopped. Electric trains are out. Colors of war-time toys will be duller, light pigments permitted only for stripes and bands.

• • •

You can order a gold or silver casket if you wish, but use of iron and steel is limited, which with the limitation of metals for kiddies toys, takes war restriction from the cradle to the grave.

• • •

WPB got down to conserving collapsible tubes, like tubes for toothpaste, shaving cream, ointments, etc. Unless you're getting something by doctors' prescription, you can't get a tubefull of drugs without turning in the squeezed tube. These tubes contain scarce tin, needed for war production.

• • •

Government plans to unfreeze sale of shotguns, pistols and rifles, restricted February 27. Freeze was put on to make sure local, state, federal and allied governments would be supplied.

• • •

WPB stopped sale and shipment, delivery and transfer of all bicycles for grown-ups. Reason: Bicycles have been selling at a terrific rate to people who don't need them and not fast enough to defense workers.

Income Tax Expert Receives 2-Year Term

George S. Stauback, Walnut St., Southgate, former Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue, at Covington, entered a plea of guilty to a $1,671.52 embezzlement charge Monday, and was sentenced to two years in prison by Judge Mac Swinford in the United States District Court at Covington.

Mr. Stauback was the deputy collector who spent two days in Burlington during March and assisted persons with their income tax problems.

When big business persuades government to insure their profits, it is "private initiative," when farmers seek a fair share of the national income it is an "inflationary threat."

1 MID-WEEK TRAVEL EASES WEEK-END CONGESTION
You make it easier for yourself if you take trips, whenever possible, on mid-week days when travel is lighter—and you make it easier for soldiers, sailors, and war workers to travel on week-ends, often the only time they can go.

2 BUS TRAVEL CONSERVES TIRES, CARS, VITAL MATERIALS
Each passenger can travel many miles farther by Greyhound than by private car—per pound of rubber, per gallon of gasoline. Then too there's the saving of wear and tear on your car and its valuable tires.

3 GET TICKETS, INFORMATION IN ADVANCE—AVOID DELAY
You can ease crowding at terminals if you get information about routes, fares and schedules—and get your tickets, too—well before you leave. On trips usually taken in midsummer—arrange to go early or late, thus dodging the July-August rush period.

Gayety Theater News

SATURDAY

William Post, Jr., who appears with Gracie Allen in "Mr. and Mrs. North" at the Gayety Theater, went to Hollywood on a honeymoon and remained to sign a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer contract.

Playing in "My Sister Eileen" on Broadway, Post married his colleague in the cast, Joan Castle. The studio offered him the role and he promptly accepted, driving with his bride across the continent to play the role of Gracie Allen's husband.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Wallace Beery demanded realistic effects in his role as a sergeant in "The Bugle Sounds," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer story of the new mechanized army, to be shown at the Gayety. As a patron of the army post restaurant operated by Marjorie Main, his fiancee in the story, Beery got the real thing for a breakfast scene . . . Steak, bacon and eggs, fruit, doughnuts, coffee and watermelon! Beery ate them and the scene was made in a single take. "If I blew a line in that one" he remarked, "it meant a retake—and I couldn't take any more!"

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

Audiences that see 20th Century Fox's spectacular "Confirm or Deny," starring Don Ameche and and Joan Bennett, depicts the adventures of an ace reporter in bomb-wracked London.

Night bombardment of the British capital is the highlight of the film and an entire street is destroyed for the camera.

"Confirm or Deny" will be shown at the Gayety, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Gayety and features Roddy McDowell, John Loder, Raymond Walburn, Eric Blore and Arthur Shields.

BURLINGTON HOMEMAKERS

The Burlington Homemakers met at the courthouse on Thursday, April 2, 1942.

The morning was devoted to the project lesson: "Menus for the Convalescent and Invalid." This was ably presented by Mrs. Vernon Pope, the Live-at-Home chairman.

The hostesses for lunch were Mrs. Huey, Mrs. Easton and Mrs. Riley.

In the afternoon the regular order of business was followed.

Mrs. Garnet Tolin reported much progress in the exterior beautification project. Tentative plans are to start on Wednesday, April 8th.

Mr. Frazier, the assistant county agent spoke at this meeting. His topic was "Poultry"; he also answered many questions on gardening.

Since slogans such as "Keep 'Em Rolling" and "Keep Them Flying" are so much used it would be well if the rural women would adopt "Keep Them Eating."

Remember the meeting at Paris on April 28th. Make reservations by April 21st.

The Axis nations frankly admit that they are fighting for plunder; Herr Hitler boasts that the "have-nots" are organized and the "haves" can't do anything about it.

NEW HAVEN SCHOOL NEWS

Laughs and fun that must not be missed! They will be found in the New Haven Senior play "Here Comes Charlie." The things that happen at the arrival of Charlie and Uncle Aleck Twiggs to upset the staid neatness of Mrs. Farnham's household and the "society wedding" planned by Mrs. Smythe-Kersey for her spoiled daughter will throw you into gales of merriment.

Each member of the cast has laugh-provoking speeches. Some situations are thrilling also—Where are the pearls? Will "Old Eagle Eye" fasten the crime on Charlie? Will Larry ever become master in his own home? Also would you like to know why the goldfish was named Shadrack Meshack Abednego?

All these questions and others will be answered Saturday night, April 18, 8:30 E. W. T. when the seniors, under the direction of Miss Sleet, present "Here Comes Charlie."

The list of characters follows:

Nora Malone, Irish cook at the Elliott home, Willa Mae Butler.

Officer Tim McGrill, Nora's sweetheart, James Stephenson.

Mrs. Fanny Farnham, Larry's aunt by marriage, Jean Besterman.

Larry Elliott, a young business man, Maynard Simpson.

Ted Hartley, his old-time college pal, Robert Baker.

Vivian Smythe-Kersey, Larry's fiancee, Dorothy Branham.

Uncle Aleck Twiggs, in charge of Charlie, John Newman.

Charlie Hopps, Larry's ward, Geneva Coppage.

Mrs. Caroline Smythe-Kersey, Vivian's mother, Mary Alice Black.

Mortimer Smythe-Kersey, Vivian's brother, Virgil Judge.

BELLEVIEW CHURCH OF CHRIST
Sam Hamilton, Minister

Bible School 10 a. m. C. W. T. Russell Rogers, Supt.

Worship Service 11:00 a. m. C. W. T.

All the church folks are pleased and happy over the very successful presentation of the Easter program. As your minister I wish to take this opportunity to congratulate all the members of the cast for your fine performance and your fine spirit during the whole affair.

I desire also to extend hearty thanks to all who gave so freely of themselves to make this program a success.

The church is looking forward to a redecoration program in the near future. The Ladies' Aid is sponsoring this move.

The cast of "The Lord of Glory" played to an overflowing house Sunday evening. The cast deserves the unstinting praise of all for an excellent performance.

The audience was attentive and appreciative and we believe that the age-old story of the open tomb was driven home with new clarity and force. In these troublesome times when men's soul seek in vain for an anchor, it is good to know that the resurrection of Jesus is the sure foundation of the Christian's faith.

PHOSPHATE TO BE USED FOR TESTS

ON TWENTY-SIX DEMONSTRATION FARMS IN BOONE COUNTY—41 TONS RECEIVED AT ERLANGER.

A 41-ton shipment of T. V. A. concentrated phosphate fertilizer has been received at Erlanger for use by test demonstration farmers, Frank Rouse, president of the Boone County Soil Improvement Association, announced Monday. The Association and the Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service managed the test demonstration program through the County Agent's office.

Franklin Frazier, Assistant County Agent, explained that application of phosphate with lime always gives most satisfactory growth of soil building crops. The 161 lime and phosphate demonstrations conducted in every section of the county last year show that plots treated with both limestone and phosphate produced an average of 117 per cent more hay crops than untreated plots. Pastures treated with limestone and phosphate required 1.9 acres per animal unit, while 3.1 acres per animal unit were required on plots receiving no treatment.

There are 26 test demonstration farms in the county. The present shipment is for the following demonstration farms: J. C. Aylor, H. W. Baker, Shelby Beemon, T. C. Bonar, J. W. Conley, W. L. Crigler, B. W. Franks, E. W. Jergens, Chas. L. Kelly, W. G. Kite, J. J. Klopp, Wm. Moore, Albert Parker, Charlie M. Riley, F. H. Rouse, S. B. Scott, Wilton Stephens, Harry R. Tanner, Ira M. Tanner, B. S. Wagner, Jesse Wilson and J. R. Worthington.

CIVILIAN DEFENSE SAFETY SUGGESTIONS

Select now, that place in your home which you think safest.

Fix up that place so that in the event of a blackout you can leave a light on there which will not be seen from the outside.

So far as possible, for the purpose of economy, use such shades, blinds, curtains, blankets, screens, paint, paper carboard or other materials as you already have on hand.

Do not go to the expense of blackening out your entire house, but do not forget that all lights, other than those which are indivisible from the outside, MUST be turned out in case of an air-raid warning or blackout.

2. In case of an air-raid warning or blackout:

(a) Keep calm and avoid hysteria.

(b) If you are at home, after you have complied with the rules on lighting, turn off all lighted gas burners on the gas range and turn off all other appliances which are ordinarily lighted and turned off by the user, such as hand-controlled gas water heaters and individual gas room heaters. Then go to that place which you have selected as the safest.

If explosive bombs drop nearby, LIE DOWN.

Do not turn off any pilot light.

(c) If you are outdoors, seek shelter in the nearest building and avoid the crossing of any street, lane or alley.

Get off the street as quickly as possible.

(d) Explosive bombs falling near a building may shatter window panes; therefore, keep away from windows and avoid flying glass.

Unless absolutely necessary, do not use the telephone. Help to keep the telephone lines clear for emergency calls.

Do not pull the main electric switch in any building.

Radio receiving sets may be left on to receive any instructions which may be broadcast.

In all apartment houses, office and other buildings, elevators should be kept running.

(e) If an incendiary bomb drops on your home or on any building you are helping to protect:

(1) Put it out with a fine spray of water. Do not throw a stream or a bucket or a pitcher of water on an incendiary bomb, as that will scatter the fire. If no spray of water is handy use DRY sand.

(2) Smother the bomb in DRY sand.

(2) Smother the bomb in DRY sand by putting sand around it and on top of it. Then shovel it into a bucket of sand and carry the bucket outside on the shovel.

(3) If no bucket is handy shovel the bomb onto DRY sand, and put DRY sand around and on top of it.

(4) Do not use an ordinary chemical fire extinguisher on an incendiary bomb. THIS IS HIGHLY IMPORTANT, as many of the ordinary fire extinguishers contain chemicals which will generate gases in dangerous amounts on contact with an incendiary bomb.

3. These suggestions are mainly applicable to homes. They should be followed, whenever practicable in other buildings. Those responsible for the operation of large buildings should adopt measures in accordance with the ordinances of your city.

APPROVAL GIVEN FINANCING PLAN

OF BOONE COUNTY AIRPORT—DELEGATION SUBMITS PLANS TO WASHINGTON AUTHORITIES.

Plans for financing of the Middle Ohio Valley Airport in Boone County by the Kenton Fiscal Court have won tentative approval of Federal officials in Washington, a delegation of Kenton Countians reported Friday upon their return from Washington.

The delegation, composed of William Wehrman, Kenton County Attorney; A. A. Hohnhorst, Kenton County Auditor; Fred Rauch, Covington engineer, and Gregory Hughes, Covington lawyer, conferred with officials of the Work Projects Administration, the Federal Works Administration, and the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

They also talked with Senator Alben W. Barkley and Representative Brent Spence in the two days they were in Washington.

Three possible plans for financing the airport, which is designed to serve the Middle Ohio Valley area, were submitted by the delegation. One of the plans won instant approval.

The Boone County site has been approved by Federal officials for a Class 4 airport, the highest type airport that can be constructed under Civil Aeronautics Administration specifications. Members of the delegation were told that if Kenton County can arrange to finance acquisition of land for the airport site Federal Government will expend $1,500,000 on the field.

The Boone County development will be the only Class 4 airport in the Middle Ohio Valley, it was said.

While the airport site is located in Boone County on a plateau overlooking Covington and Cincinnati, a recent law sponsored by Representative James E. Quill, South Ft. Mitchell, will permit Kenton County to acquire, develop and operate the field.

Kenton County will be required to raise between $100,000 and $250,000 to purchase land, erect hangars, and provide utilities for the airport.

A holding company composed of Hohnhorst, Hughes, Thomas Sheridan, Bernard Ellerman, and Fred Macklin was appointed recently by Kenton Fiscal Court to manage the financing of the airport.

Majorettes Selected For Boone County Band

After deliberating for some time, the Boone County Band has selected as majorettes Jane Aylor, of Hebron; Corrine Walton and Shirley Sullivan of Burlington; and Shirley Howard and Ruby Mae Dinn, of Florence.

The band is preparing for a concert to be given in a few weeks. Tickets will be sold, and all proceeds will be used to buy uniforms.

TWO IMPORTANT JOBS ARE LISTED

FOR TOBACCO GROWERS DURING NEXT FEW WEEKS—PROPER PREPARATION OF GROUND AND PLANT BEDS URGED.

Boone County tobacco growers have two important jobs to do during the next few weeks, The first of these is treating their beds with Bluestone-lime treatment to kill ground borne diseases that infect young plants; the second is to prepare ground for the fertilizer treatment for the growing crop.

The Bluestone-lime treatment is so cheap and important that every grower should protect his beds. Two treatments are made: The first when the plats are just coming through the ground, the second ten days later. Plans for this treatment are furnished free at the county office.

The fertilizer program that many of the best growers this year will use calls for 8 to 15 loads of manure per acre turned under; 50 pounds of phosphate per load of manure broadcast and 250-375 pounds of a good complete fertilizer used in the row. A few farmers will treat their plants at setting time with vitamin B-1.

Several growers report the plants in their beds have come up and are now read for the bluestone-lime treatment.

Officers Named For Blood Donor Service

Officers for the Blood Donors' Bank in Boone County were named recently, it was announced this week. The following officers were selected:

Co-chairmen, Mrs. Jake Cleek, and Mrs. Rod Hughes; housing, Mabel Sayre; canteen service, Mrs. Harry Holton and Mrs. George Morith; enrollment, Mrs. Cecil Robinson; publicity, Mrs. James C. Layne; staff assistants, Mrs. Kirtley Cropper and Mrs. Jane Utz; registration, Mrs. John Masters and Mrs. Olice Johnson; nurse assistant, Miss Elizabeth C. Lowry, R. N.

Sugar Rationing Program Will Be As Scheduled

The following statement was issued today by Donald M. Nelson, Chairman War Production Board, and Leon Henderson, Administrator, Office of Price Administration:

"Newspaper and radio stories indicating existence of a dispute as to the need for sugar rationing between the War Production Board and the Office of Price Administration are without foundation in fact. The sugar rationing program will proceed as scheduled and the public should not permit unauthorized sources to confuse the necessity for this policy."

Local Youth Injured Monday By Automobile

Warren Ryle, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ryle, Burlington received a broken leg and minor face and body injuries early Monday morning when he ran into the path of a passing automobile in front of their home, here.

Warren was removed to Dr. M. A. Yelton's office for treatment by O. M. Rogers, driver of the car, and later to Christ Hospital. He was returned home Monday night and is doing nicely at this writing.

DAIRY ASS'N. PROVES SIRE

IN HERD OF DR. R. C. GARRISON, BURLINGTON—IS SECOND HERD SIRE PROVED BY D. H. I. A.

The Northern Kentucky Dairy Herd Improvement Association has identified an exceptionally good herd sire in the herd of Dr. R. C. Garrison, of Burlington. The bull, Meteor's Lad, Reg. No. 235539, has been given an official index proof of increased productivity index of daughters over dams by 2243 more pounds of milk; .1 percent higher fat test and 119 more pounds of butterfat per year. The official proof was received the past week from the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

This bull is one of the best production bred Guernsey bulls in the county. He was sired by the Berea College Bull that held the highest productivity index of the Guernsey breed. He is also a good type individual.

This is the second herd sire proved by D. H. I. A. records during the past year and a half, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The other bull, a Jersey, Ada's Tormentor, Reg. No. 345855, is owned by the Boone County Bull Association. He was the third highest production bull last year in the United States. The use of proven sires is the surest and best known method of breeding up superior dairy herds.

Boone County has 12 dairymen carrying on Dairy Herd Improvement Association work. They are Franklin Huey, Burlington; W. G. Kite, Waterloo; Robt. Youell, Hebron; Jesse Wilson, Verona; Walter King, Verona; Herman Decker, Walton; T. O. Dunlap, Walton; Ben Nichting, Beaver Lick; Grant Maddox, Florence; Albert Parker, Walton; R. C. Garrison, Burlington; and Ira M. Tanner, Florence.

SECOND WAR POWERS ACT

FOR ENFORCEMENT OF RATIONING PROGRAM IS ANNOUNCED—SEVERE PENALTY FOR VIOLATORS.

Willful violators of rationing orders and rationing regulations issued by the Office of Price Administration now face direct prosecution and severe penalties under provisions of the Second War Powers Act, 1942, Acting Price Administrator, John E. Hamm, warned today.

The act, which became effective last Saturday when signed by President Roosevelt, provides a maximum penalty of $10,000 fine and imprisonment for one year for wilful violation of proirity orders of the War Production Board of rationing orders or regulations of OPA, whether already in effect or issued in the future.

Mr. Hamm disclosed that OPA, working in close cooperation with the Department of Justice, has adopted a comprehensive plan of action for investigation and criminal prosecution of those persons who flout the rationing rules. This plan will be pursued vigorously, he said, with the object of making illicit trafficking in rationed articles an expensive business.

"Until passage of the Second War Powers Act, enforcement of the rationing program has been severely handicapped by the fact that the law provided no criminal penalties for even the most flagrant violations of rationing requirements," Mr. Hamm stated. "Dealers who had made misrepresentations to the government of facts concerning their supplies could be prosecuted for such misrepresentation under existing statues, but the open and notorious violator could be reached only by suit to enjoin further violation.

"Those who connive to get more than their fair share of any rationed article are equally as guilty as those who traffic illicitly in rationed goods for profit. Public condemnation of these practices now will be supplemented by criminal prosecution."

Major W. G. Stephens Enlists In U. S. Army

Major W. G. Stephens leaves for Mobile, Ala., April 17, where he will be stationed with the U. S. Army.

Major Stephens recently had been appointed new manager of the Wilds orth Kansas Veterans Hospital, the largest Veteran's Home in the United States.. He has been assistant manager of the National Military Home at Dayton, Ohio, for several years, but with the above promotion he feels it is his duty to help his country.

Major Stephens has been a great worker for the American Legion and has been prominent in Masonic circles.

He graduated from high school in Aurora, Ind., in 1915. Later he entered West Point, New York, where he graduated.

He is the son of the late Wm. and Grace Stephens, of Boone County, Ky. He has one sister, Mrs. Carl Roehm who lives in Lawrenceburg, Ind., and two brothers at Petersburg, Ky.

ANTEN'S VICTORY GARDEN

While making my usual calls in Florence this week, a good story was brought to my attention concerning Ben Anten and his Victory garden.

Mr. Anten has secured a small garden spot in Florence and has big ideas for his garden. His instructions to his helper were as follows: "I want you to plant 25 bushels of Irish potatoes, 6 bushels of sweet potatoes, to be planted in the row and 10 bags of onion sets to be broadcast over the garden. When this crop is harvested, we will then plant a late fall garden."

I hope this story is not true, but if it is, this writer suggests that Mr. Anten stay close to the grocery business and let his customers produce his garden products.

Kirkpatrick Gets Appointment With Highway Patrol

Donald Kirkpatrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kirkpatrick, Burlington, has recently been appointed to the staff of the Kentucky State Highway Patrol, and has taken up his duties at Carrollton and surrounding territory.

Kirkpatrick was formerly employed by the County Road Department as a truck driver, and is a graduate of the Burlington high school. He will be stationed at Carrollton at present, and will work in that territory.

Health Nurse Will Visit All Schools In County This Month

Miss Elizabeth Lowry, public health nurse will visit every school in the county during the month of April in the interest of the campaign for the control of cancer. Each child will be asked to contribute two cents if possible.

No house-to-house canvas will be made, but the committee wishes every person might have part in the campaign. No cause is more worthy during these critical days.

In contributing to the cancer control society you are helping to defend America. Contributions may be sent to Miss Lowry, Mrs. S. B. Nunnelley, or Mrs. M. A. Yelton.

The P.-T. A. presidents and Homemakers are also cooperating in the drive.

Two Boone County Youths In Mural

Two Boone County soldiers have been painted into a panoramic mural depicting the life of Battery C of the Coast Artillery, Ft. Sheridan, Ill., on its Louisiana maneuvers.

The paintings are the work of Pvt. Sydney Engelberg, New York cartoonist-soldier and student of Thomas Benton, famous muralist.

Local soldiers among the 22 who appear in the four main groups of the mural are: Sergt. Gene Terry, Union, R. 1, and Pvt. Emil Hoffman, Florence, Route 1.

HYBRID CORN YIELDS WELL

PRODUCED 19 BUSHELS MORE PER ACRE THAN COMMONLY USED POLLINATED VARIETIES LAST YEAR.

Boone County farmers, based on last year's demonstration yields, should receive $163.50 extra for each bushel of adapted hybrid corn used in 1942, according to H. Forkner, County Agent. Last year in the weighed demonstration yields, adapted hybrids produced an average of 19 more bushels of corn per acre than the commonly used open pollinated varieties.

The above figures are based on the following factors: Last year's yields, corn at $1.00 per bushel; a bushel of hybrid seed planting an average of 9 acres, and a 19 bushel per acre increased yield. It should be remembered that the unfavorable weather of last year made hybrid vigor give outstanding yield differences. Under more favorable weather conditions the average increased yield would be much less.

The most important lesson to learn from last year's work is that a few of the better adapted varieties gave more outstanding yields than other varieties. A few of the less adapted hybrids gave no appreciable increase.

To date the best adapted varieties of yellow field corn for Boone County are U. S. 13, Ky. 102 and Kentucky 103. The best white varieties are Kentucky 69, 72B and 201.

The seed for the best adapted varieties is available from growers in Boone County who have made a study of those varieties most adapted to our local conditions and are closely following the hybrid corn program to see that Boone County receives only those best adapted varieties. Farmers who will plant corn this year can not afford to plan any seed other than adapted Boone County varieties.

Characteristics of yellow adapted hybrids are: U. S. 13, which is the earliest, sofest and lowest growing; Ky. Y102, which is the latest, hardest and tallest; and Ky. 103, which is intermediate. U. S. 13 is especially adapted where early maturity is desired. Ky. Y102 and Y103 produce more stover and equally as much grain, and will probably produce well further south than U. S. 13. Ky. Y103 is rapidly increasing in popularity.

There is little difference in the adapted white hybrid yields. Kentucky 201 is the largest eared, ranking growing latest maturing variety.

Boone County farmers are cautioned again to be careful about the seed they use. Farmers as a whole have been convinced of the value of hybrid seed. "Hybrid" seed is expensive and adapted hybrids will always demand a premium price. Because of local interest, many foreign seed companies selling seed that may not be adapted to our conditions and as a result may discourage farmers from future improvement work. Use only Kentucky adapted certified seed.

Noel Walton, County Surveyor returned home Thursday from California, after an absence of three months. He is ready to take up his work for the coming season and may be reached at home, Burlington 166.

Boone County Banks Awards 4-H Trophies

The Banks of Boone County the past week purchased two new trophies to be awarded community 4-H clubs scoring highest in achievement during 1942 and 1943. The trophies are beautiful pictures representing rural scenes of educational values.

This is the 17th consecutive year that all banks of the county have sponsored outstanding community 4-H Club work in the county, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. This splendid cooperation has been greatly appreciated. Banks cooperating in the 1942 and 1943 community club program are: The Farmers Bank, Petersburg; Hebron Deposit Bank, Hebron; Citizen's Bank, Grant; Peoples Deposit Bank, Burlington; Florence Deposit Bank, Florence; Union Deposit Bank, Union; Dixie State Bank, Walton; and Verona Deposit Bank, Veroha.

CHICK BROODER CAUSE OF BLAZE

DAMAGED ESTIMATED AT $500 IN FIRE AT POPE AND BATCHELOR FARM NEAR BURLINGTON SATURDAY.

An oil burning chick brooder was thought to be the cause of a fire which completely destroyed a combination washhouse and meat house on the farm of Pope and Batchelor near Burlington, late Saturday night.

Both Florence and Hebron fire departments were on the scene in a few minutes after the alarm was sounded. However, the building was almost completely burned before it was detected by persons passing in automobiles.

Loss was estimated at $500.00, which included loss of a large amount of country cured meat, lard, washing machine, 139 three-week-old chickens, canned meat, and a lot of tools, including a power saw and hand tools and a lot of household and miscellaneous equipment. The building was very old and was covered by insurance

Damage to nearby buildings was slight, since it was a still night and the small building was protected by a metal roof which held the flames in check until help arrived.

APRIL TERM WILL BE BRIEF

GRAND JURY IN SESSON ONLY ONE DAY—COURT EXPECTED TO BE COMPLETED BY FRIDAY.

The April term of Boone Circuit Court got underway this week with Hon. Ward Yager, presiding, in what is believed to be one of the shortest terms in several years.

The grand jury was in session only one day, examining 15 witnesses and returning 12 indictments. They also examined all county property and reported favorably on all, with the recommendation that the floor in the jail building be painted.

Only three major indictments were returned, they being against John, Walter and Marcin Ellis, Willard Scott and Frank Palmisano on a charge of store house breaking at Zimmer's Gardens, in Florence. Their bail was set $1,000.00 each. Chester Clark and John Doe were indicted on a petty larceny charge and bail set at $250.00 each. Willard Raleigh was indicated on a charge of uttering a forged check and bail was set at $1,000.00. All of the above cases were set for Wednesday and Thursday, and according to predictions court will probably come to a conclusion Friday afternoon of this week.

Jurymen for the April term were as follows:

Grand Jury—Clyde Anderson, M. C. Carroll, W. H. Presser, Russell Sparks, W. C. Hand, J. D. McNeeley, Carl Clutterbuck, D. E. Ogden, Wm. K. Thomas, George Knox, Edgar Aylor and Henry Wharton.

Petit Jury No. 1—R. E. Kirtley, Walter Gaines, M. M. Garnett, J. W. Doan, Joe Code, H. M. Holliday, I. M. Tanner, J. W. Rogers, P. J. Maddin, Elmer Elliston, Tom Brumback and Ben W. Dixon.

Petit Jury No. 2—Adam Dolwick, C. H. Baker, O. W. Purdy, Al Stephens, Joseph Rouse, Cecil Williamson, W. E. Holt, Floyd Sininger, Norman Herbstreit, Colin Riggs, W. C. Arnold and Wm. Hill.

Hempfling Elected Chairman Of Soil Conservation Board

C. Liston Hempfling, Constance, was elected chairman, and G. C. Ransom, Verona, secretary of the Boone County Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors in their first meeting held at Burlington last Thursday afternoon. Other members of the board are J. C. Bedinger, Walton; H. E. White, Burlington; and Wm. H. Presser, Grant.

The board will hold their second meeting at Burlington at 10:00 a. m. Saturday, April 18th. The purpose of this meeting will be to confer with representatives of the various agencies as to what they may contribute toward developing a program of work for the district.

T. Sgt. Roscoe Curtis, who was transferred two weeks ago to Savannah, Ga., is enjoying a ten-day urlough with Mr. and Mrs. Russell inn and family.

BODY FOUND IN OHIO RIVER FRI.

NEAR PETERSBURG BY EMBRY KLOPP—IS IDENTIFIED AS FRANK HAAKE, 13-YEAR-OLD COVINGTON BOY.

The body of 13-year-old Frank Haake, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Haake, 2414 Herman St., Covington, was recovered Friday by Embry Kloop, operator of the Aurora Ferry, near Petersburg. He pulled the body on the ferry. Later it was removed to the Bullock and Catherman funeral home, Ludlow, where it was identified by the parents.

Frank and a companion, Don Emering, 11, 2444 Warren Street, Covington, fell into the river February 23, when a boat in which they were riding capsized. Herbert Bolt and Norman Ashland, working nearby aboard an Ashland Refining Company tanker, rescued young Emering and made an unsuccessful attempt to save young Haake.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

GROWING TENSION WITH FALSE LEADERS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 11:37-48, 52-54.
GOLDEN TEXT—He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth.—Luke 11:23.

Opposition to Christ and to Christian teaching has come down through the centuries practically unchanged. Hence, we find in Christ's dealings with the enemies of His day helpful indication of what may be done in our time.

It is sad to note that the chief opposition came from those who professed to be religious leaders. It is expected that the world, the flesh, and the devil should fight God's truth, but one might expect better of those who profess His name. The difficulty is that there is only profession, with no real life.

I. Hypocrisy Unmasked (vv. 37-44).

The Pharisees professed great interest in the observance of religious laws, but their concern was for the outward appearance, while God judges the heart. First we note a false profession of cleanliness. Christ came to the Pharisees' table with clean hands, but He had not observed all their ceremonial washings. When rebuked He struck home with terrific force at the heart of the whole matter (v. 39); namely, that inward filthiness of heart which often makes folk meticulous about outward cleansing. This leads to a substitution of technical observance of the letter of the law that ignores love and judgment (v. 42), which are so precious to God. There can be a dead, dry, and technical orthodoxy which entirely misses the point.

But worst of all is the covering up of spiritual death (v. 44). Sometimes we speak of those who are "dead and don't know it," and that may actually be true spiritually. There may be death within and yet a brave and sometimes self-deluding outward show of life.

II. Theological Deadness Condemned (vv. 45-52).

The lawyers of that day were those learned in the Mosaic law, hence were really the teachers of theology and ethics. They came under the rebuke of Christ as He pronounced three "woes" upon them.

First, they were guilty of heaping upon others burdensome requirements which they did not themselves keep, and which they did not help the people to keep. There are such teachers today who set up standards they do not themselves observe, a sort of signpost pointing the right way, while they are not themselves going that way. Then there are those who present high ethical standards without the spiritual dynamic needed to live up to them. To tell a man to be good without telling him of the Saviour who can make him good is mockery.

Then, those of Christ's day were condemned for hating God's witnesses. They were willing to build sepulchers for the dead prophets (killed by their fathers), but were not willing to hear the living prophets. How true to life that is! The very ones who hate and hinder those who are preaching God's Word, speak and sing smoothly of the faith of our fathers, and claim as their own the witnesses of a past day.

Christ also pointed out that while professing to interpret the law they obscured its meaning. They threw away the key to knowledge so that neither they nor their people could learn—and yet they continued to teach. Have not the false teachers of our day done likewise? They deny the integrity and authority of the only infallible Word—the Bible; they reject the deity of our Saviour, Christ, and yet they talk about being Christians and preachers of the truth. Woe be unto them in the day of God's judgment and wrath!

What happens when such men are condemned or unmasked? We find—

III. Enmity Intensified (vv. 53, 54).

The scribes and Pharisees had two approaches: they sought vehemently to provoke Him to overspeak, and they craftily laid in wait for Him. The writer of these notes has seen both methods at work in our day. Liberals, or modernists as they are called, profess for the most part to a suave courtesy which makes them speak smoothly and gently about the conservative and orthodox believer or teacher; but if one only has eyes to see, there is often the strong and cruel hand of iron hidden under the velvet glove.

Whatever may be the approach, be assured of this—every effort to reveal false teaching in its true light, or to deal with hypocrisy in spiritual things will bring intensified opposition. Christ took it—we too can take it in His name and for His sake.

Praise the Lord

I will greatly praise the Lord with my mouth; yea, I will praise him among the multitude. For he shall stand at the right hand of the poor, to save him from those who condemn his soul.—Psalm 109:30-31

In 1942 as in other years, Boone County will furnish its share of those who die on the highways.

Surgical Shoes

Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE

HISTORY.—Mrs. G. E. M. suffered headaches and neckaches. Her neck ached so intensely at the base of the skull she could hardly see. Days at a time she could not get out of bed because of the severity of the pains. She read one of our ads., telling of the good work we were doing, and decided to see what we could do for her. After a very short time wearing surgical shoes, pain in the head and neck lessened till finally it disappeared entirely and she is well and happy. It is now possible for her to do her own work even when it is necessary for her to climb stepladders. Surgical shoes seemingly worked miracles for her.

COMMENT.—Strain on ligaments and tendons naturally has a weakening effect upon muscles. Continued neglect of these conditions may be the cause of your aches and pains in the neck and back and you have been unable to get relief, come in and let us see what we can do for you.

If your ankles are weak and you are constantly rolling them, surgical shoes are definitely the answer to your problem.—Adv.

A poorly balanced ration fed to growing pullets reduces the number of eggs as well as the weight per egg. Purina Chick Growena, an especially prepared ration, is built to help give you full, well-developed pullets, ready to lay lots of eggs in the shortest possible time. What's more, Growena is economical to feed. Actually it takes but 16 lbs. to carry a bird through the growing period. No matter how you look at it, it doesn't cost to feed pullets right—IT PAYS!

Come in to see us about your growing feed needs today.

Four Demonstrations In Sorghum Planned

Seed for conducting for sorghum demonstrations with the Williams' Variety have been received, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The Williams variety is reported by the College as the outstanding variety for molasses making that has been identified in the State.

One of these demonstrations will be conducted on the farm of A. T. Knox, of near Florence; another is on the farm of L. R. Vice, of near Burlington. The other two will be located in the near future.

Sorghum molasses has been proven one of the high mineral and vitamin foods. Increased production of molasses and honey is recommended in the Live at Home and Food for Victory programs.

SOCIAL SECURITY NOTES

Men who have worked as farmers must get social security cards if they take jobs in building defense plants or army camps. The construction projects are being handled by private contractors, in most cases, and the work, when done in this way, is covered by the Social Security Act. Every worker must have an account number which is used in reporting wages earned in such employment. As most farm workers do not have social security cards they must obtain them when they take jobs in covered employment, it was said today by Frank B. Decker, Jr., manager of the Covington, Kentucky field office of the Social Security Board.

• • •

Women who replace men in stores, offices and in factories must have social security account cards, as all employment of this character is covered by old-age and survivors insurance. Many women are now taking such jobs after having been idle for several years, or after having worked in domestic service. As a result these women have had no need for social security account cards, it was said today by Frank B. Decker, Jr., manager of the Covington field office of the Social Security Board. Many employers will not hire women until they how their social security cards, he added. Cards are issued at the Covington office daily from 8:30 a. m. until 5:00 p. m. and on Saturday from 8:30 a. m. until 12:30 p. m.

HOMEMAKERS CLUBS COLLECT OLD HOSE

Members of homemakers' clubs in Kenton county, Kentucky, are collecting 1,000 pairs of old silk and nylon hose for Athens college in Alabama. Students in this college worked in hosiery mills, when silk was to be had. Now they propose to rewind discarded stockings. It is estimated that 1,000 pairs will provide work for a boy or girl for a year.

The road to financial success is still paved by hard work, regardless of pensions, bonuses, benefits and graft.

CONSTANCE HOMEMAKERS

The Constance Homemakers held their regular meeting April 1st, with Mrs. Fred Prable as hostess.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Fanny Peeno. All members joined in singing "America" and participated in salute to the flag. Mrs. Peeno spoke on Victory Gardens and all are urged to grow more food for home use and a surplus for local stores, as shipped food will not be so plentiful, and we will be compelled to rely on home products.

The District meeting will be held at Paris, Ky., April 28th.

Mr. Frazier spoke on "Chicken Raising and Control of Diseases and Feeding for Profits."

Mrs. Geo. Kottmyer explained how to trim and cultivate trees and shrubs and how to prepare ground for flower seeds.

Our next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Hattie Davis, May 6th.

It should be unnecessary to urge people of Boone County to put their country first lest the Japs put it last.

W. M. U. Will Hold Quarterly Meeting

The second quarterly meeting of the Woman's Missionary Union of the North Bend Association will be held at the Belleview Baptist Church on Thursday, April 23rd; beginning at 10:30 E. W. T.

The special speaker for the afternoon session will be Miss Virginia Collins of Mayslick, Ky., a former Field Worker in the mountain section of Kentucky, and now Young People's leader for North Eastern Region. She will have a worthwhile message for all women interested in missionary work and a cordial invitation is extend to all to attend, including those who are not members of W. M. U.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENTION SET MAY 1, 2, 3

As soldiers of Christ, you are being "drafted" to pay tribute to and salute Pikeville, Ky., on May 1, 2nd, and 3rd! Why? Because the fifty-second Annual Kentucky Christian Endeavor Convention will be held at that time and it's absolutely necessary that you be present!

Many opportunities will be afforded during these three thrilling days; and this convention, whose theme is "Our Defence Through Deepened Spirituality" promises to give us all a deeper spiritual outlook on life. As Christian soldiers, each and every one of us needs this fellowship and spiritual enrichment.

Dr. E. E. Gabbard of Buckhorn, Ky., is the principal speaker, together with several other inspiring leaders. The convention will open at 7:30 p. m. Friday, may 1st and close with a very beautiful communion service on Sunday morning, May 3rd.

During that time, there will be quite hour sessions, conferences, a luncheon, a sight-seeing hike, a banquet and many other interesting features.

If you would like to attend this splendid fellowship meet, please send your registration to James Francis Miller, Pikeville, Ky., at once. (Registration fee is fifty-cents for everyone).

You can't afford to miss this "draft." "Register" for Christ and His Church right now and lead to Victory!

Nothing is more pleasing to a hypocritical saint than to stick a knife into the back of an apprehended sinner.

In Fleming county, 5,000 acres of old pasture will be "patched" by 500 farmers who want to grow more food for defense.

NYA TRAINING IN HIGH GEAR

The interstate transfer plan operated by the National Youth Administration to send NYA-trained youth from Kentucky to war jobs in eastern states has gone into high gear according to word received from the state NYA office in Louisville.

During the past two weeks, since March 25th, 159 Kentucky youth were transferred for jobs in war production industries in Connecticut and Maryland. Forty-four of these youth, trained in NYA shops in Bowling Green, Richmond, Louisville, Ashland and London left Thursday night. Seventeen of them have had work experience in machine shops, sixteen have been trained in welding and eleven in sheet metal.

Of the hundreds of Kentucky youth already working in eastern states, considerably more than a third are helping produce aircraft. A third are helping make tools, machine parts and motors and the rest are helping build submarines, guns and other articles of war.

War industries are requesting an increasing number of NYA-trained youth. To meet this demand many of the 18 NYA shops in Kentucky have been instructed to operate 24 hours a day. The majority of the shops are already working three or four shifts a day, six days a week.

CONCRETE BLOCKS

THE BESSER VICTORY BLOCK MACHINE
Now in Operation at Our Plant

This new machine is one of the outstanding contributions to modern building. Almost human in its operation, it produces concrete blocks that are more perfect, more beautiful, than any machine has ever produced before . . . turns them out at the amazing speed of 250 per hour. The Besser block machine has introduced such improvements in the old-fashioned concrete block that this splendid building unit may now be used to advantage in the finest construction.

FOOD IS VITAL TO VICTORY

STOP FOOD SPOILAGE WITH KELVINATOR Electric REFRIGERATION

Food spoilage is an economic waste that not only hurts the war effort but is costly to the pocketbooks of individuals.

Cut food spoilage in your home to the vanishing point — make your food and food dollars go further — with a 1942 Kelvinator electric refrigerator. Today's Kelvinator offers greater opportunities for savings through increased storage capacity and rock-bottom operating cost.

Every 1942 Kelvinator is powered with the famous cost-cutting Polarsphere sealed unit that uses current only about 12 minutes per hour under average kitchen conditions. Each is a full 7 or 9 cubic foot model — giving you more room for money-saving quantity food purchases.

See the new 1942 Kelvinator today. Our stock is limited and cannot be replenished, so if you need a refrigerator, now is the time to act.

*Prices shown are for delivery in your kitchen with 5-Year Protection Plan.

Florence Sells Salvage Materials

The first truck load of scrap iron and newspapers was sold last week by the Florence salvage committee, which brought $16.00 from Cincinnati junk dealers.

Residents of Florence and nearby communities have cooperated splendidly in this project, according to Mrs. A. E. Hue, Florence Salvage chairman.

Weekly collection of salvage material in Florence and on Burlington Pike are made by Herbert Fisher. After collecting the scrap the local committee bales the paper, flattens the tin cans and sorts the scrap metal.

A load of tin cans will be sent to Cincinnati this week. The boys of the Florence school, under the supervision of Dean Cayton, have prepared several thousand tin cans for the committee.

Residents of Florence are urged to have their scrap iron, tin and paper ready for collection next Wednesday, April 22nd.

Mr. Fisher donates his time one afternoon a week with his truck to gather the salvage or to deliver it to the dealers. Money received from the sales will be used in the defense program.

BURLINGTON 4-H CLUB NEWS

The Burlington 4-H Club met on April 3 at the Burlington school for their third meeting with 14 members present.

The meeting was called to order by the president. We gave the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag and sang "Remember Pearl Harbor." The projects captains gave reports on their projects. Most of the projects have been started and are progressing nicely. Mrs. Moore told us that Rally Day is to be held May 16th, and gave us a talk on demonstrations.

The meeting was turned over to the vice president, who had charge of the program. We answered the roll call by telling how 4-H work has made us better citizens. Sally Souther gave us a talk on "Personality." Our personality is affected by our diet. Mary Lou Williamson told us how we could get a well-balanced diet. Mrs. Moore led a discussion on "What is Your I. Q. in Diets." The boys then joined us for a group discussion of a chapel program on April 8, at the school building on the topic "National 4-H Mobilization Week." Mrs. Moore gave us some suggestions for a program and the following was decided upon:

Star Spangled Banner—All.
Scripture—Jewell Vice.
Explanation of 4-H Pledge—Corinne Walton.
Pledge—Members of Club.
Talk—Mr. Fish.
"What 4-H Work is and Means"—Louise McArthur, Bettye Jean Forkner, Calvin Kelly, Clifford Barnes.
"Keep 'Em Flying"—Bobby Green
"God Bless America"—All.

The meeting was then adjourned.

Jewell Vice, Reporter.

CALF BRINGS $102

Clyde Cheatam, an Adair county farmer, received $102 for an Aberdeen-Angus-Hereford calf that weighed 850 pounds when sold at the age of one year. County Agent R. R. Rankin says baby beef production is proving profitable all over the county.

This Week On The Home Front

Combatting the rising cost of living and inflation is still one of the major concerns of the Government, and the problem of the Office of Price Administration.

The fight must be won if we are to win the war.

In the past few days OPA has added many articles, including 44 electric appliances, ranging from curling irons and toasters, to a long list of things over which it has set maximum prices.

OPA is a big busy agency and it is getting bigger and busier. It opened seven new branch offices and a twelfth regional office during last week. More than 400 new branch offices of various sizes will be opened between now and June 30.

* * *

War production is zooming. Last month we spent more than three billion dollars, more than two and one-half billion went for munitions and war construction. Not enough, but it's three times as much as we were doing last year. For ourselves and allies we are now spending at the rate of about thirty billions a year.

* * *

War contracts and other government committments in February rose to $20,892,000,000. The figure was $8,414,000,000 in January and $5,132,000,000 in December and $1,-782,000,000 in November.

* * *

Shipments of steel plates in March set an all-time record. Deliveries to shipyards were up 30 per cent over February, in answer to the Nazi and Jap subs.

* * *

Men and bosses in 444 manufacturing plants followed the War Production Board's suggestion and organized 444 Labor-Management Committees during the first seven days of April. They are working together through these committees to speed production.

* * *

Farm tractors originally fitted with steel wheels but later changed to rubber tires will not be permitted to purchase tires whenever steel wheels are locally available, state rationing boards are informed.

* * *

Office of Price Administration warns that there is no guarantee that recapping material will be available even for the tires of defense workers—that "National interest and not the convenience of the war worker," is the governing factor in allocating such material. If you drive to work, pool the use of your car with your neighbor and save that rubber!

WPB has halted all non-essential building construction, both public and private because war production demands have caused a shortage of materials. Builders are told not to start new construction without permission, except for specified purposes, which include: Army and Navy projects, restoration of residential property destroyed by fire, flood, earthquake or tornado since January 1, and controlled and restricted projects for production and distribution of petroleum. The order does not affect ordinary necessary maintenance and repair. Even some projects under construction could be stopped.

* * *

WPB is making it easier for people to get materials to do low cost remodeling jobs. If you are eligible to build a defense house, you have an A-5 rating for remodeling, not to exceed $100 per room, or $800 for the whole job. WPB order P-120 is the regulation.

* * *

Charged with diverting approximately half a million pounds of secondary aluminum from the war program, the WPB has ordered the Hoover Company of North Canton, Ohio, third largest producer of vacuum cleaners in the country, to cease using aluminum for three months. The order is the penalty. Two New York concerns, a textile processor and also a yarn jobber were also punished by suspension orders.

* * *

Only about half of the companies the government has asked to report on their idle aluminum, replied to the questionnaire. WPB is moving to requisition the hoarders of vital metal. During the week such action was taken to get 1000 pounds of aluminum ingots from J. Klem Kline & Son of Easton, Pa.

* * *

There is on commodity the government wants "hoarded" now. That is coal. Office of Price Administration's "Buy Coal Now" campaign, aims to get the family coal bin filled to prevent a jam on railroads and truck lines when the snow starts blowing.

Red Cross will collect those cuffs from trousers and sell them to wool processors.

* * *

To women and girls: There will be no extremes in dress styles during the war, and present wardrobes will not become obsolete. New WPB order stabilizes length and fullness of skirts, applying to styles beginning next fall and winter.

* * *

The golf ball was almost lost in the rough when crude rubber was forbidden in their making in mid-December. April 1 production stopped completely. New WPB order now takes iron and steel and other critical metals out of the clubs, and also plastics and cork. Limited manufacture of clubs may continue, but there'll be no new ones made for next year. Use of iron and steel stops June 1, other materials immediately.

* * *

The eastern states (including West Virginia) and northwest areas got another cut in their gasoline allowance. It was 80 percent of normal sales, but, now, effective Thursday, it is 66 and two-thirds. First reduction order of the WPB was effective March 19.

* * *

Movement of materials and troops is taking the transportation system. Office of Defense Transportation has asked both government agencies to order only transportation they know they can use and make reservations and purchase tickets well in advance.

* * *

J. M. Katz, supplier of bathroom accessories, got 78,000 pounds of copper sheet requisitioned and taken away from him by the WPB The New York dealer had an excess inventory and refused to sell his material to the government's Metal Reserve Corporation, for war purposes.

* * *

That lead foil in the cigaret wrappers the kiddies have been saving will be eliminated May 1, the WPB ordered.

Homemakers Will Hold District Meeting

The annual spring meeting of the Bluegrass District of Kentucky Homemakers' Federation will be held at the Southside School in Paris on Tuesday, April 28.

Boone County Homemakers plan to participate in this event. The theme for the meeting is "I All Depends Upon Me." The guest speaker will be Dr. Allen Stockdale of the Retail Merchants' Association, New York. Dr. Stockdale has appeared on the Farm and Home Convention program for several years and is a favorite among the outstanding speakers who have attended these conventions.

Reservations for transportation and lunch should be made with local club presidents or Mrs. Moore, Acting Home Demonstration Agent, at the earliest possible time.

FLORENCE BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. R. F. DeMoisey, who has resigned as pastor of the Baptist Church delivered his last sermon Sunday morning.

Services will be held Sunday, April 19th at the regular hours 11:00 a. m. and 8:00 p. m. E. W. T.

Rev. Harold Webb, of Newport, who has been recommended to the pulpit committee as a prospective pastor, will deliver the sermons.

All members of the church are urged to attend these services.

Bullittsville Homemakers Make Roadside And Church Yard Plantings April 8

Wednesday, April 8th the Bullittsville Homemakers, under the leadership of Mrs. Anna Engle, Exterior Beautification Chairman of the Club, endeavored to carry out some roadside and churchyard plantings that are an asset to any community.

The group of women was assisted by W. M. Schlosser, Carrollton, State beautification employee and his group of men and Mr. Wm. Mattox, State Engineer of this district and his crew of men.

The work consisted of grading and sloping the banks, sowing of grass seeds and planting of trees and shrubs, which were native dogwood and redbud, spireas, japonica, black pine, semlock and Euonymus (or broad leaf evergreen).

A continuation of this work will follow this fall beginning at Mrs. Huey Aylor's near Hebron and extending to near Idlewild.

A very delicious lunch was served by the ladies of the club which are Mesdames Huey Aylor, Jonas Stevens, Albert Willis, Sam Patrick, Burnam Roberts, Clyde Akins, Maggie Easton, M. M. Lucas, Wm. Hill, W. E. Jones, Chas. Utzinger and Chas. Engle.

Much interest and cooperation was shown.

Through the number of hogs have dwindled to an all-time low on Knott county farms, replacements rapidly are being made.

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY

Two of Hollywood's most-feared "scene stealers," Edward Arnold and Walter Huston, head the cast of "All That Money Can Buy" whimsical romantic drama.

Both of them veterans of many film offerings in which they instead of the nominal stars walked away with the picture, the two favorites pit their pilfering talents against each other in the dramatic climax.

Anne Shirley, James Craig, Simone Simon and other noted players are also in the cast of the William Dieterle production for RKO radio.

* * *

SATURDAY

"Go West, Young Lady," featuring Penny Singleton, Glenn Ford and Ann Miller, will be shown at the Gayety Saturday, with Charlie Ruggles, Allen Jenkins and Bob Wills and His Texas Playboys. A boisterous comedy packed with music, mirth and melodrama, "Go West, Young Lady" was directed by Frank R. Strayer from a screen play by Richard Fournoy and Karen DeWolf.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Madeleine Carroll has "vorda!" The lovely Paramount star whose new Technicolor picture, "Bahama Passage" is to be shown at Gayety, Sunday and Monday went to the British West Indies with co-star Stirling Hayden and the Paramount company, to film the picture. When Madeleine stepped from the boat which brought them to the tiny island of Salt Cay, the natives looked at her and then at each other. "Vorda," they said. Vorda!"

Paramount men circulating in the groups, got the literal translation. It means "golden color," or "beautiful golden woman."

TUES., WED., THURS., and FRI.

"Louisiana Purchase," the Paramount Technicolor extravaganza opening at the Gayety Theatre, Tuesday of next week starring Bob Hope, Vera Zorina and Victor Moore, was produced by Buddy De Sylva, production chief at Paramount Pictures. A well-known Broadway producer, De Sylva also produced the original stage version of "Louisiana Purchase." Among the recent hits shows produced by De Sylva are "Panama Hattie" and "Du Barry Was a Lady."

Featured in "Louisiana Purchase" are Irene Bordoni and Dona Drake.

BELLEVIEW W. M. S. MEETS

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Belleview Baptist Church met Wednesday afternoon, April 1st at the church for the regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. Helen Rogers opened the meeting with a song by society, followed by a prayer by Mrs. Guth. After the watchwords were repeated she turned the program over to Mrs. McArthur, who was in charge of the program.

Mrs. Christena Kirtley had the Bible Study for the day. The topic of the lesson was "Think On These Things—"Whatsoever Things are Pure." This subject includes everyone, but it took up especially concerning the young people of today. They are subjected to so much impurity around them, yet we are to strive to keep them pure through prayer and good influences.

After the program we had our business meeting. There were fourteen ladies present. We sent a crate of eggs to Louisville Orphan's Home for Easter.

Our W. M. S. is looking forward to entertain the W. M. U. of North Bend Association on April 23rd and expecting to receive an inspiration from this meeting. Be sure to remember the date and come to Belleview for this meeting.

Missouri Rice, Reporter.

VERONA

The friends of Mrs. W. B. McCormick sympathize with her in the death of her father.

Floyd Chapman, who is in Christ Hospital, is doing as well as could be expected.

Friends of Miss Irene Hudson will be glad to hear that she is able to be returned to the home of her niece, Mrs. D. H. Vest, after undergoing an operation at a Louisville hospital.

Mrs. Gus McMullen, who recently underwent an operation at St. Elizabeth hospital has been removed to the home of one of her relatives in Covington to recuperate.

The Happy Twelve Club met at the home of Mrs. Matlin Baker for their April session. The ten members present enjoyed the delicious fish dinner. We were glad to welcome our member, Mrs. Haley after an extended trip to Texas this winter. We were also thankful for the souvenirs which she brought each member. Plans were made to remember some of our lonely boys in service, and to send a case of eggs to our State Orphan's Home.

We were sorry to hear that Mrs. Dora Brown was in the hospital following a wreck last Friday.

Surplus Wheat For Feed Purposes

The Bi-County Farm Bureau at Devon, Ky., and the Lawrenceburg Terminal Elevator Corporation, Lawrenceburg, Ind., have both notified the County Agent's office that they have on hand wheat obtained from the Commodity Credit Corporation which is to be used solely for the purpose of feeding to livestock. This wheat can be purchased on this basis at a saving of from 30 to 40 percent of the regular price of wheat. The Lawrenceburg Company does not make delivery and requires the purchaser to furnish his own sacks or haul it loose. The Bi-County Farm Bureau will furnish it on this basis or they will sack it and deliver if the purchaser desires. They also state that they will, at a small extra cost, crack the wheat either coarse or fine as the purchaser desires.

Farmers who need a considerable quantity of wheat for feeding purposes should take advantage of this special offer.

Hossman's Lake Opens

Hossman's Lake on State Road No. 20 is now open for the fishing season, according to an announcement in this issue of The Recorder. The lake has been restocked with lake fish and affords a splendid spot for picnics and a day's fishing.

Persons desiring to obtain the grounds for picnic purposes are requested to place their application early.

Complete details will be found in their advertisement on another page of this issue.

SUGAR RATIONING SET APRIL 28-29

FOR COMMERCIAL USERS—INDIVIDUAL REGISTRATION SET MAY 4-7—SCHOOL PRINCIPALS WILL BE IN CHARGE.

The rationing of sugar to retailers, wholesalers, institutions, and industrial users will be held at the school buildings of the county on April 28 and 29. The principal at each school will be in charge of issuing the ration cards.

Due to the small number of commercial users of sugar in the county, the hours for registration have been set for all commercial users from 2:30 to 5:00 p. m. Eastern War Time.

The time for consumer registration will be May 4 to 7. Full instructions will be published in next week's county papers.

This notice applies only to registration at Burlington, Florence, Hebron, and New Haven, according to D. H. Norris, chairman of County Schools. Registration at Walton will be announced from that school.

BLOOD NEEDED

Nearly every person who is severly injured passes into a state of exhaustion known as traumatic scheek, which is a signal that the end of life is near. This condition is accompanied by a rapid fall in blood pressure and a collapse of the patient. The treatment of this alarming conditions by blood transfusions is now the major problem of military and naval medicine.

The call for dried plasma as an essential supply, comparable to surgical dressings and bandages, anethetics and indispensable drugs is therefore an urgent need.

POND BUILDING STARTS APRIL 27

IN BOONE COUNTY—MANY LAKES AND PONDS BUILT DURING PAST YEAR—WILL GIVE LARGE WATER SUPPLY.

J. G. Robertson and sons, of Eminence, plan to start their 1942 pond building program in Boone County on Monday, April 27th. Robertson and sons built more than thirty ponds and large lakes in the county last fall. Because of weather conditions last fall, they were unable to build lakes for a number of people who had requested construction work.

Mr. Robertson states he has two large pond building tractors that have recently been overhauled and are ready to start work. The price for construction this year will be a minimum of $25.00 or $7.00 per hour.

Better livestock water supplies have been considered by local farm planning groups as a much needed farm improvement. Private contractors with large power equipment have found the cheapest and best methods of lake construction. Farmers who are interested in having Mr. Robertson contact them in reference to pond or lake construction are advised to leave word at the County Agent's office in Burlington at the earliest possible date.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for April 26

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

WAYSIDE CONVERSATIONS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 13:22-35.
GOLDEN TEXT—And whosoever doth not bear his cross, and come after me, cannot be my disciple.—Luke 14:27.

Learning by talking with Christ as they walked from place to place—such was the training for service which the disciples received. That was the greatest school this world has ever known, for while it had no great buildings, no beautiful campus, no learned faculty, it had the Son of God Himself as preceptor and teacher. With all due regard for our fine colleges and seminaries, we say this is still the outstanding need of Christian workers—to walk and talk with Christ.

On the day of which our lesson speaks the subject considered was how to be saved, and who should be saved. Several trends of thought emerged, but all pointed in the one direction of a diligent following of God's plan. In order to be saved, we learn, a man must

I. Make an Earnest Effort (vv. 22-24).

The question regarding how many were saved received no direct answer for our Lord wished to direct attention to the far more important question—Are you saved? Get that settled and the other matter will care for itself.

Here some who assume that it is an easy thing to be saved will receive a surprise, for our Lord says (v. 24) that it is something one must agonize" over, for so may the word "strive" be translated. The door into eternal life is so narrow that no man can pass through it with his sins—they must be taken away. Seeking is not enough (v. 24), one must "strive" to enter in.

II. Enter While the Door is Open (vv. 25-30).

The door stands open for all who will, to come in. (What a friendly thing is an open door!) But meridly ignore it, or definitely reject its opportunity. Or they seek it, but do not strive to enter in, and all at once it is closed. Then in a frenzy they seek to enter, but it is too late. What an appalling thing—to be eternally too late!

Note their claims of acquaintance with the Lord (v. 26). One is reminded of those who think they are Christians because father or mother belonged to the church, or because they attend an occasional church supper or listen to a sermon by radio. Unless we know Him personally as our Saviour, He will have to say to us, Depart from me, ye workers of iniquity" (v. 27). Let us make that matter very clear to those to whom we minister, lest they be eternally lost.

III. Follow the Fearless Christ (vv. 31-33).

To know the high and unwavering character of one's leader is to go forward with real confidence. What about the Captain of our salvation? Here we find Him facing the indirect threat of a powerful and wicked earthly ruler, in perfect calmness, with the very poise of eternity upon Him.

Christ, conscious of His divine mission and with determination to do the Father's will (Heb. 10:7), knew no fear of man. As we are in His holy will as Christian men and women, we too may boldly say, The Lord is my helper, and I will not fear what man shall do unto me" (Heb. 13:6).

Consider the rebuke to Herod (v. 32). There is probably no place in Scripture where our Lord spoke with such stinging contempt of any man. It is almost as though the black cloud of eternal judgment already had settled around the head of this man who was so sly and crafty that the tenderhearted Jesus called him a "fox." One wonders of how many He would have to say the same in this our day of supreme and malicious wickedness.

We find one more vitally important thought here. Our Lord offers Himself. He calls sinners to repentance, but they must

IV. Respond to His Invitation (vv. 34, 35).

To fail to accept His proffered love is to be left desolate. To reject Him as Saviour (either by neglect or by definite act) is inevitably to bring judgment. To the Jews this meant loss of their national home—their leading city, but to us it means the loss of our eternal souls.

"There is terrible suggestiveness in the two statements in verse 34, 'I would,' 'Ye would not.' The whole secret of Jerusalem's desolation and destruction is found in the words, 'Ye would not.' The whole secret of the loss of the individual soul is found in the words, 'Ye will not' (John 5:40)" (John W. Bradbury).

This lesson presses home to the individual reader the question, Are you saved? What is your answer? It also affords the Sunday school teacher an excellent opportunity to seek to lead the members of the class to a definite decision for Christ. The Sunday school is a good place to give an invitation

Weak Feet Affect Body

N. TULCH

Foot Comfort Specialist at—

PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE

814-816 Madison, Covington

When feet are permitted to pronate inwardly, the boney structure of the foot goes down, shutting off the nerve and blood supply in the bottom of the foot. When you cramp or choke the blood stream and slow up circulation, there is a lack of bone repair; chemical deposits, or waste matter form at the joints. Next inflammation sets in at these joints causing pain. That inflammation is often mistaken for rheumatism, arthritis, and many other ailments. Altho when you cramp the blood supply you shut off the food supply to the nerves.

When nerves are impoverished muscle tone is impaired because sensory nerves indirectly control motor nerves which in turn control the muscles. When muscles in the feet have lost their tonicity due to impoverishment of the nerves, feet are no longer subconsciously held in normal position.

Surgical shoes give support to the vital arches in the feet releasing cramped nerves and blood vessels to promote better circulation. Gradually as circulation improves, musces grow strong and regain their tonicity.

With foot health improved the person feels better all over. Research has shown that no less than eighty-seven diseases are indirectly caused by bad feet.

Don't take chances with your health, happiness and peace of mind. With foot comfort you'll live longer and feel better.—Adv.

1 MID-WEEK TRAVEL EASES WEEK-END CONGESTION
You make it easier for yourself if you take trips, whenever possible, on mid-week days when travel is lighter—and you make it easier for soldiers, sailors, and war workers to travel on week-ends, often the only time they can go.

2 BUS TRAVEL CONSERVES TIRES, CARS, VITAL MATERIALS
Each passenger can travel many miles farther by Greyhound than by private car—per pound of rubber, per gallon of gasoline. Then too there's the saving of wear and tear on your car and its valuable tires.

3 GET TICKETS, INFORMATION IN ADVANCE—AVOID DELAY
You can ease crowding at terminals if you get information about routes, fares and schedules—and get your tickets, too—well before you leave. On trips usually taken in midsummer—arrange to go early or late, thus dodging the July-August rush period.

IN THIS LAND OF MILK AND HONEY

The College of Agriculture and Home Economics at Lexington received this report from Hardin county: In a community of 118 persons, 40 of whom are under 14 years old, there are two milk cows, one of which is dry. The other gives about three gallons of milk a day, or enough to provide about one pint for every five persons in the community.

NYA WORKERS MUST MEET HEALTH REQUIREMENTS

As National Youth Administration projects are operated to train war workers, all youth in NYA shops must meet minimum health requirements necessary for employment in war industry, Robert K. Salyers, State Youth Administrator said today. The increasing need for trained workers demands that every work station in our 18 shops be occupied by a youth who is acceptable to industry, he said.

To eliminate the possibility of training those who cannot be absorbed into war production, the NYA health program in Kentucky, cooperating with local physicians and public health offices, requires every youth to have a physical examination in order to be employed in an NYA War Production and Training Shop. Medical examiners classify youth according to their health ability to work. These classifications help determine the type of work experience a youth receives.

Of the 6,009 youths examined during the last six months, 4449 were classified as physically capable of doing any kind of work, 1129 were classed as able to do only specific kinds of work and 12 were considered unemployable. Physically disabled youth who are capable of being useful to industry are trained for jobs in which their disability is not a serious handicap.

The NYA health program does not provide for remedial work, but youth are told of their defects and encouraged to have them corrected. Local NYA officials counsel with youth, point out the necessity of improving their health and suggest they go to their own doctors or dentists or utilize local public health facilities.

As a result of this counseling in Jefferson county, 98 percent of those needing glasses have secured them and 75 percent of these needing dental care have had their dental defects corrected. Over the entire state Mr. Salyers said, the health program has made youth more health conscious and has stimulated health improvement among those seeking war jobs thru NYA work experience.

RIBOFLAVIN IMPORTANT IN PRODUCTION OF HATCHING EGGS

"Riboflavin is a greenish orange colored vitamin present in eggs, milk, liver, dried grasses and dried alfafla," says Dr. H. J. Smith, Director of Research for Purina Mills. "It puts the hatching spark, the 'will to live,' into fertile eggs. When breeding hens do not get enough Vitamin G their eggs hatch poorly. Those chicks that do get out of the shell are weak.

"It is well to note that when baby chicks are given a ration low in Vitamin G they grow slowly. If their feed is entirely lacking in Vitamin G they get a crow-headed appearance," Dr. Smith says. "Certain forms of paralysis are claimed to be caused by a lack of this Riboflavin substance. Some chicks develop 'notched' beaks, which the California Experiment station has found to be caused by insufficient Vitamin G.

A Powerful Element

"So potent is this Riboflavin that its presence in various sources is infinitesmal," says Dr. Smith. "It can only be measured in millionths of a grain. Nevertheless the least insufficiency of Vitamin G definitely limits hatchability and restricts chicks life and growth.

"The available sources of Riboflavin—such as dried milk, dried alfalfa and dried yeast—have long been studied. Investigations show that these ingredients sometimes contain large amounts of Vitamin G, and other times they contain very little.

"These observations, together with the knowledge that the slightest deficiency of Vitamin G has so marked an effect upon egg hatchability and chick livability, have caused research scientists to find a way to insure the presence of ample Vitamin G in poultry mashes. The outcome has been the development of a new special Vitamin G (flavin) ingredient, known as Puri-Flave. It is made by special bacteria under hygenic laboratory conditions, and has proven very helpful to us in insuring the Vitamin G content of our rations."

GALOSHES, FLASHLIGHT REGULAR SCHOOL TOGS FOR LETCHER FOUR-H'ER

Getting an education—and 4-H club training for service—the hard way is the record of Mildred Sumpter, who lives "at the head of a hollow" 16 miles from Whitesburg, Letcher county, Ky.

An ardent 4-H'er for seven years Mildred walks down a creek bed one mile every day to the highway, and there catches the school bus to ride 15 miles to Whitesburg to school. This means she leaves home before daylight, returning at dusk. Miss Sumpter would have been one of the four 4-H club members to represent Kentucky at the national club camp in Washington, had not the camp been called off because of the war.

"In 4-H club work, too, she has contributed active leadership rather than passive leadership, which certainly. all things considered, would have been all anyone could ask," reports County Agent Hugh Hurst. "She joined the first club organized in the county seven years ago. When the leader of her club went to another community, Mildred stepped in and kept the club going. That year her club won the county championship.

"Mildred hasn't had opportunity to show her products at as many fairs as some; and, Letcher county's prize money has been relatively small. But—a girl whose school equipment includes galoshes and flashlight, who can lead a club in 4-H club work if there is no one else to do it, who is healthy and poised and intelligent in all her work—well, you can't down a girl like that. The 'V for Victory' sign will be hers all her life."

RYE GRASS LIVES ON OVERFLOW LAND

The value of rye grass as a cover crop on overflow land was well demonstrated in Daviess county, says County Agent J. E. McClure. Where the Ohio river overflowed uncovered tobacco land it carried away 3 to 5 inches of soil, but where there was a good stand of rye grass no apparent damage resulted, even though the grass was under water for nine days. In one place along Highway 60, where the river backs in soon after it starts to rise, rye grass was under water more than two weeks. While some damage was done, Mr. McClure says it was not killed.

DRIED MILK SHORTAGE LOOMS

With dried skim milk becoming increaseing hard to get, where are poultry and livestock feed manufacturers to obtain ample flavin (Vitamin G) for their rations?

It is universally recognized that flavin (Vitamin G) is essential for growing chicks and animals, and for the feeding of unhatched and unborn young. It has been shown that hens fed rations low in this essential substance lay eggs that hatch poorly. Chicks fed a starter entirely lacking in flavin (Vitamin G) develop a crow-headed appearance. Young chicks and animals fed rations low in this vitamin grow slowly.

Manufacturers Need Vitamin G

But where are feed manufacturers to obtain the amount of flavin (Vitamin G) they need for their feeds? Ingredients such as the grains, grain by-products, meat scraps, and fish meal are relatively low in flavin (Vitamin G). Alfalfa leaf meal, both the sun-cured and the dehydrated, contains a suitable amount of flavin (Vitamin G) but its overuse runs up the fibre content. What feed manufactures want is a concentrated source of flavin (Vitamin G) low in fibre.

American Scientists Were Prepared

It almost seems that American scientists had an intuition that our farmers would some day urgently need a flavin (Vitamin G) concentrate to replace milk by-products for their rations. For they have already made possible a concentrated Vitamin G source low in fibre, that is five times more potant in Vitamin G than either dried skim milk or dried buttermilk, called Puri-Flave. Manufacturers using this ingredient have little to fear from the shortage of dried milk products. Their customers are insured against disappointments that come from feeding rations deficient in flavin (Vitamin G).

EARLY-SEEDED CROPS ARE BEST FOR COVER

Early-seeded cover crops, grown on limed land and fertilized with 200 pounds of 47 percent superphosphate, did exceptionally well in Lee county, reports County Agent T. H. Jones. Balbo rye seeded about September 1 was 10 to 12 inches high April 1, while that seeded the first week in November was 3 to 4 inches high. Vetch seeded the last week in August, on limed and phosphated land, was 12 to 15 inches high, while that seeded the first week in November was just getting started. All in all, Jones considers balbo rye the best cover crop, with barley second.

TO SAVE STRAWBERRIES

Should a frosty night appear likely in the strawberry bloom season, W. W. Magill of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics says to cover the patch, or a portion of it, with an old quilt, canvas, carpet, tobacco cloth, tarpaulin, fodder or anything else that will keep the blossoms from freezing. A small patch saved in this way will assure a home supply of berries.

Notice Of Bids

Bids will be received at my office, Burlington, Ky., by undersigned, for coal for the court house, jail, relief office and county infirmary, as follows:

4000 Bushels of coal, part stoker and part lump.

All coal to be put in bins and analysis and trade name must be filed with bids. All bids must be sealed and filed with me on or before May 23, 1942 at 12 o'clock noon.

Right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

4-H'ERS TO SUPPLY STRAWBERRY PLANTS

That thousands of families may have strawberries for home use, J. M. Feltner, district 4-H club agent for Eastern Kentucky, is asking club members who have beds of strawberries to dig 100 plants for a neighbor. In some eastern counties there are 500 or more boys and girls growing strawberries and it is expected that several thousand will respond to Mr. Feltner's suggestion. Strawberries do well all over Kentucky, and a small patch will furnish more berries than the average family can use.

A milk shortage in Boyd county has stimulated better feeding and the purchase of additional cows. Some farmers are planning to build up and improve their herds.

22 MEETINGS IN ONE NIGHT EGG CAMPAIGN

To make certain that the county will meet its quota of 56,000 dozens of eggs more than were produced last year, farm leaders in Trigg county held 22 community meetings on the same night, attended by 348 men and women. All the leaders had attended a special meeting previously, where the county's egg requirment was explained by County Agent Thomas Morgan and Stanley Caton of the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics. The Farm Bureau is assisting in the egg program by making meat scrap available throughout the county.

One hundred and five farmers in Northern Pendleton county have contracted to grow tomatoes.

This Week On The Home Front

Registrars for sugar rationing are geeting 56 pages of instructions. They go to state and county administrators, local rationing boards, county and city superintendents of schools, and schoolsite administrators and registrars—two million for the country.

Registration for wholesalers, retailers, industry and institutional users will start April 28. On April 28 and 29 this group will register in the nation's high schools These applications are now obtainable through local rationing boards.

Consumer registration takes place in the elementary schools May 4-6, and will be handled by 1,250,000 teachers under supervision of the "school-site administrators" who will usually be the principals. Individuals will get a half pound a week.

* * *

Phonograph and radio transcription records are now hit by a WPB restriction order. Their production is cut to 30 percent of the 1941 figure. Shellac used to make them comes only from India now blocked by war. Military production makes heavy use of shellac as well as certain necessary civilian production.

* * *

Cartoonists and jokesters had a field day lampooning the wartime clothing styles for men, but they didn't stick closely enough to the facts. In general, men's clothing will be more conservative, hard weaves will be out, and softer fabrics utilizing reprocessed wool, but nevertheless good looking and serviceable. will be plentiful. The color range will be restricted. This is the lowdown from the Office of Price Administration.

* * *

You may never have heard of rotenone, but if you are a farmer or trucker you've used it. It goes in delousing powders for domestic animals, and spray for food crops. It comes from Malaya and the East Indies, and now it's scarce—you know why. WPB Conservation order restricts its use to delousing and food crops except cranberries, eggplant, onions, peppers, sweetcorn. Household use is prohibited.

* * *

Buttons, hooks-and-eyes and snaps, good enough for everybody a few years ago, are now enlisted for war service. Zinc and steel for zipping is cut, and first quality zippers are reserved for military and work clothing. Copper is banned for these items. New supply will be susceptible to rust and must have more care.

* * *

To conserve supply of critical iron and steel (and also fuel oil) manufacturer of oil burners and coal stokers for residences will be stopped after May 31. The stoker order will save 80,000 tons of iron and steel and 142,000 sets of motors and control, while the oil burner order saves 12,000 tons of iron and steel and 211,000 sets of controls and motors. It is estimated there will be 65,000 new coal stokers and 120,000 oil burners on hand when manufacturers eases.

* * *

OPA will "liberalize" automobile rationing. The rationed cars moved too slowly. Rolf Nugent, Chief of Auto Rationing Section, said: "The slow movement of passenger automobiles under the rationing order is being blamed upon the rationing boards. This is highly unfair. These boards . . . have done a remarkable job . . . and they are entitled to the thanks of everyone. It is their duty to adhere strictly to the provisions of the rationing order, and if these provisions are too strict, it is the responsibility of Washington . . . not the local boards to liberalize them. . . An amendment designed to liberalize the order is being prepared."

* * *

Delivery of plumbing and heating equipment is frozen by War Production Board.

* * *

From now on it's going to be harder to purchase many household and kitchen utensils of the same quality and material to which we have been accustomed. WPB has restricted use of iron, steel and zinc in their manufacture. Three groups of articles are affected: (1) Pots, pans, cooking utensils using much metal; iron and steel cut 10 percent; (2) Secondary articles such garbage cans, galvanized tubs and pails, can-openers: iron and steel cut 30 percent, zinc cut 50 percent; (3) Non-essentials like flyswatters, curtain rods, clothes pins, cake coolers and such gadgets; all three metals cut 50 percent.

* * *

Emergency war agencies are cracking down on chislers and cheaters . . . In Booneville, Ind., two officers of a motor sales company face possible $10,000 fines and 10 years imprisonment for violating tire rationing . . . Walleck Brass Company of Cleveland and Aluminum Bronze Powder Company of Bedford, Ohio, are forbidden to use the metal three months for violating priorities orders . . Mills Novelty Company, Chicago, slot machine makers violated priority regulations and can't get material till July 10, after illegally diverting critical metals, from the war program.

Donald M. Nelson, WPB Chairman, encourages vacations for workers. He asks management to use its ingenuity so that absences will not interrupt production. He suggestions: (1) spread vacations over the year, (2) additional overtime for workers not vacationing, (3) special training for substitutes—doing work ahead in departments affected. His reason: "Experience here and abroad is indicating that the worker, even when stimulated by urgency of the allied war situation, cannot work long hours and maintain peak output indefinitely . . . some rest period this year is going to prove doubly effective in the restoration of his energy and determination."

* * *

Ten companies having millions of dollars in war contracts are directed to cease discriminating against available workers because of race and religion in "findings and directions" of the President's Committee on Fair Employment Practice. Several of the companies in help-wanted ads has specified "Gentile" or "Protestant" or White. Companies are directed to cease giving employment agencies such discriminatory specifications, and are required to file a monthly report to show non-discrimination.

* * *

Typewriter rationing went into effect April 20. The rationing will make available an estimated 100,000 new machines, mostly portables now frozen with distributors, wholesalers and dealers, as well as approximately 750,000 office-sized used typewriters. All machines in production and now held by manufacturers are still "frozen."

* * *

WPB stopped all production of medium and heavy trucks for civilian use after existing quotas are completed. Rubber shortage, the main reason. Medium truck assembly lines stop April 30 and the heavies May 31.

W. M. U. NEWS

The W. M. U. of the Union Baptist Church met at the church on Wednesday, April 15th for its regular monthly meeting.

The meeting opened at 1:30 E. W. T. with our president Mrs. Kirtley McWethy presiding. The singing our our W. M. U. hymn for the year and repeating of our Watchwords in unison followed, with opening prayer by Mrs. McWethy. Roll call by our secretary, Mrs. Winston Mason was answered by 19 members. Reports were read by Mrs. Austin Gschwind, our Young People's Leader and Mrs. W. S. Friend, our Sunbeam leader with marked increases noted both in attendance and offerings in all the organizations.

New business was in ordering new material for Mrs. J. T. Bristow, our Personal Service chairman. Mrs. McWethy made announcement of the Group meeting to be held next Thursday, April 23, at Belleview, begining at 10:30 E. W. T. Anyone planning to attend should see Mrs. McWethy or Mrs. Emerson Smith at once.

Our devotional was taken from Daniel 1:8-20 and was brought to us by Miss Lucy Newman, the topic being "Training For The King." All those present joined in singing "Take Time To Be Holy," with reports by our delegates, Mrs. McWethy and Mrs. Myrtle Marshall, who attended the State meeting at Harrodsburg on April 8-9. Both ladies gave glowing accounts and very interesting stories of what they thought to be most inspirational of many past State meetings.

We were happy to have with us for this meeting, three visitors and the announcement of one new member. We hope that these and many others will be with us when we come together again on Wednesday afternoon of May 13th for our next monthly meeting. We were dismissed by prayer by Mrs. E. Smith.

Mrs. W. S. Friend, Reporter.

FARMERS CAUTIONED ON SPENDING MONEY

A report which the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics makes on war production plans for farms in the Pennyroyal area of that state concludes with a warning against unwise spending on the part of farmers.

"This is no time for a lack of extreme caution in money matters," says Economists Ernest J. Nesius and David L. MacFarlane. They believe there are only three situations where cash outlays, other than those needed for usual operations, are justified. The first is debt reduction. Another is the spending of money to increase the long-time productivity of the farm, such as buying equipment, fencing, fertilizer and lime. The third place these economists consider spending justified at this time is where it would bring immediate returns, such as for labor and feed.

MONEY IN CALVES

Robert Tooley, a Monroe county Utopia club boy, bought two calves for $116, fed them five and a half months at a cost of $72, not counting pasture, and sold them for $251.20, leaving him a profit of of $63.20.

TO PRESERVE STOCKINGS

Oddly enough, no woman ever seems to get a "run" in an old pair of stockings—they're always "a pair I just put on yesterday." In pre-war days, this was unfortunate; now, under war conditions, it is a real calamity. To help remedy the situation, home economists at the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics make the following suggestions:

Wash hosiery after every wearing, as perspiration and soil injure the fabrics . . . Use lukewarm suds, and do not rub the stockings; rather, squeeze them gently through the suds . . . Dry away from heat and sunlight . . . In buying, observe these rules: buy two or more pairs alike at the same time; be sure the foot size is exactly right; be sure the length is right, so that the garter fastens in the reinforced part of the hem, and use much care in putting on and taking off the stockings, so they may not be snagged by rough nails or torn.

School children in Henderson county expect to collect 800,000 pounds of salvage material this month.

The Michigan State Commission made a survey to discover just how fast Americans tires are wearing out, and found that the average tire was using its rubber at the rate of three and a half percent a month.

DAIRY OUTLOOK GOOD

Prices of dairy products may be expected to average higher this year than in 1941, says the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. This higher average price is expected to result from sustained prices rather than from further sharp advances. Demand will be greatest and prices most favorable for manufactured products other than butter. Feed supplies in Kentucky are plentiful and the ratio of dairy product prices to feed prices is favorable.

Gayety Theater News

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Jack Oakie is a very happy man these days. Just a year ago he was thinking of giving up theatrical work, and going into business. Then came his great comic impersonation of Mussolini in "The Great Dictator," and Hollywood was again reminded that Jack is one of the world's great comic artists.

Now Oakie has one of the funniest roles of his life as a dim-witted halfback in Mark Hellinger's "Rise and Shine," 20th Century-Fox's new musical comedy.

FINGERPRINT CLASSIFIERS AND NURSING CONSULTANTS NEEDED IN CIVIL SERVICE

The United States Civil Service Commission announced today the need for additional public health nursing consultants in Federal war work. Three higher grade positions were added to the nursing consultant positions for which the Commission has been accepting applications. Salaries now range from $2,600 to $5,600 a year. Wide latitude in planning and carrying out nursing and nursing education programs is given appointees in the higher grades. There will be no written test, qualifications being judged solely from a review of the experience, education, and training of applicants.

Consultants will be appointed in the U. S. Public Health Service, Federal Security Agency, and also in the Children's Bureau, Department of Labor. Registered nurses who have completed a 4-year college course with one year's special program of approved study in public health nursing, graduated from an accredited school of nursing with a daily average of 100 or more bed patients, and had general public health nursing supervisory experience, may apply. Additional credit is given for the completion of certain college courses and for appropriate experience as instructor, consultant, or investigator. For positions in the Children's Bureau, additional progressive experience in specialized fields of maternal or child health is required for the top grade; and may be substituted for a part of the general experience prescribed for the other grades.

The Commission announced also that positions of Assistant Fingerprint Classifier, $1,620 a year, will be filled in the Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, Washington, D. C., and possibly in the War Department and other agencies in Washington. Applicants must have been instructed in the Henry system of fingerprint classification and have had at least 3 months of experience in classifying, searching, and filing fingerprints under the Henry system. Proof of experience must be shown. Perfect vision is necessary, because of the severe eyestrain involved. A pratical test will be given on the identification of basic fingerprint patterns and classification of basic fingerprint patterns and classification under the Henry system.

For both of these positions no age limits have been set. Applications will be accepted until the needs of the service have been met, and must be filed with the Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

The Commission has also announced closing dates for the receipt of applications for Home Economist, any specialized field, effective April 30.

Full information as to the requirements for these examinations, and application forms, may be obtained from the Secretary of the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city which has a post office of the first or second-class, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

TENANTS PLAN TO HAVE BIG GARDENS

Signing up in the live-at-home program, eight tenants families on the farm of B. P. Bale in Green county will grow four and a half acres of gardens. They already have 1,300 pounds of cured pork and 87 gallons of sorghum molasses and honey. Last fall and summer they canned 2,525 quarts of vegetables and other foods and stored potatoes, cabbage, pumpkins, squash and beans. County Agent John H. Ewing, Jr., also noted that Mr. Bale's tenants collected more than 5,000 pounds of iron, rubber, paper, rags and other salvage.

Bell county farmers bought 3,000 bags of certified seed potatoes, despite their costing $1 more a bag than they did last year.

HEBRON HOMEMAKERS

The Hebron meeting of the Hebron Homemakers was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Wohrley on April 8, beginning at 10:30 a. m. War Time. Everyone present joined in singing the first and last verse of "America" and repeated the "Collect."

The minutes of the last meeting was read and approved, also the Treasurer's report. We were very happy to welcome back to the club Mrs. Bessie Acre, who has been quite ill.

Mrs. Sue Rogers reported on the arrangements made for transportation to and from the meetings.

Mrs. Frank Wohrley also reported that the pillow cases the club had decided on were priced higher than what we had planned to pay, so the club accepted Mrs. Wohrley's suggestion of a white candlewick bedspread instead of the pillowcases.

Mrs. Stella Nichols explained the means of selling the chances. The Hebron school printed the raffle papers gratis.

The meeting was turned over to the Foods leaders, Stella Nichols and Hilda Hogan, who is serving in the absence of Marietta Garnett. Mrs. Nichols gave an interest review of the Foods meeting at Burlington. Mrs. Hogan gave the lesson on "Meals for Semi-Invalids and Convalescents."

The roll call "What makes my vegetable garden worth more than it costs" was answered by 20 members. We were glad to welcome Mrs. Marie Beacom as a new member. Mrs. Mattie Grant was our visitor for the day.

The meeting adjourned for a delicious lunch.

Mrs. Moore explained the 4-H Mobilization Week.

The members chose as their subjects they would like to study in the variety program, Food Preservation, Clothing Remodeling and Repair of Electrical Equipment.

The meeting adjourned after a very pleasant day.

Kathrine Peel, Sec'y.

BULLITTSVILLE HOMEMAKERS

The April meeting of the Bullittsville Homemakers was held at the home of Mrs. Jonas Stevens, with Mrs. Wm. Hill, Mrs. Anna Boone, Mrs. Huey Aylor and Mrs. Albert Willis assisting hostesses.

The meeting was opened by singing "God Bless America" and the salute to the flag.

Mrs. Moore told the club about the district meeting which will be held in Paris, April 28th. Dr. Allen Stockdale will be the main speaker for the day. The theme of the meeting will be "It All Depends On Me."

Mrs. Moore also discussed the annual flower show which will be held in Florence sometime around May 1st.

Mrs. Wm. Hill project leader, gave the lesson, "Foods for Convalescents and Semi-Invalids." The lesson was given in a very interesting manner, with many helpful suggestions and ideas to anyone carying for sick in the home. The demonstration of the bed tray was interesting and made the tray look very attractive for anyone whose appetite needed tempting.

In the afternoon session Mrs. Moore talked about "Accident Hazards in the Home." Mr. Frazier called in the afternoon and discussed poultry and gardening. The discussion was very helpful and was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Jonas Stevens gave a talk on Australia, its location, government, beauty and value to the allied nations.

Mrs. M. M. Lucas invited the club to meet with her for the May session which will be held May 21.

A man in Asheville, N. C., has invented a machine which he says will pull up trolley tracks as easily as a dentist pulls a tooth. He wants to use it in the salvage for Victory campaign.

THE GARDEN

THE BUG BLITZ (1) EARLY INSECTS

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics

An important part of the nation's all-out war will be fought on the home garden front against the insects, enemies quite as ruthless and heartless as any of the Axis partners. Indeed, if the insects were let go their way for just one season, a large part of the world's people would perish from hunger. With home gardens carrying so much of the war's responsibility, as they do, all steps should be taken to keep the insects in check. And, the first of these are waiting to strike, now.

Among the first are the plant lice. Small, and of the same color as their feeding ground, they sometimes gain surprising headway almost before the gardener is at all aware they are there. The early sign is the standing still of the early cabbage; later, puckered or curled-under leaves are seen, which if examined are found to be veritably encrusted with layers of lice.

First impulse is to apply a poison, but because the lice do not eat leaves, but drain off their sap, this is no control. Rather, a material that kills by contact must be applied, but so as to hit the insect, direct. Tobacco "tea," nicotine sulfate and rotenone are such materials. There should be a complete will in 15 minutes; if not, try again.

Another insect soon to come, or perhaps already here, is the green cabbage worm. This pest is often permitted to gain too much headway because when very young it, too, is small and neutral-colored. It does give itself away, however, by its trail of eaten leaves, and, as it is a chewing insect is readily controlled by poison.

The best way to apply the control is as a dust, and an effective dust mixture is: paris green, 1 part; lead arsenate, 1 part and lime, 12 parts, all by weight. As this is distinctly poisonous it is dangerous to continue using it after the heading starts, but then a switch must be made to rotenone dust, deadly to insects but harmless to humans.

REGISTRATION JOB IS IMMENSE

IN RATIONING OF SUGAR—APPLICANTS SHOULD FILL OUT BLANKS BEFORE APPEARING AT REGISTRATION CENTER.

Applicants for sugar rationing books are urged by the Office of Price Administration to study carefully the application card, and have the correct answers when they register on May 4, 5, 6 and 7. A separate application must be made for every person for whom a ration book is issued, but only one member of each family unit is to appear at the nearest elementary school to apply for all members of the family.

This is the biggest registration job every undertaken in so limited a time in the United States. Within four days the nation, 130,000,000 men, women and children will be registered and will receive their ration books. To accomplish so big a job in that short space of time, the Office of Price Administration, which administers rationing is urging every applicant for a ration book to come prepared with accurate information to all questions which the registrars will ask when filling out the application form.

If you answer these questions promptly, OPA estimates it will only take four minutes to fill out this form. One and a quarter million school teachers will serve as registrars.

1. Applicants should come prepared with a list of the members of their families, giving the exact name of each.

2. An exact description of each member of the family unit, giving the height, weight, color of eyes, color of hair, age and sex of each one.

3. The person who registers for the family unit must state his or her exact relationship to each one.

4. It is necessary to know to the pound just how much suger is in the possession of the household. The amount of sugar will be divided by the number of people in the family units and stamps will be torn out by the registrar for all sugar in excess of two pounds per person. If more than four stamps have to be removed, issuance of the book will be withheld until later.

One—and only one—member of each family unit is to go to the elementary school nearest to the person's residence to register and to apply for ration books for the whole family, OPA emphasizes. Single people not members of a family unit, even if they board with a family, must apply for themselves.

A family unit has been defined by the Office of Price Administration as "a group of two or more individuals consisting of all persons who are living together in the same household who are related by blood or marriage."

Registration will be held from 3 p. m. to 6 p. m. E. W. T. on the first two days, and from 3:00 to 8:00 p. m. on last day of registration, according to D. H. Norris, County Superintendent of Schools.

A registration blank will be found on page eight of this issue.

PROF. ELLIOTT TO BE SPEAKER

Theiman's Lake Restocked April 26

The fine fishing lake located on Theiman Bros. farm, just north of Hebron, was restocked with 1000 pounds of Channel Cats Sunday, it was announced this week.

The fish are already beginning to bite and fishing will be at its best in the next few days, it was stated.

For an enjoyable day for the entire family, you are invited to spend the day at the lake and picnic grounds.

FARMERS SIGNUP HEMP ACREAGE

SEED SECURED FROM COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION THRU CERTIFICATION OF AAA COMMITTEE.

Four Boone County farmers have signed-up to grow hemp for seed in 1942, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. They are J. C. Acree, East Bend Bottoms, 18 acres; Chas. White, Petersburg, 2 acres; Vaughn Hempfling, Constance, 8 acres; W. L. H. Baker and Doolin, Big Bone 4½ acres.

There are a number of other farmers planning to grow hemp but have not signed their applications for seed forms at the County office. The seed is secured from the Commodity Credit Corporation through certification by the County AAA Committee. The seed costs $13.00 per bushel with the grower signing a contract to sell all seed back to the Government at $8.00 per bushel. A Narcotic Permit is secured before planting. The cost of this permit is $2.00.

Growers expecting to grow hemp this year should file their application immediately as the crop should be planted as soon as possible.

Hubbard G. Buckner

Hubbard G. Buckner, 85, passed away Monday morning at his home 30 Comomnwealth Ave., Erlanger, after a short illness. His remains were removed to the Taliaferro funeral home for preparation.

TOBACCO BEDS ARE DESTROYED

BY CUT WORMS, ACCORDING TO REPORTS FROM MANY FARMERS—POISON BAIT USED TO DESTROY PESTS.

Many farmers are reporting during the past few days that cut worms are destroying large portions of their plant beds. Many farmers have resowed some of their beds, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

The recommended method to destroy cutworms is poison bait. The treatment is as follows:

Use 1 part of paris green and 50 parts wheat bran mixed with enough water to make a fairly thick mash. Scatter thinly over the bed late in the afternoon. This treatment should be repeated at least twice, at intervals of 3 days, for complete control.

The largest number of farmers on record are treating beds to destroy leaf disease infections. The Bluestone lime treatment should be applied as soon as possible after the plants come up and again in ten days. The instructions on this treatment are available at the county office.

ERLANGER MAN SELECTED GOV.

OF ROTARY DISTRICT AT PIKEVILLE MEETING—WILL TAKE OFFICE JULY 1—IS BAPTIST MINISTER.

An annual district convention of Rotary International was brought to a close Tuesday after delegates had nominated Rev. R. D. Martin, Erlanger, as District Governor to succeed Bert E. Willis, Richmond.

Martin's formal election will come at the international meeting in June at Toronto, Canada, and he is to take office July 1. He will appoint committees and a district secretary to succeed N. A. Chrisman, Pikeville.

Martin is a Baptist minister and Past President of the Erlanger Rotary Club. The Governorship is his first district office.

The convention opened Sunday with registration, and records show that 276 attended. A dinner and Governor's ball took place last night.

Principal speakers at the meeting were Roy J. Weaver, Pueblo, Colo., a Rotary International committeeman, and Willis.

Dramatic Club Of Florence Will Present "Cyclone Sally" May 1

The Florence High School Dramatic Club will present a three-act comedy "Cyclone Sally" at the Florence high school auditorium, on Friday night, May 1, at 8:15 p. m.

Sally is a high spirited girl who keeps them all guessing. The part is played by Mary Mantach. Jack Webster, played by Dick Stevens, intends to marry the girl with money if he can find out which one it is. Jim Jerkins (Burchel Mardis) has courted Jenny Thatcher (Marian Bradford) for twenty years, but she promises that it will be thirty more before she will accept him. Reggie Manners (John Pierce), a young Englishman has a terrible time trying to understand American jokes and Ruth Thatcher (Jean Sininger) is trying to help him. Willie Clump (Irvin Carpenter) can't remember which girl he proposed to, but he did propose to someone! Effie Vardin (Alva Mae Tupman) and Vivian Vernon (Mary Evelyn Lutes) assist in complicating things for Willie, and for the others.

Tickets are on sale and may be obtained from any member of the cast. Admission prices are for children, 17c, for adults 28c.

Miss Davenport Urges Better Care Of Clothing

Miss Iris Davenport in addressing Utopia Club members at Burlington last Thursday evening urged greater care of clothing in order to meet war needs. This care is both patriotic and economical.

Miss Davenport stated that the amount of wool going into clothing has been limited by Government order. All clothing material will be high and more scarce. Brushing of clothes, proper handling when putting on and off, moth control and many other important conservation practices were discussed. Effective moth control will save millions of dollars of clothing each year. Research work has shown that many of the commonly used moth control practices are not effective. Paradichlorobenzine (P.D.B.) has been found the best moth treatment.

1195 Register Between Ages Of 45 And 65 Years

The total number of registrants from Boone County between the ages of 45 and 65 was 1195, it was reported by C. G. Kelly, Clerk of the local Draft Board.

The estimate for Boone County was set at 1200 before the registration which was only five short of the estimated figure by the Draft Board. Selective service questionairres will follow as rapidly as time will permit.

The occupational questionnaires for the third registration have been sent out and are returning at a very rapid rate, according to Mr. Kelly.

Joel Gray of Burlington, Ky., shipped cattle to The Cincinnati Union Stock Yards today. These cattle averaged 625 pounds and topped the market at $13.50 per hundred.

Band Concert Of Combined Bands Is Well Attended

A large and appreciative audience attended the combined band concert held at the Burlington school auditorium, Tuesday night. Hebron, Florence and Burlington bands participated in the concert.

Much praise is due the music director and all members of the band for the splendid progress made during the short period in which they have had to practice, having been organized only a few months.

Those attending the concert were loud in their praise of band director and members of the band.

Proceeds from the concert will be used to purchase uniforms for members of the band.

ATTEND SUNDAY SCHOOL MAY 3RD

IS KENTUCKY GO-TO-SUNDAY-SCHOOL DAY—EVERY CITIZEN THRUOUT COUNTY URGED TO ATTEND SERVICES SUNDAY.

Next Sunday, May 3rd is Go-To-Sunday-School Day in Kentucky. This paper joins the Christian leaders of our community in inviting every citizen and visitor within this area to attend the Sunday School and Church of his choice on that day.

The Kentucky Sunday School Association, sponsor of Go-To-Sunday-School Day, reports that members of hundreds of Sunday schools and Churches throughout the State are busily engaged in an effort to reach the thousands of persons not now enrolled in any Sunday school or Church. It is believed the attendance this year will be greater than for sometime past. The experience has been that the increased attendance is more than a one-day event. Often the increased attendance continues and the organization of additional classes becomes necessary. Ministerial Associations, Clubs and Civic organizations, in many places are cooperating in the promotion of Go-To-Sunday-School Day.

Commenting on the task of the Sunday school today and the interest shown throughout the State in Go-To-Sunday-School Day, Fred T. Fowler, Field Secretary of the Kentucky Sunday School Association, remarked: "This annual observance provides opportunity for a united effort to advance the cause of Christian Education thru the Sunday school. It serves to focus state-wide attention upon the Sunday School and stresses its importance in the development of Christian character. A better world depends upon Christian teaching and living. The Sunday schools and Churches are the principal agencies through which that teaching is done. Christian leaders, everywhere, need to do all they can to increase Sunday school and Church attendance and, right now, in Kentucky, the promotion of Go-To-Sunday-School Day presents great opportunities in this direction."

Let's go to Sunday school and church next Sunday, and invite others to do likewise.

WHEAT GROWERS TO VOTE MAY 2ND

IN NATION-WIDE MARKETING QUOTA REFERENDUM—ACP OFFICE AT BURLINGTON WILL BE BOONE VOTING PLACE.

"A decision on wheat loans as well as wheat quotas will be made by growers voting in the nation-wide marketing quota referendum May 2," M. D. Royse, State AAA Chairman, says in a statement this week urging all eligible farmers to cast their ballots. The voting in Boone County will be held at the County A. C. Office and will be from 9:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. (E. W. T.) All eligible growers have been notified.

"Although the vote is on quotas only, the law provides that loans cannot be made on the 1942 crop if the wheat quotas are rejected," Royse explains. A favorable vote of two-thirds is required to make the quotas effective. "In the three years that the wheat loan program has been in operation in Kentucky, thousands of growers have benefitted directly by it," the State AAA Chairman asserts. "In addition," he says, "virtually all Kentucky farmers have benefitted indirectly from the floor which the loan program placed under wheat prices." More than a million bushels of the 1941 wheat crop were placed under loan by 2,468 Kentucky wheat farmers, Royse states. Many farmers, he adds, have realized profits of 8 cents or more per bushel by placing their wheat under loan and holding it for a better market.

The 1942 wheat quotas, if approved, will apply to all farms with as much as 15 acres of wheat except those with a normal production on the planted acreage of less than 200 bushels. All growers sharing in wheat crops to which quotas apply are eligible to vote in the referendum.

Royse estimates that approximately 12,500 Kentucky wheat farmers in 90 counties are eligible to vote on quotas.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates that wheat supplies when the 1942 crop is harvested will total nearly 1½ billion bushels. The Department estimates that this is nearly enough wheat to supply present domestic and export needs for two years.

SHEEPMEN WILL HEAR SPECIALIST

AT MEETING SCHEDULED MAY 4—DATE FOR SELLING POOLED WOOL WILL BE SET AT THIS MEETING.

G. P. Summers, Marketing Specialist, College of Agriculture, will address Boone County wool growers at their next meeting at Burlington Court Day, Monday, May 4th at 2:00 p. m. Eastern War Time. Mr. Summers will give a discussion on the wool and lamb price outlook for 1942.

The wool pool extends a hearty invitation for all wool growers in the county to list their 1942 wool crop for sale through the County Pool. Our wool growers for more than forty years have been able to sell their wool cooperatively for a substantial market advance. No contracts are signed and the buyer receives and pays the farmer in full for his wool on the day of delivery.

The date for selling the pooled clip will be set at the May 4th meeting. Mr. H. E. White, president of the pool, urges that all growers list their fleeces immediately. Buyers of pooled wool demand to know the exact number of fleeces they are purchasing before they will the highest price.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for May 3

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE, DAY OF ACCLAIM

LESSON TEXT—Mark 11:1-11; Luke 19: 41-44.

GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.—Mark 11:9.

The last week of our Lord's earthly life had come. "Normally, in fact almost universally, the last week of a man's life is of practically no significance. In many cases he is too sick to speak with any clear intelligence, and, of course, when ill, is incapable of doing any noteworthy deeds. In our Lord's life, the last week was the most important of all, and to it more space is given (in Scripture) than to any one whole year of Jesus' ministry" (Dr. Wilbur M. Smith).

The first day of that week found our Lord riding into Jerusalem in humility, and yet in royal majesty, to present Himself as Israel's King and Messiah. We find

I. The King Seeking Man's Help (Mark 11: 1-7).

How surprising that the One who made and upholds all things (Col. 1: 16, 17) should have to say, "The Lord hath need of him," in sending for a humble beast of burden. Yet therein lies a marvelous truth. He has graciously so ordered the universe that He has need of us and of our possessions. That was true in the days of His flesh, when He had voluntarily become poor for our sakes. In a somewhat different sense, but nonetheless precious, it is true today.

To be needed by anyone—to have that which can be used—is always encouraging, but to find that the Master needs us and what we have to give, is truly inspiring. Let us learn to give as readily as the owner of the colt (vv. 5, 6), and let us also learn the important lesson of unquestioning obedience taught in verse 4. "They went their way" to do what the Lord told them to do. How greaty simplified and glorified would be the lives of Christian people if they would thus obey Christ.

II. The King Receiving Man's Homage (Mark 11:8-11).

Presenting Himself as their Messiah, Jesus received the enthusiastic acclaim of His disciples and friends, who were probably joined by others who were drawn by the excitement. But the Pharisees did not join in (see Luke 19:39, 40) nor did the city, not even knowing who He was (Matt. 21:10, 11). So it is today; some love and praise Him, some hate Him, others just ignore Him. Of which class are you?

He gave Jerusalem and the nation a final opportunity to receive Him. It was not yet too late, but it was their last chance. Such a time comes in the life of everyone of us. They rejected Him. What do we do?

But let us not forget that there were those who shouted, "Hosanna," who cast their garments down before Him and waved palms of victory and joy. Thank God for their holy enthusiasm. Pray God that we may have a little more of it. We have come to the place where nobody shouts "Hosanna" or "Hallelujah" except the church choir—and they do it only in carefully modulated tones. We cheer at ball games or at a political rally, and while we surely do not want that same kind of confusion in the church, it would be quite appropriate to bring some real enthusiasm into our Christianity.

Our Lord knew that it would not be long ere the multitude would be changing their cry to "Crucify Him," for He knew their sinful hearts. So in the midst of His day of acclaim we see

III. The King Weeping Over Man's Sin (Luke 19:41-44).

In times of great joy or under unusual circumstances we are prone to think only of our own pleasure or our own need. But with Christ the need of the souls of men was never for a moment forgotten. He might well have gone on to Bethany to rest and rejoice with His friends over His triumphal entry into Jerusalem.

This constant and tenderhearted concern which Christ had for the city which hated and was soon to crucify Him; this remembrance of their need even in His brief hour of public acclaim, may well teach the church a much needed lesson. Many churches are prosperous, well cared for, and even popular. They are prone to rest back and ride the crest of the wave of popularity, forgetting the souls of men and women in need, many of whom live under the very shadow of the church. Shame on us for such callous indifference in the light of our Lord's agonized weeping—for such is the meaning of the word in Luke 19:41.

Others may observe that their city or community is hostile to the gospel, that men would rather crucify the Christ than receive Him. And so they are content to have their snug little spiritual retreat where they meet to comfort one another and to congratulate themselves on their spiritual haven. Again we say, shame on us!

FOOT TEST

N. TULCH

Foot Comfort Specialist at—

PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE

814-816 Madison, Covington

Usually the first sign of foot trouble is the running over of the heels of shoes.

In a strong healthy human foot the 26 bones are held together to form a substantial support for the weight of the body and they are held together in place by strong ligaments, tendons, and muscles. These bones are so arranged that they form four separate and natural arches.

The heel bone and ankle bone lean out of position more or less in almost every kind of foot trouble. The cause, is that ligaments, muscles and tendons which hold the heel bone and ankle bone in place, become weakened, and are not strong enough to hold these bones in their normal position.

Backaches, headaches and many bodys ill may be traced to feet. Even symptoms like those of rheumatism and arthiritis now are being banished with proper shoes. Also nervous indigestion, sleepless nights, etc.—Adv.

A Pint Of Your Blood To Save A Soldier's Life

Myron Stearns says, in a recent issue of The Reader's Digest that here is one thing that all healthy Americans can do who want to serve and do not know how: Give to your country a small portion of your blood. Plasma for transfusions must be available at the scene of battle.

In the last war the method of restoring blood to a wounded man was by direct arm to arm transfusion from another of the same blood type, a process dangerous and often impossible on the battlefield. But in the last few years medical men have worked out a new solution. It is the use of plasma, one of science's major miracles. Plasma is the yellow liquid portion of the blood left after the removal of the red blood cells.

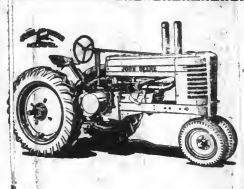
VITAMIN B-1 HELPFUL IN KEEPING UP MORALE



It takes steady, unruffled nerves to be a "human dynamo," and that's what many of us are these days what with carrying on our regular tasks as well as important defense activities.

So if you would be brave and courageous and feeling in top form, check upon your daily intake of vitamin B-1 (thiamin), for this is the vitamin according to positive nutrition tests, that is necessary for calm nerves and helps keep morale at top level.

You'll find vitamin B-1 in everyday foodstuffs, but good sources are whole grain cereals, pineapple juice, oranges, tomatoes, milk, peas, potatoes, meat and eggs.

Naturally to make vitamin B-1 perform its part in keeping the body at the top peak of fitness, your daily diet must be balanced to include the other vitamins, minerals, proteins, fats, and carbohydrates. This is a simple matter. Just follow these easy rules to better nutrition.

Drink plenty of milk; children should have one quart and adults one pint daily. Whole wheat and enriched bread and whole grain cereals are important. Two or more servings of this type bread and one of cereal should appear on your tables everyday. Include daily also one serving of citrus fruits, tomato, or pineapple juice; two or more servings of meat (fish, fowl, cheese, beans, peas, or lentils may be eaten as substitutes); 1 egg daily, if possible, otherwise 3 to 5 a week; 1 leafy raw vegetable, 1 green or yellow, and 1 potato; and; 2 or more tablespoons of butter.

USO PRAISED BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

Dr. Frank L. McVey, Kentucky State Campaign Chairman for the 1942 United Service Organizations War Fund Campaign, today released a letter from President Roosevelt and a statement from Lynn U. Stambaugh, National Commander, the American Legion, endorsing the USO Campaign.

Following is the text of the President's letter, addressed to Harper Sibley, President of USO:

March 16, 1942

The White House
Washington
Dear Mr. Sibley:

Not by machines alone will we win this war.

Unitedly, unstintingly, and without interruption or delay, we have solemnly promised to give our men a mounting tide of guns, tanks, planes and ships.

We shall keep that promise, and one promise more—that we shall preserve for them, wherever they may be, and without regard to race, creed or color, the moral and spiritual values of the democratic ideals and freedoms for which they are fighting.

Because the USO is unitedly dedicated to that high purpose, and because that high purpose is a vital part of the job of winning this war, the USO should be supported by everybody—cheerfully, generously, and now.

Verly sincerely yours,
(Signed) Franklin D. Roosevelt.

On April 8, 1942, Mr. Stambaugh made the following statement refarding the 1942 USO Campaign for additional funds:

"United Service Organization groups are carrying the recreational program to our men in service. The American Legion indorsed the fund raising campaign of the United Service Organization in 1941. Now that we are in war there is every reason to continue our indorsement, and thereby to help in bringing entertainment and relaxation to the fighting men of our Nation.

"The USO has planned a campaign to secure $32,000,000 to be raised between May 11 and July 4 of this year.

"It is my opinion that those of us who are privileged to remain at home should contribute as much as possible to every phase of the service man's welfare.

"Therefore, I am happy to join with those who indorse the 1942 USO fund raising campaign. I hope that every Legionnaire will help to make this campaign successful."

Kentucky's quota in the 1942 Campaign is $300,000. Dr. McVey said the state is being organized by county units and that most of the County Chairmen have been appointed and are now preparing the organizations for their local campaigns.

RURAL PASTORS TO MEET AT COLLEGE

The eight annual Rural Leadership Institute and Short Course for town and country pastors and others interested in country life will be held at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics April 6 to 10. The theme will be "Rural Services in This Hour."

Among the speakers will be Dr. Henry W. McLaughlin, who has appeared at previous institutes; Dr Myron C. Hopper of the College of Bible, Lexington; Dean W. S. Taylor of the University's College of Education, and a number of other prominent Kentucky pastors and laymen. Also, negotiations are under way to have on the program a missionary who recently returned from Japan.

Planning for maximum use of land for war, Washington county farmers have located 60,000 acres that may be improved by cover crops.

WRITES ON REPAIR OF MOWING MACHINE

To help farmers with their machinery problems, Prof. J. B. Kelley, head of the agricultural engineering department of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics, has written a circular dealing with the repair and adjustment of mowing machines. Many mowing machines have been used for years and need repairing and adjusting, he says. Where machines are beyond repair, it is advised that they be sold for scrap, after the good parts have been removed for repairing other machines. Prof. Kelley's circular, which gives practical information about fixing up mowing machines, can be had at county agent offices, or by writing to the college of Agriculture and Home Economics, Lexington.

Once upon a time there lived a lawyer, more interested in justice than in a fee. He is dead.

FARMERS ASKED FOR BIG HEMP ACREAGE

Growing hemp for seed, in response to war needs, should add to the incomes of a good many Kentucky farmers this year. Kentucky has been asked for at least 3,000 acres of hemp for seed, for which $8 a bushel will be paid. Yields are said to range from 10 bushels an acre up, with some farmers reporting 30 to 40 bushels, and even 50 bushels on extra good bottom land. It is not recommended that hemp be grown on land that will produce less than 50 bushels of corn to the acre.

The Commodity Credit Corporation has seed for sale, and will contract with farmers growing hemp for seed this year. Seed will be delivered to the Corporation, which will pay for it at the rate of $8 a bushel.

State and county war boards are responsible for the hemp production program. Farmers interested in growing hemp for seed, whether one or several acres, should see their county agent for further details. It is thought that a good deal of bottom land which may not have been in crops for several years might this season be used for hemp production.

KENTUCKY 4-H CLUB NEWS

"Feed a pig for defense" has been made a logan in Taylor County. Plans call for signing up at least 100 boys and girls to raise 150 or more pigs. The pigs will be sold at one big sale, and the money invested in defense bonds.

Robertson county club members by February 1 had collected 12,000 pounds of paper, to aid in the war effort. Marjorie Woodward of the Sparks club alone accounted for 2,200 pounds. Her club was given a flag, as a reward for its work.

Your Electrical Appliances and the War

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

BY JUNE 1, the manufacture of virtually all electrical appliances will have ceased for the duration. This action was taken by the War Production Board to conserve vital metals and to speed the conversion of the appliance industry to war production. Appliance manufacturers are cooperating wholeheartedly as their contribution to the all-out drive for victory.

How will the cease-production edict affect you? What can you do to assure a continuation of the necessary functions that electricity performs in your home? Here are some timely suggestions:

1. If you have appliances that are in good condition keep them that way by giving them proper care and attention. Continue to use them for essential purposes, but avoid wasteful and unnecessary use that causes needless wear.
2. If some of your appliances need repairs, have them attended to now by a competent serviceman. Often a small part or a minor adjustment will make an old appliance as good as new.
3. If other appliances have outlived their usefulness and cannot be repaired, replace them now with best-quality new ones that will give you trouble-free service for the duration. We still have a stock of new appliances to meet essential needs and we will endeavor to take care of the requirements of our customers as long as our limited supply lasts.

It has always been our policy to help our customers make the best and most economical use of their electrical service and we plan to continue this policy to the fullest extent possible. We invite you to consult us or any electrical dealer regarding your appliance maintenance and repair problems. We'll help you in every way we can. We suggest that you try to make your present appliances last for the duration, but if you need new equipment, we urge you to buy now while stocks are available and you can purchase on present favorable terms. Waiting may entail disappointment.

This Week On The Home Front

The Axis has mobilized the slave labor of Europe and Asia. America is mobilizing the free labor of a free nation. The most significant development of the week was the announcement of the national man-power mobilization to be undertaken by the new war manpower commission, under chairmanship of Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt.

Its job will be this: to make sure that manpower needed to make the weapons and planes and ships, will be available when and where it is needed—to find the proper place for everybody in the war effort, to make every citizen in a sense a soldier.

The week marked up advances in the war production drive. 100 more war plants, now 600 in all, have labor-management committees. As war production speeds up, civilian production slows down or stops. At the same time, people on the "Home Front" cease enjoying a lot of things, and adjust their lives to the war's grim regime.

Farmers will soon have to return to the old-fashioned steel wheel and steel tired wagon. Except for combine harvester-threshers, making of farm equipment using rubber tires was discontinued Thursday. Production of rubber tired combine tires stops July 31.

If you do not need it for direct war work on work "essential to the public welfare" you may have difficulty getting new phone service this year. The WPB has ordered drastic restrictions on expansions of telephone service. As a result of the order, it is estimated that 200,000 applications for residential service will be denied. Orders will save 53,000 tons of lead, 35,000 tons of iron and steel, 54,000 tons of copper, 6,500 tons of zinc and 1,890 tons of crude rubber.

* * *

Manufacture of fancy fishing tackle is just about out for the duration but WPB just couldn't go so far as to ban steel for the fish hook. No more metal, cork and plastics for tackle after May 31, and the hooks can be made at the rate of only 50 percent of production until September 1. George Moore, chief of the WPB sporting goods unit, (who must have fished, sometime, somewhere) explained.

* * *

The radio industry began "signing off" at midnight April 22, when 30 of 55 companies ceased civilian radio production and prepared to convert to 100 percent war production. At the same time, two large companies, RCA and Philco shrunk production 80 percent. These 32 companies now have war contracts totaling $700,000,000. The remaining companies, are given from one to six weeks to taper off.

* * *

Need for sand bags, camouflage cloth and food and agricultural bags caused the War Production Board to order cotton mills to convert looms from civilian fabric making to work on these fabrics. Cotton clothing and household fabrics of nearly all kinds will be sacrificed. Burlap supply from India is a war loss, hence the serious shortage of bag materials.

* * *

At the same time practically every product of the cotton goods industry is ordered under an OPA price ceiling Monday. The new order covers manufacturers' prices chiefly. Order covers blankets, towels, bedspreads, ginghams, table cloths and napkins, etc. Here's the reason: between July 1, 1941 and March 27, 1942, prices of 49 types of cotton goods were uped 21 percent. Prices will be pushed back to July 21 to August 15 period in 1941.

Supply of motor trucks is dwindling too fast. Three new Office of Defense Transportation orders are directed to common carriers, contract truck operators and private carriers, and are aimed to prevent overloading, under-loading, empty return trips. The truck companies are encouraged to pool shipments, arrange for joint terminals, operate joint pickup and delivery service, split the costs.

SOCIAL SECURITY NOTES

Do you want to receive training for a job in a war plant, making munitions or serving your country in some other useful capacity? The Covington field office of the Social Security Board offers a free booklet entitled "How to Get Free Training for Defense Jobs." Copies may be obtaind by writing to Frank B. Decker, Jr., manager, Social Security Board field office, Post Office Building, Covington.

* * *

There are no age limits for coverage under the old-age and survivors insurance program, which is part of the social security plan. Workers over 65, as well as young folks under voting age, must have social security account numbers and their wages are subject to old-age insurance taxes, if they are employed in commerce or industry. Keep this in mind if you take a new job, and obtain your social security account card from the Covington field office of the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance. Your local postmaster will give you an application and tell you where to send it.

* * *

Women who work this year in canning factories and preserving establishments must have social security account cards. Work of this kind is covered by the Social Security Act. If you are going to work in any food preserving plant you may get your social security card by applying to Frank B. Decker, Jr., manager, Covington field office, Social Security Board. The office is in the Post Office Building.

* * *

After-school and Saturday work in stores and other business houses is covered by the Social Security Act, regardless of the age of the worker. Boys who deliver groceries, girls who work as clerks are examples of part-time employees whose services are covered by the Social Security Act. All such workers must have account numbers. These may be obtained in this area by applying to Frank B. Decker, Jr., manager, social security office, Post Office Building, Covington.

* * *

Married women who are returning to work in war employment may obtain new social security cards bearing their married names, if their original cards were issued in the maiden names of such individuals. The new card will bear the married name but will have the same number as the original card. Applications for cards showing change of name may be obtained by the applicant from the field office of the Social Security Board. The office is in the Post Office Building in Covington. Address your requests to the manager of the office, Frank B. Decker, Jr.

* * *

You may get a record showing how much money is now credited to your social security account. As this record is in the basis of future benefits you or your survivors may receive in years to come, it is important that you make sure you have received all the credits to which you are entitled under this plan. Post cards which are used to request these wage statements may be obtained by writing to or calling Frank B. Decker, Jr., manager, social security office, in Covington. The only charge for your individual report is one cent for postage on the card which Mr. Decker will supply.

SCOUTS WILL BE ASKED TO SERVE AS EMERGENCY CREWS IN CROP WORK

Cleveland, Ohio—Troops of Boy Scouts will be asked to serve as emergency crews wherever needed this summer to help save crops, according to E. L. Keenan, regional representative of the United States Employment Service for Michigan, Ohio and Kentucky.

"Farms, as well as industry, are facing the biggest labor demand in history," Keenan says. "Many farm boys have been called into the armed forces while many others have taken jobs in wartime industries. At the same time, the President has called for increased food production in the 'Food for Victory' campaign. Consequently, farmers need more help than ever before.

"The Employment Service in Ohio,, Michigan and Kentucky plans to recruit every available farm worker. We have set up a regional farm placement service under the direction of William V. Allen, a practical farmer, and we are making every effort to meet the demand of farmers for help. But, we want to be prepared for situations where extreme hot weather may bring sudden ripening of tomatoes and fruits. Here's where the Boy Scouts can perform yeoman service. They can hold themselves in readiness to serve as emergency pickers.

"The Boy Scouts have established a tradition of service of the highest order. During the last war, they guarded water supplies, telegraph lines and other property. In the influenza campaign of 1918 the work of the scout organization was equaled by their effective national campaign for food growing. And all this was eclipsed by the work of the Boy Scouts in selling Liberty Bonds, $355,000,000 in Liberty Loan subscriptions being collected by the Scouts.

"The Boy Scouts have a definite place in Democracy's scheme of things, for if the Nazi threat succeeds, the Boy Scout movement will give way to a Hitler youth movement.

"We know the Boy Scouts will be just as eager to serve in whatever manner they can in this war, and that they will stand ready to do their part, wherever needed in the 'Food for Victory' drive."

In a "war conservation contest," club members in Madison county have sold junk materials for almost $500, since the first of the year. Lively competition exists among 10 clubs, in collecting rubber, paper, rags, metal and other scrap materials.

In Livingston county, 450 to 500 school children were fed hot school lunches during the winter.

NAVY OFFERS COMMISSIONS

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES MAY QUALIFY AS AVIATION OFFICERS—GRADUATES MAY APPLY FOR TRAINING.

A new plan of recruiting under which high school graduates may qualify to become avaition officers with the rank of Ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve, or Second Lieutenant in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, has been approved by the Navy Department.

It marks the first time the Navy has offered young men with only a secondary education the opportunity to apply for flight training leading to commissioned officer status.

Recruiting will be begun in every section of the United States on Monday, April 27, and candidates between their 18th and 27th birthdays who have graduated from high school may apply.

Recruiting officials said the new plan will not interfere in any way with the Class V-1 program under which college students may enlist now to become aviation, deck or engineering officers and continue their education, at least until the end of the second calendar year.

Both the recruiting and training of the candidates will be carried out under Class V-5, heretofore limited to men with not less than two years' college credits.

"The Navy needs men to fly the finest, the fastest, the most powerful warplanes in the world—the Navy planes that strike first, strike hardest wherever the foe is found," a Navy Department spokesman said. "The Navy needs them urgently—now—today. It wants men of officer calibre; men who are physically fit and mentally alert; men trained to act, to command, to be leaders.

"Here's a challenge to every young American of courage and daring who is burning to fight for his country! A challenge to every man who is itching to see action against the enemy in the air—in America's first line of attack! It's youth's first opportunity to be commissioned as a flying officer of the Navy."

Qualified candidates are to be sent to one of the new aviation induction centers—located at the Universities of Iowa, Georgia, North Carolina and at St. Mary's College, California—for three to four months of training devoted primarily to "toughening" them for their place in the Navy.

Following this will come three months of primary flight training at a Naval Reserve Aviation Base. Successfully completing this second phase of their Navy education, the candidates will be sent on to the great Naval Air Station at either Pensacola, Florida, or Corpus Christi, Texas, for approximately three months of advanced flight training.

Commissions as Ensigns in the U. S. Naval Reserve or Second Lieutenants in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve await the candidates who successfully complete the course and win their "Navy Wings of Gold."

Throughout the entire training period candidates will be paid in accordance with their ratings. Aviation Cadets are paid $75 a month, plus subsistence and uniforms. Upon completion of training and appointment as Ensign in the Naval Reserve or Second Lieutenant in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve they will receive $205 a month, plus allowances.

High school graduates desiring to enroll in Class V-5 may obtain additional information at any Navy Recruiting Station.

CHIROPRACTIC

SPINAL ADJUSTMENTS RESTORES HEALTH

A normal flow of nerve energy keeps a person in good health. At the first sign of nervousness or general weakness you should have a Spinal examination by a competent Chiropractor, and serious illness may be prevented.

If you are sick take Chiropractic adjustments regularly and be restored to good health.

CONSTANCE 4-H NOTES

The Constance 4-H Club held its last meeting of the school year, April 22nd. We began our meeting by repeating the Club Pledge and the Pledge to the Flag.

We had a very interesting program about the "4-H Club and a Strong America" planned by Cecil Kenyon. The talks were: "Are You a Back Number," by Carolyn Dolwick; "Personality, Brawn, and Good Looks" by Virginia McGlasson; "How Can We Get a Balanced Diet?" by Earl Washmuth. We also played a game led by Mr. Ingler. Mrs. O. Fugate attended our meeting.

Nearly all of the members have started their projects and will try to finish them in time to enter them in the 4-H Fair.

Carolyn Dolwick, Reporter.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank each member of the Union Fire Department, which consisted of men, women and Boy Scouts, for their prompt and heoric effort in extinguishing fire in our home; the Florence Fire Department in six minutes after being called was in the yard; the highway patrol who cleared the road for the run; last, but not least Kirtley McWethy and Austin Gschwind for leaving their work to repair the roof. Read last two lines in Prov. 27-10. 1t-p

James A. and Sara C. Huey

BURLINGTON HOMEMAKERS

The regular meeting of the Burlington Homemakers will be held at the courthouse on May 7. It will be an all-day meeting opening at 10:30.

All women in the community are invited to the "Homemakers." The meetings are so diversified one is sure to find something of interest each time.

Gardens now are uppermost in one's thoughts—new methods and new ideas for these will be presented. "Vitamins for Victory" implies that one should learn all possible about these vitamins.

Come out, and by your presence, help others.

Henry county farmers will plant about 8,000 acres to hybrid corn, or about 55 percent of the county's corn acreage.

Mrs. Maggie Glacken returned to her home after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Elmer Carpenter and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wood spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Noll, of Gallatin County.

FLORENCE HOMEMAKERS

The Florence Homemakers Club had a very pleasant and profitable meeting on Friday, April 17th, though the attendance was rather small. The lesson was well given and the invalid's tray, arranged by Mrs. Frances Berkshire would have tempted anyone's appetite.

The luncheon, as usual, was excellent. We want to congratulate our member, Mrs. Grant Maddox on her new boy and have arranged for a gift for him. We had as our guest our charming and gracious County President, Mrs. Alan Gaines of Walton, who said many nice things to us and complimented us on the progressive spirit of our club. We hope she will meet with us as often as possible.

Mrs. Moore reminded us that it was time to be planning for our summer meetings in July and August.

Mr. Frazier, the Assistant County Agent, gave some valuable instruction on "Gardening and Poultry Raising." It seems that the best way to prevent any disease among chickens is to keep the poultry house clean.

We are arranging for the Annual Flower Show at the school lunch room on Saturday, May 2nd, at 1:00 p. m. (E. W. T.) Mr. Elliott from the Experiment Station at Lexington will speak. Everybody invited to come and bring flowers for display. Tulips, blooming shrubs, pot plants or "what have you" will be on display.

Mabel G. Sayre, Reporter.

RABBIT HASH

Services were held at the Baptist Church, Sunday.

We are sorry to hear of the illness of R. T. Stephens, J. E. Hodges and Thard Ryle. We wish for them a speedy recovery.

Gayety Theater News

TONIGHT and FRIDAY

Richard Lane, who plays the book published in Universal's newest Abbot and Castello starrer, "Ride 'Em Cowboy," now at the Gayety theatre is the owner of Hollywood's most photographed face.

In four years that elapsed after he abandoned the Broadway stage for motion pictures, he appeared in 98 films, or an average of practically 25 annually.

* * *

SATURDAY

A new star is expected to emerge from the grim proceedings in "The Wolf Man," Universal horror drama opening Saturday at the Gayety Theatre.

Marked for immediate stardom, according to advance word, is Lon Chaney, sinister title player in the eerie offering.

Claude Rains, Warren William, Ralph Bellamy, Patric Knowles, Bela Lugosi, Maria Ouspenskaya and Evelyn Ankers are well-konwn players who appear in the film, directed by George Waggner.

* * *

SUNDAY and MONDAY

Appearing in roles especially written for them, Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn co-star in "Woman of the Year," which opens Sunday at the Gayety Theatre.

This is their first co-starring picture, and Miss Hepburn's initial film since "The Philadelphia Story." Tracy appears as a hard-boiled New York sport writer and Miss Hepburn is a sophisticated international columnist on the staff of the same daily. The story was written by Ring Lardner, Jr. and Michael Kanin, met the favor of Miss Hepburn, and was purchased by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, who produced "The Philadelphia Story."

TUESDAY
DOUBLE FEATURE

"The Man Who Returned To Life," Columbia's strange and powerfully exciting drama of a man who came back from the grave, after having been declared legally dead, will have its first local showing on Tuesday at the Gayety Theatre. Hailed as one of the season's top thrillers, the new film features John Howard in the leading role.

also

Charles Barton, the shortest director in Hollywood, is also the busiest. During the past year, Barton has directed six pictures, most notable of which is Columbia's "Sing For Your Supper," which features Jinx Falkenburg and Charles Buddy Rogers at the Gayety Theatre. On the strength of this picture, Barton has received offers from other major studios, but continues at Columbia.

WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY and FRIDAY
May 6-7-8

"Benjamin Blake," the brilliant novel by Edison Marshall which was a Literery Guild selection last year has been made into a film. Entitled "Son of Fury," the story of Benjamin Blake, the film stars Tyrone Power and is playing at the Gayety Theatre.

The publishers of the book, sold 200,000 copise for the first printing. A tale of adventure, romance and action, the novel—and the picture—is laid in 18th Century England.

VERONA

The parents of the Verona school are reminded of the annual May Day on Friday, May 1st. There will be a display of school work and contests of all kinds on the school ground.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Stewart, of Patriot, Ind., have been visiting their sisters, Mrs. Arch Noel and Mrs. J. B. Lamn and families.

Rev. A. K. Johnson and wife and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hamilton spent Sunday at the Hunt home. Mrs. Hunt remains ill.

Miss Irene Hudson has returned from Christ Hospital to the home of her sister Mrs. Mattie Whitson.

John Boyer and daughter Betty Lou spent Monday in Worthville and Campbellsburg.

School was dismissed Monday on account of registration at Walton.

The community sympathizes with William Scroggin in the loss of his father.

The Sunbeams will meet at the Church, Saturday afternoon.

WON'T WORRY OVER SUGAR

The Lawrence King family in Letcher county won't worry over sugar rationing, since there are 47 hives of bees on the farm. Also the production of potatoes and vegetables is being doubled, Mr. King told County Agent Hugh Hurst, adding that he expected to produce almost all of his family living right on the farm. A new storage house will hold an additional 1,000 cans of vegetables, fruits, meats and other foods.

WARNING ISSUED POULTRYMEN

AGAINST DISEASE—COCCIDIOSIS IS CAUSING GREATEST LOSS TO GROWING BIRD AND PROFITABLE WINTER LAYERS.

Boone County poultrymen are increasing the number of chickens raised this spring in coopetation with our Government's Victory Program request, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The largest number of young chickens on record will probably be raised. Disease is the greatest hazard factor in production and poultrymen are warned to be on the lookout for disease trouble.

Coccidiosis is the disease causing greatest losses both to the growing bird and profitable winter layers. Poultrymen are already reporting trouble. The recommendations are to prevent coccidiosis if possible; recognize it quickly and control it if it appears.

The organisms causing coccidiosis are passed in the droppings and must be in the presence of warm air and moisture for a day or more to become dangerous. They enter the bird with feed and water from contaminated feeders, water founts floors and ground and are carried into the intestinal tract where they thrive, multiply and cause severe damage. There may or may not be bloody droppings. Affected birds become pale, drowsy, weak and dull quickly. Death losses may be high in broods under 10-12 weeks of age.

Warning: The organisms causing coccidiosis and other chick diseases may be carried long distances on shoes, or by birds, flies, rats, and mice. Don't visit other brooder houses or poultry flocks and don't permit visitors in yours.

Treatment of sick birds is not satisfactory but many affected birds recover and outbreaks of the disease can be checked quickly if the birds are prevented from picking up additional supplies of the infective organism. Confine the birds to the house and avoid dampness. Don't spray or scrub but dry clean the house and scrub and scald the feeders and founts each day for 8 or 10 days. Put down clean litter after each cleaning and burn the soiled litter or take it to a part of the farm never used by poultry.

Additional timely poultry pointers are included below:

The demand for fresh eggs will be good throughout the coming summer. Flock owners should therefore keep laying hens at least two months longer than usual and maintain high average production by (1) continuing the feeding of a good laying mash; (2) keeping the flock supplied with clean, fresh water at all times; (3) controlling lice and mites and (4) culling all hens that have quit laying.

Too many farm flock owners do not know how to cull for production but all can and should learn. Extension Circular No. 330 is supplied without cost by your County Agent or the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. Save valuable feed and increase your profits by keeping only the laying hens.

Warm weather is here and millions of eggs needed to feed our soldiers, sailors, workers and allies will spoil unless farmers give them better care than they have in past summers. It is our patriotic duty to prevent this loss. Sell all roosters as soon as the hatching season is over. Gather the eggs more often and hold them in the coolest place available until they are old.

Rapid fathering and quick growth are inherited. Don't eat or sell all the better cockerels and save the culls for next year's breeders. The time to begin selecting breeding males is before they reach frying size. Select and mark at least three times the number you expect to use.

A MOTHER'S PRAYER

The dreaded time is near, Lord
When our boy will go,
Out to join the Army,
Where, we do not know.
Keep thine eyes upon him,
Stay close by his side,
And when things seem darkest,
Lord, with him abide.

Guard and guide his footsteps
Lord, from day to day
Should ever he be tempted,
Deliver him, I pray.
Preserve him from all evil,
Keep him from despair,
And when he calls upon You
Tell him You are there.

In the hour of trial
Jesus, hear my plea,
'Tis the greatest sorrow
That ever came to me;
Help me bear it bravely
When the time does come
Though they take him from me
Bring him safely home.

Writen by Mrs. T. S. Aylor of Ludlow, whose son Melvyn is now serving in the Air Corps and is stationed at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri.

IDLEWILD

The Bullittsburg W. M. U. ladies met recently and packed boxes of cookies and candy and sent to those of our community who have gone into some branch of war service.

HOME ECONOMICS DIVISION OF FLORENCE 4-H CLUB HOLD FOURTH MEETING

The fourth meeting of the Florence 4-H club was called to order by the president April 13. The roll call and minutes of the last meeting were read. Mrs. Moore discussed plans for "Rally Day" and several are planning to take part.

Reports of project captains were given. Each project was progressing nicely.

We had 45 members and three leaders at the meeting.

The meeting adjourned by repeating the club pledge.

Bernice Sebree, Reporter.

Why we are collecting scrap for war: All the metal needed to make a .30 cal. machine gun would be obtained from the following collection—a pair of roller skates, two door hinges, one door lock, one old spade, one trash burner, one trash basket.

POSTED

All persons are hereby notified that the lands of the following are posted against hunting, and trespassing. Violators of this notice are subject to fines:

FIRE DESTROYS WALTON STORE

LOSS ESTIMATED AT $10,000—WAS ONE OF WALTON'S LARGEST STORES—RESIDENCE DESTROYED.

Fire destroyed the one-story frame general store and residence of D. L. Lusby, Walton, last Friday with an estimated damage of $10,000, according to reports received here.

The fire apparently broke out in the store and spread to the living quarters adjoining the store, occupied by Mr. Lusby, his wife and their son. Origin of the blaze was unknown.

The store was one of Walton's most modern general stores, and was completely stocked. Mr. Lusby had just received $600 worth of merchandise, which was completely destroyed.

The store was located on the Dixie Highway at the north end of the city.

Although Walton and Florence Fire Departments fought the blaze continuously, their efforts were futile, due to headway gained by the flames. However, their efforts checked the flames from spreading to other buildings.

According to reports the loss was only partially covered by insurance.

Florence Youth To Receive Academic Honors June 5th

William H. Middendorf, Florence, is slated to receive academic honors at the University of Cincinnati Evening College commencement exercises on June 5, it was announced today by Dean Norman P. Auburn.

Mr. Middendorf, who resides at 1048 Dixie Highway, is a candidate for a certificate in electrical engineering. When he receives his disploma he will have culminated five years of almost daily travel between Florence and the U. C. campus.

He began his college work shortly after graduation from the Covington Latin School in 1937.

At present Mr. Middendorf is an engineer with the Wadsworth Electrical Mfg. Co., Covington. When he completes his second semester classes in physics and alternating current machinery he will be eligible for graduation.

Will Of W. H. Rouse Probated Monday

The will of the late W. H. Reuse Camp Ernst road was probated in Judge Riddell's court Monday, leaving all his real and personal property to his wife, Mrs. Artie V. Rouse.

His wife was also named executrix of the estate to serve without bond.

USE OF SUGAR CARD EXPLAINED

APPLICATIONS MAY BE MADE TO RATIONING BOARD FOR PERMIT TO PURCHASE SUGAR FOR CANNING PURPOSES.

Numerous questions will arise relative to the use of the sugar cards that have been issued this week, according to D. H. Norris, Superintendent of Schools and Chairman of the Rationing Registration. One of the first questions is: Should I tear out a stamp and take it to the store to buy sugar? The answer is no. You must take the War Rationing book to the store, where the stamp must be torn out in the presence of the merchant.

Another important question is the time schedule set up for the different stamps. The schedule set up at present is as follows: Stamp No. entitles the holder to one pound of sugar if used between May 5 and May 16, 1942. Stamp No. 2 must be used between May 17 and May 30; stamp No. 3 between May 31 and June 15; stamp No. 4 between June 16 and June 27th.

A new schedule will be made before the end of the last rationing period listed above. Stamps not used at the proper time are void.

Application may be made to the local rationing board for a permit to purchase sugar for canning. The board meets each Monday.

Former Florence Man Named Colonel In United States Army

Washington, D. C.—The promotion of Lt. Col. John M. Lentz, Florence, Ky., to Colonel was announced today at the Headquarters of Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, Commanding General of the Army Ground Forces. Col. Lentz is now serving in the training division of the A. G. F.

Previous to the Army reorganization, March 9, 1942, which placed General McNair in charge of the training of the Nation's new Army, Col. Lentz served in various Field Artillery organizations.

Born in Florence, January 30, 1896 he graduated from Gettysburg College in 1917 before entering the military service.

His military education consists of graduation from the Command and General Staff School, and the Army War College. He was appointed Colonel April, 9, 1942.

High Schools To Exchange Plays

The Boone County Defense Committee has asked that all class plays be repeated and that the proceeds be turned over to the local Defense Boards with the exception of ten percent which will be given to the county defense committee.

The Burlington class play, "Youth Saves the Day," will be given at Hebron High School, Thursday, May 14, at nine o'clock E. W. T. while the Hebron group will give "Little Women" at the Burlington auditorium, Friday evening, May 15th at nine o'clock. Tickets will be on sale at the two high schools.

Hemp Planting Meeting Set Friday

Boone County's first hemp planting demonstration will be held on this Friday, May 8th, at 1:30 p. m. (Eastern War Time), according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The hemp will be planted for seed in cooperation with the Government's program to meet war emergency needs.

The meeting will be held at the farm of Hugh Stephens, two miles south of Rabbit Hash, across the road from the East Bend Church. All farmers who are interested in hemp seed production are urged to attend. Hemp is a new crop for Boone County and its importance has been greatly increased by the war.

Local Boy Leaves For Naval Training Station

Everett Cress, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Cress, of Burlington, left Saturday morning for Great Lakes, Ill., training station, where he enlisted in the U. S. Naval Construction Reserve, a special branch of the service.

Everett enlisted with the Navy several weeks ago at the U. S. Naval Recruiting office, Covington, but was not called for service until Saturday. He will enter the service with a rating of First Class Petty Officer.

FLOWER SHOW HELD MAY 2ND

PROF. N. R. ELLIOTT AND MRS. HOLTON JUDGE EXHIBITS—FIFTY-FIVE ENTRIES MADE FROM SIX COMMUNITIES.

The second annual Flower Show sponsored by Boone County Homemakers' clubs was held in the lunch room at the Florence school on Saturday, May 2nd. Registration began at 1:30 E. W. T. Prof. N. R. Elliott, Landscape Architect from the University of Kentucky, spoke to the group on selection and care of bulbs, and answered questions concerning home landscaping.

Mrs. George Morith headed the committee of local Homemakers who so ably arranged for the show and carried it through. Members of the committee were: Publicity, Mrs. Sarah Markesbery, assisted by community club chairmen; Registration, Mrs. Joe Berkshire, Mrs. Mabel Sayre; Ribbons, Mrs. H. R. Barnett; Exhibits, Mrs. Girtie Fossett, Mrs. Ann Conner.

While Mr. Elliott and Mrs. Holton judged the exhibits, musical selections were presented by Mrs. Robert Clore, Burlington, piano, and Mrs. W. S. Worthington, Florence, violin, accompanied at piano by Mrs. W. R. Stith, Florence. The entire group sang together "My Old Kentucky Home," "America the Beautiful," and request numbers.

Mr. Elliott spoke briefly concerning a reclassification for next year's show, and cautioned tulip exhibitors to observe foliage burns when selecting their entries. He said tulip bulbs should be set six inches under ground, that is top of bulb, that deep; otherwise they will come through early and bloom too early or be injured by freezes. He said aphids are harming some tulips and these should be sprayed with Black Leaf 40.

When tulips have finished blooming, grass and weeds should be pulled away from them, until the leaves have died down. Do not cut these leaves away, these keep bulbs healthy. In late fall or early winter feed the bulb with manure. Commercial fertilizer is not recommended for this use.

Bulbs need lifting after 3 or 4 years. After leaves have died down in July, lift the bulb clump carefully—do not cut them. Leave the soil which does not fall away, and place the lump in a safe place to dray out. After 30 days divide those bulbs which snap off easily. Put parent bulb, and any that cling back in old spot and fertilize with bone meal. Set other bulbs in garden, or good soil where they may be cultivated for a year.

Tulip beds are more effective when one color is set 8 inches apart. These beds should be where they get the protection of shrubbery or buildings so that wind does not whip them. Buy No. 1 bulbs. They may cost a few cents more but will give better results.

Mr. Elliott urged that Boone County flower lovers raise Gladiolous and plan a show for them. In answer to questions concerning roses, he stated that "there is a variety of roses to suit each person's use; size up your location, determine how much time you have to tend them then choose accordingly." Those for persons who cannot care for them would be the shrub roses and Polyanthus Baby Ramblers. For persons who can eare for them, there are roses suitable for shrub borders (Hybred Perpetuals) beds, or climbing locations.

Crab Grass—Sow bluegrass early do not cut grass closely, and do not water it. Crab grass will die out of own accord.

Winners of the show are listed below:

Clara Butt—Mrs. Robert Clore, Burlington; Mrs. George Morith, Florence; Mrs. George Kopman, Florence.

Farncombe Sanders—Mrs. Geo. Morith, Florence.

Pride of Haarlem—Mrs. George Morith, Florence; Mrs. Oliver Kottmyer, Constance.

Any Other Variety—Mrs. Geo. Morith, Florence (Crystal White); Marlene Morith, Florence (Dido).

Lilac—Mrs. Joe Berkshire, Florence; Mrs. eJssie Martin, Florence.

Collection of Shrubs—Mrs. Joe Berkshire, Florence; Mrs. Mabel Sayre, Florence.

Arrangement Flowering Shrubs—Mrs. Chas. Clore, Hebron.

Miniature Arrangement — Mrs. Geo. Morith, Florence; Mrs. Hazel Kelly, Burlington; Mrs. Lillian Schram, Florence.

Table Arrangements—Mrs. Chas. Clore, Hebron; Mrs. Geo. Morith, Florence; Mrs. Courtney Kelly, Burlington.

Potted Plants—Miss Kit McHenry, Florence; Mrs. Jake Cleek, New Haven; 3rd Grade Florence School.

Champion tulips (Pride of Harrlem)—Mrs. Geo. Morith.

Champion Arrangement — Mrs. Chas. Clore.

There were fifty-five entries made by persons from Burlington, Florence, Hebron, Walton, Constance and New Haven.

Ribbons were given and a Narcissus Milford Haven bulb will be presented to each blue ribbon holder, 3 to each championship ribbon holder, when the bulbs are ordered this fall. These bulbs were given to the committee by the J. R. McLean Co., Elma, Washington, who have filled the orders made by Boone County Homemakers the last two years.

It is regrettable that many persons seem to think the Homemakers have a monoply on the show because they are sponsoring the event. It takes flowers to make a show. Anyone who loves flowers should plan now to participate next year, according to the county committee, Mrs. Garnett Tolin, Mrs. Jake Cleek, Mrs. Chas. Engle, Mrs. John Vest, Mrs. J. C. Layne, and Mrs. Mary S. Moore, Acting Home Demonstration Agent.

Formerly A Member, Angry At Congress For Failure To Help

Alma, Ga., May 2—The Alma Times, weekly newspaper edited by former Congressman Braswell Deen, reduced its size to tabloid form with this week's issue because of "loss of advertising due to the far and diminishing revenue from all other sources."

In a front page editorial, Deen wrote:

"Since newspapers of the country are asked to publish thousands of articles and items which are absolutely necessary and indispensable to the successful prosecution and winning of this war, it does look like some of the fellows in Washington could see our job presses standing idle, our cylinder presses almost rusting and our help wondering if they will be paid at the end of the week and convince some of the 'under secretaries' to permit the newspapers to print some of the thousands and even millions of forms being printed by the United States Government Printing Office."

Boone County Invited To Join In "The Town Meeting For War"

The Civilian Defense organization in Boone County today was invited to join in a nation-wide observance during May of the inaugauration of "The Town Meeting for War" as an expression of all-out participation in the total war effort for victory of the United States.

The call was issued by Dan T. Moore, Director of the Fifth Region of the Office of Civilian Defense, which includes the states of Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Indiana and is in co-operation with the state and local civilian defense councils of the entire region.

"Civilian Defense becomes one year old this month and it is well that the people of each town and city take stock of what has been accomplished in that time," Mr. Moore said.

"While the rapid growth of the spontaneous co-operation of a free people in preparing for the battle front and the home front has been an inspiring demonstration of democracy at work, the goal has not yet been reached.

"Until every council has its report centers ready to function with trained personnel, we are at the mercy of the war that flames from the skies.

"It is a personal job for each one of us and, in concert with cities and towns all over the nation, it is suggested that a Saturday be named for a public gathering for the total war effort, where war stamps and bonds committees, scrap committees, civilian defense organizations the Red Cross, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Boy Scout, and all the other vital agencies of the civilian effort may be given due attention," Mr. Moore said.

Appeal Made To Boone County Citizens By Blood Donors Service

Three out of every four of the Pearl Harbor attack victims required transfusions. Without plasma a large proportion of them would have died. But of those who reached Tripler General Hospital in Honolulu, 95 out of every 100 were saved. The other hospitals had almost equally amazing results.

As our soldiers and sailors may be fighting on a dozen fronts, in jungle, desert, or on Artic shores, large quantities of plasma are indispensable. Even though each man is prepared to give blood instantly to the injured comrade, transfusions of whole blood will be out of the question usually at the scene of battle. We must have enough to place plasma on board every American warship, to send it every place where fighting is likely to occur, so as to preserve life when every minute counts.

Colored Women To Have Home Nursing Class

Monday, May 11, a meeting will be held to organize a Home Nursing class for colored women at the Florence colored church at 8:30 p. m. Eastern War Time. All colored women who can read and write are invited to take this course.

Those who have already joined are as follows: Mrs. Maggie Fisher, Lula M. Sleet, Jennie Saunders, Anna Baker, Frances Webb, Maggie Zellars, Lucy Dixon, Anna M. Roseberry, Alice Strader, Mary Ruby Roseberry, Della Sleet, Alice Sleet, Henrietta Baker, Lennie Baker, Myrtle Baker, Mary Sleet, Emma Sleet, Anna Sleet and Mary Louise Graham.

The two Burlington school teachers are organizing the class and will be glad to give information to anyone desiring it, according to Elizabeth C. Lowry, County Red Cross Nurse.

All persons interested in Home Nursing are invited to attend this first meeting.

Fish And Game Club Will Meet May 14t

Members of the Boone County Fish and Game Protective Association will hold their regular meeting at the club house next Thursday night, May 14th, according to President, Russell Smith.

No special business will come before the club at this meeting, and a social evening will be enjoyed. Lunch will be served by the committee.

POOL MEMBERS TO SELL CLIP IN JUNE

APPROXIMATELY 60,000 POUNDS OF WOOL EXPECTED TO BE POOLED IN COUNTY—GROWERS HEAR SPECIALIST.

Boone County wool growers voted to sell their pool clip under sealed bids at Walton on Monday, June 8th, according to H. E. White, president of the Pool. June 1st has been set as the closing date for growers to sign up. Approximately 60,000 pounds of wool, representing 90 percent of all wool produced in the county is expected to be pooled by that time.

G. P. Summers, Marketing Specialist, addressed growers at the meeting and advised that they should receive a higher price than in 1941. The price outlook for both lambs and wool is reported as good for this year with July and August being the low months for Kentucky lambs.

All wool growers were urged to list their flocks with the local committeemen immediately in order that the pool may notify buyers as to the number of 1942 fleeces that will be offered for sale.

Twenty-One Examined For Selective Service From Boone Saturday

Twenty-one Boone County men were ordered to report to Draft Board 9, Burlington, Saturday, when they were transported to Ft. Thomas for examination and induction in the U. S. Army.

Six of the twenty-one were rejected, due to physical ailments and were returned to their homes. Those called for May 2nd were as follows: Robt. M. Russ, Harry T. Cook, Elbert Morgan, James N. Utz, Robt. C. King, Geo. Washington Terrill, Jerome Mason Campbell, Roye Leslie Gruelle, Leonard W. Utz, George Henry Ellers, Robt. Lewis Prable, Howard Elmer Borders, Arthur Balley Greenup, Edson Scott Maurer, Franklin Ellsworth Wilson, Geo. L. Dixon, Donald Grant Mathews, John Gilmer Adkins, Joseph Edgar Maurer, Geo. LEGION POST TO SEND COMMITTEE

TO PARTICIPATE IN BLUEGRASS BOYS STATE—TO BE HELD AT BOWLING GREEN JUNE 7 TO 13TH.

Participation in the Bluegrass Boys State, to be conducted at Western State Teachers College, Bowling Green, Ky., June 7-13, under sponsorship of the American Legion of Kentucky, was discussed by members of Norman-Barnes Post, American Legion, Covington, last Friday.

Last year the post sponsored two boys at the Boys State.

The program is sponsored by the American Legion as an educational project designed to develop in Kentucky youth a constructive attitude toward the American form of government.

Boys enrolled receive comprehensive training in the practical aspects of government by performing the necessary functions themselves. They conduct their own elections to select city, county and state officers. The "laws" they enact are administered by their own enforcement agencies and in their own courts.

Harold E. Johnson, son of Rev. Roy Johnson, who has been spending a 15-day furlough with his parents, returned to Chandler Field, Arizona, last Thursday, where he is stationed with U. S. Army Air Corps.

THE AMERICAN PRESS
"For Over Fifty Years"

A Week Of The War

President Roosevelt sent to Congress a seven-point program of wartime economic controls including heavy taxation, general rationing of all scarce commodities and stabilization of wages. He proposed that the net income of any individual be limited to $25,000 a year, after payment of taxes. The President described the program as one of "equality of privilege" for all Americans in bearing the burdens of total war.

Mr. Roosevelt said two points of the program require legislation, imposing heavy taxation to keep profits at a low level and stabilizing farm prices. The other five points proposed by the President, adequately covered by existing legislation, call for general price ceilings on commodities and rents, wage stabilization at present levels, increased savings through purchase of war bonds, rationing of all essential commodities of which there are scarcities, and further curtailment of credit and installment buying.

Production And Conversion

The President told his press conference the War Production Program, launched in January, is working out extremely well. He said the announced goals might even be explained. The steel plate shortage has retarded the shipbuilding program, he said, but on the whole there is no very great slowdown in ship production.

The WPB ordered the cotton textile industry to convert specified percentages of its looms to war production within 60 days, in order to increase output of materials for sand bags, camouflage cloth, agricultural bags, etc. The Board said the automobile industry during February produced almost 27 percent as much war material as it did during all of 1941. A total of 600 plants in 32 states reported formation of voluntary labor-management committees.

Rationing

The Office of Price Adminstration issued instructions for the sugar rationing program, calling for registration of industrial and institutional users at high schools April 28-29, and of consumers at elementary schools May 4 through May 7. Retail sugar sales, banned throughout the nation for a week, will be resumed May 5 when rationing goes into effect. Consumers may purchase one pound of sugar with each of the first four stamps in the War Ration Books. These stamps cover approximately two-week periods from May 5 to June 27.

Registration for gasoline ration cards will be held in elementary schools in 17 Atlantic Coastal States and the District of Columbia May 12, 13 and 14. Gasoline rationing will go into effect in these states May 15, OPA said. The amount of the ration will be determined by the petroleum supply situation at the time of registration.

War Bonds and Finances

The Treasury reported its drive for War Bond purchases with at least 10 percent of the total national income will begin May 1. The drive will have quotas of $600 million for June, and $1 billion for July. It will be conducted through state and county campaigns, the Payroll Savings Plan and volunteer Minute Men. Bureau of the Budget Director Smith announced increases in proposed war expenditures for fiscal 1943 from $56 billion to $70 billion. He estimated war expenditures would reach a rate of $5 billion a month by September.

The War Front

The President told his press conference he had been advised officially of the internment of an American plane and its crew in Siberian Russia—apparently one of the planes which reportedly raided Japenese cities. U. S. troops arrived in New Caledonia to aid the Free French in the island's defense. General MacArthur's headquarters in Australia reported another raid by American and Australian bomers on Japanese-held Rabaul. American gunfire from Corregidor Island broke up a Japanese troop concentration on Bataan. The Navy reported the torpedoing of eight more United Nations merchant vessels by enemy submarines in the Atlantic.

The Armed Forces

The War Department said college students may enlist as privates in the Army Air Corps Reserve on a deferred basis and continue their education until required for army training. The Army Air Corps requested the Civil Aeronautics Administration to supply 2,000 civilian flight instructors within the next 60 days. The CAA was allocated $2,000,000 by the Army to train holders of private licenses who do not have sufficient flying time to qualify as instructors. Candidates must be between 21 and 42 years of age.

Congress approved and sent to the President the $19 billion war appropriation bill providing $17,400 million for the Army and $1,600 million for the Navy. Congress also sent to the President legislation to authorize expansion of naval shore facilities by $800 million. Navy Secretary Knox announced the Sperry Corporation has voluntarily rearranged its production schedules to effect savings to the government of $100 million. The Navy said high school graduates between 18 and 27 may now qualify to become aviation officers with the rank of ensign in the Naval Reserve or second lieutenant in the Marine Corps Reserve.

Selective Service

Selective Service Headquarters instructed State Directors to place men with dependents into two classifications—3-A for those not engaged in essential war work and 3-B for those who are engaged in essential war work. No men with dependents will be taken until all available physically fit men without dependents have been called, Headquarters said. When men with dependents are taken, those in the 3-A classification will be called first. The Army said persons with disqualifying physical defects which can be corrected will be classified 1-A (Suspended) and reclassified as 1-A when the defects are cleared up.

Civilian Supply

The WPB reduced the number of sizes and models of storage batteries from about 75 to 15, and ruled purchasers must turn in to retailers a used battery in order to get a new replacement battery. The Board also curtailed new telephone installations. Only persons and organizations engaged in direct War work are certain of obtaining new telephone service, the Board said.

Manufacture of Commercial Laundry Equipment was prohibited after July 1. Manufacturers cannot equip new Farm Machinery with rubber tires, with certain exceptions. This rule went into effect April 30. The Board said a person supplying materials used in the construction of a Defense Housing Project may now extend a preference rating at any time within three months after he becomes entitled to apply it.

Transportation

Defense Transportation Director Eastment prohibited all special deliveries, beginning May 15, and limited to once daily to any one person, deliveries of local carriers. He said present uniform business hours should be staggered, school hours changed, labor shifts rearranged and group riding instituted to effect steady use of mass transit facilities and to eliminate several hours overload.

Alien-Held Patents

President Roosevelt instructed Alien Property Custodian Crowley to take over all patents directly or indirectly controlled by the enemy and to make them freely available for United Nations war purposes and national needs of the United States. These patents will not be returned to the enemy at the end of the war, the President said.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

MONDAY: THE DAY OF AUTHORITY

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 21:12-22.
GOLDEN TEXT—My house shall be called a house of prayer for all peoples.—Isaiah 56:7.

Modern presentations of Christ in picture and sermon often give the impression that He was an effeminate man who went about doing gentle little deeds of kindness. One almost feels that He spoke in a half whisper and that He fearfully avoided the difficulties and dangers of life.

Such a picture of Christ, whether in words or on canvas, was never obtained from the Bible. Yes, He was gentle and kind; He did go about doing good; He was altogether humble—but why give the false impression that gentleness means weakness, kindness means a sentimental softness, etc. These are the virtues of a strong man and such was our Christ. He was a manly man who so excited the admiration of the boys in the temple that they shouted a holy "Hurrah" (Hosanna—in Hebrew).

On Monday as our Lord came into the city He saw and dealt with the fruitless fig tree and later in the day He cleansed the temple. This seems to be the order of the events (see Mark 11) and we will so consider them.

I. Jesus Stimulates Faith by an Act of Judgment (vv. 18-22).

In the morning as Jesus returned to Jerusalem, He was hungry. He had probably spent the night in prayer after His time of fellowship with the disciples (Mark 11:11). It was early spring, and normally not the time for figs to be ready to eat, but He saw a tree which already had foliage on it. Since the leaves form after the fruit, He properly looked for figs—green, perhaps, but even so useable for food—and there were none.

In a swift miracle of judgment, He condemned the tree, which soon withered. Some have assumed that He acted in anger, but that is evidently not so. His act was a sign to Israel and to us. The fig tree was a figure of Israel (see Hosea 9:10, Joel 1:7, Luke 13:6-9). They as a nation had the outward signs of fruit, that is, the "leaves" of temple worship, teaching of the law, etc., but there was no fruit of repentance and faith, of real love for God (see Rom. 2:17-23). Judgment was certain, and our Lord cursed a useless, fruitless tree to try to awaken the people to their need.

So our Lord comes to us—to look below the foliage of Christian profession, of our charities and benevolences, of our correct doctrinal views—to see if there is any fruit of real Christian living. How often He must turn away in sadness because there is none.

This miracle was not only a sign of judgment; it was used by our Lord to stimulate the disciples' faith. What they had seen was only an indication of what faith (and note it was their faith) could do. The promise of God to those who, abiding in Christ and with His Word abiding in their heart, ask according to His will, in faith nothing doubting, is without limit.

II. Jesus Stimulates Praise by an Act of Authority (vv. 12-17).

For a second time He drove out from His Father's house those who had made it a place of merchandise, of commercialized thievery. This is a majestic picture. The Son of God and Son of Man steps into the center of this unholy traffic and with mighty, holy indignation (not anger) drives it out. The people who had suffered long because of this religious racket, which paid a nice "cut" to the priests themselves (probably as a "gift" even as such things are managed in our day), were jubilant.

The boys who were in the temple (for such is doubtless the meaning of "children" in v. 15) were so delighted at this magnificent exercise of His divine authority that they broke out into "Hosannas," which, as we have suggested, were really a holy "Hurrah." Well, why not? Hurrah for our Lord! He will not tolerate iniquity even though it hides under the cloak of religion. He is not afraid to speak out and to act against sin and corruption. Possibly the church would reach a good many more men and boys in our day if it would step out in faith to fight the wrong and support the right. Then maybe the young men would shout, "Hurrah for the church," instead of some of the things they are saying.

The chief priests and scribes were "sore displeased" (v. 15) both by the acts of Jesus and the praise of the boys. They would be! And they have a host of descendants who hold places of authority today—yes, even in the church—who would be much displeased if such things were to happen now. But why fear them? Is it not high time that the people of God honored their Lord both by faith and good works, regardless of what men may say? Ought we not to please God rather than men (see Acts 5:29 and Ps. 56:4)?

Try A Want Ad—They Sell

THE GARDEN

THE BLIGHT

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics

Blight is a disease that destroys vegetable foliage and curtails the crop. It always starts on the lower, older leaves, dotting them with small spots which grow until the leaves are entirely brown and drop off.

It is caused by germs that are carried on the air. If the weather is showery and hot as they alight, they "dig in" and multiply until they completely cover the foliage. The endeavor of control is to cover the leaves with a material through which the germs cannot dig, and copper is such a material, which, applied as a spray or as a dust, literally plates the plant with a copper armor.

Two forms of copper may be used, copper sulphate (bluestone), and copper oxide (the "yellow" form). The sulphate (bluestone) is combined with lime and water to make Bordeaux mixture. The "yellow" copper oxide, quite recently developed to make a spray, needs only stirring into water, and may therefore be considered more simple to use.

Complete directions for using "yellow" copper oxide in spray are printed on the container, but simple instructions for making Bordeaux mixture in lots small enough for a home gardener to use are given under the "May" discussion in Kentucky. Extension Circular 376. Of this, a copy may be procured free in the County Extension Office, or by writing to the College of Agriculture and Home Economics at Lexington.

Inasmuch as the copper armor must be complete, it is recommended always to use a sprayer, a 3-gallon compressed-air sprayer, for example. Both the tops and the bottoms of the leaves should be covered. Also, as the vegetables grow, causing "breaks" in the protective armor, spraying should be done again. Generally the interval should be two weeks, and as many as three sprays will pay on the shorter-growing crops as beans and up to 6, on potatoes and tomatoes that stay in the garden longer.

CONSTANCE

Mr. and Mrs. James Masters and son entertained for Pvt. Robert Prabel, Friday evening. Those present were Albert Prabel, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Maegley and son Billy, Earl Reeves and Kenyon Clore.

Miss Ruth Shinkle was the guest of Miss Izella Kottmyer one night last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace S. Cleveland, of Franklinton, Ky., were here last week to attend the funeral of Mrs. Carrie Riggs.

Sergt. and Mrs. James Woodford Kottmyer left Saturday for Tampa, Fla. Sergt. Kottmyer, who is stationed in the Air Corps at MacDill Field obtained a ten-day furlough on account of the death of his grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. George Heist were visiting their daughter, Mrs. Clyde Barlow and family, of Hebron, the past week.

Mrs. Mayme Gross and Miss Edith Carder of Hill Top attended church here, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Herbstreit and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Klaserner.

Quite a few folks of Constance attended the Senior play at Hebron, Friday night, entitled "Little Women."

Frank Heist and son Ralph, of Norwood ,O., spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Heist.

The following request was received from Shirley D. Hempfling last week: "I would like to hear from all my many friends and relatives in Constance and elsewhere. Being in the hospital is no play and a letter makes it easier for the time to pay. My address is A. S. Shirley D. Hempfling, U. S. Naval Hospital, Ward 21 South. U. S. Navy Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill."

Glad to report Mrs. Ralph Cotton is improving nicely, after a recent operation.

HOGS ON PASTURE ALSO NEED GRAIN

Hogs on pasture, regardless of the kind of forage, also need grain, says Prof. E. J. Wilford of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. Good pasture for hogs he considers highly important, but as a general proposition grazing should be supplemented with grain. Encouraged to use pasture to cheapen production, some farmers may attempt too much in this direction, thinks Prof. Wilford.

Hogs have only one stomach, and it will hold but three quarts, which is too limited a capacity to provide proper nourishment from just forage crops, he points out. Sows do fairly well on good forage, but young pigs as a rule will not maintain their weight unless grain also is fed.

It is evident that hogs should have their pastures supplemented by grain, for most of the feed which is consumed over maintenance requirement is used to put on gain whether it is in the form of growth or fat or both. The kind of grain supplement to be fed depends in a large measure upon the age of the pig, the kind of forage, the age of the forage and upon its quality and quantity.

Young pigs need more protein and bone building material than the older hog. The younger the forage, as a rule, the richer it is in proteins. Legumes are richer in protein and calcium than the stool and sod forming plants. Quality may be influenced by soil fertility and weather conditions. The richer the soil is in minerals and protein forming materials, the richer the forage will be in these body-building materials.

PROTESTS BUYING POOR FERTILIZER

Buying low-grade fertilizers is poor business, says Prof. J. D. Turner, head of the fertilizer department at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. Farmers need plant food and not sand and other inert materials, he points out. He urges buying fertilizers on a basis of quality rather than price. Low grades, he declares, are the costliest. Tags, furnished by Prof. Turner's department, should be attached to bags, setting out just what the fertilizer contains.

FARMING UNDER WAR CONDITIONS SUBJECT OF COLLEGE REPORT

Farming under war conditions in the Pennyroyal area of Kentucky receives special attention in a co-operative report of the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics and the United States Department of Agriculture.

Recognizing the need for increased food and vegetable oil production, the report sets forth proposals for assisting farmers to increase the output of these needed products. For instance, it is suggested that less wheat and more barley be grown, since barley produces more feed per acre, and the need for feed is greater than the need for wheat. Since the prospective price is good, and oil is badly needed, soybeans may be grown on level land.

Further, the report points out that more than one rotation is necessary to get every acre producing according to its best use. The fairly level land can stand two or three-year rotations if plenty of fertilizer and green manure crops are used. The rolling land could best be used to produce small grain, hay and pasture. Alfalfa, hybrid corn and barley are recommended.

Special consideration is given to the small farm, as well as the level land. The report says that the changes recommended will increase war production, build up soil fertility and increase farm profits.

Of the 22 members of the McClure Club in Martin county, the last name of 20 is Moore. The other two names are Preece, one of whom is vice president and the other cheer leader.

STATEMENT GIVES FIGURES ON WOOL PRICES IN STATE

Under ceilings set by the Office of Price Administration, Kentucky farmers should receive about 50 to 54 cents a pound for three-eighths blood wool, according to a statement issued by the marketing division of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington.

Taking the ceiling prices on "scoured wool" at Boston, C. D. Phillips, an economist at the Experiment Station, made estimates of the Boston prices for Kentucky grease wool. Following are his figures for the four principal Kentucky grades: Fine wool, 54 cents; half-blood wool, 53 cents; three-eighths blood wool, 59 cents, and quarter-blood wool, 56 cents.

Marketing expenses have been running around 5 cents a pound in recent years, which means that Kentucky prices should be about that much under the Boston quotations. All cooperative organizations within the state have had expenses of less than 5 cents during recent years.

Quality, shrinkage and marketing expenses affect prices received for wool. Quality is determined on the basis of U. S. standard wool grades. Shrinkage is less easily ascertained, and varies with the place of production. Wool produced in the Bluegrass shrinks less than wool from some other parts of the state.

The complete statement of Dr. Phillips has been sent to all county farm agents, where copies may be obtained by wool producers.

COLLEGE TO REVIVE HOME FRUIT GROWING

Using modern propagation methods on "native" apple trees is one of the ways the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics is reviving home fruit production. Everywhere, it was observed, there are apple trees of unknown varieties which continue to bear year after year, without special attention to spraying, pruning, fertilizing and other care. Wood is grafted from such trees and young trees thereby produced for families wanting a few apple trees to supply fruit for home use.

The local names for some apple trees that have been bearing well, in some instances for 100 years, are mountain short core, August tart and horse apple. There are many more. Local nurserymen, 4-H club members, farmers and others are cooperating with the college and the Agricultural Experiment Station in this work.

MORE "WAR" CROPS ASKED FOR KENTUCKY

In addition to hemp for seed, Kentucky farmers are being asked grow soybeans and castor beans for oil. The 33,000 acres of hemp wanted for seed is rapidly being signed up. It also is likely that the soybean-for-oil allotment will be met. While only 500 acres of castor beans are wanted, this is a new crop in Kentucky. Castor beans have been grown experimentally at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington and at the experiment substations at Princeton and Quicksand, and a few farmers have tried growing them. They do well in Kentucky, and under favorable conditions, probably pay better than dark tobacco.

MORE SOYBEANS WANTED

During peace-time, the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics did not encourage the growing of soybeans for grain. However, because of the prospective price and the fact that the oil is so badly needed, this crop may now be recommended for level land, strictly as a war measure. For the nation as a whole, farmers are asked to increase soybean growing 54 percent over last year.

It is better to suffer wrong than do it, and happier to be sometimes cheated than not to trust.—Dr. Johnson.

GUIDE GIVES CHICK FEED REQUIREMENTS

That poultry raisers may know about how much feed they should provide, a feeding guide of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics says that at the age of 8 weeks a chick of the general purpose breeds, if properly fed, should have consumed slightly more than 3½ pounds of feed. A chick of the light breeds, at the same age, would eat a quarter to a third of a pound less.

Feed consumption when the chick is 12 weeks old should total almost 8 pounds, in the case of general purpose breeds, and a little over 7 pounds for the light breeds. At 16 weeks, the total should be almost 13 pounds and a little over 11½ pounds; at 20 weeks, 19 1-3 pounds and 17½ pounds, and at 24 weeks, 26 1-3 pounds for the general purpose breeds and 23 1-3 pounds for the light breeds.

KENTUCKY 4-H CLUB NEWS

In Lincoln county, club members will grow four times their usual garden acreage; in Boyle county, three times. Lincoln county members have ordered 3,000 chicks. Madison county have an essay contest in growing hybrid corn.

Mason county boys have formed a cow-production club, in cooperation with the Rotary club and milk plant in Maysville. Milk from the boys' cows will be kept separate, and deighed and recorded at the milk plant.

Charles L. Horn, of Minneapolis will sponsor a 4-H conservation camp at Camp Bingham July 6-10. Subsistence will be furnished for 100 boys. County sportsmen's associations, the League of Kentucky sportsman and the State Division of Fish and Game will cooperate.

The war and what club members can do in garden, dairy, poultry, canning, clothing and other victory projects will be stressed at Junior Week at the University of Kentucky June 1-6. George W. Campbell again will direct the music.

Five gold medals in each county and four $25 war bonds in the state, are among the prizes to be awarded in the garden contest. One of the four state winners will have a chance at a trip to Chicago and a $100 bond.

RATIONING NOT ALL BAD, SAYS ECONOMIST

Rationing of goods in time of war may be necessary, and also desirable as a way to protect small buyers, thinks Dr. David L. MacFarlane, economist at the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. He says:

"The purpose of rationing of scarce materials, such as tin, copper and aluminum, is to insure meeting first needs important to war . . . They go to fill war requirements, rather than to the highest bidder. Along with this, price control prevents skyrocketing of prices . . . Another light is thrown on rationing if it is understood that, once supplies are rationed, competitive price bidding would perform no function."

BELLEVIEW CHURCH OF CHRIST
Sam Hamilton, Minister

Bible School 10:00 a. m. C. W. T. Russell Rogers, Supt.

Morning Worship 11:00 C. W. T.

The Bible School is enjoying a Scripture hunt, with a handsome Bible as the prize for the winner. Two more weeks to go, so bring your Bibles and take part in this instructive contest.

Next Lord's Day we will commemorate Mother's Day with a special memorial service. All members of the church and our friends are invited to bring cut flowers or pot plants in memory of their mothers that have departed and in honor of the living mothers. For each mother so remembered please attach a card to the flowers stating the mother's full name and your own. A roll call of all the mothers remembered will be made from the pulpit. Mrs. Cam White, Mrs. William Kruse, and Mrs. Allen Rogers are in charge of arranging the floral display.

We were happy to extend the right hand of fellowship to Mrs. Stevens and son Tommy from Florence Christian Church. We rejoice to have received the confessions of Everett and Virginia Stevens at the morning service. The baptism will take place at Purdy's pond next Lord's Day morning, immediately following the worship service.

A study Bible will be the prize offered to the largest family attending at the Bible School hour next Sunday, (Mother's Day). Only the direct descendents of one mother or father, and their husbands and wives will be counted. We shall also try to determine who is the oldest mother and the youngest present at the Bible School.

CUCUMBER ACREAGE UP

A salting station is being built at Caneyville for Grayson county cucumber crop. Twenty wooden vats 8 by 12 feet will make pickles of cucumbers picked from 600 or more acres. Farmers near Caneyville grew 350 acres of cucumbers last year, and were so well pleased with the returns that they may double the acreage this season, reports County Agent Robert Faulkner. Once, in peace time, Grayson county furnished a large part of the pickle supply of the United States Navy.

HART COUNTY GETS TOP UTOPIA PRIZES

Hart county has the honor of furnishing both state champions in Utopia club work, it is announced from the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. They are Lillian Lucille Shelton and Oliver Bunnell. Utopia clubs are organizations of older farm youth, and stress training for leadership, as well as practical education in farming and homemaking.

In the past two years Miss Shelton has canned over 1,000 quarts of vegetables, fruits and meats. She is enrolled in civilian defense work and is active in civic and community affairs.

Bunnell has developed into a first-rate farmer owning 100 acres and managing 312 acres. In addition to growing tobacco, corn and other crops, he owns a good herd of cattle, which he exhibits at fairs.

4-H'ERS BUY BONDS WITH SALVAGE MONEY

The Wildie 4-H club in Rockcastle county has invested $1,766.90 in war bonds, according to Wayne Stewart, president of the Kentucky Federation of 4-H Clubs, who is a member. There are 35 boys and girls and three leaders in the club. Some of the money came from the sale of scrap iron, rubber and paper.

Clubs in Madison county have collected 430,000 pounds of salvage and sold it for $1,260. The Miller club won first prize in a salvage collecting contest, with the Newby club second, the Model club third and the Red House club fourth. Awards were donated by the American Legion, Raymond Rice and D. W. Kennedy.

This Week On The Home Front

The government's bold stroke to combat the rising cost of living and inflation by a comprehensive control of prices overshadows every other event on the "Home Front" as the nation enters its sixth month at war.

In a single sweeping order—General Maximum Price Regulation—Price Administrator Leon Henderson set the highest prices charged in March as an absolute ceiling on virtually everything Americans eat, wear and use.

For wholesalers and manufacturers the price is order is effective next Monday, for the retail trade, on May 18th.

Prices on literally millions of articles of all sorts are thus automaticaly controlled. When a given commodity because of special conditions required special price treatment, separate order was issued.

In the first World War the United States paid 31 billion dollars to crush German imperalism and it is estimated that 13 billion of this was wasted paying swollen prices for war supplies.

Back of the present drastic price regulation is this lesson of World War I and the determination of the government that it shall not happen again.

Thus goes into effect the most drastic and far-reaching step ever taken to control the American economy.

* * *

Rents will not be permitted to skyrocket, while other components in the cost of living are stabilized. The rent fixing order of the week will affect rents in 302 "defense rental areas' 'housing 76,000,000 people in addition to the 21 areas previously designated. It reaches into every state except North Dakota and Idaho and extends even into Puerto Rico.

The order does not have the immediate affect of law as does the price control order. OPA is giving state and local officials 60 days to cut back rents to varying previous levels. After that, if adjustments are not made voluntarily, OPA will take things into its own hands.

* * *

"A program as vast as this," said Mr. Henderson, "will need the fullest public support, and we know that we shall have the backing of all landlords who have not attempted to take advantage of abnormal conditions."

The nation's farmers are assured that there will be no upping of mixed fertilizer, superphosphate and potash, and by an OPA ceiling price order, making permanent a temporary order which expired. The prices on bulk amounts of 250 pounds or over are those which prevailed in March. Smaller sales are covered by the General Price Ceiling Order.

Said Price Administrator Leon Henderson: "Because of the great expansion of agricultural activity due to the war effort, the demand for fertilizers has sharply increased. To permit sales without a maximum price regulation at such time—might result in an unreasonable increase in prices which would be unfair to the farmers and a hindrance to their efforts in producing vital commodities and foodstuffs . . . High fertilizer prices at this time can only serve to hinder the national food production program." '

* * *

President Roosevelt told the nation during the week that we are spending at the rate of 100 millions daily for war, and will be spending double that rate before this year is over. Said he about the whole war program: "The blunt fact is that every single person in the United States is going to be affected by this program . . . the price of civilization must be paid in hard work and sorrow and blood."

* * *

Figures which picture as accurately as possible the economic effort on the "Home Front," were made available this week. War funds made available by Congress for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation since June 1940, have reached the staggering total of $162,416,000,000. The sixth supplemental appropriation of $19,138,000,000 signed by the President, significantly budgets $8,761,000,000 for planes.

* * *

Service station gas prices will be under ceiling throughout the nation effective May 18. Ceiling is at the maximum March level except in 17 rationed eastern states and the District of Columbia where the March base is raised 4 cents a gallon, to adjust the market to wartime transportation conditions.

* * *

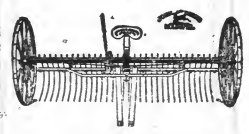
War production demands alcohol for explosives. Known to the industry as "high wine," beverage alcohol from 100 to 189 proof has been brought under allocation control by the War Production Board to supplement the industrial alcohol supply.

* * *

The fate of the taxicab which last year carried almost a billion passengers, will depend largely on how carefully the business conserves its machines and tires. Office of Defense Transportation warns against cruising, dead mileage, and individual hauls.

* * *

Jurisdictional disputes between rival labor organizations are stopped for the duration. William H. Davis, Chairman of the National War Labor Board, announced that an agreement to this effect had been arrived at with heads of the American Federation and the CIO.



* * *

Day by day steel is more and more at a premium. War Production Board now restricts the amount of metal for hairpins and bob pins, and is even urging American women to save the metal containers in which they buy lipstick and other beauty aids.

* * *

Mr. Henderson publicly praised the school teachers for their work carrying out the industrial, commercial and institutional sugar istration, because we were confi school teachers to handle the regisctration, because we were confident they would do a good job," he said. "They came through 100 per cent."

OUR BOYS

Where tramping feet are weary sore,
Where mighty cannons blast and roar,
And bombing planes are flying o'er,
Dear Lord abide with them.

On stormy seas, flung high and wide,
Neath which such terrors lurk and hide,
Please bless the ships our loved ones ride,
Dear Lord abide with them.

Through sleepless nights 'til morning dawn,
Grant them Thy strength to carry on,
Teach them this prayer—Thy will be done,
Dear Lord abide with them.

Oh let them know that Thou art near
And teach their hearts to know no fear,
With glorious flag—their battle cheer,
Dear Lord abide with them.

In distant lands—so battle tossed,
Where war is taking fearful cost,
We ask Thee—let none be lost,
Dear Lord abide with them.

Of those that fall—if fall they must
We ask in Thee—to stay their trust,
That they may know Thy loving touch,
Dear Lord abide with them.

Courageous hearts—oh keep until
The victory comes—and come it will,
And we hear Thy gentle—Peace be still,
Dear Lord abide with them.

Please dwell with them, wherever they be,
On land, the air—or on the sea,
It is the prayer we ask of Thee,
Dear Lord abide with them.

Foot Health In Relation To Mental Health

N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE
814-816 Madison, Covington

When you suffer from flat feet, your muscular system is taxed and irritates the nerves of the foot, simultaneously affecting the entire delicate nervous system, causing it to function at less their normal capacity. The result of this whole action is generalized irritability and unrest in the individual.

Ordinarily the body can overcome the irritations of its various sick parts, and is capable of removing the effects of the disease. The disturbances of the foot, however, are often subject to influences which the body has great difficulty in combatting.

The foot according to dictates of society should be housed in a protective leather or cloth covering, which must meet the aesthetic tastes of the prevailing fashion. Thus, if the fashion dictates that long thin shoes be worn, thousands of individuals with short wide feet will attempt to crowd them into long, thin, shoes, and visa-versa.

The vagaries of fashion may thus make you comfortable one season and uncomfortable another. However, when we consider the permanent effects of this change of style, we realize that the foot, which has a fairly permanent shape, has to respond like an elastic band. The harm wrought in one season does not disappear the next, but may rather be accenuated in some significant defect as for example the BUNION.

Once this defect is formed the foot is placed daily in what may be considered a vice or mold and the normal metabolis or growth activities of the foot is interfered with. The attempt of the body to overcome the irritation is frustrated and the physical ailment grows and becomes more pernicious. The mental effects of this constant irritant are such as to set up a continual hypersensitiveness in all behavior.—Adv.

Belief consists in accepting the affirmations of the soul; unbelief, in denying them.—Emerson.

Quality.... in electrical appliances is more important than ever now!
WITH the manufacture of virtually all electrical appliances banned for the duration, it's going to be necessary to take good care of your present equipment. Make it do if you can, but if replacements are necessary, buy only best quality appliances that will assure you of lasting, trouble-free service. They may have to serve you a long time, so it's short-sighted economy to buy anything but the best.
Right now, you can still find nationally-advertised appliances of proven reliability in stock at your dealer's and in our showrooms. But the present supply is limited and most items cannot be replaced, so early purchase is advisable. Take advantage of present favorable terms by buying your essential needs now.
FOR Thrifty ELECTRICAL LIVING

With The Reds

Cincinnati—The man who coined phrase, "Take nothing for granted in baseball," knew what he was doing, and if you don't believe it, look at the way things have been going in the major leagues since the season opened. There are many great examples of unexpected results. If you're going to pin somebody down, you don't have to go any farther than the Cincinnati Reds.

All last year, the Reds' cry was for more base hits. This year's team is getting more base hits, but the greatest pitching staff in the major leagues has had trouble finding its balance and the result is that the Reds aren't off to the flying start everybody thought more punch would give them.

The synchronization of pitching and increased hitting is bound to come, notwithstanding the above mentioned phrase, for you can't keep a great staff like that of the Reds down. And, when that synchronization does come, the Reds will be ready to make a spurt that should put their enemies in an uncomfortable position.

It's unusual in itself that the Reds have had their toughest time reaching their stride on their home grounds. But this is due for a change, and followers of the club were hoping that the change would come in the Brooklyn series.

Boston will play the Reds on Thursday, May 7th, then will come a four-game series in three days against the St. Louis Cardinals. This series will start with a single game on Friday, May 8, a ladies' day game on Saturday, May 9, and the first doubleheader of the season on Sunday, May 10.

Plans are now being made for the Red's first night game of the season on Monday, May 25, when the Reds and Pittsburgh Pirates tangle. Tickets are now on sale for this first night game, and also for every game the Reds will play at home for the remainder of the season. Mail orders receive prompt attention. Address all requests for tickets to the Cincinnati Baseball Club, 307 Vine Street, Cincinnati. If possible, a self addressed, stamped envelope should be enclosed.

MONEY TALKS

By Frederick W. Stamm, Economist and Director of Adult Education University of Louisville

Rigid price control for the duration of the war is now a reality. Many economists have been predicting for months that if we are to control inflation we must control all prices and all wages. Now as a result of President Roosevelt's message to Congress, Leon Henderson, Federal Price Administrator, has placed a price ceiling on "almost everything Americans eat, use, and wear."

What effect will this order have on consumers and on retailers? First, consumers will be assured that the purchasing power of their dollars will remain relatively stable. The order states that after May 18, retail prices, with few exceptions, must not exceed the highest levels which each individual seller charged during March, 1942. This should encourage more orderly and normal marketing, for the consumer need not hoard now in order to "beat" higher prices later on.

The retailers, however, may not fare so well. During April many retail prices have been marked up to prices much higher than those prevailing during March. After May 18 these prices must come down to the March level. A survey of Louisville groders, both independens and chain, indicates that all of them will have to reduce prices on many articles to meet the new ceilings. Also many grocers said they had purchased much of their stock during April and now they must reduce prices to March levels which means selling at very little profit, if any.

Retailers must also preserve existing records of sales made during March for maximum pricing purposes when the ceiling goes into effect. This record keeping will add extra cost to doing business. Retailers must watch costs and profit margins more closely than they have for years. They may also have to stop handling some low profit lines and concentrate on rapid turnover, profitable goods.

Price control is a harsh measure aimed to curb inflation. It will succeed only if the Government is willing to put a ceiling also on agricultural prices and industrial wages.

MULTIGRAPH OPERATORS WANTED FOR WAR JOBS

Multigraph operators will be appointed to Government war jobs in Washington, D. C., and throughout the United States, it was announced by the United States Civil Service Commission today. Both men and women may apply under the new announcement. Pay is $1,440 a year, although some vacancies at $1,260 will be filled by qualified persons willing to accept the lower salary.

Within the past 5 years, applicants must have had at least 6 full months of paid experience operating a power-driven multigraph machine, of which 3 months must have been in setting and distributing type and in the composition of complex forms. In filing application they must clearly show that they can operate the machine without further instruction. Appointees in Government jobs will be required to set and distribute type for and to operate a multigraph machine in the printing of circulars, letters, and forms, and to read proof and make corrections.

No written test is required. Filing application is all that is necessary to be considered. Eighteen years is the minimum age limit, but there is no maximum. Applications must be sent to the Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., and will be accepted until the needs of the service have been met.

Full information as to the requirements for this examination, and application forms, may be obtained from the Secretary of the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city which has a post office of the first or second-class, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

SEES POSSIBILITY OF FEED SHORTAGE

The big increase in livestock raising brings up the question of a possible feed shortage by the end of this year. Hog numbers are expected to increase as much as 25 percent, which alone will call for a big increase in the use of corn. Dairy and beef cattle, sheep and poultry are increasing in numbers, and better feeding is being done.

"Farmers might well consider producing all the feed they can and save all they produce," says Lawrence Bradford of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. "It is difficult to imagine producing too much feed this year. Make certain you have enough for your own use. If you have more, it will sell readily at attractive prices."

Bradford suggests increases in corn, and possibly growing soybeans or cowpeas on level land, sudan grass to supplement pasture oats for hay or grain, and then cover crops in the fall, for cover and feed.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

There has come to be an ominous note in the word propaganda, but here is a motion picture that is delightful propaganda—for the American way of life.

"The Vanishing Virginian," was adapted for the screen by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer from the memorable family biography by Rebecca Yancey Williams.

Frank Morgan has the title role, playing Cap'n Bob Yancey, father of Mrs. Williams, the author, who was a notable figure in Lynchburg, indeed throughout Virginia. Morgan is excellent in the role of the fiery, beloved old man who served his community for many years as State's Attorney.

—and they're turning to buses for efficient wartime travel

"In-Between" the great metropolitan areas—in small towns, in fast-growing new industrial centers, at cross-roads communities and on farms—more than half of the people in this nation are living, working, aiding the war effort. And, as more cars are retired, they're coming to depend more and more upon buses for efficient essential travel. Greyhound, for instance, offers the only service to great numbers of these communities—and unduplicated service to still greater numbers! Greyhound carries more passengers to, from, and between these "In-Between" points, than between big cities—saving rubber, fuel, and other vital materials every mile!

FARMERS URGED TO STORE OWN WHEAT CROP

With terminal and other warehouse facilities for wheat already crowded to the bursting point in most areas, and with a record carry-over of 630 million bushels and a prospective new crop of around 800 million bushels, there is going to be a tremendous shortage in the storage capacity of the country, according to a letter just received by F. L. Kerr, Vice President of the Production Credit Corporation of Louisville, from A. G. Black, Governor of the Farm Credit Administration.

Governor Black urges wheat growers to "start right away to build storage bins on their farms for a large part of this year's crop will back up on farms and not move in the usual channels to terminal elevators in the usual way." He points out that "there are enough nails and lumber to build all the farm storage that is needed, provided farmers begin the work immediately. If they do not start now, but wait until the last minute before building their storage bins, there will not be enough nails and lumber in the right places at the right time to complete the job." Governor Black points out that if the quotas are continued they will help farmers to keep excess wheat on their own farms and the 7 cents per bushel storage allowance will be available if the quota-loan system is continued. This allowance will help farmers to finance the needed farm storage space.

Mr. Kerr states that eligible farmers who have adequate security for loans also may obtain assistance in the financing of the building of farm storage from production credit association. In view of the inadequacy of terminal storage facilities and the shortage of burlap bags for flat sack storage, it is the patriotic duty of every wheat grower to do what he can to store wheat on his own farm and build now while there is yet time and facilities with which to build storage bins. Many of these bins, he points out, will not be separate structures but will be areas partitioned off in barns where the wheat can be stored with a minimum of loss from moisture, insects and rodents. "I cannot stress too strongly the seriousness of the present storage situation," said Mr. Kerr. "The way things look now when the harvest is finished next fall we will have two years' supply of wheat on hand but this does not mean that we can be prodigal with it and waste it because of insufficient or improper storage."

COLLEGE MEN TELL OF COOPERATION IN JOHNSON COMMUNITY

Neighborhoods that stand out, that have community spirit, and where people are cooperative, are to be found in every county Sociologists at the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics cite Cuba community in Johnson county as an example.

Machinery, livestock, fertilizer and other farm needs are purchased cooperatively in Cuba community. A truck is hired to go 15 miles to Paintsville to get groceries and other supplies. Tobacco and other products are trucked out cooperatively. Community funds are pooled, in some instances, such as buying old coal company buildings to get lumber for poultry houses and other farm structures.

Isolated by lack of all-weather roads, Cuba community looks after its own entertainment. Church and Sunday School are well attended. There are 4-H and Utopia Clubs. There are picnics in summer, and special neighborhood entertainments for boys leaving for war. Since December 7 the community has bought its share of war bonds and stamps. Special pride is taken in 4-H club work, and for eight years the Cuba club has won district honors at the tobacco show and sale at Lexington.

Only in dry weather is it possible to drive to Fuget, the post office of Cuba community. One mother said an all-weather road is needed so a doctor can be had at any time. The men would like to be able to load their tobacco at their farms. It is too far to walk 10 miles to get a bus to high school.

HOMEMAKERS STRESS LIVE-AT-HOME PLAN

Kentucky's 15,357 homemakers' club members last month gave special attention to the program to enlist farm families in the Victory Live-at-Home plan of producing 75 percent of their food on the farm, according to Miss Myrtle Weldon, state leader of county home demonstration work. It was stressed at all homemakers' club and other extension meetings.

The total sign-up has not been completed as yet, but estimates indicate that the majority of Kentucky farm families will take part in the program. By producing their own food supplies at home for the most part, money is saved for war bonds and other uses, and food is released for American soldiers and the Allied Nations, Miss Weldon emphasized.

In Calloway county alone, 1,500 families have indicated that they will sign the Victory Pledge. Most homemakers who also sign the "Victory Leadership" pledge, signifying that they will assume responsibility for the program in their communities, agree to reach from one to 10 families. In Bell county, however two women reached 317 families, according to report by Miss Sunshine Colley, home demonstration agent.

CONSTANCE BOY AT NAVY TRAINING STATION

Great Lakes, Ill.—The name of Shirley Durward Hempfling, 31, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Adam Hempfling, Constance, Ky., was added last week to the large roster of men who have enlisted in the U. S. Navy and who are now undergoing recruit training here at Great Lakes. During this recruit training, he will learn the elementary fundamentals of seamanship, and will be given an aptitude test to determine whether he will receive further specialized training in one of the Navy's many service schools, or be sent immediately to sea.

GATHER HEAPS OF SCRAP

More than a million pounds of scrap metal have been shipped out of Logan county, Kentucky, and County Agent John R. Watlington believes there are another million and a half pounds still to be collected. Thirteen communities participated in the scrap metal drive, establishing community heaps which were moved into trade channels and the proceeds given to the Red Cross.

SUGGESTS WAYS TO FIGHT GRASSHOPPERS

Deep plowing and use of poisoned bait will help check a possible grasshopper plague this year, says Prof W. A. Price in a statement issued at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station.

The plowing of fields this spring, in which grasshoppers were abundant last fall, should be done with considerable care, he says. Plow to a depth of at least six inches and compact the soil. This operation will bury the grasshopper eggs to a depth that will prevent the newly hatched young reaching the surface of the soil.

Later when plowing fields where grasshoppers are present in numbers it is suggested that the plowing be started on the outside working toward the center. Leave for a few days a narrow strip of unplowed ground in the center of the field where the concentrated insects can be poisoned.

A poisoned bait is used for the purpose. It is made by mixing while dry 100 pounds of wheat bran and 5 pounds of Paris green or white arsenic and then adding and mixing well 2 gallons of fresh (not used) lubricating mineral oil such as is used for automobile crankcases of 20 to 30 S. A. E. rating, the latter being preferable in very hot, dry weather. This bait should be broadcast by hand at the rate of 10 to 12 pounds dry weight to the acre. (For a small garden 50x100 feet use 1½ pounds bran, 1½ ounces of poison and ¼ pint of oil). Scatter the poison in the morning between 6 and 8 a. m.

Do not look for results until about three days after applying the bait. Two or three applications may be necessary. Dead grasshoppers will be found under trash and litter—few of them die in the open spaces. A complete kill should not be expected in any instance, the reduced population is important, however, from the standpoint of possible damage.

Since grasshoppers migrate readily, it is strongly advised that control measures be undertaken cooperatively on a neighborhood or community basis.

CIVILIAN GOODS MUST BE REDUCED

The United States doesn't have the industrial plants and the workers to make all the materials needed for war, and also all of the goods civilians want, thinks Dr. David L. MacFarlane, an economist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. The prosecution of the war, therefore, can only mean cutting down on civilian consumption, he declares.

"The immediate future holds for all of us sacrifices—going without good we normall use," says Dr. MacFarlane. "To some extent this will be necessary because of the cutting off of supplies from distant countries. But also we shall have to give up other goods because the materials used in making them or the plants in which they are made, can be turned to war use. The amount of cutting down on civilian consumption can be estimated roughly by the following figures. In 1941, the industrial plant of the United States was working at 90 percent of capacity. Only 18 percent of that plant capacity was devoted to war production. In 1942, the corresponding figure will be 30 to 40 percent."

The center of population usually seems to be at the street intersection where the traffic officer has just asked you if you don't know how to drive a car.—Albany Evening News.

CHICKEN THIEVES ARRESTED SUN.

FOLLOWING CHASE THROUGH FIELDS NEAR FLORENCE—LOOT CONSISTED OF TWENTY-FOUR CHICKENS.

Three Cincinnati Negroes were arrested Sunday, charged with chicken stealing, after Kentucky Highway Patrolman surprised them early Sunday morning as they carried two bags filled with chickens from a farm to an automobile on U. S. 42, one mile southwest of Florence.

Two of the Negroes, a man and a woman, were captured by Highway Patrolmen James Carr and Clarence Brierly after a chase through fields in the vicinity. A companion, who escaped in the darkness, was arrested in Cincinnati, Sunday night by Sheriff, J. T. Williams.

Those arrested by Highway Patrolmen registered as Bob Burnett, 32 years old, 729 West Fifth Street, Cincinnati, and Mary Thomas, 25, 211 George Street, Cincinnati. The third Negro gave the name of Charles Raford, 33, 729 West Fifth Street.

Patrolman Carr and Brierly were driving along U. S. 42 early Sunday when they saw a parked automobile on the side of the road. As the officers approached they saw the two Negro men carrying two bags from the farm home of Charles Carpenter. Spying the officers, the Negroes dropped the bags and fled across fields. The patrolmen gave pursuit. When they fired a shot Burnett stopped, but Raford dived into a pond and escaped.

Sheriff Williams and Robert Eades found Raford in Cincinnati twelve hours later.

After a brief hearing before Judge N. E. Riddell Tuesday morning, all three were returned to the local jail where they will be held for action of the August grand jury.

Eighteen Attend Hemp Planting Demonstration

Eighteen farmers attended the hemp planting demonstration meeting at Hugh Stephens' farm in East Bend on last Friday, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The planting of hemp was found to be a very simple job and there was increased interest growing among the farmers attending. Russell Hunt, field agent from the College, was in charge of the demonstration.

A total of 12 growers have signed up for growing 55½ acres of hemp in 1942. A slightly larger acreage is expected before the planting season is over.

FOUR-H MEMBERS PLAN PROGRAM

FOR 4-H SPRING RALLY DAY—STYLE DRESS REVUE, FARM AND HOME PRACTICE DEMONSTRATION TO BE FEATURED.

Features of the 4-H Spring Rally Day program to be held at the Burlington school Saturday, May 16, will include a style dress revue, farm and home practice demonstrations presented by teams and individuals, games and a picnic at noon.

D. H. Norris, President of the Boone County 4-H and Utopia Council, will discuss "4-H Clubs—Bonds and Stamps." Other talks will include "A Trip to National 4-H Congress" by Evelyn Franks, New Haven; "Why I am a 4-H Club Member," Wanda Pennington, New Haven, and "Summer Activities" by Franklin Frazier, Assistant County Agent.

Representatives from 10 local 4-H clubs will participate in the events. Winners of demonstrations given by teams and individuals will represent Boone County in the District contest at Williamstown on May 22. The Style Revue champion will participate in the State Revue during Junior Week, June 1-6. Ribbons will be awarded to all contestants.

Local 4-H leaders will serve on committees to carry on each activity. Arrangements for the meeting are being made by Mary S. Moore, H. R. Forkner and Franklin Frazier, County Extension Agents.

Parents and friends of 4-H Club Work are invited to attend.

Sergt. James Dolwick

James Dolwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dolwick, Sr., of Ludlow, R. R. 2, who is stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., has recently been made Sergeant, it was announced this week. Sergt. Dolwick is with the Quartermaster Division.

Donald Faulkner Takes Special Training In Tank Department

Ft. Knox, Ky—Acting upon orders issued by Maj. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, Chief of Armored Force, Pvt. Donald E. Faulkner, Battery "A", 14th Armored Field Artillery Battalion, 2nd Armored Division, Fort Benning, Ga., son of Bruce Faulkner of Burlington, reported for a special course of Instruction in the Tank Department of the Armored Force School, the modern technical "college" of the hard hitting mechanized branch of the Army. Private Faulkner entered the service in December, 1941.

Headed by Col. Frederick M. Thompson, the tank department trains thousands of officers and enlisted men to repair and maintain all types of tanks including the latest models. In its modern shops, students tear down tanks piece by piece, study the motor and driving mechanism, and then do their own "troubleshooting" and repairing on running motors in a new $500,000 tank engine test building.

The mammoth 350-building school, only one of its kind in the United States, graduates some 22,000 enlisted men and 1440 officers each year who are taught to maintain and repair the 3,000 vehicles, over 700 radios and 20,000 weapons used by an armored division. The school operates 12 hours a day, 6 days a week, on a 2 shift basis (6 a. m. to 12; 1 p. m. to 7).

Soldier Flies Home For Mother's Day

Pvt. Edward P. Napier, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Napier, 713 Greenup St., Covington, formerly of Union, came by plane from St. Louis, Mo., Saturday night to spend Mother's Day at home.

Private Napier was inducted in the U. S. Army March 10th at which time he became a member of the 13th Supply Sydn., Duncan Field, San Antonio, Texas; later being transferred to the St. Louis School of Aeronautics, St. Louis, Mo., where he has been making an excellent showing.

Friends and relatives gathering in the home to celebrate the occasion were, Mr. and Mrs. James Robert Fields and daughter, Covington; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Napier and daughter, Cincinnati; Mrs. Dora Fields and son, of Walton; Mrs. A. J. Stone, Covington; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Donnelly and son, Southgate, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Smith and son, Burlington; Robt Napier and two children, Covington; Mr. and Mrs. Albert White and two children, of Covington; Miss Jeanne Perrow, of Erlanger; Miss Thelma Howe, Walton; James S. Smith, Florence; Miss Rose Napier, Covington; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Napier.

ON FURLOUGH

Private Lawrence Lee Michels, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Michels, of Constance, is spending a ten-day furlough visiting with his family and friends. He is stationed with the 113th Med. Regiment in Camp Shelby, Miss.

Robt. Hensley, former director of the Unemployment Compensation Commission of Frankfort, has been appointed a 2nd Lieut. in the Army Air Force. He is at the present time stationed at Miami Beach, Fla.

Mrs. Myrtle Atha has been quite ill for the past several days.

Branham-Maurer

Miss Dorothy Louise Branham, daughter of Rev. S L. Branham, of Big Bone and Mr. Ralph Garnett Maurer, of Burlington, were quietly united in marriage Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. at the home of the bride.

The ceremony was performed by the bride's father at their home, Big Bone., with Paul Branham and Mrs. Andy Tipton, of Dayton, Ohio, brother and sister of the bride, as attendants. They left Wednesday night for a short motor trip through Kentucky to visit friends and places of interest.

Miss Branham is the daughter of Rev. S. L. Branham, who is pastor of the Big Bone Baptist Church. She was valedictorian of the graduating class at New Haven this year, and attended school at Ashland and Brooksville, Ky., before coming to Boone County a year ago. She is 18.

Mr. Maurer, 25, youngest son of Mrs. Josie Maurer, Burlington, is a graduate of the Burlington High School in the year 1933 and is a graduate of Eastern State Teachers College, Richmond, Ky.

He was co-editor and owner of The Boone County Recorder from September 1935 to May 1936 and later served on the staff of the Lexington Leader, Lexington, Ky. For the last three years he has been employed by the Boone County Board of Education as teacher and coach at New Haven school, and not only has a good record as a teacher, but is rated as one of the county's best basketball coaches. His teams in the last several years is sufficient proof of his ability as a coach.

During the last three years Ralph has been taking additional work at the University of Cincinnati, and at the present has completed over half of the required work on his Master's degree.

The young couple expect to return to Boone County this week and will make their home in Burlington. We join with a great host of friends in wishing them the very best that life has to offer.

Twenty-One Men Inducted Into U. S. Army Last Saturday

Twenty-one Boone County men were inducted into the U. S. Army last Saturday, according to Draft Board 9, Boone County. The men were sent to the Cincinnati induction center, from which they will be sent to various camps throughout the nation.

Vocational School Offers Training For Local Farmers

Because of the increasing need of farmers to do more of their farm shop work and repair their own farm tools, the Hebron Vocational Farm Training School will offer the farmers of Boone County an opportunity to get this training under efficient leadership at the Vocational Farm School building at Hebron on Tuesday night, of each week.

The training will be under the direction of James R. Huey, who has been responsible in a large part for the development and progress of the farm training school. All necessary tools and equipment are in the building and will be available for those farmers who desire to take this training.

If you are interested in the course, please contact Mr. Huey for further details.

CASTOR BEANS TO BE GROWN HERE

BY BOONE COUNTY UTOPIA CLUB, FUTURE FARMERS AND 4-H CLUB MEMBERS—WILL HELP SUPPLY OIL.

Boone County Utopia Club, Future Farmers and 4-H Club members will grow castor beans in cooperation with our National Defense program, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

Castor beans supply vital oil that is needed in our National Defense program. The county has been assigned a quota of beans to grow to meet the emergency. The Government is supplying the seed to be grown on farms under the Agricultural Conservation Program. All seed grown will be under contract to the Government at $4 per hundred pounds.

Castor beans yield equally well on land of low fertility compared with more fertile land. The crop from all reports is very easy to raise with the biggest job being picking the beans at regular intervals. This job can be done by children or unexperienced help. Average yields should return around $80.00 per acre.

Dorothy Souther of Burlington has secured enough seed to produce one acre. James Robert Huey, Hebron, Vocational Agricultural leader, has secured seed for Future Farmers Club members. Seed is available this week to 4-H Club members.

Eight pounds of seed are required to plant one acre. Club members growing seed will usually plant from one tenth to one acre.

Seed is available to all farmers who may want to grow this crop. Detail information on growing the crop, and seed is available at the County Agent's office in Burlington. Those who are interested should contact the office at the earliest date possible. All who can grow the seed will be rendering a valuable service to our nation at war.

Chas. A. White Named Corporal

Pvt. Charles Allen White, 24-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles White, of Petersburg, has been appointed a corporal in the Army Air Corps.

Since enlisting in October, 1940, Corp. White has been stationed at Rantoul, Ill., Bowman Field, Louisville; Barksdale, Lr., and Ft. Crockett, Texas. He is now stationed at Ft. Crockett.

Revival Services Scheduled For Florence Methodist Church

Beginning next Sunday, May 17 and running through May 31st a revival will be held at the Florence Methodist Church.

The pastor, F. E. Mosley will deliver an illustrated sermon next Sunday at 11 a. m. title "The Two Ways." This is a unique illustration and appeals to the young and old.

Monday evening, May 18th, Rev. Fielding Howard, Conference Evangelist of the Kentucky Conference will preach, and will fill the pulpit each evening throughout the revival. Rev. Howard is a splendid preacher and has had great success in his meeting.

Hear this real Gospel preacher each evening at 8:15. A hand of welcome is extended to all.

Burlington-Hebron To Exchange Class Plays

The Burlington class play, "Youth Saves the Day" will be given at Hebron high school, Thursday, May 14 at nine o'clock E. W. T., while the Hebron group will give "Little Women" at the Burlington auditorium, Friday evening, May 15th at nine o'clock.

These plays are being repeated for the benefit of Boone County Defense Boards, and proceeds will be turned over to these organizations with the exception of ten percent which will be given to the county defense committee.

Tickets are now on sale at the two high schools.

49 Tomato Growers Produce 110 Acres

Mr. John Woods of the Walton Cannery reports contracts have been signed by 49 Boone County tomato growers who will produce 110 acres in 1942. Canning tomatoes is one of the war crops that the Department of Agriculture has requested maximum production this year.

Mr. Woods states that the Walton Cannery has signed up 350 acres which represents its maximum capacity. Approximately 200 additional acres could have been contracted for had capacity permitted.

John S. Gardner, Garden specialist, College of Agriculture, met with growers at Walton last Friday afternoon and advised with them on fertilizer and cultural practices that would increase the yield of marketable tomatoes.

Seven Baptized At Belleview Church

The Belleview Church of Christ enjoyed an inspirational Mother's Day Memorial service last Lord's Day. The auditorium was beautifully decorated with an array of plants and flowers in honor and memory of the mothers of the various donors.

Mrs. May Williamson received a handsome Study Bible as a prize for being the mother of the largest family present at the service. Ten of Mrs. Williamson's family were present. The families of Mrs. Stevens of the Waterloo neighborhood and Mrs. Will Kruse, missed this honor by one and two descendants, respectively.

Mrs. Badger Buckler was awarded a Bible as the youngest mother and Mrs. Breeze received the same award as the oldest mother. These honorees are twenty-one and seventy-eight respectively.

The pastor of the Church delivered a special sermon for the occasion in which he affirmed that motherhood is so constituted by Almighty God as to give positive assurance that, life, society, and the immortality of the human soul, are immutable facts that shall never be destroyed, regardless of the power or powers that shall seek their destruction.

The ancient Gospel triumphed again, when at the close of the service four fine young men confessed their faith in the Lordship of Jesus Christ. The meeting was then adjourned to Purdy's pond where a record crowd witnessed the immersion of seven who were thereby buried with their Lord through baptism unto death. Those immersed were, Virginia and Everett Stevens, William and John Kruse, Charles Porter Shinkle, Jack Purdy and son Gene.

An apostolic benediction was followed by the group singing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," and the tear-stained but joyous group departed to their several homes having witnessed again the fruitage of the "Faith once for all delivered unto the Saints."

WILL BE SPEAKER AT REVIVAL

Rev. Fielding Howard

Harry Fisher

Harry Fisher, 64 years old, 430 Graves Avenue, Erlanger, died Sunday night, the result of injuries received when fighting with his stepson, George Fisher, 32, same address.

Dr. James P. Riffe, Kenton County Corner, said Fisher died of a brain concussion. He said the rock wielded by the men in the fight weighed 20 lbs., and said that a pocket knife said to have been used by the elder man was unopened.

George Fisher went to the home of Constable Mayo where he gave himself up, stating "I believe I've killed my father."

Philip Tallaferro, Erlanger funeral director was in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Lucy E. Sprague

Mrs. Lucy E. Sprague passed away at her home in Taylorsport, Sunday evening, May 10 at the age of 60 years, after a lingering illness.

She was united in marriage to Clifford Sprague and to this union three sons and one daughter were born. Ten years ago Mrs. Sprague united with the Christian Church at Taylorsport.

She carried the mail on the Star Route between Constance and Taylorsport for the past 25 years, enduring many hardships in order to fulfill her duty.

She is survived by two sons John H. and Owen; a daughter, Mrs. Harold Smith, her third son having died July 10, 1932; eight grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Leslie Aylor; one brother, James Dye and a number of other relatives and friends who will mourn her passing.

Services were held at the Bullock & Catherman funeral home, Tuesday at 2 p. m. with Rev. Orion Erbaugh of the Constance Brethren Church, officiating.

G. F. Schram

G. F. Schram, Florence, Ky., president of the Schram Printing Co., 407 Madison avenue, Covington, died Thursday at Booth Hospital after a long illness. He was 65.

He was an elder of the Florence Christian Church and a member of Burlington Lodge of the Modern Woodmen of America, Venus Lodge No. 154, I. O. O. F., Florence; past master of Good Faith Masonic Lodge, Erlanger, and the Scottish Rite Masonic Lodge, Covington.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Sophie Schram; three sons, John Schram, Florence, and Fred and James Schram, Cincinnati; four daughters, Mrs. Stella Schneider and Mrs. Helen Carpenter, Cincinnati, and Mrs. Clifford Coyle and Mrs. Ralph Cody, Florence; a brother, a sister, nine grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

Tharp & Stith, Florence funeral directors were in charge of arrangements.

Wm. O. Jackson

Wm. O. Jackson, aged 71 years, passed away Friday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Nell Craig, 704 Dixie Highway, Erlanger, after an illness of 7 years. The remains were removed to the Taliaferro funeral home for preparation.

In addition to his daughter he is survived by one son Francis Jackson and two brothers Lum and Robert Jackson.

The pallbearers were Jess Vastine, Ted Vastine, Sherman Vastine, Joe Cahill, Herman Jackson, and Marshall Easybuck.

Funeral services were conducted Monday at 2:30 by Rev. C. B. Coots at the Taliaferro funeral home. Burial was in Florence cemetery.

LOCAL MAN HELD IN WOOL THEFTS

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-ONE POUNDS OF WOOL STOLEN FROM FARMS IN GRANT COUNTY.

Theft of wool weighing a total of 141 pounds from the farms of James Taylor on the Dixie Highway south of Sherman, Ky., Monday night, and of Marion Gibson, Taft Highway west of Dry Ridge, Grant County, Wednesday night, resulted in the arrest of four persons Thursday by officials of Grant and Kenton Counties when the loot was sold in Cincinnati.

Accused of the theft were Milton Baker, Burlington Pike; his wife, Mrs. Loraine Baker, 20 years old; Shirley Shoemaker, 43, Latonia, and a fifteen-year-old girl who was visiting the Baker home.

Baker and Shoemaker were arrested in Cincinnati by Sheriff Louis Henderson of Grant County and Deputy Sheriff Richard Menke of Kenton County after they had disposed of the wool at a Cincinnati commission house.

Mrs. Baker and the girl were taken into custody later. Mrs. Baker, the girl, and Shoemaker made confessions before Miss Hettie Franxman, stenographer in Kenton Circuit Court, Covington, before being turned over to Grant County officials.

Mrs. Baker said in her confession that the party left home around 4 o'clock Monday afternoon and drove toward Dry Ridge. She said her husband got out of the car. When he came back he had some wool sacks.

On Wednesday, she said, Shoemaker accompanied them on a drive during which her husband and Shoemaker left the car and returned with a quantity of wool. Shoemaker said he had been invited to ride by Baker.

Commission houses were notified to be on the lookout, and Kenton County authorities were notified when Baker appeared to sell the wool. He was detained under a pretext until the authorities could reach the commission house.

Erlanger Man Injured In Crash Near Florence

Stanley Beable, 18, Riggs Road, Erlanger, received internal injuries and cuts on the face and head when a car he was driving ran off the road near Florence, according to Sheriff J. T. Williams. The accident occurred Sunday.

Williams took Beable to St. Elizabeth Hospital. Attendants described Beagle's condition as fair.

Miss Elizabeth Ann James, of Evansville, Ind., is spending several days with Miss Geraldine Yelton, of this place.

PROGRAM PLAN BEING SET UP

FOR BOONE COUNTY 4-H AND UTOPIA CLUB FAIR GROUNDS—BUILDINGS AND LAKE TO BE COMPLETED THIS YEAR.

The Boone County 4-H and Utopia Council is developing plans for a Fair Grounds building program that will be carried out over a period of years. This year's plans call for the construction of a lake, secretary's office, speaker's stand, toilets, floral hall and lunch stand.

The grounds improvement is being greatly handicapped by the war emergency and lack of funds. However, every effort is being made to get the ground in the most usable state of development at the earliest possible date. Everyone is showing a splendid spirit of cooperation in the program.

Professor N. R. Elliott, landscape architect of the College of Agriculture, visited the grounds the past week and stated they represented the finest location he had seen in th State. He advised that the grounds under the proposed plan were ideal for landscaping and for locating buildings. He promised cooperation and assistance in further planning this work.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

TUESDAY: THE DAY OF CONFLICT

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 22:41—23:11.
GOLDEN TEXT—The stone which the builders rejected is become the head of the corner.—Mark 12:10.

"By what authority doest thou these things? and who gave thee this authority?" Such was the challenge Christ faced when He came into the temple on the last day that He was to be able to teach there. The chief priests and elders (Matt. 21:23) asked it because they knew that they had received their authority with their offices, whether appointive or hereditary.

Jesus held no such position, yet He had just driven the money changers out of what He called "my house" — the temple. They challenged Him, and through the long day He answered and also asked them questions. Here we find a rich store of parables, illustrations, unanswerable arguments, as He met the Pharisees, Sadducees, Herodians —all His enemies who, though they hated each other, made common cause against Jesus. The discussion concludes with His facing of the Pharisees with

I. The Ultimate Question—"What Think Ye of the Christ?" (22:41-46).

The crux of the entire matter was right there for them, as it is for us, though in a somewhat different sense. They were looking for the Messiah—the Christ; but their idea of Him was that He would come as their royal leader, to break the yoke of Roman bondage and set them free. They knew He was to be the son of David, but they did not see in their own Scriptures that this one was to be David's greater son (Matt.12:42); that in the line of David was to come the one whom David "in the spirit" called "Lord" (Ps. 110:1). They knew about Christ, but they did not know Him, and thus they were like many today. They have heard of Him; they may even admire His character and His teachings, but they do not know Him. What think you, reader, of Christ? Christ then states

II. The Final Test—Doing, Not Just Saying (23:1-4).

Having finally closed their mouths (22:46) Jesus proceeded to a solemn indictment of the scribes and Pharisees. First of all He declared that they failed in the final test of life, which is not words but actions.

Notice that He recognized their authority and their teaching, but in severe condemnation pointed out that they did not live what they professed. That is the criterion by which we shall all be judged. Those who think that because they belong to some church, or subscribe to a creed, or speak a smooth word of testimony they may then live as they please, will find themselves standing with the scribes and Pharisees on the judgment day. Why keep that kind of company?

Such men are capable of

III. The Great Hypocrisy—Pride Posing As Piety (23:5-9).

They were, oh, so religious! Interpreting literally and mechanically God's command that they keep His law always near them in action (hand) and in thought (mind) (see Deut. 6:8; 11:18), they made showy leather cases and wore them on wrist and forehead as containers of the written Word. They loved the chief seats and the titles of distinction. And all this was done in the name of religion. What hypocrisy!

But wait — are we any better? What about the preacher who is not happy unless he is invited into the pulpit? What about those who take or accept the titles which our Lord expressly forbids? What about those in the pew, as much as in the pulpit (and perhaps more), who want to be recognized as "the masters" of the church? To be sure, they do not always wish it to be so crudely put as that, but they do expect to be recognized as such "or else—." This too, under the name of Christianity. There indeed is the great hypocrisy!

We are thankful that our lesson does not close here. Our Lord next revealed

IV. The Right Attitude—Service Not Recognition (23:10, 11).

He that is mastered of Christ is ready to be the servant of all. To exalt Him is to at once do away with self-praise and self-glory. Pride in position, and the desire to be praised and recognized by men, inevitably lead a man into a pitfall in which he is humbled. On the other hand, the one who in humility serves the Lord will, to his own surprise, find that God has exalted him. The way up is down.

"Torrey," said a well-known preacher with whom Dr. Torrey was associated in a great conference, "you and I are the most important men in Christian work in this country." Not long afterward God set that man aside. Quite different was the spirit of D. L. Moody, who at the height of his ministry for God would say, "There are better men here behind me on the platform to speak when I am through"—and he really believed it!

A man wrapped up in himself makes a very small package—Doughty News.

A garage fire in Brooklyn destroyed more than 10 autos. Many families lost everything they had.—Life.

Typical shopping scene, First Floor Departments. Looking towards Madison Avenue entrance. You'll find each of the four floors of the New Coppin's equally interesting, with their modern arrangement, and open displays of the season's authentic styles and best values gathered for your selection.

GOOD NEWS travels fast! One neighbor tells another. That must be the reason we had the pleasure, in 1941, of serving 28,365 more customers than in 1940. Notice the number from your county alone.

You friends, who visited the New Coppin's during recent months, evidently spread the news about the many improvements made for your pleasure and convenience—the spacious new Seventh Street windows for exciting "window shopping;" the wide, uncrowded aisles with their resilient Flexatile floor; the unobstructed view from department to department, with natural daylight flooding all sections.

You've evidently told your friends about the smart new fixtures and displays in each department, presenting wide varieties of merchandise that invite you to stop, examine, compare. And about the modern new lounge, with its attractive "powder bar" and shadowless lighting.

And you ladies tell us that the New Coppin's second floor Ready-to-Wear Department brings you a new pleasure in shopping. Here, in an atmosphere of ease and convenience, you choose from lovely creations gathered from the nation's style centers. Here you find styles, sizes and varieties for yourself, for the children, for the 'teen ages, to make your shopping a grand success!

Don't miss visiting our enlarged Third Floor Home Furnishings Department. See the wide selections of the newest in everything from draperies to floor coverings. Here's real inspiration for giving fresh charm to your home this spring.

In every department, the new features installed represent our method of expressing our thanks for your patronage. And our program calls for continued improvements, so that our many thousands of old friends, and our 28,365 new friends, may continue to say—"It's always a pleasure to shop at Coppin's."

This Week On The Home Front

Steel is the number 1 raw material of victory, and during the past week, the War Production Board emphasized the fact by ordering manufacturers to cease using this major war metal in more than 400 commodities of civilian use.

The steel order is so drastic and far-reaching that as time passes, it will work remarkable changes in our way of life. Scores of things we have come to accept as essential to our standard of living will no longer be made at all after a 90-day tapering off period, and gradually will disappear from the shelves of the merchant.

The WPB scrutinized the list of domestic tools, utensils, gadgets and building supplies of all kinds, and cut every ounce of steel possible out of them.

Some of the prohibitions may have been trivial, but they were not. For example, it was discovered that a class of toilet articles like manicure scissors, nail files and nippers, cuticle pushers, hairpins and bobby pins and tweezers and gadgets for squeezing blackheads, consumed 1,815 tons of steel in 1941, enough to make more than 170 big 155 millimeter guns—the blackhead squeezers alone claiming enough steel for four such guns.

• • •

Factories that make such things must convert to war production.

The War Production Board, however, is attaching the steel situation on more than one front. All over the nation the agents of the Auto Graveyard Section of the Bureau of Industrial Conservation are scouring the towns and cities and farms in a drive to push the wrecked and worn out jalopies through the "auto graveyards" into the hungry steel furnaces.

• • •

The "auto graveyard" owners, too many of whom have been hoarding their old cars for their spare parts business are being told they must move those cars out of their yards to the mills by July 1, and replace them with others. In Ohio alone, the BIC expects to collect nearly 80,000 tons of auto scrap during the current two months, and 200,000 tons by the end of the year.

• • •

Two western scrap metal dealers were put out of business for three months because they refused to fill three WPB allocation orders. They are Rueben and Ralph Finkelstein, doing business in Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas.

• • •

In all the major shopping centers of the nation this week OPA officials are holding meetings with retail merchants explaining the operation of the new General Maximum Price Regulation. OPA urges us to be patient with our retail store keepers while the new price ceiling is going into effect. OPA points out that "the regulations impose many novel and difficult burdens on retailers and their suppliers" and that "the long run success of the program requires the complete co-operation of the consumer."

• • •

Here is OPA's three-point guide to shoppers:

1. Before July 1 educate yourself as to how the price rules work but don't try to be a price policeman.

2. After July 1, report established violations to war price and rationing boards.

3. For the duration, remember that you have a personal obligation to buy at or below the ceiling price and the plan won't work unless you make it work.

• • •

Offic of Defense Transportation—ODT—in the alphabetical list of war agencies—becomes more and more in evidence. It now bans all grain shipments on the great lakes. This means that 3,000,000 tons of shipping capacity in 340 boats, for ore transportation. Order is effective Friday, this week.

• • •

Copies of p ans to mobilize the entire country for war conservation of private and public transportation are now in the hands of all the governors and the mayors of all towns of 10,000 people or over. Program of ODT. There'll be local administrators and state administrators. Program is in three parts: (1) Stagger of business, school and work hours; (2) Improved traffic regulations; (3) group riding, in private autos to and from work. ODT study shows care are being run, carrying an average of less than two persons, when most hol 1 five or six.

• • •

WPB asks all utility systems to discontinue installation of all street lighting extensions except those needed for public safety, for the duration.

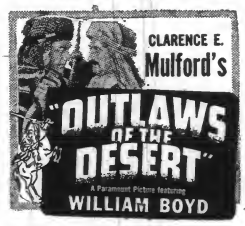
• • •

Movies are now hit by war restrictions. Without WPB approval, producers cannot spend more than $5,000 on materials for sets, which cost ordinarily between $10,000 and $150,000. Most movie sets are made of material salvaged from old, so only about 25 per cent of the sets cost above $5,000 for new material. WPB must approve higher costs.

Most of our spices come from East and West Indies. Available shipping is used for war supplies and naval enemy has stopped most of rest. So WPB has restricted distribution of black pepper, allspice, cinnamon, cloves, ginger, nutmeg, mace, 50 to 75 percent. However, supply now hand will last an estimated 12 to 18 months.

• • •

One third of ordinary pins are made of brass. This production will stop after June 15, because WPB has forbidden use of copper alloys in 100 odd civilian products. Banned is the copper metal for neon signs and flourescent tubes for advertising.



• • •

Furniture industry, second largest producer of the "consumer durables" a billion dollar annual business, must convert to war work. It will make airplane parts chiefly wooden and metal. Wooden training planes and gliders will be produced. In the same process the machine tool shops for furniture making, will also convert.

A Week of The War

Price Administrator Henderson issued a General Price Regulation placing rigid Government controls over retail and wholesale prices for the duration of the war.

Beginning May 11, manufacturer and wholesale prices may not exceed highest March 1942 levels for each individual seller. Beginning May 18, retail prices may not exceed highest levels charged by each seller during March. Beginning July 1 no one may charge more for services sold at retail in connection with a commodity than he charged during March. All retailers, manufacturers, wholesalers and sellers of services must preserve for pricing purposes existing sales records made during March. Every retail store as of May 18 must display publicly the ceiling prices for "cost-of-living" commodities.

Agricultural commodities are excluded from the order. Various other items which do not conform with the Price Control Act's definiti onof a "commodity" are exempt also. In addition Mr. Henderson issued orders for rent stabilization in 300 areas of 46 States and Puerto Rico, housing more than 76 million persons. Four-fifths of the rents will be frozen as of March 1, 1942. The remainder were ordered cut back to early 1941 levels.

President Roosevelt said the cost of living has advanced about 15 percent since the autumn of 1939, and "we must now act to keep it from soaring another 80 percent or 90 percent during the next year or two—to hold it to somewhere near the present level." The President said "the only effective course of action is a simultaneous attack on all of the factors which increase the cost of living . . . prices, profits wages, taxes and debts."

Rationing

The Office of Price Administration said five different gasoline ration cards will be distributed during registration in 17 Eastern States and the District of Columbia May 12-14. One card will be for nonessential users and the other four will designate varying degrees of essential users. Commercial and Government users of gasoline will be exempt from the card rationing plan, OPA said, and such vehicles need not be registered if they are plainly marked.

The OPA announced appointment of 60 specialists to OPA offices throughout the country to serve as technical aides in handling problems arising from the sugar rationing program. Motor vehicles in essential services may not have new tires if recapped ones will serve their purposes, the Agency said. New and used typewriters are not under quota restrictions but are available to eligibles who can establish their need for them, OPA reported.

War Strategy

The President in a radio address said American warships are in combat in the Arctic, Mediterranean and in the North and South Pacific. American troops are at stations in South America, Greenland, Iceland, the British Isles, the Middle East and the Far East, the continent of Australia and many islands of the Pacific. American planes manned by Americans are flying in actual combat over all the oceans and all the continents, he said, and Flying Fortresses will soon be fighting for the liberation of Europe. Australia, New Zealand and much other territory will be bases for offensive action, the President said, and the U. S. is determined that the territory which has been lost will be regained.

Admiral William Stark, Commanding U. S. Naval Forces in European waters, said the submarine menace off the U. S. Atlantic Coast is being beaten. Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Australia reported a six-day aerial offensive by United Nations' bombers, against Japanese bases north of Australia destroyed more than 50 enemy planes, sank one transport and inflicted heavy damage on enemy ground installations.

Army And Selective Service

The War Department established an Eastern Military Area, including all of the Atlantic seaboard. Secretary Stimson said no mass exacuations of citizens are contemplated, but vital areas will be policed to prevent potentially dangerous persons from entering them. The Army announced establishment of "Port Agencies" in principal U. S. seaports to coordinate and speed shipment of war supplies to all United Nations. Mail to American prisoners of war in the Far East whose names have appeared on official lists of the Provost Marshal General may be sent postage free, the Red Cross said.

College students enrolling in advanced ROTC courses will be required to enlist in the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps if they have reached the age of 18, the War Department said.

70 MILLION AMERICANS Live "IN-BETWEEN"

"In-Between" great metropolitan centers—on farms, in cross-roads communities, in small towns—more than half of America's people live and work. Greyhound offers the only transportation service to great numbers of them—offers unduplicated service to still greater numbers. More and more, as private cars are retired, they'll depend on Greyhound to keep moving to keep America moving!

Long Illness And Your Feet

N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE
814-816 Madison, Covington

Long illness or long convalescence often may be the cause of painful muscle spasm in the lower limb and foot. In either circumstance long periods of inactivity, lack of exercise, coupled with the weakened condition of the body, cause the muscles to lose tone and become weak and flabby.

The foot, while lying, as in bed, cannot and is not, held in a normal position in relation to the limbs and rest of the body. The foot is held in an extended position, which allows a shortening of the large muscles in the back of the limb, and allows the weaker muscles in the front of the limb to stretch.

When partial strength, to the patient, is restored and he finally is allowed to walk, it is imperative that the bones of the foot are properly supported in shoes designed to distribute body weight evenly over the whole bottom surface of the foot, and to relieve further, the strain on the muscles, ligaments and tendons, until normal strength and muscle tone return.

An ordinary "strong looking" shoe is not the solution to this problem. Ordinary shoes with so-called arch supports and flat base planes, can only allow the foot condition to degrees further.

At this time special attention should be paid to the inner construction of the shoe. The base construction and inner foundation of the shoe should be shaped to the NORMAL CONTOUR of the bottom of a NORMAL FOOT. The inside of the shoe should resemble the normal foot print in soft turf or sand.

Such a shoe with sound construction and foot shaped base planes is found in an especially built surgical shoe.—Adv.

Gayety Theater News

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY
Double Feature

For several years, ever since she played Irene Dunne's daughter in "Showboat," Sunnie O'Dea's ambition has been to become a fine dramatic actress instead of a dancer.

Her recent screen appearances indicate that Sunnie may soon have her choice of the two careers.

The dancing starlet of stage and screen has her first "straight" role since the 1936 success, in Universal's "Moonlight in Hawaii," scheduled for the Gayety.

Luli Desti, Hollywood's newest brunette siren, introduces a new element in the famous "Hopalong Cassidy" series staring Bill "Hoppy" Boyd. She characterizes the first real vixen female in the latest of the cowboy thrillers, "Outlaws of the Desert." The film also marks the first time that "Hoppy" world-famous western sleuth, leaves his favorite locale and travels half-way around the world to adventure in Arabia.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

The "Boomps-a-Daisy" dance, which was such a rage in London and Paris a few seasons ago, but which never gained much headway in the United States, is performed in Universal's "Paris Calling," which stars the popular Continental actress, Elizabeth Bergner, in her first American-made production.

She co-stars with Randolph Scott in the film, with Basil Rathbone, Gale Sondergaard, Edward Ciannelli and William Edmunds in principal supporting roles.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

Broadway and Hollywood just don't see eye to eye, and that makes life interesting for Raymond Massey.

In his latest picture, "Dangerously They Live" with John Garfield, he is enacting a "heavy." In fact, whenever Massey takes a picture—with the exception of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," in which he played Lincoln—he is always being cast as a menace.

THE FORGOTTEN SAILOR

Just who is that Sailor
With such misery on his pan?
Oh he's the mailman's menace
—The Navy's forgotten man.

It's the saddest sight to see,
That face with the lonely stare,
As he watches so wistfully,
All the letters sorted there.

Every day the same old way,
The mail clerk says, "No Letters."
And wished the fellow's girl friend
Would treat the poor guy better.

Every night taps sound out,
He forgets about his sorrow,
And he tells his shipmates all about,
The letter "I will get tomorrow."

The other day I heard him yell,
"A letter—what a thrill."
And then his face slowly fell,
—And he sighed, "Just another bill."

Oh we hope he gets his letter,
Just as soon as he can,
Cause we feel much sadder watching
—"The Navy's Forgotten Man."

MONEY TALKS

by
Frederick W. Stamm, Economist and Director of Adult Education UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

The problem of securing enough farm labor to harvest our crops is rapidly becoming one of major importance. Right now millions of dollars worth of garden crops are going to waste because of labor shortage in New Jersey and other eastern states. Hundreds of acres of asparagus, needed by our Army and Navy, already have gone to waste. Because of labor shortages many truck farmers are cancelling their contracts to grow tomatoes, an important leand-lease commodity.

Regional Director Wood of the Farm Security Administration calls this situation "a Battan on the farm front" and attributes the shortage to the drafting of farm labor, the high wages paid in defense industries, the tire rationing, and the impending gasoline restrictions.

The farm labor situation is not likely to improve as the harvesting season progresses. Mr. Wood hinted that labor shortages were likely to develop in many of our midwestern agricultural states and that farmers should cooperate, as much as possible, to harvest the crops which have been planted.

We have heard it said, "An army travels on its stomach." If this is true, the production of agricultural commodities is as vital to our success in war as is our production of guns. The Federal Government has pledged all possible aid to the farmer this summer so that the maximum amount of food may be produced for ourselves and our allies.

CONSTANCE HOMEMAKERS

Constance Homemakers held their May meeting on Wednesday May 6th at the home of Mrs. Hattie Davis. The meeting was called to ordr by our chairman, Mrs. Fanny Peeno. All members present read a prayer collect for club women.

Mrs. Moore, Demonstration Agent and Mrs. Nichols gave the lesson on "Meal Planning" for community affairs, planning for large groups.

Mrs. Peeno spoke on the District meeting held at Paris, Ky., which she and several members attended.

Mrs. Nell Kottmyer spoke on the Flower Show held at Florence, May 2nd, giving directions in planting and keeping tulip bulbs.

Mrs. Moore also told how imporant it is for everyone to take special care of woolen clothing.

Our next meeting on June 3rd will be held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Kenyon.

HOME NURSING CLASSES FOR BOONE COUNTY

Any community in Boone County desiring a Home Nursing Class, and can obtain over 18 women desiring to take this course, may have the services of the County Nurse for teaching if they will make arrangements immediately.

These classes must be organized within the next two weeks in order to complete them in time for other activities which are planned.

If you are interested and get up a class in your community, please get in touch with any of the following persons: Rev. J. Russell Cross, Walton; Mrs. J. K. Cropper, Burlington; Miss Lucy Lee Grant, Burlington R. D.; Mrs. Jane Utz, Florence; Mrs. Walter Ferguson, Union; Mrs. Lula Huey, Walton; Miss Elizabeth C. Lowry, Burlington.

RECORDS SHOW HOW SOME FLOCKS PAY

Some farmers say chickens pay; other farmers say they don't. Then some have records which give the facts. Adair county poultry keepers furnished County Agent R. B. Rankin with the following records for March:

Mrs. Autry Janes' flock of 90 White Rocks laid 1,844 eggs, or an average of 20½ each. Receipts totaled $53.62; feed cost $15.85, leaving a profit of $37.77.

Mrs. Ira Branham's flock of 97 White Rocks laid 2,100 eggs. Receipts were $59.45, and food cost $16.75, leaving a profit of $42.70.

Mrs. Ira Branham's flocks of 97 White Rocks laid 2,100 eggs. Receipts were $59.45, and feed cost $16.75, leaving a profit of $42.70.

Mrs. Herman Wesley's 190 White Leghorns laid 3,818 eggs. Receipts were $78.86, feed cost $30.85, and the profit was $48.01.

IN APPRECIATION

The following released was received by Locad Draft Board 9 from State Headquarters for Selective Service, Louisville, Ky:

Memorandum To All
Local Boards

Subject: Fourth Registration

My dear Mr. Chairman and Board Members:

Again it is the desire of the State Director, on behalf of Governor Johnson and the entire staff of State, Hedaquarters, to express the deepest appreciation for the splendid cooperation shown by you, your associates, your clerical assistants and the many volunteers in handling the Fourth Registration so successfully. It will not be out of place to record our abiding gratitude for your continuing efforts for our Nation in coping with the many problems arising in these vital days. Your interest and devotion to the duties you have voluntarily assumed cannot be too highly commended, and the personnel of State Headquarters counts it a privilege to be associated with such patriotic public officials as make up the Selective Service System in Kentucky.

Very sincerely,
FRANK D. RASH,
State Director.

The local Seelctive Service Board wishes to thank all who so kindly gave their services, especially the teachers and members of Boone Post No. 4 American Legion.

Mrs. N. O. Hicks, of Louisville, spent from Wednesday until Friday of last week visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Arvin.

TRUCKS AND LABOR AVAILABLE FOR SCRAP MATERIAL COLLECTION

Frankfort, Ky.—WPA trucks and labor will be made available for use in the collection of scrap material now lying abandoned upon Kentucky farms as a result of an agreement entered into by the War Production Board and the WPA, Judge E. C. O'Rear, Chairman of the Kentucky Salvage Committee, announced today.

The WPA trucks will supplement, rather than replace, other collection means now in use such as State highway trucks and other vehicles, it was emphasized.

The plan will first be put into effect in a number of counties to determine its potentialities, G. Lee McClain, Executive Secretary, said and its coritinuance, as well as its use by other counties, will be discretionary upon the part of the local county directors of the salvage program.

Each farmer in the State, under the plan, would receive a letter from Donald M. Nelson, head of the War Production Board, emphasizing the need for scrap metal, rubber and other essential war materials. The letters will also contain a card to be returned to McclainÍs office upon which the farmer will indicate the amount of scrap material, as he chooses.

The card will in turn, be turned over to the WPA who will call for the material in trucks. The farmer will be given a receipt for the amount of scrap taken and a check will be mailed to him when the scrap has been sold at public auction to dealers who must prepare and ship it to war factories and mills within sixty days.

"The farms of the State are a veritable store-house of scrap material," General McClain declared. "In three counties alone, during the past month, more than one and one-half million pounds of scrap material were collected. Lewis County, for example, contributed 340 tons of scrap iron in one month.

McClain added that the State Highway Department is presently engaged in making a survey of abandoned bridges to determine the potential amonut of scrap material which can be obtained from their demolition. The bridges would be offered at public auction and their purchasers would sell them upon the scrap market.

COLLEGE FRESHMEN OFFERED TRAINING

To meet a need for at least 35,000 junior commissioned officers every year, the United States Navy is offering to college freshmen and sophomores an opportunity to continue their academic work to qualify themselves for training as Naval Officers. The new program of officer procurement is explained in an announcement by Lieut. Trusdell Wisner, assistant inspector of recuiting in this area, who has charge of the enlistment of college freshmen and sophomores to swell the Navy's roster of commissioned officers.

"For officers' billets at sea and in the air," Lieut. Wisner explained, "the Navy wants the best educated young Americans it can get." For this reason the Navy is now encouraging college freshmen and sophomores to enlist for Naval officers training and at the same time to go right on with their regular college course. Only academic subjects required by the Navy are one year each of college mathematics, phisics and English.

Men enlisted under the program will take classifying examination after one and one half years of college work. "In this examination, which is no more difficult than a college exam for passing from one class to the class above, "Lieut. Wisner explained, "the Navy will seek to find how straight a young man thinks and what his aptitude is." He added, "What the Navy is looking for is the young man in good health who has demonstrated his ability to make passing grades in college."

Each year, 20,000 such men, at the end of their second calendar year of college, will have a chance to volunteer for training leading in about 10 months to Ensign's commissions in the Naval Air Arm. On successful completion of training, these men will be assigned to duty at a monthly salary of $205, plus allowances.

Another 15,000 men will be chosen at the end of the second college year to continue with their college classes up to a baccalaureate degree and will then be assigned to four months training to fit them to become deck and engineering officers with the fleet. Such officers, as Ensigns, receive up to $183 a month, including allowances.

Details of the program may be had through college deans or at any Navy Recruiting Station. Candidates for enlistment under this program must be between the ages of 17 through 19 inclusive.

MORE SCRAP NEEDED FROM KENTUCKY FARMS SAYS WAR BOARD HEAD

Recent reports from county USDA War Boards throughout Kentucky indicate that there is still more than enough scrap iron on farms in the State to build a 35,000 ton battleship, M. D. Royse, Kentucky USDA War Board Chairman, announces.

These reports show, Royse pointed out, that less than half the scrap on farms has been collected and sold and that steps should be taken immediately to speed up collections.

Only 46 of the county war boards reported said that half or more of the scrap on farms has been collected and sold and that steps should be taken immediately to speed up collections.

Only 46 of the county war boards reporting said that half or more of the scrap on their farms has been collected, the War Board chairman states.

Ten counties reported collecting 500 tons or more of scrap metal since the drive began. These counties are Clark, Fayette, Hart, Jefferson, Jessamine, Logan, Nelson, Perry, Union, and Warren.

The total amount of scrap collected and moved from farms in Kentucky up to March 15 was 17,744 tons.

"Kentucky farmers have an unusually heavy responsibility in producing hemp, soybeans for oil, milk, meat and eggs for the war program," Royse says, "but we must spend every minute we can spare in collecting scrap to keep other vital war production industries moving."

Sugar Points Given By Mary S. Moore

Are you concerned about how to stretch your sugar ration to reach around to all the sweetening needs of your household? If you are, Mrs. Mary S. Moore, Acting Home Demonstration Agent, offers suggestions for using substitutes:

1. One and one-half cups of molasses, corn syrup and maple syrup should be used for every cup of sugar ordinarily used.

2. Three-fourths of a cup of honey is equal to a cup of sugar.

3. One-fourth cup of liquid should be subtracted for each cup of any of these liquids used.

4. One-fourth teaspoon of soda should be added for each cup of honey, molasses and maple syrup.

Sugar contains no vitamins or minerals, so the important problem is to learn how to substitute for this sweet in food preparation. Prepared cake mixtures, pudding powders, gelatin products will come in for their place in sugar "stretching." Dried fruits, properly prepared need little or no sugar (soak for 18 to 24 hours at room temperature before cooking). Fresh fruits are satisfying, nutritious substitutes for candy or between meal eating.

A Gift From The Patriotic Citizen Of Boone County

Before England organized its own blood-donation centers, the American Red Cross collected and shipped 17,000 plasma units to Britain. A year ago our own government asked the public for a like amount. From these first donations shipments were made to Pearl Harbor and the Philippines.

Blood is being collected today at Red Cross centers in 18 cities. The taking of the blood is handled by trained nurses under the supervision of skilled physicians. It is a simple and painless process, requiring about 15 minutes. Each blood unit, in a carefully sterilized bottle, goes at once to a laboratory where the plasma is separated from the blood cells, dehydrated and frozen.

Here is a gift which, unlike money, unlike time or even work, is a part of yourself.

VERONA
(Delayed)

May Day at the school house was well attended by parents and patrons. The displays of the different rooms were good and showed much work by both teachers and pupils. The games and contests were interesting and greatly enjoyed by the children.

The pre-school clinic was well attended, lacking only one pupil of being 100 percent of those entering school next fall. Miss Lowry awarded the blue ribbons in health which were awarded the following: Althea Hooks, Jay Beach, Bobby Gordon, eJsse Powers, Marion A. Waller, Mildred Porter, Harvey Kannady, Billie M. Waller and Joyce Ryan.

In addition to the teachers, the following helped in the sugar rationing beginning Monday, May 4: Frances McCormick, Relda Powers, Sarah King, Helen Chipman and Pattie Waller.

Ben Elliott delivered a new oil stove to the P.-T. A., Monday.

COUNTYWIDE SCRAP DRIVE PLANNED

AIRPORT PROJECT NOW ASSURED

PROVIDING KENTON COUNTY CAN OBTAIN OPTIONS—WPA CAN BEGIN WORK ON 15-30 DAYS NOTICE.

The Work Projects Administration is ready to proceed with its part in construction of the Middle Ohio Valley Airport in Boone County, and can start work upon 15 to 30 days notice, George Goodman, State WPA Administrator, told the Kenton Fiscal Court in a conference at Louisville last week.

In the delegation calling upon Goodman to obtain assure that the WPA would participate in construcfure of the airport were Acting Kenton County Judge John H. Kleete, County Commissioners Hugh Smith and Michael Finan, A. A. Hohnhorst, County Auditor, Gregory Hughes, member of a holding company formed to finance the airport, and Fred Rauch.

Goodman told the delegation that plans had been approved by the WPA, which has received a grant of $216,000 for the project.

According to the delegation, Goodman said he was very favorably impressed with the project, asserting that it undoubtedly would be of great benefit to Northern Kentucky. He urged speed on the part of the county in making the airport site ready for the WPA to begin work.

Goodman asserted that the WPA would need 15 to 30 days to get equipment on the grounds after receiving the order to proceed.

The order is dependent upon completion of surveys for a new road to the site, obtaining of options upon the required land, and completion of financial plans.

Youth Revival Set At Local Baptist Church May 24-31st

Beginning Sunday, May 24th through May 31st there will be a revival at the Burlington Baptist Church, with Rev. A. C. Colvin, of Louisville as the speaker and Joe Rouse of Florence in charge of music, supported by a splendid young people's choir.

"We feel that this will prove to be of great value to the life of the young people and to the entire community life. It should be of interest to all and we are inviting all young people of Boone County to attend," Rev. Johnson, pastor said.

Rev. Colvin is a very fine young preacher, and has just finished his seminary course at Louisville, Ky.

Come, enjoy these great hours with the people of God.

All girls are asked to bring sandwiches and cookies.

Day-White

Lieut. Harold C. White and Miss Catherine Day, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Day, of Burlington were quietly married at the home of Rev. W. N. Roundely at Fairfax, Va., on Saturday evening May 2nd.

Miss Bettie Day, sister of the bride and Lieut. Vernon Ramberly a friend of Lieut White were the attendants. Others guests were Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Day, Mrs. Lou Williamson and Mrs. J. Cam white.

Miss Day graduated in the class of '40 at the Burlington High School and was employed by Goldsmith, of Cincinnati.

Lieut. White is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cam White, of Belleview. He is a graduate of the Burlington High School in the class of '34. He attended the College of Engineers at U. of K. and University of Cincinnati.

He was employed by Seagram Co., of Lawrenceburg, Ind., until he was inducted into the Army on September 8, 1941.

He was stationed at Ft. L. E. Wood, Mo., until February when he was transferred to Ft. Belvoir Va., and later commissioned.

Lieut. and Mrs. White will reside at 421 Clifford Ave., Alexandria, Va., for the present time..

Their host of friends wish them the best that life can offer.

RALLY DAY IS WELL ATTENDED

TWO HUNDRED PERSONS REPRESENTING 10 FOUR-H CLUBS PRESENT AT MEETING HELD SATURDAY.

More than 200 persons representing the 10 local 4-H Clubs attended the Boone County 4-H Spring Rally held Saturday at the Burlington School. Wanda Pennington, New Haven, was acclaimed champion in the Style Dress Revue, and will represent Boone County in the State contest at Junior Week. The meeting was called to order by H. R. Forkner, at 11:00 a. m. (E. W. T.) The program was concluded with the awarding of ribbons about 4:00 p. m.

Community singing led by Mrs. Mary S. Moore, and accompanied by Louise McArthur, Grant, opened the general program. "The More We Get Together' 'and the "4-H Plowing Song" were sung. H R. Forkner called the roll of the clubs which was answered by standing delegations and a report of that club's work given by a club officer. Franklin Frazier outlined summer activities of the 4-H organizations and urged young people to participate in all events.

"Keep 'Em Flying" was sung by Bobby Green of the Burlington Club, followed by a talk "Why I am a 4-H Club Member" by Wanda Pennington. Mr. E. E. Fish, Field Agent in 4-H Club work, Lexington, was introduced. His remarks to the group were complimentary of 4-H work in the county and anticipatory of future 4-H activities.

The principal speaker was D. H. Norris, Superintendent of Boone County Schools and Chairman of the County 4-H Council. "Bonds and Stamps for 4-H Club Members" was his subject. He praised the response given by the young people in the county schools where several thousand dollars worth of stamps have been purchased. He pointed out that the expense of this war falls on each individual and that each should avail himself of this opportunity to loan financial support to the government through project work or otherwise.

The group was then divided into two groups which were led in games by Mrs. Moore and Mr. Frazier.

A picnic lunch was served in the lunch room. Four-H club leaders on the lunch committee were Mrs. Geo. Kobman, Mrs. Virgil Grayson, Florence; Mrs. Walter Pennington, New Haven; Mildred King, Walton; Mary Rector, Petersburg.

The big feature of the day was the exhibit of clothing made by girls in that project. Fifty girls from 9 clubs entered 130 pieces which they had made in their sewing units. After lunch, costumes were modeled by the seam-

Rally Day Winners Will Compete In District Contest

Winners in the Farm Practice and Home Demonstration team contest at Rally Day, Saturday, will represent Boone County in the District Contest to be held at Williamstown on Friday, May 22.

Four-H members who will attend and subjects of their demonstrations are as follows: Elaine Gardner and Bernice Sebree, Florence, "Use of Commercial Dress Patterns"; Cecil Kenyon and Earl Washmuth, Constance, "New Electric Lamp Brooder"; Bernice Sebree will give an individual demonstration titled "Do's and Don'ts in Vegetable Preparation So as to Retain Vitamins and Minerals."

Winners at the District contest will compete in the State demonstration contest at the University of Kentucky during Junior Week, June 1-6.

Misses Mary Bess Cropper and Dorothy Nell Furnish spent last Sunday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harry Holtzclaw and family, of Ft. Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Maurer, Mr. and Mrs. William Jarrell and daughter spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Maurer and daughter.

SHEEP SHEARING WELL UNDER WAY

MOST OF BOONE COUNTY'S 16,000 OLD SHEEP WILL BE SHEARED DURING NEXT TWO WEEKS.

Boone County sheepmen began the past week the sheep shearing job in earnest. Most of Boone County's 16,000 old sheep will be sheared during the next two weeks, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

Most of the Boone County Wool clip grades 3-8 and quarter blood which are two of the highest priced grades. Following are a few important points that will help produce more valuable wool at the market dellvery points:

1. Never shear sheep when the wool is wet or even damp. Buyers do not want wet wool and usually want to give a dock on wet wool.

2. Tag and pick out the burrs before the sheep are sheared.

3. Shear in a clean place keeping straw and filth out of the fleece.

4. Tie fleeces only with paper twine. Other twine injuries the fleece value. Roll and tie carefully with the clear flesh side out.

5. Put second grade wool as black, gray, burry, seedy, dead and fleece grown wool in a seperate sack. These grades usually sell for 3 to 6 cents per pound less than clear wool.

A large portion of small growers depend on commercial shearers to clip their flocks. Commercial shearers this year are scare and charge around 25 cents per head compared with the 15 cents charged last year. Commercial shearers who are known to be operating this year are Roy Kinney at Beaver Lick; Wilford Dixon, Burlington, and Gilbert Brewster, of Verona.

FLORENCE FLIER KILLED IN ACTION

ACCORDING TO WORD RECEIVED BY HIS MOTHER SUNDAY —WAS GRADUATE OF FLORENCE HIGH SCHOOL.

Lieutenant Cornelius L. Reagan, 26 years old, United States Army aviator, was "killed in action in defense of his country February 25," according to word received Sunday by his mother, Mrs. Bertha Baue's, Dixie Highway, Florence. The message came from the War Department.

He was a graduate of Florence High School and attended the University of Kentucky. While attending University of Kentucky he received his appointment as a flying cadet and later completed training at the Air Corps Advanced Flying School, Kelly Field, Texas.

In October of last year he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Air Corps Reserve and ordered to active duty at Hamilton Field, fighter plane base, near San Francisco.

Lieut. Reagan was a prominent northern Kentucky basketball star and captain of the Florence team. Between school terms, he was employed by the Blue and Gray and Huey Motor Express transportation firms.

Soldiers Arrested After Failing To Produce Army Pass

Stat Highway Patrolman, James Carr arrested two soldiers last week near Florence, on a charge of being intoxicated.

When questioned by Patrolman Carr, the youth were unable to produce an army pass, and finally admited being A. W. O. L.

The youths registered as Harry Mayse, 34, Bombing Squardon, Bowman Field, Louisville, and James Dunn, 27, same branch and camp.

After being notified, army officials of Bowman Field called for the youth who had been placed in the Burlington jail to await army action.

MARKET TOUR SET THURSDAY

J. E. HUMPHREY, POULTRY FIELD AGENT WILL BE IN CHARGE OF TOUR—SEVERAL MARKETS TO BE VISITED.

Northern Kentucky poultrymen are holding an educational tour of the Cincinnati poultry and egg market today (Thursday, May 21) according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The tour was planned last winter as part of the county poultry improvement program of work.

Mr. J. E. Humphrey, poultry field agent, College of Agriculture, will be in charge of the tour. C. Eberle and Sons Commission establishment, the French-Baurer plant's egg department and other market points of interest will be visited.

The Boone County group left the County Agent's office at Burlington around 8:30 and met other Northern Kentucky groups at the Kenton County Agent's office, New Post Office, Covington, 6th and Scott Streets at 9:30 a. m.

All who were interested in poultry marketing problems were invited to attend.

Tarapin Found With Initials And Date Carved On Shell In 1901

Donald Stephens of San Diego, California, while visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Mamie Stephens, of Bullittsville, found a tarapin with the initials C. E. and date 1901 carved by Clint Eggleston now living at Petersburg. It was found on the same farm it was turned loose on in 1901.

The tarapin shows he has lived these 41 years by the many scars found on his shell.

CAMPAIGN PROCEEDS WILL BE DONATED TO UNITED SERVICE ORGANIZATION

Boone County's Quota Set at Eighty Tons—Every Family Urged to Cooperate

A critical shortage of scrap metal now exists in United States War industries. Uncle Sam needs scrap today more than he did 4 months ago. This is the last pound drive.

Do you know that 50 percent scrap, plus 50 percent pig iron makes one-third more steel in much less time than when pig iron is used alone? That's why your scrap iron is needed now.

Either sell or donate your scrap iron in May—it's important that you do so. All scrap donations will be sold and proceeds turned over to the U. S. O.

The U. S. O. is an organization helping the government entertain the armed forces during their leisure time. Clubs, dance halls, libraries, lodging, etc., are provided free to the boys.

Boone County has a quota to meet and the proceeds from your scrap donations will go toward this quota. Donations may be made at the following depots between now and May 26th:

Petersburg, E. E. Helms; Hebron, Chester Goodridge; Burlington, Calvin Cress; Florence, Harold Martin; Walton, Powers Conrad; Union, Malone Ligon; Verona, Walter Renaker; Belleview, R. S. Hensley; Big Bone, Conner Carroll.

People of Boone County, there has never been a better time to do your patriotic duty to your government and at the same time help your local U. S. O. drive. Each family should try to donate at least enough scrap to make one 50 caliber machine gun.

SHERIFF WARNS DOG OWNERS

TO KEEP PETS CONFINED, LEASHED OR MUZZLED—TWO MORE DOGS KILLED, PROVE TO BE RABID.

Sheriff J. T. Williams issued another warning to dog owners in Boone County this week to keep their pets muzzled, leashed or in a kennel until the final date of quarantine has expired.

Sheriff Williams stated that two more dogs in the county which were killed within the last ten days with rabid symptoms have proven positive, and another epidemic of rabies is threatened. Dogs killed in the last ten days were owned by Raymond Maddox, Limaburg and Virgil Kelly.

A report from the University of Kentucky follows:

J. T. Williams, Sheriff
Burlington, (Boone Co.) Ky.

Dear Sir:

The bacteriological laboratory of this department reports that an examination of the dog head submitted by you and delivered to the laboratory on May 11, 1942 by bus, gave the following results:

Lab. No. 194029; Specimen: Dog head, owner names not given. Examination positive for rabies.

Inasmuch as the examination of the brain indicates that this animal was infected with rabies or hydrophobia, anyone exposed to the salvia through handling or feeding or from having been bitten within a period of ten days prior to the first symptoms, should take the Pasteur or anti-rabic treatment immediately to guard against contracting the disease.

George S. Terry.

The above report was received on the dogs owned by both Kelly and Maddox.

Dogs found running loose in the county will be killed, Sheriff Williams warned, and everyone owning pets are requested to keep thm confined.

M. F. Wingate

M. F. Wingate, ex-sheriff of Boone County passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. G. M. Terrill, Lawrenceburg, May 17th. The remains were removed to the Chambers & Grubbs funeral home for preparation, where the body remained until Tuesday.

Brief funeral services were conducted at the Petersburg cemetery Tuesday at 3:00 p. m. in the presence of his many friends and relatives.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. G. M. Terrill, of Lawrenceburg, Ind.; 1 son Holman (Judge) Wingate of Chicago; two granddaughter, 3 grandsons and four great-grandchildren.

Chambers & Grubbs, Walton funeral directors were in charge of arrangements.

BOONE COUNTY TAKES LEAD

IN PRODUCTION CREDIT LOANS FOR APRIL—EIGHTEEN MEMBERS MAKE $40,801 IN LOANS DURING MONTH.

The Boone County field office of the Northern Kentucky Production Credit Association hit an all time high record during April over the same month in previous years, according to Lloyd Siekman, local field representative. Eighteen members made loans during this month in the amount of $40,801.00.

Boone led the eight counties served by the association. Owen was second with $12,622.00 loaned for the month. This money was loaned to increase the production of flax seed, food crops and livestock to aid in the "all out" effort for increased war production.

The Production Credit Association is a non-profit, farmer-owned and controlled cooperative lending agency to be used by successful farmers. This association does not lend government money, but secures its money from the money markets of the nation.

This association will, in a few weeks, loan its two millionth dollar in these eight counties of Northern Kentucky in its eight year of service to its farmer-members.

HUNGRY HEARTS

"Of bread I will say nothing, wrote a refugee in France, formerly a Communist. "Also, nothing of money. But of Bibles we still have need." To the hungry heart the Bible is "daily bread." Christians know that the Bible and the Christ it presents offer the only answer to the hungry hearts of millions in this dark year.

At its 126th annual meeting in New Yory City, Thursday, May 14, the American Bible Society reported a circulation of 8,096,977 volumes of Scripture of 1941. Some hungry hearts have been fed.

But the terrible peril of the hour, according to the Bible Society, is that, just when this sense of need is so acute and so universal, the very processes whereby men can get the Bible are now breaking down. Many do not generally realize it, but virtually all of Asia, Africa, Latin America, are dependent upon the Bible Societies for the Bible; and within Europe and North America there are millions of people who will not have the Bible unless it is brought to them by these organizations.

What is this breakdown? It consists of the crippling effects of the war upon the Bible Societies. To speak of but one. The great British and Foreign Bible Society is entirely cut off from Europe where it annually distributed over a half million copies of Scriptures before the war. Similiar conditions afflict other European Societies, with the result many European countries are almost Bibleless. Latin America is crying out for copies that cannot be supplied. In China, the demand is rising faster than the supply. The Christian people of America have, through the past year been the only group able and free to provide this bread for Hungry hearts. Their channel for this ministry has been the American Bible Society. This Society, an honored American institution organized over a century and a quarter ago, has through the years endeavored to supply the Scriptures to every man in his own tongue. With the help of those who believe the answer is in the Book, the Society will continue to supply that spiritual food which alone can bring understanding and comfort to those who hunger and thirst.

SPRING TIME MAY BE BOMB TIME!

It is not probable that bombs will fall on our communities. Enemy bombers would have to fly a long way to get here. Nevertheless, it could happen and we know that such things have happened in many parts of the world. Since it is possible, it is necessary for us to prepare to minimize the damage that would result. No forward-looking town wants to be caught unprepared.

What we usually think of at this time of the year is spring clean-up. And we could not act on a better thought this year, says the engineers of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, who have studied the possibilities of bombing damage. They say that every citizen should give his premises a thorough spring cleaning. In this way changes of accidental fire will be cut down, and in addition, we will be safed if any enemy attack comes.

It is suggested that attics, especially, be cleaned out thoroughly. Even trained firemen would have difficulty putting out fires ignited by incendiary bombs in an attic cluttered with discarded furniture, piles of paper and old clothing. The National Board also recommends that each citizen prepare to extinguish fire bombs. For this purpose it is best to have a suitable connection and a hose long enough to reach the attic. Only a spray of water should be used on the bomb itself. Another recommendation is to cooperate fully with air raid wardens. Comply with all their suggestions and rules.

This year America must be prepared for any eventuality. Spring clean-up is more important than ever.

SAVE THE SEED

The dangers inherent in taxing the gains on capital—accumulated savings—are so great, that the subject requires the most careful consideration from angles other than tax-raising alone. Taxes which impair capital can easily reduce tax income by stifling the producing power of capital. In testifying before the House Ways and Means Committee, Godfrey N. Nelson, New York, gave this apt illustration:

"Transacations in capital assets should generally be immune from the imposition of the income tax. That which flows from capital, like interest, rent and other items of income, is as separate and distinct from the capital which produces it as gathered fruit is separate from the tree that bore it. While income may be transformed by accumulation into capital, like fruit, the seed of which produces another tree, the growth itself of neither capital nor the tree is income."

PROVEN WORTH

The agricultural marketing cooperatives are doing many an important job for the farmers of this country. Two of those jobs deal with improving production methods, and stabilizing and expanding markets.

That kind of work is doubly important now. War has brought the farmer a long list of new and difficult problems, such as scarcity of labor, and unprecedented wages when labor is available. If the farmer is to make a go of it, he must get maximum output at minimum cost.

War has also disrupted and changed markets. The rubber shortage is making normal transportation methods impossible in many areas. The co-ops have their hands full in helping their members make the swift adjustments that are necessary.

These farm organizations have proven their worth. They have earned their place as a definite factor in present-day agriculture.

DOCTORS FACE THE SUPREME TEST

"The physicians of the United States face a task of historic importance," said Surgeon General Thomas Parran recently.

"This is total war; the civilian is at the front with the soldier. Civilian health and strength are as essential to victory as the medical care of our armed forces. Complete cooperation on the part of medical men throughout the country is the first requirement. By full use of every qualified doctor's ability, I am confident that the American medical profession again will meet effectively the supreme test. Public health takes on a new urgency. Heretofore we have sought health primarily for its value to the individual. Now we must attain it for the nation's security."

The fact that many thousands of doctors are being called into military service means that all remaining doctors must work harder. All our medical facilities must be employed with maximum effectiveness. And no one who knows the history of American medicine doubts that this will be done. We have had "private enterprise" in the field of medicine, precisely as we have had it in all other fields of endeavor. Under that system, every doctor can go as far as his abilities and energies permit. He isn't a pawn of politicians. And here in America, medical progress has been nothing short of astounding. A long list of once-dread bacterial killers have been brought under control. Such scourges as tuberculosis are being gradually conquered. And we Americans live healthier, longer, happier lives.

War, as Dr. Parran said, brings the "supreme test" to the men of medicine. They are ready for that test. It is to them a challenge which will result in new and greater achievement. And all the nation will reap the benefits.

THURSDAY: THE LAST DAY WITH THE DISCIPLES

LESSON TEXT—Luke 22:14-30.
GOLDEN TEXT—This do in remembrance of me.—Luke 22:19.

The last day! How quickly it comes, and how fleeting yet meaningful its moments.

We do not know what our Lord did on Wednesday of Passion Week. In all probability He remained in Bethany to rest in fellowship with His friends. Surely He needed that day of quiet, for that which had gone before, difficult and strenuous as it had been, was as nothing to that which lay before Him.

Late on Thursday He and His disciples came to the upper room where Peter and John had already made preparation for the observance of the Passover (Luke 22:8). This feast had (since that great and awful night of Israel's redemption out of Egypt's bondage) pointed forward to the Christ and to His cross as the fulfillment of the type of redemption by the shedding of blood. But now the hour had come for Him to give Himself in that death, and so He set aside the Passover (because it has been fulfilled) to establish the great Christian feast of remembrance—the Lord's table, which now shows forth His death till He come.

I. The Final Passover (vv. 14-18).

Our Lord looked forward with intense desire to the Passover which He now observed with His disciples, for it was the last celebration of that feast recognized by God. All that it had foreshadowed of deliverance and hope was fulfilled in Him who now sat at the table. He had moved forward with resolute purpose to this day when His mission on earth was to be accomplished, and He was to become the Christian's Passover lamb (I Cor. 5:7).

The fact that He had looked forward to it with desire does not minimize the deep darkness of either Gethsemane or Calvary. Remember that, when in the garden He faced that hour and thought of the possibility of the cup being taken from Him, He said to the Father, "Not what I will, but what thou wilt." Praying concerning the same matter (in John 12:27), He said, "Now is my soul troubled; and what shall I say? Father, save me from this hour: but for this cause came I unto this hour."

II. The First Communion (vv. 19, 20).

Taking the unleavened bread and the unfermented wine of the Passover which had just been observed, Jesus established a new feast, the Christian feast of remembrance, which we call communion or the Lord's table.

His words are significant, "For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do show the Lord's death till he come" (I Cor. 11:26). At the Lord's table His followers find spiritual strength in recalling His death for them, but they also find joy as they remember that He is to come again. They thus testify to the world that they believe and cherish these truths.

This feast is rightly called "communion," for down through the ages and until He does come the saints of God have at His table sweet communion with Him and with one another. Let us not neglect it!

Our Lord also spoke of the cup as "my blood of the new testament." The word "testament" means covenant. The Lord's table therefore speaks of our allegiance to Him, of our loyalty to our Lord, and our devotion to His service. That is why the Christian Church speaks of communion as a sacrament, a word from the Latin sacramentum, meaning oath, and essentially an oath of allegiance.

III. The Folly of the Disciples (vv. 21-30).

Someone may say, "That point does not belong with the other two. Both the Passover and the Lord's Supper are for the joyful remembrance of deliverance and redemption." The objection is well taken except for one thing—we are dealing with human beings as they are, not as they should be and could be by the grace of God.

Here in the inner circle of the twelve there was one traitor. It seems impossible, but apparently Judas had maintained such outward conduct as to turn no suspicion in his direction, even though all along he had in his heart the blackest of treachery against his Lord. A sad and soul-searching fact is here revealed, that it is possible for one to make a high profession of faith in Christ and even so to live as to give no cause for criticism, and yet to be unregenerate and in fact the enemy of Christ.

What about the strife regarding position? Shameful as we agree that it was, it still goes on in the church. Not even the remembrance of our Lord's death and the reminder that He is coming again is enough to keep men from wanting to be greatest.

Why Be Old At 40?

N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE
814-816 Madison, Covington

Do you have severe pains in the muscles of your legs?

Do you walk with toes pointed out?

Are you bedeviled by a thousand demons tearing at your back?

Do you hate to get up in the morning?

Do you experience foot pain when walking?

Can you be on your feet all day without fatigue?

Any or all of these conditions may indicate that one or more of the four arches of your feet are on the verge of collapse. There is really no end of the trouble that such a condition could cause. Around the bones and muscles of your feet are numerous nerves, all of which are directly connected with the nerve center. Severe pains in your feet are transmitted to every part of the body.

What can you do about it.

For years men and women have withstood the aches and misery due to some foot condition and have always decided. "There is nothing you can do about it."

Now Comes a Sure Way to Relief for many aches and pains due to faulty foot condition. You will be eager to rise each morning and meet the conditions of the new day. You will have the springy active step of a youngster of eighteen. You will not be old at forty! There is no secret to it. You don't have to take a long rest, nor a change of climate. You need only to be correctly fitted in a pair of surgical shoes. You may think this is a simple way to end all of pain and misery, you have been suffering for a good many years, but after all don't the simplest things in life bring the greatest joy;

Resolve today that you will pronounce the death sentence on the misery, aches and pains due to foot comfort.—Adv.

A Week Of The War

The Office of Price Administration announced amounts of gasoline that motorists in 17 Eastern seaboard states will be granted upon presentation of rationing cards from May 15 to July 1. After July 1 another rationing system will be placed in effect.

Drivers for pleasure or those who drive less than six miles a day will receive 21 gallons, or an average of three gallons a week for the 47-day period. Motorists who drive from six to 10 miles a day will receive 33 gallons for the period. those who drive from 10 to 14 miles daily, 45 gallons; and drivers of 14 or more miles daily, 57 gallons. Persons whose vehicles are necessary to their employment, such as physicians and ministers, will receive unlimited supplies. The OPA estimated that about one-third of all motorists in the area will be classed as nonessential and limited to three galls weekly.

Preliminary figures showed 123 million persons, approximately 91 percent of the total population, registered for sugar rationing. Nearly seven million persons were refused war ration book No. 1 because they already had more than six pounds of sugar. The OPA also reported persons or businesses needing a typewriter may rent a used machine or a new portable directly from any dealer. War Production Chairman Nelson said emergency coal rationing is probable unless consumers immediately build up their reserve supplies to "the limit of storage capacity."

Production And Conversion

The War Department said the Chicago Ordnance District is about to produce more tanks and tractors monthly than it produced in the entire World War I period. The Maritime Commission reported U. S. shipyards delivered 36 merchant vessels in April. Fifty-one vessels, double the January number, were launched during the month. The WPB established a Services Branch to clear priority and other problems confronting about 3 million service institutions such as banks, laundries, etc. The Commerce Department said income payments to individuals during March were 21 percent higher than a year ago and reached the record annual rate of $106 billion.

The War Front

The War Department announced the planes which recently raided Japan were U. S. Army bombers. The attack was made in clear weather, in the middle of the day, and at low altitudes. The selected targets "were accurately attacked with demolition and incendiary bombs," the Department said. Japanese broadcasts admitted that between 3,000 and 4,000 casulations and fires which raged for 48 hours were caused by the raid, the Department said.

The Navy Department said 21 Japanese warships were sunk or damaged in the battle of the Coral Sea with relatively slight losses to U. S. forces. U. S. lasses will be reported when the information is without value to the enemy, the Navy said, but all Tokyo claims of damages inflicted were declared without foundation. The Navy reported 85 Japanese warships and 96 noncombatant vessels had been sunk or damaged from Pearl Harbor to May 11. Resistance of U. S. and Filipino troops on Corregidor was finally overcome. The Navy reported the torpedoing of 10 more merchant vessels off the Atlantic coast.

Army And Selective Serivce

First regulations were issued for the Army Specialist Corps which was set up to make available to the Army specially skilled persons not otherwise eligible for active duty. Officers and specialists will make up the Corps. Officers' pay will range from $2,600 for second lieutenants to $9,000 for the Director General, and specialists' pay will range from $1,800 to $3,500. The Department said construction has been started on flight strips adjoining highways in a strategic area on the Atlantic seaboard. The War Department said it cannot answer individual inquiries as to Army casualties or the whereabouts of Army personnel.

Selective Service Headquarters said occupational questionnaires to determine civilian skills will be mailed not later than May 27 to men of the first and second registration who are not already in the armed forces. SS Director Hershey instructed local boards to give careful consideration for deferment to individual registrants engaged in 141 critical occupations in the coal and railroad industries, as well as in ship construction and in coastal, intercoastal and offshore water transportation. SS headquarters said a reexamination of approximately 100,000 men disqualified because of hear disorders is now advisable, because functional derangement in many cases was caused by temporary factors.

Navy

Navy Secretary Knox reported Navy personnel now total 500,000 compared with 140,000 in the summer of 1940. He said the Navy will include one million men by July 1943. The Senate sent to the White House a bill authorizing an increase of 200,000 tons in the U. S. submarine fleet. The Navy said two new Aviation Technical Schools will be constructed—at Memphis, Tenn., and Norman, Okla.—to train 10,000 men every six months. The training center for Negro enlisted men will be at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

California "Dimout"

The OCD ordered a "dimout" of the California coast from the Oregon border to Santa Maria, Calif., for the duration of the war, in order to keep the coastline clear of any lights that could be seen by lurking submarines. The order affects 48 cities and towns in nine counties. Street lights must be painted or shielded, display illumination must be shielded or eliminated, and night traffic must be rerouted or required to rove at reduced speeds with parking lights only. The order was requested by the 12th Naval District and will be enforced by the 9th regional OCD office.

Prices And Consumer Credit

OPA said it will not tolerate wholesale evictions of war workers by landlords attempting to evade maximum rent regulations by bringing in new tenants at higher rents. Beginning May 18, retail prices may not exceed highest levels charged by each seller during March and every retail store must display publicly the ceiling prices for "cost-of-living" commodities.

The Federal Reserve Board ruled installment purchases must be liquidated within 12 months and placed new limitations on charge accounts. Loans of $1,500 or less to be met in one payment must mature within 90 days. The Board also made down payments, ranging from one-fifth to one-third the purchase price, mandatory on all products.

War Bonds And Taxes

The Treasury reported War Bond sales during the first six business days of May were 21 percent greater than in the same period in April and totaled more than 25 percent of the nation's May quota of $600 million. Treasury Secretary Mogenthau, in a letter to Congress, said the time has come to lower personal exemptions under the individual income tax to $600 for single persons, $1,200 for married couples, and $300 for each dependent.

Civilian Supply

The WPB prohibited use of copper, bronze or brass after May 31 in manufacture of about 100 household and common civilian items. Use of iron and steel in more than 400 such items was prohibited after July 3. The orders include such products as waste baskets, fountain pens, flashlights, electric razors, cash registers and baking pans. Designs of glass containers were restricted to existing mold equipment. The Board said this standardization would increase production of such containers by 30 percent and help meet a possible tin can shortage. Grinding of cocoa beans during the rest of May and June was restricted to 70 percent of the amounts ground in the corresponding period last year.

Project Leaders To Meet

The major project leaders from local Homemakers organizations will meet for their regular training school with Mrs. Pearl J. Haak, foods specialist from the University, on Friday, May 22, in the lunch room at the Burlington school. All leaders are urged to attend or send a substitute. Arrangements for the meeting are being made by Mrs. Mary Scott Moore, Acting Home Demonstration Agent.

ARMY SIGNAL CORPS NEEDS RADIO OPERATORS AND REPAIRMEN

Columbus, O., May 15—Headquarters Fifth Corps Area has just announced that the Army Signal Corps is in need of radio operators and repairmen. To be eligible men must be between the ages of 18 and 45. Operators must hold either a commercial or amateur operators license or be qualified for such a license. Repairmen must be members of the Radio Manufacturers Service (RMS) or Radio Service Men of America (RSA) and at the time of application for enlistment, be employed in radio service work.

Radio plays a very important part in modern warfare. Airplanes in flight and armored vehicles in motion depend almost entirely on this method of communication for directing operations, reporting observations, and relaying other important messages. Radio is used for communication between the farflung units in all parts of the world. During the seige of Bataan and Corregidor no other type of messages were getting through.

All men who are qualified should contact their nearest Army Recruiting Office without delay and do their part to help win this war. Remember, it takes many men to keep one plan in flight or one tank in motion.

CLEAN PREMISES WOULD HELP CHEAT FIRE BOMBS

While all of us hope that our homes will not be fired by incendiary bombs from enemy airplanes, precautions that will help control it is wise to practice a few simple any such fires, according to suggestions made today by D. R. Peel, State fire Marshal of Kentucky.

"The most important thing to remember," he said, "is to avoid keeping unnecessary materials that may provide fuel for fire. This is particularly true of attics, which would be the most likely part of a house to be penetrated by an incendiary bomb.

"We keep Aunt Mary's graduation dress, father's first long pants, baby's first shoes and many other such things in old trunks, or even loose, in attics.

"Many of us also have stacks of old magazines in our attics—magazines that we'll never look at again. Why not sell them? Or, if they are fairly recent numbers, send them to the recreation centers set up for the armed forces. We should take spare clothes out of the attic and hang them in closets. Discarded lamp shades, picture frames and all other combustibles should be cleared away. The attic that is entirely bare of such things is the one that cheats the fire bomb. Cleanliness and orderliness should prevail thruout the house.

Timely Tips on the Use and Care of Your Electric Refrigerator

Uncle Sam wants you to take good care of your electric equipment—to make it last. Here are some suggestions that will help you get longer life and better service from your always economical electric refrigerator:

Defrost whenever frost is about ¼ inch thick. Frost acts as an insulator—retards cold making.

Be sure door gasket seals tightly. Wipe off any grease that falls on gasket as grease destroys rubber.

Wash inside of refrigerator, including freezer, with weak baking soda solution each time you defrost.

Wash exterior with cloth dampened in lukewarm water and mild soap. If non-porcelain, wax occasionally to preserve finish.

If an open unit model, keep oiled per manufacturer's instructions. Closed unit models need no oiling.

Remove dust from fins of condenser coils occasionally. Keep unit compartment clean.

Don't overcrowd shelves. Air circulation is needed for efficient cooling.

Don't set cold control for lower temperature than necessary. Forty-five degrees is safe.

Cover all liquids. Moisture drawn to freezer speeds formation of frost.

Don't put hot foods in refrigerator. Wait until they cool.

Don't clutter refrigerator with ketchup, canned goods and other items that do not need refrigeration.

Avoid quick freezing as much as possible. It increases running time of motor.

CONEY ISLAND TO OPEN SATURDAY, MAY 23

"Fun's a part of keeping fit!" is the war time slogan of Coney Island, Cincinnati, "America's finest amusement park," as it opens its 1942 season on Saturday, May 23. This is in harmony with the expressed wishes of President Roosevelt and other war leaders, who have repeatedly pointed out the importance of maintaining recreational facilities and programs to stimulate morale and relieve the physical, mental and emotional strain of war.

The all-steel steamer Island Queen, one of the largest and finest river excursion steamers in the world, will again be in service for the delightful 20-mile round-trip river ride between downtown Cincinnati and Coney Island on its regular daily schedule. Motorists and bus riders can reach it via U. S. Route 52.

Art Kassel and His Kassels in the Air will be the featured attraction in Moonlite Gardens, Coney's palatial summer ballroom during the opening week. Featured soloists with the band will be Gloria Hart, smooth song stylist; Cub Higgins, the one-man band; Harvey Crawford, romantic tenor; the Doodlers, male vocal trio; and the Saxophone Sextet.

A thrilling new ride, "The Moon Rocket," is featured on Coney's Mall. It is a streamlined contraption, that seems to zoom thru space at the terrific speed of a Yankee pursuit ship. Another new thrill is "dive-boating" at "The Lost River," which gives some conception of the speed of a dive-bomber in action. Other featured rides and fun devices are the Wild Cat, Clipper, Laff-in-the-Dark, Tumble Bug, Flying Skooter, Rocket Ships, Ferris Wheel, merry-go-round, Show Boat, Cuddle Up, Dodgem, Whip, boats and canoes, and The Land of Oz, the special section set aside for Money's littlest patrons, with nine special rides for them.

A War Show, depicting the war efforts of the United States, Great Britain, China, Russia and their allies, is a special attraction.

LOCAL MAN TO REPRESENT KY.

AT ANNUAL CONVENTION OF HOLSTEIN-FRIESIAN ASSOCITION HELD IN MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., JUNE 2-3.

Brattleboro, Vt., May 14—Hubert Conner, Burlington, has been elected to represent Kentucky at the 57th Annual Convention of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, to be held at Hotel Curtis in Minneapolis, Minn., June 2-3.

One-hundred-twenty delegates from every state in the Union and the District of Clumbia are expected to attend the convention. They are elected by ballot from and by the 32,208 members of The Holstein-Friesian Association of America. Each member votes only for delegates from his own state and is eligible for election as a delegate.

The number of delegates for each state is determined by the number of active breeders of that state who belong to the National Association.

"I AM AN AMERICAN" DAY IS CELEBRATED

"I Am An American" Day was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Henson, Hebron, Ky., on Sunday, May 16th with a flag raising. Present at the ceremony were:

Mr. and Mrs. George Vandventer, Mr. and Mrs. John Kilgore and children, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Peeno and children, Mrs. Lloyd Ratliff, Mrs. Wm. Hedges, Amos Sams, Francis Hodges, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Henson and children.

The group included a Past Recording Secretary, three Past Councilors of Crescent Council No. 19 Daughters of America and two Past Councilors of Bluegrass Council No. 40 Junior Order United American Mechanics.

MONEY TALKS

By Frederick W. Stamm, Economist and Director of Adult Education University of Louisville

The purchase of Defense Bonds and Stamps is making it possible for our Government to engage in the greatest war production effort ever attempted by any nation. Recent figures on war production are not encouraging—they are startling. Instead of the 40 billion dollar estimate, which seemed high when it was made, our total war production for this year will undoubtedly reach the 60 billion dollar mark.

The magnitude of the United Nations' war production program is well illustrated in the case of airplanes. The British inform us they are now producing as many planes as Germany and by June 1 the United States will be producing as many fighter and bomber planes as Germany, Italy, and Japan combined. And Russia is also producing many more.

Our airplanes have already reached the fighting fronts as is indicated by the steady flow of British and American planes over Germany and German-held industrial areas. These mass raids are carried out regularly night after night and are inflicting heavy damage on the mighty German industrial war machine.

Many of our other war materials are not reaching the battle fields as quickly as planes. The tanks completed in Detroit and Cleveland have not had much effect on the battles of North Africa and Burma as yet. The lack of shipping space has slowed up the movement of materials to foreign shores. But we are gaining momentum on every front—production, shipping, and war experience. Our shipyards are producing more ships than ever before in our history and within a few months we will be shipping tanks, guns, and other war materials in an ever-increasing stream to all the war fronts.

With our war production reaching new heights each month, the outlook for victory grows much brighter.

But we must remember that all this war effort takes money. We must continue to buy bonds and stamps in larger and larger amounts. They are our best investment today!

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all relatives, friends and neighbors for the kindness shown us in the loss of our beloved husband and father,

G. Frederick Schram

We also wish to thank Rev. R. H. Carter for his kindness and words of consolation; Mrs. Virginia Goodridge, Mr. Gaines and daughter for consolation in music; Indra Consistory, A. A. S. R., and Venus Lodge No. 154, I. O. O. F. and the other kinds friends who participated in the services; Dr. H. A. Daugherty for his efforts; all donors of the many beautiful floral offerings and cards of sympathy; the pallbearers; Tharp & Stith for their kind and efficient funeral arrangements. 1t-c

The Bereaved Family

W. M. U. NEWS

The Missionary Society of the Union Baptist Church met at the church on Wednesday afternoon, May 13th for its regular monthly meeting. The meeting was brought to order at 1:30 p. m. by our president Mrs. Kirtley McWethy, with prayer by Mrs. Austin Gschwind. Singing of the hymn for the year "The Light of The World Is Jesus" and the repeating of our Watchwords followed. The reading of the minutes and roll call by our secretary Mrs. Winston Mason, was answered by seventeen members at this time.

Mrs. Gschwind as young peoples leader gave glowing reports from the following organizations: Sunbeam Band, G. A., R. A., and Y. W. A. The resignation of our treasurer Mrs. Jimmie Head was accepted at this time, with Mrs. Gschwind voted to replace her. Our Stewardship chairman Mrs. Emerson Smith reported several new tithers and the renewed pledges of others.

Mrs. McWethy then called for a discussion on plans to attend the Associational Mission Study Classes which will be held in Devou Park early in July. This plan met with favor with all present, with details to be worked out later.

All those present joined in singing the hymn "Footsteps of Jesus" after which Mrs. Myrtle Marshall offered prayer for the youth of today and especially for our boys in service.

Our devotional was from the book of Ester and was brought to us by Mrs. McWethy in a very beautiful manner. The May topic was "Think on these things: Whatsoever things are lovely with parts taken by the following members: Mrs. Elaine Greenup "Whatsoever Things Are Lovely"; Mrs. Viola Friend, "Youth, Lovely and Unlovely"; Mrs. Anna Smith "The Call To Lovely Service" Mrs. Lena Presser; "Grace McBride Y. W. A." Mrs. Ruth Mason; "Youth Around the World" Mrs. Opha Bristow; "Revealing the Heart of Youth" Mrs. Pearl Blankenbeker. Our meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Annie Bristow. Our next meeting will be on Wednesday, June 10th at which time we hope all members can be present.

We were happy to have one visitor at this time but it was with deep regrets that we were requested to remove from our honor roll the name of our loyal member, Mrs. Doretta Rouse, but since she now lives in Burlington we know they will learn to love her just as we love her here. Neither she nor her great works will be forgotten soon by this society.

Mrs. W. S. Friend, Reporter.

CONSTRUCTION SPECIALISTS NEEDED BY U. S. ARMY

Headquarters Fifth Corps Area at Fort Hayes, Columbus, Ohio, has announced that there is a definite need in the Army today for men who have had experience in many branches of the construction field. Upon enlistment these men will be sent to an Engineer Replacement Training Center for assignment to Engineer units now in the process of organization.

Blacksmiths, tool dressers, demolition men and foremen, bridge construction foremen, railway construction foremen, general construction foremen, crane operators, compressor operators, mechanic foremen, structural steel workers, quarrymen, riggers and foremen, jackhammer operators, tool room keepers, water supply operators, highway construction machinery operators and foremen, hoist engineers and rock crusher foremen are some of the fields in which vacancies exist.

Although it was stated that no definite information was available as to promotions open to these men, it was also stated that men in the Army are appointed to grades consistent with their ability and the duties which they are performing.

American citizens between the ages of 18 and 45, qualified in any of the above fields should contact their nearest Army Recruiting Office at once. Men above 45 years of age who have had previous Army service are also eligible for enlistment in many instances.

COLLEGE DESCRIBES PLANTING OF HEMP

Recent publications of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics include "Machinery for Planting Hemp for the production of Seed," by Prof. J. B. Kelley. Hundreds of Kentucky farmers will grow hemp for their first time, in response to war needs. The growing of castor beans, another "war" crop, is discussed in a leaflet written by Dr. E. N. Fergus. The college has recently published a large number of leaflets, pamphlets, circulars and bulletins dealing with subjects of interest tyo farmers and homemakers. Copies may be had at offices of county agents and county home demonstration agents or by writing to the college.

Gayety Theater News

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY

Gail Patrick, who has taken a stand against slacks or trousers, found that she had to appear in a hunting scene in "We Were Dancing," to be shown at the Gayety. Her designed created a new hunting costume with a short divided skirt, and smart canvas and luggage tan boots which buckle at the knees. The costume is so smart that, with Miss Patrick's permission, it will be copied in leading stores.

SATURDAY

Chicago is "most favored city" when it comes to the cast of the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "Joe Smith, American" to be on the screen at the Gayety.

For no less than four members of the east hail Chicago as their home town, including the film's star, Robert Young, and the picture's feminine lead, Marsha Hunt. The cast's remaining two Chicagoans are Jonathan Hale, a veteran Hollywood character actor, and young Mark Daniels, a recent M-G-M discovery, who makes his second screen appearance in "Joe Smith, American," his first having been in "The Vanishing Virginian."

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

The foreword to the new Preston Sturges Paramount comedy, "Sullivan's Travels," which will be screened at the Gayety, Sunday and Monday, starring Joel Mcrea and Veronica Lake is giving moviegoers much amusement.

Sturges' foreword is: "This is the story of a man who wanted to wash an elephant. The elephant darn near ruined him." Which is terse and gives plenty of hint of hilarious scenes to come, and foreshadows the story.

TUESDAY
Double Feature

The children's choir of the Chinese Presbyterian Church of Los Angeles makes its screen bow in "A Yank on the Burma Road," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer drama of Burma Road, which will be shown at the Gayety.

The choir, composed of twenty-three youngsters, ranging in age from ten to fifteen years, sang "Chee Li," the song commemorating the march of Chinese volunteers in Chinese.

The children donated part of the money they received to the Chinese Relief Fund.

The picture features Laraine Day and Barry Nelson in the leading roles.

Plus

When two hardened steel-workers fall in love with the same girl, there's bound to be an explosion. That is the highly dramatic story of Warner Bros. latest film, "Steel Against the Sky." The two rivals are played by Lloyd Nolan and Craig Stevens while the girl who causes all the trouble is played by lovely Alexis Smith, the Blonde bombshell of "Dive Bomber."

SOCIAL SECURITY NOTES

Individuals should not apply for a social security account number card merely for the purpose of showing an account number on their occupational questionnaires, stated Frank B. Decker, Jr., manager of the Social Security Board in Covington.

Social security account numbers should be obtained only when a person is going to work or has a job in employment which is covered by the Social Security Act. Farmers who are required by the Selective Service Board to fill in an occupational questionnaire do not need a social security account number card, according to Mr. Decker.

The Social Security Board has been receiving numerous applications for social security cards recently from those who have registered for the draft and have received an occupational questionnaire from the Selective Service Board. There is a place on the questionnaire for the social security number, but this is intended only for those who have social security account number cards. If an individual filling in the questionnaire does not have a social security account number, he should simply write "none" in the space provided for his social security number.

Those who have had social security account number cards and have lost them may secure a duplicate card free of charge at 18 Post Office Building, Covington, or at their nearest Social Security Board field office.

RALLY DAY

stresses in a style dress revue. While Judy Kobman, Florence, played soft music, Mrs. John Masters, New Haven, introduced the girls by unit, and individually.

Unit I featured cotton school dresses.

Unit II included 4-H uniforms, and cotton dresses.

Unit III was a variety of soft silks, sheer cottons, utility rayons, in "dress up" clothing. These costumes included handmade accessories, hats, purses, handkerchiefs, hair bows, etc. Bettye Forkner, Burlington, and Ella Ruth Black, New Haven, modeled lovely summer evening apparel.

Unit IV. Tailored woolen suits were worn by Wanda Pennington, New Haven, and Jewell Vice, Burlington. Jewell had a blue ribbon outfit in a gray wool suit made from an old coat. Her blouse was also made from an old shirt. This costume had smartness, bore close inspection and was certainly a champion exhibit. Much credit goes to Jewell for her accomplishment.

Wanda's suit, which was rated as the top exhibit, is a deep pastal blue, with white blouse. She had made a purse of the suit material. Her hat is a blue sports type felt. Blue gloves and white shoes completed the costume. Wanda will exhibit her costume, and wear it in the State Style Revue at Junior Week.

Ribbons were awarded exhibits in style revue as follows:

Unit IV—Championship, Wanda Pennington; blue, Jewel Vice.

Unit III—Blue Ribbon group, Louise McArthur, Burlington; Kathlynn Kenney, New Haven; Bernice Sebree, Florence; Imogene Presser, Burlington; Elaine Gardner, Florence; and Bettye Forkner, Burlington.

Red Ribbon Group: Mary Hope Chipman, Verona; Bettie Lee Sturgeon, New Haven; Betty Jane Pendry, Grant; Corrine Walton, Burlington.

White Ribbon Group: Mary Lou Williamson, Burlington; Willa M. Deck, Grant; Frances Wilson, Hebron.

Unit II—

Blue Ribbon Group: Helen Rogers, Hebron; Virginia Stevens, Grant.

Red Ribbon Group: Zada Lee Caldwell, Verona; Betty Lou Setters, Hebron; Loretta Mae Pendry, Grant; Martha Lizer, Burlington.

White Ribbon Group: Joce Smith of Florence.

Unit I—

Blue Ribbon Group: Thelma Jean Herbus, Florence; Norma Jean Easton, Verona.

Red Ribbon Group: Ann Howard, New Haven; Crystal Masters, New Haven; Peggie Mac Vest, Walton; Wanda Brewster, Verona; Bertha Mae Carroll, Hamilton.

White Ribbon Group: Elizabeth Brady Cox, New Haven; Ruby Knox, New Haven.

In Unit I all girls did not have costumes to wear. Ribbons were awarded these exhibitors as follows:

Red Ribbons: Emma Jean Judge, New Haven; Doretta Mae Jones, New Haven; Evelyn Ann Rogers, Grant; Marilyn Campbell, Hebron; Martha Pfalzgraf; Rilla Pepper, Hebron; Vivian Tuttle, Hebron.

White Ribbons: Mary Francis Scott, New Haven; Wanda Lee Jones, New Haven; Mary Knox, New Haven; Helen Edwards, Hebron; Jean Cromer, Hebron; Betty Barlow, Hebron; Ruby Sprague, Constance; Alice Mae Ralph, Constance; Mary Fugate, Constance; Eleanor Washmuth, Constance.

Four-H leaders who had charge of clothing exhibits were Mrs. W. H. Jones, Florence; Mrs. Albert Pfalzgraf; Mrs. Albert Willis, Hebron; Mrs. Harry Moore, Mrs. Ruby Woods, New Haven; Mrs. Lelia Wasson, Verona; Mrs. Mildred Rogers, Grant.

The stage and decorations for the style revue were arranged by Mrs. H. R. Forkner, Burlington, Mrs. Geo. Morith, Florence, and Miss Mary Rector, Petersburg.

The demonstration contests for girls over 13 years were held in the auditorium following the style revue. Subjects, demonstrators and ratings are as follows:

Champion: "Explanation of a Commercial Pattern," Bernice Sebree, Ellaine Garner, Florence.

Blue: "Preparation of Canning Equipment," Virginia McGlasson, Carolyn Dolwick, Constance.

Red: "To Even Up a Hemline" Dorothy Kannady, Mary Hope Chipman, Verona.

Individual—

Champion: "Do's and Don't in Vegetable Preperation So as to Save Vitamins and Minerals," Bernice Sebree, Florence.

Red: "Sorghum Molasses" Bettie Lee Mullins, Florence.

Ratings for girls under 13:

Teams—

Blue: "Sewing Box," Crystal Masters, Elizabeth Brady Vox, New Haven.

Red: "Setting a Table," Helen Rogers, Margaret Barlow, Hebron.

Red: Kathleen Keeney, Betty Sturgeon, New Haven, "Care of Shoes."

White: "Sewing Box" Helen Edwards, Martha Pfalzgraf, New Haven.

Individuals—

Red: Potato Salad, Betty Duval, Florence.

Red: Hemming a Towel, Marilyn Campbell, Hebron.

White: Setting Sleeve in Blouse, Betty Lou Setters, Hebron.

Leaders who assisted with contests were: Mrs. Oscar Fugate, of Constance Mrs. Hugh McArthur, Grant Mrs. Vernon Pope, Burlington, and Mrs. H. R. Forkner, Burlington.

Much credit is due Miss Louise Tucker, Campbell Home Demonstration Agent, for the conscientious job of judging she did for all these contests. Her contribution to the success of the day was a big one.

Appreciation is expressed to the school boards who made it possible for school bus transportation to the meeting, and so graciously permitted use of the school building; to Mr. Manley Ryle who so faithfully assisted with arranging for the events.

Boys' Demonstration Teams

Blue Ribbon: Bobby Greene and Phillip Yelton, Burlington.

Red Ribbon: Earl Washmuth, and Cecil Kenyon, Constance.

Subject of both demonstrations "New Type of Electric Lamp Brooder."

LADIES OF HOPEFUL TO SERVE DINNER DECORATION DAY

The ladies of the Hopeful Lutheran Church will serve their annual dinner on Decoration Day, May 30th, it was announced this week.

Serving will be from 11:00 a. m. to 3 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS TO CLOSE; OTHERS ARE MODIFIED

The United States Civil Service Commission announces that it will discontinue receiving applications for economist positions paying from $2,600 to $5,600 a year. Applications will be accepted until May 29, 1942, but must be filed with the Commission's Washington office not later than that date.

Junior chemist positions, $2,000 a year, and technical and scientific aid positions, $1,440 to $2,000 a year, will be closed to men who do not apply by June 1, 1942. The positions are still open to women, who are in great demand if they possess the prescribed qualifications.

Announcements for technical assistant in engineering, $1,800 a year, and junior meteorologist, $2,000 a year, have been amended. In order to secure additional qualified persons for these positions, the education requirements were modified. Women are particularly desired for the meteorologist positions. Sub-professional positions in meteorology at $1,620 and $1,800 a year will be filled by those willing to accept these salaries.

By amendment persons now taking appropriate defense training courses can apply for engineering draftsman positions paying $1,440 to $2,600 a year, if they meet the other requirements. All branches of drafting are included.

All applications must be filed with the Civil Service Commission in Washington, D. C. Announcements and the forms for applying may be obtained from the Secretary of the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city which has a post office of the first or second-class, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

RAILROAD FACTS

In a recent address, Ernest E. Norris, president of the Southern Railway System, spoke of his complete faith in the future of the railroads. That faith is based on a solid bed of fact. Here are some of the facts he mentioned:

First, this country possesses the largest and the best railroad plant in all the world.

Second, the railroads have attained levels of efficiency and economy which surpass the wildest dreams of a few years ago.

Third, the railroads have the best trained corps of officers and employes of any transportation system on earth—men and women who have proven their ability thru years of railroad work under all kinds of conditions.

Fourth, the railroads have the admiration and the respect of the American people, who have seen the lines meet the unprecedented demands brought by war, with 100 per cent efficiency.

Fifth, the inherent strength which carried the railroads thru the lean years of the depression is making it possible for them to produce transportation miracles now. Not long ago the Chairman of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, said: "In all the world no better job is being done today than by the American railroads."

Lastly, the degree of cooperation that now exists between railroads and shippers exceeds anything previously recorded in industrial history. Both railroads and shippers have one dominant purpose in mind—to keep the trains moving, with the least possible expenditure of time for loading and unloading.

The railroads will have to face new problems as the war load increases. But all who know this industry are confident that, whatever comes, it will continue to do a transportation job which is unsurpassed.

DON'T BE PANICKED

There has never been a better time to gambel. This is a cinch bet. One change in 100 of noticeable reduction in present prices of livestock. Ten chances to one for inflationary prices unless labor is stabilized, which seems a remote possibility.

An army marches on its stomach, and we will help to supply over one billion people with the necessities of life aside from the war machinery, financing, and other responsibilities of leadership which we have assumed. We are the storehouse not only of life's essentials in the phase of food, war material, and machinery, we also the last reserve of civilized society, and remember that "A little leaven leaveneth the whole loaf." It is up to us.

We may see inflation, deflation, everything but damnation as long as we continue to be a nation of producers of surplus food products. So, continue producing for high or low prices. We, of this generation, have run the gamut of high and low prices, but we haven't seen anything yet. When this war is over, there will be a hungry, demolished world to be fed and rebuilt. That's where we Americans excel, in production and building. The money will still be here, no matter who has it, and once the forces of construction are set in motion, an era of prosperity such as the world has never known will result, with mankind refined by suffering to where he is willing to share with and help his neighbor, all living close to the teaching of the Brotherhood of Man and the Fatherhood of God.

The question for each individual to answer is, "Am I willing to work hard enough to succeed? Am I willing to render a greater service to my fellow man than that which I receive from him? In the margin of giving more than we receive lies the solution of our rise or fall as the individual or as a nation.

The market is holding up good on all classes of livestock despite the fact that the Government is talking price ceilings.

Cattle: With good cows selling around 9c, bulls up to 10¾, and good heifers and steers from 13 to 14½, the cattle market is in a good healthy condition, and believe it will pay good dividends.

Hogs: With hogs selling around 14c and with the present price of feed, think there is more money in hogs than at any time in the last ten years, but regardless of price, the way to make money on hogs is to have them on feed at all times.

Sheep and Lambs: We think sheep and lambs are one of the best dividend payers on the farm. With wool selling at the present time around 50c a pound and good lambs at $15 per hundred, we do not see how they can keep from making money. Be sure and make your lambs good.

PRIZES OFFERED TO FARM BOYS AND GIRLS

Two hundred ten farm boys and girls have an opportunity to win valuable prizes in a big farm safety and fire prevention contest now being conducted by the Colonial Coal & Supply Co., in cooperation with a new farm magazine, "The Business of Farming."

There is no entry fee. The contest is for the best 150 word essay. A choice of two subjects is given: "How To Prevent Farm and Home Accidents"; or "How To Prevent Fire on the Farm." Contestants may write on either subject or on both.

First prize winners who write on the first subject will receive a yearling beef heifer. Second prize is a six month beef heifer; third prize, an early spring gilt; fourth prize, a late spring gilt; and fifth prize, 20 U. S. Approved pullets. In addition, there will be 100 honorable mention prizes of a dollar's worth of Defense Stamps.

Prizes for those who write on "How To Prevent Fire on the Farm" are: First, yearling dairy heifer; second, 6 month dairy heifer; third, yearling ewe; fourth, spring lamb; and fifth, 20 U. S. Approved pullets. There will also be 100 honorable mention prizes of $1.00 in Defense Stamps.

Choice of representative breeds will be given the winners. Judges will be selected by "The Business of Farming." Entry blanks may be obtained from Colonial Coal & Supply Co. The contest closes on June 15, 1942. Winners of all awards will be announced in the September issue of "The Business of Farming" magazine.

Members of homemakers' clubs in Hart county have made 77 pints of hand lotion and 281 pounds of toilet soap at home.

BIG BONE NINE SUFFER DEFEAT

AT HANDS OF COLD SPRING SUNDAY IN CAMPBELL-KENTON AMATEUR LEAGUE—HEBRON WINS OVER LATONIA.

The Cold Spring nine knocked the Big Bone team out of a first place tie in the Campbell-Kenton Amateur Baseball League by defeating them on their home grounds Sunday by a score of 11-8.

Goetz, Cold Spring hurler, fanned 12 men and held the Big Bone batsmen in the pinches to enable his mates to win.

Big Bone staged a strong offensive in the first inning, collecting three runs. However, Cold Spring staged a rally in the second to score five, 1 run in the fourth, three in the sixth and 2 in the last frame.

Gulley, on the hill for the Big Bone nine struck out fourteen men, while walking only one. Each team had four errors marked up against them at the close of the battle.

Hebron trounced the Latonia Merchants in a close battle by a score of 3-2 in a game played at Sandfordtown. Each side hit seven safeties, but the Hebron boys played a better brand of ball behind their pitcher to gain the victory.

Deck, on the mound for Heborn struck out ten men while walking three.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Norris and family entertained last Thursday night, Mrs. Gordon Riley, Miss Amanda Holliday, Miss Dorothy Souther, Miss Pauline Norris and Mr. and Mrs. Ed C. Kidwell. The occasion was in honor of Miss Helen Faye's birthday.

Citizens Of Florence To Erect Armed Service Honor Roll

The citizens of Florence are erecting a large board in a public part of town for the names of all the boys from the Florence community, who are now serving in our armed forces.

Several similar boards are now in use throughout this section, and it is a might fine spirit on the part of the folks at home.

There will be 23 names placed on the Florence board at present, which includes all that have been drafted as well as those who have enlisted in various branches of our armed service. Other names are to be added as the boys are called.

GRANT COUNTY REACHES GOAL

IN USO CAMPAIGN—WAS SECOND COUNTY IN STATE TO EXCEED GOAL, ACCORDING TO STATE CHAIRMAN.

Grant County was the second in Kentucky to reports its USO Campaign goal exceeded, according to announcement by Dr. Frank L. McVey, State Campaign Chairman. At the same time Dr. McVey reported that four additional counties had exceeded their quotas.

The Grant County Committee, with a quota of $380.00, has reported a total of $427.93 raised.

Bullitt County, with a quota of $325.00, has reported $346.86 raised. Pendleton County, with a quota of $500.00, has reported $515.00 raised. Kenton County, with a quota of $12,000, has reported a total of $12,177.60 raised. Mercer County, with a quota of $1,000, reported a total of $1,096.00 raised.

The Mason County Committee, first in the state to reach its goal of $2,875.00, has completed its campaign and made a final report showing a total of $4,511.09 raised.

Dr. McVey stated that the preliminary official reports reaching State Campaign Headquarters up to noon May 25, showed a total of $24,542.81 raised in 21 counties from over the state. He said many committees will not begin their campaigns until after the high school and college commencements are over with, while others have been delayed in getting their organization perfected, and that the campaign should reach its full swing in about ten days.

Other counties that have made official reports are:

Caldwell County $713.00, Carroll County $305.00, Christian County $698.65, Clark County $610.42, Gallatin County $140.00, Hardin County $1,078.42, Harrison County $10, Letcher County $500.00, Menifee County $53.13, McCreary County $100.00, Nelson County $586.14, Owen County $249.00, Powell County $25.00, Todd County $375.00, Trigg County $26.55.

Judge N. E. Riddell Vacationing In Texas

Judge N. E. Riddell left last week for several weeks' vacation in San Antonio, Texas, where he expects to enjoy the greater part of his time fishing.

Each year the Judge spends several weeks in Texas and upon his return home has a number of thrilling fish stories to relate to his friends. We hope this year will be no exception, and that he don't let the big one get away.

Lieut. Commander Edwin R. Duncan Has Received Numerous Promotions; Complimented By Secretary Knox

Lieut. Commander Edwin R. Duncan and wife are visiting Lieut. Duncan's mother, Mrs. E. W. Duncan of this place. He is the son of the late Dr. E. W. Duncan, who for many years was a prominent physician of Burlington.

The people of Burlington and surrounding community remember Edwin as the good natured, laughing school boy of some 25 years ago, when he was attending the Boone County High School from which institution he graduated in the summer of 1917. The Class Annual of that year "Purple and Gold," had this to say of him:

"Edwin, commonly called 'Cy' was born in the backwoods of South Dakota, in a mining camp. His classmates, after much effort, have succeeded in civilizing him. Talking is his chief characteristic and for this reason he is forever getting into an argument.

"He is always good natured and laughing, therefore he is a favorite among all who know him. He is a good athlete and for four years has been a star on baseball and basketball teams. He would become a member of the track team, but there is not room enough for his feet.

"Success will surely open its door to him for he is an energetic and ambitious worker.

"He is now preparing for the examination to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. We are sure he will succeed in passing this examination. Who knows but what we are now entertaining among us with brotherly affection the future Admiral of the U. S. N."

This prophecy may come true judging from the following account of his rapid climb of ambition's ladder:

He graduated from Burlington High School 1917. Went to Dowd's Army and Navy Academy in Washington, D. C. Entered U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., June 25, 1918, where he graduated in June 1923. Served on U. S. S. West Virginia, U. S. S. Hatfield. He was on board the U. S. S. Hatfield when it was commissioned, later being transferred to U S. S. Arkansas. From there he was sent to the U. S. Naval Torpedo School at Newport, R. I. He graduated there as a qualified torpedo officer and deep sea diver. From there he went to the destroyer U. S. S. Hatfield where he served four years.

In June 1929 he was transferred to the Post graduate school at Annapolis where he commenced a course in Mechanical Engineering, which he later completed at Columbia University with a Master of Science degree.

On October 1931 he was assigned to the Asiatic station for duty. On arrival he was assigned to U. S. S. Panay in Shanghai China. He made a special survey of shipbuilding and repair facilities at Shanghai. Later he was transferred to U. S. S. Luzon as Patrol Engineer on staff of Rear Admiral U. S. Williams, U. S. N., and Engineer Officer of Luzon.

After one and one half years he was transferred to U. S. S. Black Hawk as repair officer. Six months later transferred to U. S. S. Pecos as Chief Engineer.

In 1934 he returned to the United States for duty as Senior Assistant in the office of Inspector of Machinery, New York City.

He was transferred to the Asiatic station in 1936. On arrival there he was assigned to duty on U. S. S. Asheville as First Lieutenant. Then transferred to U. S. S. Black Hawk as repair officer which position he maintained for the next two years.

Lieut. Duncan returned to the U. S. in 1939 where he was assigned Senior Assistant Inspector of Naval Material. He served in this capacity for two years.

He left Boston May 1941, assigned to U. S. S. Vulcan on board as the fitting out of the repair officer, where commissioned, in which job he is still serving.

Such has been his rapid climb in the naval branch of the military service of our nation and no one is promoted in this service unless he has performed some valiant deed that makes him worthy of the honor conferred.

His latest achievement prompted Secretary of the Navy Knox, to express his appreciation of his part in the wonderful feat accomplished in the repair of the American Destroyer Kearny that was torpedoed by a German submarine in the North Atlantic on Oct. 17, 1940.

The Kearney was repaired by the repair ship Vulcan of which Edwin was the Commanding Officer.

In his letter to Commander Duncan, Secretary Knox declared in part:

"It is realized that the task was performed under the most trying conditions of weather and that considerable ingenuity was displayed in the accomplishment. An excellent job—well done."

On June 2, 1936 he married Susan Jane Hyslop, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. George R. Hyslop, of Corwallis, Oregon. Mrs. Duncan has a wonderful and pleasing personality and in her few short visits here has won her a host of friends. She never met a stranger and captivates all with whom she comes in contact by her charm and lovable manner.

Judging the future by the past, we look for greater achievement from this native son of Boone County and his numerous friends wish for Mr. and Mrs. Duncan the best that this world offers.

FARMERS ASKED TO COOPERATE

IN INFLATION CONTROL PROGRAM—EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM WILL BE CONDUCTED DURING NEXT FEW WEEKS.

Farmers have been asked to cooperate with the Government in the Inflation Control through Price Ceiling or Control Cost of Living Program. A complete understanding by the farm people on the evil influences by further inflation has been requested, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. An educational program will be conducted during the next few weeks to get the farmers to get a true picture of the rapid inflation trends of recent weeks and the dangers to the present war program and the post war program that are inevitable.

This program will prove unpopular at the present to a few of the many farm people who have experienced low farm prices following the last war and to a few people who may want to get rich regardless of the war. However, people at heart want to be just as patriotic and will render full cooperation when they have grasped a full picture of the program as a whole.

The President recently outlined his seven point program on the National Economic Policies to Control the Cost of Living." They are:

1. Tax heavily and hold profits down.
2. Fix ceilings on wholesale and retail prices.
3. Stabilize wages paid to workers.
4. Stabilize prices received by farmers.
5. Encourage the purchase of War Bonds.
6. Ration essential commodities that are scarce.
7. Discourage credit and installment buying. Pay off debts.

Inflation trends so far have been on a whole identical with those of the last war. Below are some thoughts that every farmer in cooperating with our National Inflation Control Program should consider:

Inflation causes suspicion of undue advantage and profiteering between farmer and worker and employer. True unity of purpose must rest on the conviction that reward and sacrifice are received and rendered in common. The price rises which have occurred since September, 1939, will increase by 35 billions of dollars the money cost of the war program now authorized. The total cost of the first World War, by comparison was 31 billions, and of that 31 billions, it is estimated, included 13½ billions of inflated prices. If unchecked, inflation will launch a race between the wages of the stronger bargaining groups and the cost of living. This means constant revision of wage contracts, constant bargaining and negotiation, and the certain prospect of interrupted production. In a sense, inflation is a substitute for production. Money is made not by producing commodities, but by withholding them for use. Savings, investments, life insurance policies, all the results of past thrift, become worthless. Legitimate business disappears; speculation and profiteering remain. Organized government itself is undermined.

What the farmer should know about the program and what action he must take, follows:

1. Must understand the President's seven point program.
2. Must understand what will happen to the farmer if rise in prices is not controlled.
3. It is important for all farmers to maintain the farm plant—his soil—his building—his equipment.
4. It is important for all farmers to increase production through better management. (a) Must plan his work better; (b) do more work with less labor; (c) plan crops better; (d) cooperate with all his neighbors in utilizing available machinery to the fullest extent.
5. Keep out of debt.
6. Pay his taxes.
7. Purchase all war bonds possible.

What does inflation mean to the farmer?

1. Makes farmer feel prosperous.
2. Causes farmer to go into debt on a long time basis.
3. Gets him in the habit of living beyond his income.
4. Increases the farmer's taxes and the public debt structure.
5. Reduces the value of life insurance.
6. Reduces the value of farmers savings and causes him to lose interest in a program of thrift.
7. Establishes a price level higher than normal to which farmers adjust their business. Also causes the farmer to have a higher out look on life financially, reaching a level that can't be maintained.

Farm leaders will be given a complete picture of the "Control Cost Living Program" during the next few weeks in order that they may advise with their neighbors.

Rev. A. B. Colvin and wife are spending several days this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Benson and family. Rev. Colvin is conducting the Youth Revival at the local Baptist Church.

4-H CONTESTS HELD MONDAY

WINNERS WILL REPRESENT BOONE COUNTY IN STATE CONTEST TO BE HELD AT LEXINGTON JUNE 1-6.

Elaine Gardiner, of Florence and Mary Katherine Shields, New Haven were the winners of the 4-H Club clothing and foods judging contests held at the Burlington school on Monday, May 25. These girls will represent Boone County in the State contest to be held during Junior Week at the University of Kentucky, June 1-6.

The Foods judging was held beginning at 10:30 a. m. Eight girls, representing organizations at New Haven, Hebron, Burlington and Florence participated. The girls judged whole wheat rolls, gingerbread, Victory menus, and flower arrangements for the dining room table. Placings were as follows: Mary Katherine Shields, winner; Elaine Gardiner, blue ribbon; Bernice Sebree, red ribbon; Wanda Pennington, Frances Wilson, Ella Ruth Black, Jewell Vice and Betty Mullins, white ribbons.

Dresses and custom made slips were judged in the clothing contests. Twelve club members, represented the four clubs mentioned above and the Grant Club. Elaine Gardiner was the winner. Kathleen Kenney, a blue ribbon; Bernice Sebree, Betty Forkner, Ella Ruth Black, Mary Katherine Shields and Betty Mullins, red ribbons Emma Mae Brady, Louise McArthur, Imogene Presser, Jewell Vice and Wanda Pennington, white ribbons.

Those who assisted with the contests were Mrs. Sibbia Reimer as judge, with Mrs. Mary S. Moore, Home Demonstration Agent; Mrs. Geo. Kobman, Mrs. Virgil Grayson as timekeepers and score checkers; other club leaders who assisted with arrangements for the contests were Mrs. Lou Pope, Mrs. Harry Moore, and Mrs. Hugh McArthur.

Who Gets The Flowers?

While visiting with friends in Hebron the other day, I was asked on several occasions, who received the beautiful flowers that Mr. Chas. Fowler brings with him each day when he comes to Burlington.

Time has not permitted me to make a thorough investigation of this matter, but I do find that Mr. Fowler has taken an active part in our Red Cross Work lately and that he is a very fine old gentleman.

RATION BOARD TO RELEASE SUGAR

FOR CANNING PURPOSES—WILL MEET AT HEBRON, WALTON AND BURLINGTON EACH WEEK.

Additional sugar will be allotted Boone County families for canning purposes, it was announced this week by the Boone County Rationing Board. Sugar will be rationed for the purpose of canning starwberries and cherries, according to the board.

The Hebron rationing board will meet at the local schoolhouse on Thursday and Friday evening between the hours of six and nine o'clock Eastern War Time for the purpose of receiving applications for sugar for canning and preserving purposes.

The Burlington board will meet Monday and Friday nights at the Boone County Recorder office for the purpose of receiving applications for sugar for canning and preserving purposes. The Burlington board members are Earl Smith, G. S. Kelly and A. E. Stephens. Applicants may call at this office between 6:00 and 9:00 p. m. Eastern War Time.

Persons desiring additional sugar for canning or preserving purposes are required to present their War Ration Book and a complete inventory of the canned fruit you now have on hand.

It was further stated by the Rationing Board that sugar would be allotted to persons who planned to can fruit throughout the summer months. The amount of sugar to be allotted depends upon the amount of fruit to be canned by each family.

The local rationing board has named assistants in the several communities for the purpose of rationing sugar, each new board to be headed by one member of the old board. Anyone desiring sugar for canning purposes may apply at any of the three boards at their convenience, but must bring their sugar rationing books in order to obtain additional sugar.

The addition has been made to the rationing board in order to accommodate more people without their having to travel a great distance in order to get to the board. You may apply at your nearest board on the nights that have been designated by the board.

Mrs. George Smith, mother of Luther Smith, was removed to Christ Hospital last Sunday morning for treatment. Her many friends wish for her a speedy recovery.

LOCAL FOUR-H GIRL HONORED

MILDRED KING IS SELECTED TO THE COOPERATIVE HOUSE AT UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY FOR OUTSTANDING 4-H WORK

Boone County 4-H Clubs have again a signal honor in the selection of Mildred King, Verona, to the cooperative house at the University of Kentucky. Mildred will take up her residence at McDowell House when she enters the University in September.

The opportunity comes to Mildred because of the excellent 4-H club record she has made here in the county. She has participated in 4-H Club work for eight years as a member of the Verona and Walton Clubs. During that time she served as president, vice president, secretary, reporter, holding an office each year. Her work as assistant 4-H leader during the past year was invaluable. Projects in foods, clothing canning and agriculture have added prize winning awards to her collections. She has attended the State 4-H Club meeting at Lexington, representing Boone County two years, one of these being in 1939 when she participated in the clothing judging contest at Junior Week.

McDowell House is one of two cooperative houses conducted by the 4-H Club Department of the Office of the Dean of Women for deserving girls. This method of residence was adopted on the University campus in 1934 and since that time three Boone County girls have been selected on their records to share this opportunity of dividing expenses and responsibilities to make their University pursuits cost them a minimum. Katherine Sebree from Florence and Bobby Reimer from Hebron have lived at Shelby House.

AFTER THE WAR, WHAT?

Everybody is going all-out to win the war and nothing will interfere with that effort—the man on the street, the factory worker, the housewife, the farmer, and the business man are showing grim determination to bring this war to a successful termination. But we shouldn't be human if we didn't sometimes speculate on what will follow.

We face a huge task in winning this war and just as huge a task in winning the peace. To win the peace, we must prepare now—even while we are concentrating on winning the war. No one wants to go back to days of depression, of idle plants, idle men and idle money.

American industry, built and maintained by foresight, isn't ignoring this problem. It is tackling it right now, along with the dozens of other problems created by war production itself. It's laying plans for a speedy change-over to increased civilian manufacturing when this emergency is ended.

Industrialists assure us that wonderful new products are in store for the post-war markets. A glass company is preparing to offer prefabricated homes costing about $3,000 that can be assembled quickly to make cheap housing available; the airplane industry promises new luxury liners, thousands of new air fields for smaller planes, and employment to millions.

Such inventions and changes, forced by the war far sooner than they would have developed naturally, are the mainstay of the widely accepted opinion that a post-war depression of monumental proportions can be averted.

As Walter B. Weisenburger, executive vice-president of the National Association of Manufacturers has said, "the development during the war production period of superior manufacturing methods applicable to peacetime production embodies the proise that we may attain in the post-war period a scale of living higher than ever before."

RUBBER FOR AMERICA

Hope for the American motorist is found in the ambitious synthetic rubber program which is being developed by the oil industry.

S. S. Rodgers, President of the Texas Company, says that the automobile is so interwoven with our national economy that its necessary civilian use should and must be continued. The government's current synthetic rubber plans call for the creation of a supply which will be almost entirely absorbed by military needs. Therefore, the oil industry has appointed a committee "to make recommendations for increasing the announced programs so as to include some rubber for what we consider essential civilian use." Commenting on this, Mr. Rodgers said, "I have a great deal of confidence in American ingenuity, and I would not be surprised if we should soon find some satisfactory solution to this rather difficult problem."

Very great progress has been made in increasing the wearing ability of synthetic rubber for tires. According to W. S. Farish, President of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, rubber substitutes developed as late as 1940 would deliver only 200 miles of service. New synthetic rubber may deliver 10,000 miles at speeds of not over 35 miles per hour. And, says Mr. Farish, a single day's output of steel would enable the oil industry to build all the equipment needed to keep the necessary civilian cars rolling.

It will, of course, be a long time before much rubber is available for anything except vital use. So take the best possible care of your car and its tires. And in the meantime, it is reassuring to know that the oil industry is doing everything in its power to give this nation the synthetic rubber it so desperately needs.

FIRE FIGHTS AGAINST US

The National Fire Protection Association recently published a booklet which is a tragic commentary on human carelessness. That booklet is almost entirely given to vivid photographs of fires which have caused major damage to war industries.

Those fires resulted in money losses running into the tens of millions. Far worse, they deprived our military forces of vitally needed equipment and supplies. And in practically every instance, human failure was the cause of the conflagrations.

One fire got out of hand because a watchman shut off automatic sprinkler valves. One was the result of disregard for fire protection in the design of a pier. In another case, the water supply was inadequate. Another fire started in a sub-standard tank truck. In another instance, there was gross failure to observe adequate fire safeguards during construction operations. One million-dollar fire started in an old warehouse lacking automatic fire protection—and the owner had had eight previous fires.

So it goes down a long list. These fires weren't "acts of God." They were the results of someone's failure, someone's ignorance, someone's carelessness.

How can we prevent such terrible losses? The answere is simple. We can prevent them by passing and strictly enforcing local building codes which will make poor construction and bad design impossible. We can prevent them by carrying on regular inspections of homes, businesses and public property. We can prevent them if every citizen will do his bit by making sure that his own home and his own place of business are as safe as possible.

The home owner who allows papers and old clothes and odds ends to accumulate in attic or basement, and the factory manager who fails to install adequate fire protective equipment, in his plant are equally guilty. Both are paying the way for conflagrations. Both are endangering lives, money and production. When we prevent fire, we help fight the Axis. For fires serve the Axis' ends.

BUY YOUR WINTER'S FUEL NOW

We've all been advised not to hoard—and that's necessary advice indeed. But there is one basic commodity which the government wants us to "hoard" now—coal.

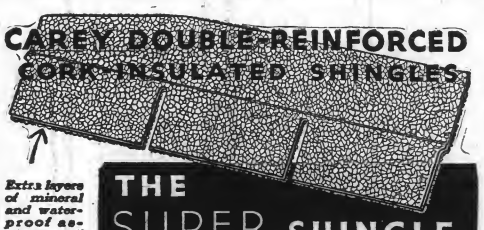
High officials are urging individuals to purchase next winter's coal stocks before summer ends—and preferably immediately. This, of course, isn't "hoarding" at all. It is, instead, a definite contribution to the war effort.

The reason for it is simple. If everyone waits until cold weather arrives before ordering coal, the drain on the mines and on the agencies which must transport the fuel, will be tremendous. Worst of all, that drain will come at a time—early and middle fall—when crop movements are at their peak. And in addition, war freight of all kinds will be substantially heavier in the fall than now.

The point is to get every possible ton of coal into the hands of the ultimate consumer at the earliest possible time. So, buy your winter's coal today. Then you'll be doing your part to clear the transportation lines for war traffic. And you'll also make certain that you won't be out of fuel when you need it.

The successful merchant advertises what he has to sell that the buying public wants to buy; there is no sense in advertising something that nobody, including the merchant himself, wants.

SAVES EYESIGHT



A WARNING!

Because they have no pain, many persons never suspect they are subject to eyestrain. This is a harmful situation. Eyestrain is a constant drain on the nervous system, and may cause headaches, lassitude, etc. If neglected, it may work serious injury.

Let us carefully examine your eyes and furnish proper glasses, if needed. Relief from eyestrain will make you feel like an entirely different person.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for May 31

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

FRIDAY: THE DAY OF SUFFERING

LESSON TEXT—Mark 14:32-34, 44-46; 15: 1-5.

GOLDEN TEXT—Not my will, but thine, be done.—Luke 22:42.

Suffering such as no man ever faced came upon our Lord in the night between Thursday and Friday as He prayed in Gethsemane. Hatred and condemnation were poured upon Him as He went through the mockery of false trials on Friday.

The important events of last week's lesson had taken place, the precious words of comfort and assurance had been spoken, and now as midnight brings the darkness of night to its deepest hue, the Son of Man goes alone into the depth of the garden where we see Him

I. Sorrowful unto Death (14:32-34).

This Scripture portion uses many words to convey the depth of His soul's agony, as though it were impossible to express it in the faulty medium of speech. So it is, for our Lord here experienced something far more serious than a dread of physical death. He was not a coward. He was not afraid to die. But now His soul was about to have put upon its spotless sinlessness the stain and dishonor of the world's sins.

As Krummacher says: "Something approached Him which threatened to rend His nerves and the sight of it to freeze the blood in His veins." Little wonder that He was "sorrowful even unto death" (v. 34). It should break our hearts to see His loving heart break!

Since this was the road the Master trod, should not His servants tread it still? Service for Christ may call for passing through deep and chilling waters, but never as deep or as cold as those of Gethsemane.

Jesus took with Him into the garden the three who were closest to Him in the circle of disciples. He counted on their fellowship and sympathy in His hour of anguish. Merely to have them near Him, to know that they were there to watch and pray even though they could not share His holy burden, was to be a comfort to Him.

How ignominiously they failed. The spirit was willing (v. 38), but the flesh took the upper hand, and they slept! He was alone with His Father when He prayed that if it were possible the hour might pass from Him, but in true and beautiful submission said, "Not what I will, but what thou wilt."

II. Betrayed With a Kiss (14:44-46).

To betray the one who had done nothing but good, who had loved him and served him even in the washing of his feet, this would have been far more than one could have expected of even the sin-blackened heart of a Judas. But he filled the measure of his ignominy to overflowing by betraying his Lord with the sign of affection—a kiss.

We know that we may not stand on the same ground as our Lord even here, for, whereas He had done nothing to merit betrayal, we at our best are not able to stand forth without fault. Nevertheless, great is the hurt when we face the betrayals of life. It may be one whom we have befriended, who has been the object of our loving thought and care, and who in the hour when he thinks to gain himself some advantage or avenge some fancied wrong strikes us in the back, even as he smilingly professes to be a friend. Shall we be embittered in soul and give like for like? God forbid! Let us rather say as Jesus did to Judas, "Friend, wherefore art thou come?" (Matt. 26:50).

III. Condemned by Hatred and Cowardice (15:1-5).

We have only a partial picture of the betrayal of Jesus in our lesson, but it is typical of all that took place, for it reveals the hatred-inspired false witness of the Jews, which, combined with the cowardice of Pilate, resulted in His being condemned to death.

Pilate was convinced of His innocence, but because of the pressure by Jewish leaders he was in a difficult position. He was afraid to follow his convictions, feeling that it was more expedient to yield to the will of the populace. So he lost his great opportunity to write his name large among the heroes of history.

Many there are who follow in Pilate's steps. They know what they ought to do with Jesus, but fearing the comments of friends or the possible loss of earthly advantage, they let Him be crucified afresh by their unbelief.

The Jewish leaders and those whom they had misled hated Jesus with a malicious hatred which made them relentless in their determination to destroy Him. Now they had their quarry at bay and they were determined to close in for "the kill."

They have their present day counterpart in those who have so long rejected Christ that they have become embittered against Him.

Will they thank you for good strong feet?

Oh, you mother of a child—you want his manners to be nice, you want his brain to be quick, you want his back to be straight, you want his handsc to be agile—but don't you want his feet to be sturdy and true, well shaped and graceful? Or those of your daughter?

You mother of a child, twenty years from now his feet will be walking up to get a diploma, or confidently marching in to get a job; maybe walking up to an old church altar to meet a bride in white. (Or it may be the bride herself). Your child may never thank you for good strong feet, he'll take them as a matter of fact.

But what will he think if they're not good strong feet? Sure, he'll still love you—but "why didn't mother make sure I was growing up right?"

It is a responsibility, just one of the many a mother takes on when she brings a child into the world.—Adv.

A Week of The War

The White House reported the nation's vast cargo ship construction program is on schedule and "the American people can be assured that the shipyards will do the job assigned to them. The statement said shipyards delivered 120 new vessels in the first 130 days of this year, 20 percent more than were built in all of 1941, and the production peak has not yet been reached.

American shipyards are building merchant vessels faster than ever before in the history of the world, the White House said. Cargo ships are being built in less than one-half the time originally allotted. "The progress made thus far is easing our shipping problem, but there will be a shortage of ships until sinkings throughout the world are brought under better control and the shipbuilding program gets into full production," the statement said.

Army-Navy War Review

A joint Army-Navy Communique reviewed the progress of the war to date. The Communique said that during a period of preparation for offensive acting, a "number of successful thrusts" at the Japanese had worked a "lasting effect upon the strategic situation." Among such strokes is listed the naval raids on the Gilbert and Marshall Islands, Wake Island, Marcus Island, and the bombing of Japan itself. It included also the destruction of Japanese ships in the battles of the Coral Sea and Macassar Straits, the accomplishments of American submarines in the Far Pacific and the numerous raids by American planes based on Australia.

The Joint Communique also reported that during the first three weeks of the war, about 600,000 American troops moved to battle stations, many of them overseas. Unified command is now in effect in every theater of war. The defense of the Phillipines, the Communique said, "demonstrated the comparative weakness of the Japanese as an individual fighter," a factor which "alone forebodes disaster for the enemy Japanese in the future when the battle is met on terms approaching equality."

Cost of Living

The Office of Price Administration said the general ceiling on retail prices, now in effect, is expected to cut the cost of living by 12 percent. The Labor Department reported that by mid-April, families of wage earners and lower-salaried workers had to spend $1.17 to buy the same things for which they spent $1 before August 1939.

Price Administrator Henderson said the American standard of living will be reduced to the depression-bottom level by the end of 1943. Civilian purchasing power will be about three times the 1932 figure while available consumer goods will decrease 24 percent during 1942. To aid the anti-inflation program, representatives of the 550,000 shipyard workers in the nation's private shipyards agreed to relinquish approximately $80 million in wage increases, the WPB reported.

Rationing

The OPA announced gasoline card rationing in Oregon and Washington will begin June 1 and continue until July 1, when a coupon rationing plan will be placed in effect. The WPB restricted deliveries of fuel oil and gasoline to the two west coast States to 50 percent of normal deliveries, effective immediately for oil and June 1 for gasoline. Petroleum Coordinator Ickes said there is no immediate need of curtailing deliveries of petroleum products elsewhere in the country. The OPA removed the 50-mile zone west of the east coast rationing area where motorists from the rationed area were to have been required to present cards for gasoline.

Local ration boards will be directed to open their records to public inspection as soon as practicable, the OPA announced. The agency also said gasoline dealers will be responsible for checking ration cards to determine whether they have enough units to cover purchases, to see that the descriptions on them apply to the cars for which they are presented, and to destroy or mark used ration card units. Commerce Secretary Jones announced the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will make $150 million available for purchase of tires held by consumers. The OPA authorized manufacturers to ship adults' bicycles to distributors, and said it will begin bicycle rationing in about three weeks.

Civilian Supply

The WPB notified stove manufacturers whose sales for the year ended June 30, 1941, totaled more than $2 million, as well as those in any of 39 "labor shortage areas," that they cannot produce domestic cooking and heating stoves after July 31. Manufacturers authorized to produce stoves were limited to certain approved types and to monthly iron and steel use of 70 percent of the average they used in the year ended June 30, 1941. New installations of air conditioning and commercial refrigeration equipment were banned, except for war and essential civilian requirements. Anti-freeze production was limited to 50 percent of 1941 output. Manufacture of colored sheets must cease July 1.

WALKS 4 MILES TO HOMEMAKERS' CLUB

Mrs. Hila Bailey walked four miles to attend her first homemakers' club meeting in Bell county. She was invited by Mrs. Edward Brock of the Mill Creek club, members of which are interesting three families each in war food production. Sunshine Colley, the county's home demonstration agent says Mrs. Bailey already has "adopted" three families and will do much good among the 20 families in "the hollow" in which she lives.

Poultry Marketing Tour Held Thursday

C. Eberle & Sons, five Commission merchants, the Cincinnati Produce Commission Exchange and the Frenth Bauer Egg plant were visited on the Northern Kentucky Poultry Tour held last Thursday, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

The tour was of special importance in securing a better understanding of the Cincinnati Wholesale Marketing Program. Reasons why better quality eggs and poultry brought a higher price and lower quality eggs and poultry brought a less profitable price were demonstrated.

The Cincinnati Produce Market Exchange where the sales are made that set the market price and market quotations for that day were of special interest. Mr. Walter Eberle of the C. Eberle Commissions Co., was host to the tour group at the noon hour.

MANY BENEFITS IN PASTURE FOR HOGS

In addition to the benefits of pasture for hogs, already cited in articles by Prof. E. J. Wilford of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics, there are three other minor but nevertheless important considerations.

One of the first benefits to consider is that when feed is high or hard to get, forage makes it possible, with a small amount of grain, to maintain health and fair gains during the summer. However, many hog men make the serious mistake of forcing the hogs to live on pasture alone. It has been previously stated that growing pigs are unable to maintain their weight on forage alone. The pig may grow slightly, but will also lose some of the baby fat which should be maintained.

Again, it has been proved that the beneficial effects of forage are not confined to the pasture period alone. Pigs which have had the advantage of green feed during the summer do better subsequently when placed in the dry lot for finishing than those which have not had the advantage of pasture. In other words, there is a residual effect which aids the pigs to make faster and more economical gains in dry lot.

In comparison to dry lot feeding, where the manure is allowed to accumulate and waste away, the droppings will be left where the land will receive the full benefit from the fertility contained. It is estimated that about 80 percent of the important fertilizing material of the feed, namely, nitrogen, phosphoric acid, and potash, is ordinarily recovered in the feces and urine. This is an important consideration, as it aids materially in maintaining soil fertility, which has been one of the government's main projects.

FARMERS URGED TO PLAN SEED SAVING

Foreseeing a possible seed shortage next year, the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics is carrying on a statewide campaign to encourage farmers to produce and save all the seed possible this season. The demand for grass and legume seed has been increasing for several years, partly as a result of the agricultural conservation program. At the same time the importation of seed from other states and other countries has decreased. Still another reason for farmers producing their own seed is that such seed often is better adapted to Kentucky conditions than is seed brought in from a distance.

A small threshing machine, developed by the Tennessee Valley Authority and state experiment stations, will be used on small farms in several Kentucky counties. In Johnson county, a small machine was used recently to thresh crops that had been put up for hay. The College has published several leaflets dealing with the production of seed of various kinds of grasses and legumes.

LOW QUALITY CREAM COSTLY TO FARMERS

The failure of much butter made from Kentucky cream to meet army specifications is costing farmers a big sum, according to a statement issued by the College of Agriculture and Home Economics at Lexington. Not only is poor cream costly to farmers, but every pound of butter rejected may mean that some soldier does not receive his proper allowance.

Cleanliness in handling milk, quick cooling, and frequent delivery of cream would raise the cream quality materially and, of course, mean a higher price, says J. O. Barkman of the College. A good bit of cream is delivered only once in nine or 10 days, and reports have been received at the College of cream held 30 days on the farm.

Through its extension division, and in cooperation with buyers and manufacturers, the College of Agriculture and Home Economics has helped to institute the four-day delivery plan in 79 counties.

The College also is making a survey of the number of trucks used in buying cream, with a view to encouraging better use of trucks, doing away with duplication of service, and conserving tires and gasoline.

BALBO RYE EXCELS

Balbo rye furnished 20 to 60 percent more pasture than any other cover crop tried in Anderson county, says County Agent C. S. Bell. Vetch in many cases grew 30 inches high and made an excellent crop to turn under. Some farmers turned under mixtures of wheat and vetch. There were a good many fields of ryegrass in the county this spring, although many farmers failed to get a stand of ryegrass.

WPA TO COOPERATE WITH KENTUCKY FARMERS

Wholehearted cooperation with the farmer in solving any labor problem with which the latter may be confronted, due to the nation's war effort, has been promised by WPA through George H. Goodman, Kentucky Administrator. With 35 percent of all WPA workers in Kentucky now engaged in varied war efforts, Mr. Goodman said it was fair to anticipate a dearth of farm labor and that WPA would attempt to meet such requirements in Kentucky as they arose and under such provisions as are authorized by Washington.

The farm already is one of the nation's first lines of defense with the farmer facing one of his most prosperous eras, Mr. Goodman said. Farm Labor, he said ,as far as it is available, will be required to leave WPA and accept farm employment whenever the prevailing wage rate is paid. Refusal of any WPA worker to accept such employment under these conditions will be denied employment on WPA in accordance with established procedure.

Farmers are not expected, he continued, to set an arbitrary rate in any locality, but a comparable scale is to be hoped for in view of increased farm income. Authorities at Washington, he pointed out, recognized that industries meet such requirements under given circumstances and that the same tariff laws that protect industry also protect the farmer.

We realize, Mr. Goodman said, that during the past year some farmers experienced difficulty in obtaining WPA workers. To overcome this, investigations were made. They revealed that in most cases this was due to the lack of understanding of the proper procedure to follow. Representatives of the Training and Reemployment Division of WPA since have met with interested farm groups at their request and made full explanations and answered all questions. These meetings proved to be of great worth to all concerned. Arrangements have been made to continue such meetings in the future. Mr. Goodman urged that representatives of farm groups anticipate their needs and call upon the nearest representative of the Training and Reemployment Division of WPA at Corbin, Lexington, Louisville or Madisonville in advance of any proposed meeting to insure the presence of the WPA representative.

There are now about 30,000 men certified to WPA in the State of Kentucky. A large percentage of these men have had experience at farm work. The Federal Government estimates that eighteen men are required behind the lines to keep one man fighting. It is to be hoped, Mr. Goodman said, the fullest cooperation between the farmers of the State and WPA will establish an unbeatable rear line of defense.

SWAPPING WORK AND MACHINERY TO HELP IN FARM SITUATION

Swapping work, using more machinery and changing practices so as to reduce work, will help farmers produce more food this season, despite labor shortage, says a report of the Agricultural Experiment Station labelled "Farm Labor Under War Conditions."

Ways for farmers to cooperate and "team up" are discussed. Farmers are urged to use tractors, row cultivators, combines and other implements. Changes in practices suggested include planting corn the desired thickness, instead of thinning; the elimination of hoeing by better preparation of the soil before planting, and reducing the work of cultivating by using one or two-row cultivators instead of the double-shovel.

Other suggestions include the use of such groups as W. P. A. laborers, highway employees, townsmen, women and children. "Most of the real help a farmer will get to relieve labor problems will come through the help he provides for himself," is one of the conclusions.

Confidence that farmers will meet all demands for more food is expressed. "The mammoth task of increasing producing to meet war needs has been heaped upon the shoulders of farmers. Because of the realization of the importance of the job to be done the ingenuity of the American farmers will devise schemes and means to accomplish the job expected of them," says the report.

KENTUCKY SHEEPMEN MAY PRODUCE PELTS FOR AVIATOR COATS

The part that Kentucky sheepmen are having in the war ,including the production of pelts for aviator clothes, will be discussed at a state-wide sheep meeting at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington May 26. Both wool and lambs are in high demand this year, due in part to interference with wool importation, and increased demand as a result of the war.

Owners of late lambs will be told that pelts from such lambs make ideal clothing for aviators, especially where the lambs are sheared in July, so their wool will not be more than an inch long when they are sold in the fall. Kentucky's lamb crop is arriving over an extra-long period this year, and there may be several hundred thousand late lambs.

Demonstrations will be given at the meeting in diagnosing and treating late lambs for stomach worms and other internal parasites. Materials used in such treatments will be on display. Special consideration will be given types of ewes and methods of getting them under present conditions. Sheep raisers, economists and other speakers will discuss the position of sheep in the war program, and also what may happen to them after the war.

On the day after the meeting, May 27, there will be a tour of Bluegrass flocks, when various types of ewes and their lambs will be seen. Richard C. Miller of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics is arranging the meeting.

What has become of the politician who maintained for many years that no nation would dare attack the United States?

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

"Feed a pig for war-victory" says Taylor county farmers, who are feeding 200 pigs to be sold and the money invested in war bonds.

Livingston county farmers are planting 1,200 acres of soybeans for oil.

Barren county farmers cooperated in ordering a carload of "feeding" wheat, which came out at 1,600 bushels.

In keeping with the war program to produce sweets at home, many Harlan county farmers are growing a half-acre of sorghum each.

Anderson county homemakers have had a series of lessons on the subject, "For children and adults alike, milk means good health."

"Why didn't the 'food for victory' campaign start years ago?" queried an Oldham county homemaker cooperating in the new program.

Pasture improvement plots in McCracken county, sponsored by the Greater Paducah Association, have shown excellent results.

Poultry production is up one-fourth in Bourbon county, probably in response to war demands.

Meade county farmers, who have contracted to grow 360 acres of tomatoes, have good plants.

Ohio county 4-H'ers have assumed entire responsibility for the castor bean program.

A total of 4,655 pounds of scrap was brought in on Scrap Metal Day in Boyle county by Parksville 4-H club members.

Estill county farmers are planning to use alfalfa to take the place of soybeans for hay, and are doubling alfalfa seedings.

In the Fayette county and City of Lexington garden program, country boys are to invite city boys to join with them in growing gardens. Details as to services rendered and division of vegetables will be worked out by each pair.

The Hickman county agriculture war board has set 2,500 acres as the goal for growing soybeans for oil. The total soybean acreage in the county last year was 1,600.

Six Acres Of Castor Beans To Be Raised

Six acres of castor beans will be raised by 4-H; F. F. A. and Utopia members in Boone County, according to Franklin Frazier, Assistant County Agent. These beans, grown under a contract with the Government, are needed in the production of war materials.

Four-H members growing castor beans are: Earl Conner, Burlington, R. 1; L. K. Duvall, Florence; Bruce Ferguson, New Haven; and John Franklin Jones, New Haven. Future Farmer Chas. Ray Willis, Hebron; Utopia Club, Dorothy Souther, Burlington.

The first shipment of seed to this county has been distributed, and the State AAA Office has advised it is unlikely that more seed will be available for planting this year.

HOW TO MAKE YOUR Electric Iron LAST LONGER

An electric iron is a necessity in the modern home—but irons are no longer being manufactured and you may not be able to get a new one later on, so it's a good idea to take good care of the iron you have. Here are some maintenance hints that you will find helpful:

Keep bottom of iron clean. Wait until iron is cool, then wipe off with damp cloth. If necessary, use soapsuds or very mild scouring powder. Wipe off with clean damp cloth afterwards.

Never immerse your iron in water. Doing so may result in damage to heating elements next time you connect it.

Avoid scratching sole plate. Do not iron over buttons, zippers or other hard articles. Iron around them.

Be careful not to drop your iron. Dropping puts more irons out of commission than any other one thing.

Don't let iron cord touch the hot iron or rub continuously on edge of board. Either may wear off insulation. Replace the cord at the first sign of wear.

Rub the sole plate of your iron once a month or so with a good grade of paraffin or beeswax. Wipe off on paper or cloth.

If iron has become soiled or starch has stuck to it, sprinkle some salt on a newspaper and run the iron over it.

Don't disconnect iron by yanking on cord. Release by pulling plug at convenience outlet.

Always be sure the iron is perfectly cold before putting it away.

Remember this: It's the contact of heat with the dampened garment that removes wrinkles, not pressure or weight. So save your strength and let the heat do the job.

June 2nd Last Day For Registration

All persons who desire to change their registration before the August Senatorial and Congressional election must do so on or before June 2nd, it was announced this week by C. D. Benson, County Court Clerk.

This means that there are only five more days for registration if you have moved from one precinct to another or if you have failed to register in the precinct in which you now reside.

After June 2nd the registration books will be closed and it will be impossible for you to register again until after the August election.

B. H. Berkshire Sells Record Lamb Crop For Year 1942

Word was received at this office of a record lamb crop raised on the farm of B. H. Berkshire, of near Petersburg, which was sold on the Cincinnati market for an average of $12.84 per head.

Mr. Berkshire shipped 20 lambs that weighed 1785 pounds, which brought him $256.80 clear of all expenses. This was an average of $12.84 per head.

Although this record is not official it is the highest that we have received this year, and we are pleased that the farmers are assured of good prices for their 1942 lamb crop.

Union Stock Yards Sponsor Radio Program

Starting Monday, May 25th, all interests at the Cincinnati Union Stock Yards, Cincinnati, O., sponsor a radio program over Station WKRC, 550 on your dial. This program is planned to bring first hand livestock market information to farmers and stockmen.

The program will be on the air daily Monday through Friday each week. From 12:30 to 12:35 Eastern War Time the livestock market report prepared by the U. S. Department of Agriculture will be given. From 12:35 to 12:40 all interests at the Cincinnati Yards will sponsor a program discussing the Cincinnati Terminal Market and this will be followed by twenty minutes of further interesting data for the farmers and stockmen of this area.

We thought that women could spread gossip and rumor but the war produces new talent along this line.

Wartime Bus Schedules Effective June 3rd On Great Lakes Greyhound

Conditions imposed by wartime restrictions on vital materials will affect the schedules of all Great Lakes Greyhound Lines buses June 3, P. L. Radcliffe, general traffic manager of the company declared today.

In co-operation with the Office of Defense Transportation, Mr. Radcliffe said that a speed limit of 40 miles an hour would be in effect and it will be necessary to curtail service where there is the least demand for it to release buses for heavily travelled lines since additional buses cannot be purchased.

He added that second sections of regular schedules will not be operated unless there is a sufficient number of passengers to justify it, and charter coaches are available only for movements authorized by the war department. Unless on business or in an emergency people are asked to travel on Tuesdays, Wednesday and Thursdays.

Mr. Dadcliffe also expressed the hope that passengers will remember that wartime travel cannot be "travel as usual," and that they would make allowances if inconvenienced, crowded or delayed.

GOV. JOHNSON TO SPEAK AT ANNUAL 4-H JUNIOR WEEK

The 800 farm boys and girls attending the 22nd annual Junior Week at the University of Kentucky June 1 to 6 will have as one of their principal speakers Gov. Keen Johnson. He is scheduled to address the Thursday morning assembly in Memorial Hall. Several hundred local leaders and county and home demonstration agents also will hear him. Every county in the state will be represented.

Dr. Herman L. Donovan, president of the University, will welcome the juniors at the opening assembly of the week on Tuesday. The Wednesday morning speaker will be Dr. S. J. Corey, president of the College of the Bible at Transylvania College, and Dean Thomas P. Cooper of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics of the University of Kentucky will speak Friday morning.

Other speakers of the week include Mrs. Elizabeth Turner, who went through many air raids in England, and H. K. Moss, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Kentucky. George Campbell again will direct the singing.

The program of the week includes demonstrations in farm and home practices, judging contests, a style revue, and classes in agriculture and home economics. One afternoon will be devoted to tours of the Bluegrass region.

New officers will be elected for the Kentucky Association of 4-H Clubs. Present officers are Wayne Stewart, Rockcastle county, president; Harry Gatton, Muhlenberg county, vice president, and Lucy Mae Griggs, Madison county, secretary.

SHEEP-KILLING DOGS COST WAR UNIFORMS

About one percent of the sheep in Kentucky were killed by dogs last year, says Richard C. Miller of the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics. This would be about 10,000 head. Figured in terms of soldiers' uniforms, the loss of wool from this many sheep is considered particularly distressing at this time.

Many counties have sheep protective associations, one of the functions of which is the enforcement of the dog law. Miller thinks that sheepmen who have unlicensed dogs should set an example by having them licensed. It also would be good business, says Miller, if landowners would see that their tenants license their dogs.

The way to unity among the people of this country, as they face a bitter war is through sacrifice, not fault-finding and political manouevering.

STUDY THE SITUATION

Today most minds are centered on the job of winning this war—and that is one of the biggest jobs that has come to any nation in the history of mankind. At the same time, many men are thinking of that day when the war will finally end and the equally vast task of reconstruction must be started. They are laying plans for this world of the future based on the hope that ways can be found to make international peace and prosperity real and permanent, instead of temporary and illusory.

All Americans know what happened after the last war. It was the position of President Wilson that this nation must accept the responsibility of leadership in world affairs, and he believed that the League of Nations was the proper instrument for the discharge of that responsibility. For good or ill, Mr. Wilson could not win the American Congress and the American people to his side. He literally burned himself out on a national speaking tour which proved to be an utter failure. This nation was sick of internationalism and war. It wanted only to mind its own business and to manage its own affairs. It had little interest in what went on beyond its borders.

Now the situation is vastly different in many ways. The Atlantic Charter commits this nation to help in the rebuilding of all the world. The Charter, in principle, has been almost universally approved—indeed, the main criticism of it is that it does not go far enough. And, perhaps more important still, the political opposition to the Administration has formally placed itself on record with a policy which is a far cry from the "traditional isolationism" of yesteryear.

At the end of the last war, the strongest figure in the Republican party was the able Senator Lodge, who did more than any other man to block Congressional approval of the League of Nations. Now the dominant figure in the party is a man whose viewpoint is genuinely internationalist, Wendell Willkie. It was Mr. Willkie who carried the torch at the recent meeting of the Republican Policy Committee, and who succeeded in having passed resolutions which almost completely embody his ideas.

The other day Mr. Willkie made a speech, in which he said: "It will be a new idea to many Americans that the United States in the future may need help from other nations. But we do need help if our ideas of personal liberty, of justice, of equality, of hope and growth and expansion, are to survive. We can keep America to ourselves, though I doubt if the America we keep to ourselves would be free. But we cannot keep freedom to ourselves. If we are to have freedom, we must share freedom . . . The day of vast empire is past. The day of equal peoples is at hand . . .

"Let us keep that aim shining before us like a light—a light for the people of Europe, for the people of Africa, for the people of Asia, for the people of South America, and for the people of our own beloved land."

As Time put it, "Seldom before had any U. S. leader said, in such clean, earthy words, that the freedom on which this nation was founded means freedom and dignity for all people of all lands.

Precisely what we must or will do in the future is in the laps of the gods. Many think that there will be great economic adjustments, and we must find ways to help other peoples attain the means as well as the desire to buy part of the incredible flood of goods that our post-war factories will be able to produce. They think there will be an end to thinking that peoples of another creed and color are inferior to peoples of our creed and color. They think, in short, that a real start may be made toward the goal of the Brotherhood of Man that philosophers have dreamed about for 20 centuries.

In any event, all of us are now getting a new and far more accurate idea of the character of other peoples. We used to think of the Chinese in terms of incredible poverty, disease and ignorance—now we have learned that the Chinese are brave and intelligent and are led by men who are outstanding in any company. We used to think of the Russians as spineless serfs—and now the Russians have held the greatest military machine the world has ever known, and perhaps saved all the United Nations from defeat and disaster. We used to think of Australia as a rather uninteresting and unimportant "island" far away in the Pacific—and now we have learned that the Australians are people very like ourselves, proud and embattled, and that the defense of Australia is vital to our own defense. So it goes. Whatever comes, the average American is obtaining an infinitely better knowledge of the world and the peoples who inhabit it than his forebears ever had.

CONSTANCE HOMEMAKERS

The Constance Homemakers will meet at the home of Mrs. Thomas Kenyon on June 3rd for our regular meeting. We hope to have a large attendance.

SAYS FARMERS HAVE BIG STAKE IN MOVE TO STOP INFLATION

Farmers have a tremendous stake in the success of the government's policies to control prices and prevent inflation, points out Dr. H. B. Price, head of the department of markets and rural finance in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. They have much to gain from the success of measures to check inflation, and they are in a position to exert great influence in bringing about the success of those measures. Many will recall the boom in farm prices and incomes in 1917-1919 but will also remember the disastrous collapse of farm prices and land values in the succeeding years.

Farmers are not only producers and sellers of commodities, but also purchasers of large quantities of fertilizers, feeds, machinery, and other supplies for production and large quantities of goods and services for farm family living. They stand to benefit directly from stabilization of prices of these commodities. They are owners of bonds, life insurances policies, and farm mortgages. At the same time prices of many of the basic commodities which farmers have for sale are guaranteed against decline below 85 percent of parity, and for the most part are not yet subject to price ceilings.

By loyal cooperation with every phase of the government's program to increase production and prevent runaway prices, farmers should be able to conduct their business in a profitable manner and make a maximum contribution to the total war effort. The more complete the success of the government program the smaller will be the necessary sacrifices in blood and living standards, the more quickly will victory be won, and the sooner will agriculture and the country as a whole be able to return to the ways of peace.

WOMEN TOLD TO GATHER RUBBER

The scrap metal campaign has succeeded well, and the paper collections were so good that no large-scale paper shortage now threatens. But homemakers of Kentucky now should emphasize scrap rubber collection, urges Miss Myrtle Weldon, state leader of county home demonstration work. Nothing usable and needed should be discarded, she emphasizes—in the long run, this would merely create a demand for new goods. But old, leaky hot water bottles, atomizers, discarded rubber overshoes and rubber boots, water hose past the safety stage, rubber jar rings, "welcome" mats now reposing in the attic—all of these things should be made ready for the next big drive by the county salvage committee. Even shoe heel caps that have been worn over too much for further use should be pulled off and contributed. Rubber is a primary necessity for war needs, she emphasizes, and besides this provides an excellent chance to clear the home of useless materials.

POULTRY PROFITS UP

A survey made by County Agent R. E. Rothwell indicated that poultry keepers in Marshall county, Kentucky, are making more money this season than they have made in the past five years. Egg production has been high, and prices have been fairly good much of the time. Some flock owners reported more than 20 eggs per hen per month, and profits as high as 30 cents per hen per month. A check of 482 farms showed an increase so far this year of 58 percent in egg production over the same period last year.

Electric Brooders Used By Local Poultry Raisers, Successful

Cecil Conner and Lucy Lee Grant of Hebron report successful results from electric brooders used in colony type brooder houses this year, according to Franklin Frazier, Assistant County Agent.

Conner's brooder operated for a 35-day period from March 25 to April 30, for a cost of 2.2 cents per chick raised. The Community Public Service Company furnished a separate meter for this demonstration which showed a total consumption of 194 kilowatt hours. Three hundred fifty two-week-old chicks were placed in a 12x14 house with a 500-chick capacity brooder. Three hundred forty-seven of these were raised.

Miss Grant raised 329 of the 363 day-old chicks started March 29. The electric brooder was used 36 days. The operating cost of this brooder was reported substantially lower than for oil or coal type stoves. No unusual trouble was experienced with wet litter.

A greater number of poultrymen in this county each year have been purchasing electric brooders because of their labor saving features and economical operation.

WARTIME NEEDS

CHANGE GREYHOUND SCHEDULES

EFFECTIVE WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3RD...

Greyhound buses will operate on new war-time schedules. This change in service is being made in order to cooperate to the fullest extent with the war-time plans of the Office of Defense Transportation. The purpose is to make every bus work full time — keeping vital traffic on the move.

America's war program has the right of way! The great majority of the people Greyhound is carrying today and intends to carry efficiently are selectees traveling to examination centers, fighting men on leave or furlough, war workers moving to their jobs, businessmen traveling on essential work. The trips they take are necessary to keep the war program rolling.

With increased service demanded for war production areas—and little increase in buses available—it is necessary to divert equipment to routes where it is most needed.

Many peace-time features are discontinued. Operating speeds are somewhat reduced. Express and Limited schedules are eliminated entirely. Second sections of regular schedules are being eliminated unless the buses carry a sufficient number of passengers. Greyhound schedules will be combined with those of other bus companies, when necessary.

Conservation of rubber is all-important—and Greyhound is taking every possible step to increase the big savings already effected. Today buses use only a fraction as much rubber as private cars per passenger, per mile—and they average more than 40,000 miles per tire.

We hope that these war-time changes will not cause you inconvenience, crowding or delay. But if you don't find travel as comfortable and easy as in normal times, please make allowances! The war effort comes first with Greyhound as it does with you!

You Can Help

by getting information about the new schedules before you travel — taking as little baggage as possible — traveling before or after the mid-summer rush period — taking your trip on mid-week days, leaving seats on week-ends for soldiers and war workers.

SATURDAY

Hanley ("Baby Snooks'" daddy) Stafford, one of the large cast of radio stars who appear in Universal's tuneful "Swing It, Soldier," brings a surprise to thousands in his first appearance on the screen.

Something in Stafford's radio personality—that of a humorless, crusty parent always on the verge of a nervous breakdown—suggests to many people that he is stout, perhaps because of the gifted nervous-wreck roles played by Edgar Kennedy and other stout men.

There is no change in "Swing It, Soldier," he plays a harried parent on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

"The Courtship of Andy Hardy" is the twelfth picture in the Hardy Family series, which was created five years ago. The series was launched with "A Family Affair," adapted from Aurania Rouverol's play.

The picture introduces a new leading women to the series in the person of Donna Reed, who follows in the footsteps of Lana Turner and Kathryn Grayson, both of whom received their start toward stardom in the Hardy series.

Don't miss this big laugh picture.

TUESDAY
(Double Feature)

After a long and illustrious career as a featured played in some of Hollywood's most ambitious production, Regis Toomey is starring in the new picture "Bullet Scars."

Since his first stage appearance in that time-honored Broadway hit, "Rose Marie," in which he played for five years, Tommey has been represented on stage or screen ever single season. Some of the more recent hits in which he has appeared are "Northwest Passage," "Arizona" and "Meet John Doe" which persuaded Warner Bros. to star him in "Bullet Scars." Another full length feature "Pittsburgh Kid" will be shown in connection with the above picture.

WED., THURSDAY AND FRIDAY

Squadron Leader O. Cathcart Jones, who was assigned by the Royal Canadian Air Force to watch every scene in Warner Bros.' Technicolor air epic, "Captains of the Clouds," has wired his commanding officer, Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, V. C., that the film "is positively the best aviation picture ever filmed, a first-rate credit to the fighting men of the RCAF."

Cathcart-Jones served as technical adviser for the film as a definite assignment from the RCAF. He holds eight world records, which he set in the Australian Air Race of 1934, and is a cousin of the British Royal Family.

Bible School 10:00 C. W. T.

Worship Service 11:00 C. W. T. This will be a special Memorial Day service, dedicate to the honor and memory of the Churches veterans and service men. We are very anxious to have a complete roll of all the men from the congregation or the relatives of present members and friends who have served their country in the various branches of the armed forces at any time, both the living and the dead. If you are able to supply any information as to the above, get in touch with Mrs. Dud Rouse of Burlington or Mrs. Jack Purdy, of Waterloo before Sunday.

Special music will be featured at this service.

Mary Lou Williamson won the prize in the Scripture hunt last week. Congratulations Mary Lou for the good work.

Mayme Holbrook was elected secretary-treasurer of the Bible School last Sunday. Nominations for the office of superintendent and assistant secretary-treasurer were made by secret ballot at the same session. There will be a run-off election for the above offices this Sunday.

THEY FLY ON THE GROUND

Learning to fly without going up in a plane—that's the way many American pilots get their preliminary instruction today. They use a special "trainer" developed by an ingenious engineer (and now produced in quantities by an American factory) to enable them to learn the first principles of flying while they remain on the ground.

Every one of the thousands of combat planes now in service requires at least two pilots to operate it, and some of them call for three or four. This means that America's expanding air program will require many thousands of pilots, who will have to be skilled as quickly as possible to operate the huge number of planes that are now coming from American factories.

The "trainer" that they use looks like a miniature airplane except that the fuselage is the size of a regular airplane fuselage. Inside it there is a cockpit and a dashboard with the instruments arranged exactly as they would be on a real airplane. The fuselage has short, stubby sidewings, and ailerons, and rudder, and it's mounted on a base three feet above the ground.

The trainer can tilt sideways and its nose can move up and down—all without leaving its base. Because it can be maneuvered in this way, it gives the "grounded" eagles all the sensations and the experience of flying a real plane.

Use of these trainers not only enables the novice pilot to receive his instruction more safely than he would if he had to begin to learn to fly blind in the air, depending on his instruments for direction and altitude; it also cuts down the amount of aviation gasoline and oil that would be needed to train pilots in actual planes, and it releases for combat duty many of the pilots and planes that would otherwise be required for training.

POINT PLEASANT

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Wernz and Mrs. Geo. Wernz called on Mr. and Mrs. Adam Dolwick and children last Tuesday evening.

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES

AS REPORTED BY COUNTY RED CROSS HEALTH NURSE—BOYS AND GIRLS RECEIVE BLUE RIBBONS.

Many boys and girls worked for Blue Ribbons in Boone County this year, and as a result 89 received blue ribbons at the close of school. There were only 21 blue ribbons for the entire county last year, and it is hoped there will be many more next year.

The following persons from Hebron have completed the Home Nursing course and will receive certificates from Washington: Mrs. Nannie Lee Siekman, Mrs. Elizabeth Youell, Mrs. Lorraine Siekman, Mrs. Dorothy Goodridge, Mrs. Nellie Goodridge, Mrs. Sue Rogers, Mrs. Blanch Aylor, Mrs. Katherine Peel, Mrs. Lorena Clore, Mrs. Hilda Hogan, Mrs. Gladys Jackson, Mrs. Mattie Ratcliff.

Those from Belleview who are receiving their certificates are: Miss Emma Ryle, Mrs. Clara Hensley, Miss Marian Rogers, Mrs. Kathryn Clore, Mrs. Marguerite Rogers, Mrs. Florence McArthur, Mrs. Espy Ligon, Miss Marjorie Lucinda, Mrs. Mary Jane Jones, Mrs. Mary F. Louden and Mrs. Hilda Rogers.

New classes are being organized and taught at Florence, Bullittsville, Constance, Taylorsport, Hamilton and Verona.

A class for colored women is being taught at Florence with a very good attendance. As there are so few colored people in Boone County, one class had to take in the entire county, but the women are coming from all sections, no matter how far, and the attendance has been unusually good.

BULLITTSVILLE HOMEMAKERS

Mrs. M. M. Lucas entertained the Bullittsville Homemakers at her home for their May meeting. The morning session was opened by singing "America The Beautifull" and the salute to the flag.

The roll was answered by "Something about the mother of some noted person." Mrs. Wm. Hill gave an article on the origin of Mother's Day.

Mrs. Moore announced the County Canning demonstration which will be held at Burlington June 18. She also announced that the Homemaker Clubs of the County had been asked to contribute toward the building of floral hall on the new County fair grounds. The club pledged $10.00 to the fund.

The president, Mrs. Haynes Bruce announced that the annual election will be held at the June meeting. Mrs. Ray Hill, Mrs. Jonas Stevens and Mrs. Huey Aylor were appointed as a nominating committee.

After lunch Mrs. Wm. Hill gave the lesson for the month, "Planning Community Meals." Mrs. Jonas Stevens gave a most interesting talk on Alaska.

Mrs. Huey Aylor invited the club to hold their June meeting at her home. The roll call will be answered by "Something About the American flag and what this flag means to me."

HEBRON HOMEMAKERS

The May meeting of the Hebron Homemakers was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Wohrley on the 13th. Everyone sang the first verse of "America" and read the "Collect."

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, also the treasurer's report was read and approved.

The president, Mrs. Virginia Pope told the club the bus driver would make the trip to and from the meetings for the set price of $2.50.

New business: Our clothing leader, Mrs. Norma Aylor has resigned her position. Mrs. Virginia Pope volunteered to take an active part as clothing leader again. Mrs. Katherine Parrott is the other leader.

The 4-H club chairman reminded us that Saturday, May 16 was the 4-H Club Rally Day, and urged all who were interested in the club work to attend.

The meeting was turned over to the Foods leaders, Mrs. Hilda Hogan and Mrs. Stella Nichols, who gave us several very good suggestions about planning community meals.

Mrs. Moore then gave an interesting review of the talks made at the district meeting, Paris, Ky. Mrs. Moore also talked to us concerning the cleaning and storage of all wearing apparel. Two methods were given as means of destroying silver fish, an insect that eats all plant fabrics, such as rayon and nylon. It is very necessary that we take the best of care of all rubber goods.

Mrs. Moore had a selection of slips and dresses which she showed the club members, explaining the good points of each.

The meeting adjourned for a very delicious dinner.

Mrs. Myrtle Crutcher made the article to be raffled off. It was a pair of pot holders on a rack.

Mrs. Frank Wohrley was paid $4.98 for the candlewick bedspread she purchased for the club.

It was interesting to note that $19.42 was made on the raffle. This money was turned over to the War Fund of the Red Cross. J. W. Moore won the spread.

The roll call "What I have done to make my home more attractive" was answered by seventeen members.

The next meeting, June 10, will be held at the home of Mrs. Marie Asbury. The roll call will be "Interesting things about the flag and what this flag means to me."

The motion was made and seconded that each of the seven members who came on the bus, pay 15c and the rest be taken from the treasure. The motion was carried.

The meeting adjourned after a very pleasant day.

Katherine Peel, Reporter.

OBITUARY

Lieut. Cornelius L. Reagan, Florence, Ky., was killed Feb. 25th "in defense of his country." What a shock that must have been to those near and dear to him as well as all that knew him to have read the aforegoing message in the daily press.

Except for the time he spent at the University of Kentucky and in the Army, Lieut. Reagan spent his entire young life in Boone County, on Price Pike and in Florence.

It is rather difficult to refer of him as Lieutenant or even Mister to many of us who knew him from a smiling little tot. His father passed away when he was at a tender age and his devotion to his wonderful mother was extremely sincere. Once this writer met him one Sunday night on the Dixie Highway thumbing his way back to the University and I asked him "how come" and he stated he always made it a practice to come home week ends to see his mother and his kind step-father, Mr. Frank Bauers. He hitch-hiked both ways and worked during vacations to help defray his University expenses, not that he was compelled to, but, well, that was the spirit of Cornelius—unselfish sacrifice.

Several years ago I asked him what he was majoring in at the University and he stated it was engineering work as it offered good opportunities, especially in years to come. When he told me that, little did I think of what might intervene. He was always an innocent ambitious youth, unusually fine personality, always a kind word and a smile for everyone.

He obtained his preliminary education in the Boone County schools and graduated from the Florence High School. Must we say Florence High School now? Would it not be more fitting now to name the Florence High School in honor of one of its past graduates whose name is now embossed on the honor scroll of his country as paying the supreme sacrifice in the hour of its need? The Cornelius L. Reagan High School, Florence, Kentucky—could anything be more appropriate?

Sleep, soldier! still in honored rest
Your truth and valor wearing;
The bravest are the tenderest—
The loving are the daring.
—Gus E. Lund.

$1000 SET AS USO GOAL FOR BOONE

JUNE 4, 5, AND 6TH SET AS DAYS FOR CAMPAIGN — WALTER FERGUSON NAMED CHAIRMAN OF ORGANIZATION.

Boone County's USO campaign to raise $1,000 was underway today (Thursday) and will continue through Saturday, it was announced by Campaign Chairman Walter Ferguson.

The committee will attempt to raise $1000 in the county through a house-to-house canvass, which will close Saturday night. Contributions may be sent to A. B. Renaker, Burlington, Ky., or given to the representative who will call at your home during the three-day campaign.

Precinct chairman are as follows: R. V. Lents, Constance; Mrs. Jimerson Aylor, Hebron; Mrs. Albert Willis, Bullittsville; J. K. Cropper, Burlington; W. R. Davis, and J. D. Lucas, Florence; Powers Conrad and Mrs. Lula Huey, Walton; Mrs. Ruth Green, Beaver; Mrs. Edna Hamilton, Verona; Miss Laura Mathews, Petersburg; Wm. Rogers, Jr., Belleview; Everett Jones, Hamilton; and Mrs. Cecil Robinson, Richwood.

At a meeting held last week the following county officers were named: Walter Ferguson, chairman; J. K. Cropper, director; Mrs. Jos. Huey, secretary; A. B. Renaker, treasurer; Malcolm Simpson and A. E. Stephens, publicity chairmen.

Funds raised in this campaign will be used by the United Service Organization for counsel, guidance, religious service, social events and recreation of our armed forces.

Every person in Boone County is earnestly asked to support this campaign. Our goal is $1,000—let's go over the top, and show our boys that we are 100 percent behind them.

Wool Clip To Be Sold At Walton Monday

The Boone County Wool Pool members will sell their clip at Walton on this coming Monday, June 8th, between the hours of 2:00 and 3:00 p. m. Eastern War Time.

The pool clip represents approximately 13,000 fleeces from about 90 percent of Boone County's sheep. While no one at the present time knows what the wool will bring, growers are expecting a price between 50 and 53 cents.

DIPPING SERVICE MADE AVAILABLE

TO BOONE COUNTY SHEEPMEN THROUGH CARROLL COUNTY SHEEP PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION.

The Carroll County Sheep Protective Association and Farm Bureau Sheep dipping service will be made available to Boone County sheepmen in the near future provided a sufficient number of farmers are interested, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The cost of the service is 10c per head with the farmer putting his sheep in the barn.

Local farmers in their community agricultural improvement plans last winter requested portable dipping vat service. Due to the present emergency new vats are not available but it was found the Carroll County Portable Dipping Vat service could be secured on the same basis as it is now serving Carroll County farmers.

All dip, equipment and labor, after the sheep are delivered to the dipping chute, are included in the 10 cent per head service charge. Coopers' Dipping Powder which kills all lice, ticks and scab mits is used. Only one dipping is required as the dip remains in the wool keeping the sheep clean of external parasites throughout the year. Because ticks and lice go from the old sheep to the lambs additional protection is given the lamb crop.

Experiments show that approximately one pound more wool per sheep is secured from the dippcd flock. Wool at fifty cents per pound represents a considerable saving.

All farmers interested in having their sheep dipped are urged to contact the County Agent's office, phone Burlington 412, immediately. A schedule and routing of the service will be made up in the near future.

Four Boone Countians Will Receive Degrees This Week At U. C.

Four Boone Countians will receive degress at the University of Cincinnati Friday night, when commencement exercises will be held for approximately 850 graduates.

Those from Boone County who will receive degrees are: Supt. D. H. Norris, Masters Degree; Edwin Walton, Hebron, Masters Degree; Chester Goodridge, Hebron, Master Degree; and Mrs. Ruth Allen, of Beaver Lick will receive her A. B. Degree.

The speaker for the evening will be the president of John Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md.

LLOYD SOCIETY TO MEET

An all-day meeting will be held by the Lloyd Memorial Society at the Lloyd Home, Florence, on Saturday, June 6th. All members are urged to attend.

Rev. Roy Johnson began a two weeks revival meeting at the Petersburg Baptist Church, Monday night of this week.

MAY CONDEMN AIRPORT LAND

DUE TO HIGH PRICES, IS WORD FROM KENTON FISCAL COURT AFTER REPORT FROM REAL ESTATE MEN.

Kenton County will file to condemn land for an airport to be located near Hebron in Boone County within the next 10 days unless equitable price agreements can be reached with owners of the land, members of Kenton Fiscal Court indicated Tuesday night at a meeting with the airport holding company at the Covington City Building.

William E. Wehrman, County Attorney, was instructed by the court to take steps to prepare the suits after real estate men engaged in attempting to obtain options on the site reported that owners were demanding prices as high at $250 an acre.

The real estate men, George Schiffer, William Steinfort and Orville Noel, reported that certain landowners had granted options but that others were holding out for higher prices.

The county and the holding company seek 1,000 acres of land on which the government plans to construct a high-type airport at a cost in excess of $1,000,000. Grants of more than $200,000 have been made by the Work Projects Administration.

The Kenton County Fiscal Court recently authorized a $200,000 bond issue to help finance the county's portion of the cost. The county must acquire the land and erect certain buildings, including an administration building. In addition, the county has agreed to appropriate $50,000 immediately from unexpended funds for the purchase of land, which, it had been estimated, would cost approximately $100,000.

Reports from the real estate men indicated that the land cost would exceed this figrue by a wide margin. The Fiscal Court, thereupon directed Wehrman to prepare condemnation suits.

Combined Bands To Have Picnic June 13th

The combined bands of Burlington, Hebron and Florence schools will have a picnic on Sperti's farm, located on the East Bend Road near Burlington, Saturday, June 13. Final plans will be made at band practice Monday night.

Among the main events of the day will be fishing and several ball games. The teams of managers Nelson Poston and David Tanner will battle for the honor of playing the girls' team.

All members of the bands are urged to attend.

Red Cross Benefits To Tune Of $7.00

The Walton Girl Scout Troop recently sponsored a play for the benefit of the Boone County Chapter of the Red Cross. Blanche Brittenhelm, sponsor, has turned over $7.00 to Rev. J. Russell Cross, Chapter Chairman, the amount cleared on the production.

General MacArthur has said: "The Red Cross has never failed us!" It is good to know that we at home can help in such a beneficient way.

MEDICAL SOCIETY PLANS MEETING

TO BE HELD AT BURLINGTON, THURSDAY, JUNE 11—DR. GORDON McKIM WILL BE GUEST SPEAKER.

Final arrangements are being made for the meeting of the Licking Valley Medical Society which will be held in Burlington Thursday, June 11th. The Women's Auxiliary will meet at the same time, it was announced.

Dr. Gordon McKim, well known Cincinnati specialist, and a native of Boone County will be the guest speaker at this session.

Dr. S. B. Nunnelley, president of the society will preside at the doctor's session, while Mrs. M. A. Yelton, president of the Woman's Auxiliary will preside at its meeting.

Approximately fifty doctors and wives of doctors from seven northern Kentucky counties are expected to attend this session.

The meeting will be called to order at 11:00 a. m. Eastern War Time at the Burlington school building. Lunch will be served by the Burlington P.-T. A. at the noon hour.

WPA Research Division Will Make Scrap Survey

On March 1, the Sesearch Division of the WPA, under the direction of Mr. Donald P. Brown, contacted every scrap dealer in Kentucky and made a complete report to this office on the amount of scrap which had been shipped since the first of January, the tonnage in each of the 214 scrap dealers' yards as of March 1, and other pertinent information which gave the State Advisory Committee a complete picture of the scrap situation. Now, as of June 1, the same agency will conduct another survey of all of the scrap dealers, automobile graveyards, etc. in the State. The results of this survey will be published shortly after its completion. In the meantime, it is urged that you contact your dealers and request them to ship all of the material which they have in their yards as soon as possible.

The salvage program has been so completely successful up to date that we know from our reports the total tonnage shipped will be astounding, but at the same time we want the reports to show the smallest possible tonnage on hand in the yards of our dealers. As long as salvage stays unshipped, whether on the farm, in the factory, or in the scrap dealer's yard, it is not doing the job that WPB desires.

A list of one-third of our counties reporting to this office shows that 14,007,110 lbs. of scrap iron and 201,406 lbs. of scrap rubber have been shipped during the past few months. Most of this has been during the months of March and April.

Ben Hensley

Following an illness of several months, Ben Hensley passed away at the home of his cousin, Ben Hensley at Moores Hill, Ind., Saturday. He was 82 years old.

Uncle Ben, as he was known by all had spent all of his life in Boone County with the exception of the past few months that he spent in Moores Hill.

He is survived by three stepchildren, Dr. B. F. Smith, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., Herman Rusche, of Indiana and Mrs. W. O. Rector of Petersburg; several nieces and nephews, Tom Hensley of Burlington, and Mrs. Ethel Connelley, of Ludlow being among them.

Short services were held at the grave in Petersburg cemetery Tuesday morning at eleven o'clock with Rev. Noble Lucas, officiating.

Youth Revival Is Success

The Youth Revival closed at the local Baptist Church, Sunday night with four additions by letter, and many coming, giving their lives anew to the Lord's work.

The meeting was a glorious success. Bro. Colvin brought great messages and the entire community was blessed by his messages.

The young people led attendance throughout the meeting with 603 being present in eight services. Rev. Johnson, pastor said, "We believe this meeting will live for years to come."

Miss Mary Congleton of Scott County is spending several days with Lamar Congleton and family.

Master Sgt. Leaves States

Sgt. Roscoe Curtis

It was learned this week by the many friends and relatives of Sgt. Roscoe Curtis that he was leaving the States and starting somewhere across the waters.

Sgt. Curtis was transferred from Bowman Field near Louisville to Savannah, Ga., and on April 22nd he was promoted to Master Sergeant, the highest promotion he can receive unless he would have taken officers training.

It is hoped by all his friends in Boone County that he will be one among many that will live to return some day to his homeland.

Mrs. Curtis will remain with her parents during his absence, where she will wait anxiously for his return.

SOLDIERS ARE ENTERTAINED

AT OHIO VALLEY BEAGLE CLUB SUNDAY — HAD BEEN ON WEEK-END SIGHTSEEING TRIP.

The Ohio Valley Beagle Club, located just south of Union on Highway 42, was the scene of much excitement last Sunday evening when a U. S. O. Field Trip Bus arrived and unloaded thirty-five soldier boys from Fort Knox, Ky. These men had been taken on a week-end sightseeing trip under the auspices of the U. S. O. in Louisville. Mr. William Goodell, director of the Y. M. C. A. U. S. O. Club in Louisville made arrangements earlier with a group of civic-minded Boone Countians for the entertainment of the group at a picnic supper Sunday evening.

Under the leadership of Mrs. J. F. Cleek and Mrs. Joseph A. Huey, a group of helpers and contributors wer hastily assembled from among those who have been active in Red Cross work in the Beaver, Richwood and Union communities, and together they made final arrangements for the serving of the meal.

ALL WILL HEAR ABOUT INFLATION

CONTROL THROUGH HELP OF LOCAL VOLUNTEER LEADERS, COUNTY AGENTS AND HOME AGENTS.

Information about the government's program to check inflation and to control the cost of living is being taken to farm families and people living in towns and villages, through the Extension Service of the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

Through the help of local volunteer leaders, county farm agents and home demonstration agents are arranging meetings in all communities and neighborhoods, where facts concerning the inflation control program are presented. The Department of Agriculture at Washington requested the Extension Service in each of the states to inform all farm people about the program.

As outlined by the President, the program to control inflation includes rationing all essential goods; price ceilings on goods and rents; stabilizing wages and incomes; stabilizing farm prices; investing in war bonds; paying debts and taxes, and curbing credit and installment buying.

In carrying this information to farm people, the Extension Service acts only to give facts as to what has been done under the regulations of the Federal government. It is of great importance to

J. R. DEMOISEY HIGHLY PRAISED

IN OPERATION OF KENTUCKY HOUSES OF REFORM—IS SON OF REV. R. F. DEMOISEY OF WALTON.

Dr. F. C. Helbing of New York, one of the men whose report of "abominable" conditions at the Kentucky Houses of Reform at Greendale resulted in a "new deal" there last November, Saturday visit the institution again. His report Saturday was:

"Superintendent DeMoisey has done a remarkable job, one I didn't dream could be done within so short a space of time as six months.

"I ate in the mess hall with the girl inmates today," Dr. Helbing said, "and I could never have done it seven months ago."

Dr. Helbing collaborated with H. V. Bastin, superintendent of Louisville's Ormsby Village, in surveying conditions at Greendale last fall. At that time he and Bastin termed Greendale conditions thoroughly and chronically ill.

Dr. Helbing Saturday expressed amazement at the change which had come over the school. At the same time, he pointed to conditions there as "by no means perfect yet," but he said the major remaining ills could be traced directly to the war.

John R. (Frenchy) DeMoisey, youthful superintendent who was appointed by Governor Johnson to head the institution, is fighting two major handicaps, Dr. Helbing said. One is a continuing loss of capable administrators to the armed services and the other is inability to construct additional buildings due to the war.

Dr. Helbing, after conversations Tuesday night with Governor Johnson, expressed the belief that "the governor would build at Greendale, if he could find materials to build with," but war priorities have made that impossible. The veteran welfare worker, who now is retired after 42 years of service in New York state, still was not completely satisfied with administrative personnel at Greendale.

But he described the fault as "not with the staff there, but with the lack of staff." War manpower demands and low salaries have severely handicapped DeMoisey, he declared. Dr. Helbing thought the salary problem would be cured in time, since he explained, "I am confident of the absolute sincerity of your governor in wanting to improve conditions in Kentucky's welfare instiutions. I felt that sincerely last October," he explained, "or I wouldn't have undertaken to help H. V. Bastin with the Greendale investigation."

Dr. Helbing, one of the nation's leading authorities on youth rehabilitation, was visiting Bastin at Armsby Village last fall when Governor Johnson requested the Greendale survey. Although retired, he agreed after one visit to the reform school to remain on the job. He said Saturday's visit to the school made him extremely glad he remained. One of the things which impressed him most was the conduct of the more than 500 inmates at Greendale. Superintendent DeMoisey had installed a picture show in the institution's auditorium, he said, and last night the entire group attended. When the show was over, the inmates were permitted to leave, all at one time, and return to their barracks. Dr. Helbing said there was absolutely no disturbance. Asked about escapes resulting from lack of vigilant guarding the penal educator asserted "of course there'll be escapes. That is inevitable when you remember the inmates there youngsters nobody else wants." He expressed the belief, however, that under the DeMoisey regime there had been fewer escapes and disturbances than ever before in the institution's history. Dr. Helbing will make another inspection at Greendale before returning to New York.

Supt. DeMoisey is a former Boone County boy and is the son of Rev. and Mrs. R. F. DeMoisey, of Walton.

H. R. Neal, of Covington Route 4 was a pleasant caller at this office Thursday afternoon, and while here had his name placed on our subscription list. We welcome him as one of our many new subscribers.

Dr. M. A. Yelton, wife and daughter were in Bracken County last Thursday attending a meeting of the Bracken-Pendleton Medical Society and an outing for members of the doctors' families.

Local Boy Graduates With Electrical Engineering Degree

Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Edwards, Miss Evelyn Conrad and Russell Conrad spent the week-end in Lexington, Ky., with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Edwards. While there they attended the commencement exercises of the University of Kentucky where Wood Edwards was graduated with a degree in Electrical Engineering.

Mr. Edwards has accepted a position as Electrical Engineer with the Westinghouse Electric Company in Pittsburgh and will leave Monday, June 8 to assume his duties there.

While attending the University Mr. Edwards was a member of the Student Branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and served as program chairman of that group for his last year in school.

The commencement exercises were graced by the governor of the state Keen Johnson and Senator A. B. Chandler while Alben W. Barkley delivered the principal address titled "Democracy at War."

FBI SPONSORS MEET JUNE 8TH

ALL POLICE OFFICIALS AND LAW ENFORCING OFFICERS ARE URGED TO ATTEND THIS SERIES OF CONFERENCES.

According to H. K. Moss, Special Agent in charge of the Louisville Field Division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, a regional Quarterly Police Conference will sponsored by the F. B. I. at Ft. Thomas, Kentucky in the City Hall between the hours of 1:30 p. m., and 4:00 p. m. Eastern War Time, on Monday, June 8, 1942.

Louis W. Cook, Chief of Police, Ft. Thomas, Ky., is scheduled to speak before the Police Officers in attendance.

Colonel Frank D. Rash, State Director of Selective Service, Louisville, Ky., is scheduled to address the assembled police officers on the subject of "Current Selective Service Regulations," particularly possible violations of the Selective Service Statutes.

Police officials from approximately ten counties surrounding Ft. Thomas have been invited to attend this conference which is one of a series of similar conferences currently being held throughout the United States, sponsored by the F. B. I. The purpose of these conferences is to coordinate closely the activities of law enforcement officials with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, particularly in national defense investigations. The subject of Alien Enemy Control will be discussed before these police officers by Moss. There will be several films exhibited to the police officers depicting the activities of law enforcement officials in England at the present time. Moss stated that the police officers in the State of Kentucky have been unusually responsive to requests by the Federal Bureau of Investigation to coordinate activties in national defense matters. In a similar series of police conferences held in the State of Kentucky during March, 1942, there were 375 police officers representing 170 police agencies who attended these conferences.

Burlington Bank To Close Saturday Noon During Summer Months

At the regular meeting of the directors of the Peoples Deposit Bank last Monday, it was ordered that the bank close at twelve o'clock noon, Eastern War Time on Saturdays through the month of June, July, August and September. This will conform to the closing of the County offices and A. A. A. office on Saturdays during the summer months.

The banks of Covington and Cincinnati have always closed at noon on Saturdays for several years.

In arriving at this decision the directors took into consideration the fact that all but three holidays were taken away from bank employees by our last legislature and that the working hours for the year will be approximately the same with the Saturday afternoon closing as it was before all former holidays were observed.

Mrs. Lucy Albeiz and Miss Kate Kirkpatrick of Walnut Hills spent the week-end with Mrs. Lavina Kirkpatrick and family.

DATES ARE SET TO OBTAIN SUGAR

FOR CANNING OF SEASONABLE FRUITS—BOARD TO MEET TWO MORE NIGHTS THIS WEEK.

Due to the large number of persons that were unable to obtain sugar at Burlington on Monday night, the Boone County Rationing Board has suggested that the Burlington Board meet two more nights this week in order to accommodate all persons desiring sugar for canning purposes.

The Burlington Board composed of three members was totally unprepared to handle all of the 500 applicants who were on hand to obtain additional sugar Monday night, and consequently many persons were turned away without receiving their certificate for canning sugar.

In order that everyone can be supplied with sugar for the cherry and strawberry season which is now underway, Burlington has added another meeting night this week, as well as several more assistants, in order to handle all applicants. The board will meet at the courthouse, Burlington on Thursday and Friday nights of this week from 6 p. m. to 10:00 p. m.

All persons desiring sugar must either come in person before the board or send their war ration books with the following information by a representative: (1) Amount of sugar now on hand; (2) number of quarts of canned fruits and preserves canned last year; (3) number of cans of same now on hand; (4) what is to be done with the sugar for which you are making application. (If an accurate account cannot be made, an estimate will be sufficient).

Please have this information ready with your War Ration Books prior to coming before the Board.

Cloyd C. Waller

Funeral services for Cloyd C. Waller, Verona, who died Saturday at his home, were held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Hamilton funeral home, Verona, with burial in New Bethel cemetery. He was 50 years of age.

He is survived by three sisters Mrs. Cecil Tharp, Smithfield, Ky., Mrs. Charles Ryan, Verona, Ky., and Mrs. John Farrell, Crittenden Ky.; a brother, Hubert Waller, of Florence, seven nephews and two nieces.

WORK OR FIGHT

Last January, an official announcement said that the United States Army would reach a total of 3,600,000 men by the end of 1942. Since then, the actual size of the Army and precise plans for its expansion have not been announced, inasmuch as they are military secrets of the first order. Some commentators have forecast that in time the Army might total nine or ten million. The best available information seems to indicate that a total of at least 6,000,000 will be attained.

That is obviously going to have a revolutionary effort on the manpower of this country. However, there is no factoal evidence to support the scare rumors which say that every physicially fit man under 36 is certain to be placed in uniform. Selective Service heads are making a genuine effort to create an Army of the size needed with minimum dislocation of American family life.

Here is how matters shape up at this time, according to published statements:

First, practically all available single men in the 20-35-year bracket have been called. Many who were given temporary deferment for occupational reasons are now being summoned. In time, women and older men will replace thousands of young men in defense industries.

Second, the Selective Service Boards are placing in the I-A classification all men who have no genuine claim for dependency. That includes men with working wives, men who contribute little to the support of their households, and men with means. Almost all of these men will be in uniform by the end of the year, unless they are unable to pass the physical examinations or perform vital work in war industry.

Third, it is universally believed that Congress will soon approve a bill providing government grants to dependents of service men. These grants, as now projected, are small—around $50 a month for a wife and child. But they will make it possible for the Selective Service Boards to call thousands of men who are now deferred for economic reasons.

Fourth, a new draft classification, 3-B, has been adopted. And that is a matter of very great importance. At the present time, men with genuine dependencies are classified as 3-A. The 3-B classification is for men with genuine dependencies who, in addition, are employed in war work. The hope is that thousands of men who now have non-war jobs will shift to war jobs, in order to obtain the 3-B deferment. Some observers say that eventually the Selective Service Boards will operate on the "work or fight" policy which existed in World War I. In other words, a man will be given the choice of going into the Army, or leaving a non-war occupation for a war occupation.

The industries which are classified as essential to the war effort are definitely limited in number. Lawyers, store clerks, newspapermen, wholesalers, advertising men, etc., have no claim for deferment. Deferment is given only to men who hold a job which is directly and absolutely necessary to the production and transportation of the raw and finished materials which are involved in war.

What this all adds up to is plain. If you are a single man, under 36, in reasonable health, you will go into the Army unless you are virtually irreplaceable in some war industry. If you have dependents who look to you entirely for support, you will be deferred for the time being—but there is a strong likelihood that in time the continuance of your deferment will depend upon your obtaining a job in war industry. If you have minor physical defects, you are not exempt from military service. The original physical standards have been relaxed, and men with defective eyesight, hearing, feet, etc., are being called to the colors and assigned to non-combatant duty.

Many a problem remains to be worked out. An army of 6,000,000 men would mean that four to six times that number would be needed in industries manufacturing and transporting supplies. On top of that, agriculture must be kept going, and on an expanding scale, inasmuch as we are sending tremendous quantities of foodstuffs to our Allies. Selective Service heads, such as General Hershey, have advised the Boards to exempt enough farm labor to keep food production up to the necessary level. But, reports say, in some areas the draft is virtually denuding the farms of labor. Furthermore, farmers cannot pay the high wages paid by war industry, and workers are naturally taking jobs in war factories instead of on farms. This seems to be one of the most serious of the unsolved problems.

It is probable that the immediate course of the war will have a direct bearing on Army expansion plans here. If, for instance, Russia continues to hold the Germans, and Japan is stopped in the Pacific, a U. S. Army of the largest size possible will not be necessary. If, on the other hand, Germany manages to crack the Russian defense this summer, and if Japan continues to win victories, you can look with assurance to Army expansion on a tremendously accelerated scale.

It is reported that between 35 and 44, which was the second group registered, will, as a general rule, be taken only for behind-the-lines Army service. It is expected that the greater proportion of this group will go to work in war industry. No plans have been made for the 45-65 group of regist rants.

JUST ANOTHER LAW

Last Saturday, Memorial Day, the citizens of Kentucky witnessed an unusual situation in that business houses, stores, post offices and court houses were closed, while banks remained open, because our last session of the Kentucky Legislature passed a law eliminating Memorial Day as a legal holiday in Kentucky, notwithstanding this day being a national holiday and is observed in all states as far as we have knowledge.

Just why would our Kentucky legislature outlaw a national holiday when the other states have not done so? We have always honored our loved ones and our deceased soldiers on this day, and we believe it unpatriotic not to do so at this time. Just why would this law require banks to remain open on Memorial Day when their customers—the business houses, were closed?

It would appear that this law is just another one of those silly laws designed to do no one any good and being on the order of that famous delayed election law which we had a few years ago and which caused Kentucky to be the laughing stock of the whole country, until the law was repealed.

We are for anything to help win this war, but for one single state to outlaw a national holiday, which no one but banks appear to be affected by it, seems to be beside the point.

There could be no good accomplished under this law in requiring banks to remain open on a day that their customers are not doing business with them. In Covington all the business houses were closed and the banks remained open.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

Lesson for June 7

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

FRIDAY: THE DAY OF SUFFERING (II)

LESSON TEXT—Luke 23:33-46; Mark 15: 33, 34.

GOLDEN TEXT—But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed.—Isaiah 53:5.

Dark and distressing days have often come upon the earth, but the darkest day of all history was that day when cruel men with wicked hearts laid unholy hands upon the Son of God and crucified Him. And yet, by the grace of God, it was a day of bright hope for the sinful sons of men, for on that day complete redemption was wrought out. The veil was rent and the new and living way into the holy presence of God (Heb. 10:20) was opened for you and for me.

The cross is popular as an ornament on a church or on a golden chain, but it is far more than that. It speaks of the black hour of the Saviour's cry, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" and it also tells us of the One who became sin for us that we might know the righteousness of God (II Cor. 5:21).

Three thoughts emerge from our lesson.

I. Crucifixion — Bringing Life (Luke 23:33, 34a).

"There they crucified him"—four words summing up the almost unbelievable thing that took place on Calvary. He died; but in that death life and immortality were brought to light (II Tim. 1:10).

As believers in Christ, we are interested in all that took place at the crucifixion, for we know that as we contemplate Him on the cross we can say with Luther, "For me, for me!" And yet it was not for us alone that He died—it was for all mankind. So we turn to our unconverted friends and direct them to "the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world" (John 1: 29). He was crucified that they might live eternally. He who had only a plea for the forgiveness of His persecutors (v. 34a) tenderly offers His forgiveness to men today.

II. Rejection—Bringing Acceptance (Luke 23:34b-43).

Those who appear around the cross afford an interesting and striking picture of humanity. There were the indifferent ones, those not interested at all in who was being crucified, but only eager to share in the division of His garments.

There stood the people "beholding"—perplexed, unable to believe that the miracle-working Christ was about to die. Verily, they were as sheep without a shepherd.

Then we see those who scoffed. They knew His claim to be the Son of God and hated Him for it. Now at last they had their chance to rail at Him, to ridicule and taunt. More ignorant and yet equally derisive, we see the mocking soldiers.

Even one of the thieves by His side "railed on him" (v. 39), ridiculing His claim. But here is the marvelous thing—the other thief, rough and wicked person that he was, saw in Christ a Saviour to whom he turned in faith, which was quickly and fully honored (vv. 42, 43).

The picture is thus complete. The Rejected One is "the way" to acceptance for all who believe (John 14:6). He said, "I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved" (John 10:9).

III. Darkness — Bringing Light (Luke 23:44, 45; Mark 15:33, 34).

Physical darkness fell over the scene at the cross, as though all nature would go into mourning, or sought to shield the suffering Saviour from the curious and hateful eyes of men. Then, too, it was God's sign that this was not the death of any ordinary man, even as it spoke of the judgment of those who had laid violent, sinful hands on His Son.

But deeper yet was the spiritual darkness into which Jesus went, as bearing the horrible load of the sins of the world He "was made sin for us" (II Cor. 5:21), and God the Father turned away from Him. We cannot fathom the full meaning of that hour, and we dare not attempt to explain it. We can only accept it and thank God that because He was made sin for us we may by faith be "made the righteousness of God in him."

Out of the darkness of that hour shone forth the one light which nothing in time or eternity can dim.

Route to Happiness

The truest and happiest of earthly lives, proven over and over again by hard actual experience, is that life which accepts and observes most nearly St. Paul's great postulate, "Here have we no continuing city, but we seek one to come." Rightfully pursued, it in no way interferes with the intensest enjoyment of our time here on earth. We have but to see that we do God's will in everything.

Foot Comfort Specialist at—

PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE

814-816 Madison, Covington

Ninety-nine out of a hundred babies are born with good feet, even if they do appear to be flat at the start. We say babies are born with flat feet because the bony masses in a new-born baby's feet are held in place by fat pads. As the baby starts to stand and walk, these fatty pads are absorbed and muscles take their place. But about the third year the arch of the foot should be pretty well defined if the child is going to have any arch. We say of, because every one isn't intended to have a high arched contour to the foot. any more than every one is meant to have the same color of hair or eyes.

Perhaps when the child starts to stand he is overweight, or undernourished or has gone thru a serious illness. In that event the muscles may not develop enough to produce an arch in his foot. He then grows with a natural flat foot. The conditions is rarely painful. However, many cases of flat feet can be averted if the child is provided with shoes that hold the weak foot in alignment. Such shoes are usually wedged slightly under the inner border of the heel bone. This prevents tipping in of the ankles and by over correction has a tendency to cause the muscles on the inner border of the leg to shorten. These muscles are the ones which keep the foot arched.—Adv.

MODERATE INFLATION

By J. E. Jones

Washington, D. C.—Hardly a week passes in Washington without discussions of plans and programs for fresh boosts of taxes. An important item under that heading is the proposal for an increase of individual income tax rates from 4 to 6 per cent, with stiff surtaxes starting on the first dollar of taxable income. Such a proposal has apparently met with approval by the House Ways and Means Committee. The Chairman of the Committee says that the new scheme would yield approximately $2,754,000,000.

Another tax plan meeting with strong support in Congress proposes to lower income tax exemptions of married couples to $1,200, and single persons to $500.

Again there is the suggestion that there should be a Federal sales tax—a plan that has been pushed aside a great many times because the states have already occupied that field for taxation. Nevertheless, the present indications are that it is only a matter of time before there will be a Government sales tax.

Many corporations of the country have been reducing their rate of dividends to stockholders. A large number of the most important financial and industrial institutions of the country, including food, electrical, steel, oil, automobiles, transportation, communications, etc., have announced, week after week, that their businesses for the past year have earned more than usual, but that their net earnings are far below former years, because of many kinds of of taxes they will have to pay.

In all this transformation our American citizens are faced with higher costs when they go to the grocery, and the clothing store. Every way they turn, they find increased living expenses.

All of which amounts to moderate inflation.

A Boon to Uncle Sam

America's march toward economic self-sufficiency is being accelerated by a number of relatively new commodities made from our most abundant natural resources. These materials, some of them coming from by-products once considered useless, are now replacing steel, aluminum, rubber, and other vital war elements in the manufacture of many things.

Among the most versatile of these commodities contributing to war and civilian production are Masonite Presdwoods, grainless hardboards processed from Southern pine and hardwoods. When William H. Mason first exploded some wood chips in an industrial "gun" in 1925, he little realized that the substance he created would eventually save millions of pounds of vital metals, at a time when the nation needs them most.

During pre-war years, presdwoods were widely used in the building industry, the automotive field, and by the manufacturers of office equipment, table tops, toys, and advertising displays. As defense preparations began, they found new uses in U. S. Army Signal Corps trailer exteriors, tank linings, shell holders for arsenals, and a new semi-plastic was developed for airplane dies. Now that war priorities have a new plane dies. Now that war priorities have taken metals away form many civil-goods industries, presdwoods are saving 90 pounds of steel in a new refrigerator exterior and 130 pounds of steel in a new filing cabinet.

The stern demands of war production always tax the creative genius of a nation's industries. When it becomes impossible to import certain raw materials, replacements must be found among other substances available. Products that enter new fields as alternates today will remain as staples in the peaceful tomorrow that is to come. In the case of presdwood, at least, this prediction should be true. Any useful commodity that is made from wood, America's most abundant natural resource, simply cannot fail.

Freight By Air

Amazing stories are being told in Washington about the transport of war supplies and materials by air. A speaker at the National Press Club returning from a trip most of the way around the world related that he traveled on air transports that carried thousands of pounds of all kinds of freight, including food. He expressed the opinion that planes would soon be in general use for tremendous volumes of freight that in the past has been loaded in ships. It is possible that in time a popular figure of speech will be enlarged so people will say: "In horse and buggy days and steamship days."

As a part of the Bourbon county live-at-home program, members of homemakers' clubs are studying selection, care and brooding of chicks, care of pullets up to laying rations and housing, and poultry disease control.

A War Message on WAR BONDS from the President of the United States

"....The American people know that if we would raise the billions which we now need to pay for the war and at the same time prevent a disastrous rise in the cost of living, we shall have to double and more than double the scale of our savings.

"Every dime and dollar not vitally needed for absolute necessities should go into WAR BONDS and STAMPS to add to the striking power of our armed forces.

"If these purchases are to have a material effect in restraining price increases they must be made out of current income.

"In almost every individual case they should be big enough to mean rigid self-denial, a substantial reduction for most of us in the scale of expenditure that is comfortable and easy for us.

"We cannot fight this war, we cannot exert our maximum effort, on a spend-as-usual basis.

"We cannot have all we want if our soldiers and sailors are to have all they need."

WAR PRODUCTION EFFICIENCY DEMANDS CORRECT DIETS

"Dietary studies of workers' families in many sections of the country indicate that the average employed worker and his family consume meals far from adequate," states Milton Hult, president of the National Dairy Council. The Committee on Nutrition and Industry of the National Research Council reports that facilities for feeding workers in industrial cafeterias are very poor. Only one of 33 cafeterias surveyed was directed by a trained dietitian. Furthermore, workers were making poor choices even when wholesome foods were available. This evidence indicates that the nutritional status of industrial workers needs a lot of improvement.

Many employers have become suddenly aware of the importance of good nutrition for their employees and have become ready victims of the campaign being waged to sell synthetic vitamin concentrates. In some cases employers are passing out vitamin tablets to employees in an indiscriminate fashion in the hope of quickly raising their efficiency to a high level. Nutrition authorities are in agreement, however, that this practice is unwise and uneconomical. The nutritional needs of industrial workers can be met by the proper selection of common foods such as milk and dairy products, vegetables, fruits, eggs, meat, and cereals (either whole grain or enriched).

The nutritional status of industrial employees can best be improved by educating the worker and his family to buy and eat the right kind of foods. This can be accomplished by the institution of a community nutrition education program supplemented by the organization of factory owned cafeterias managed by trained dietitians. Vending machines and rolling cart services should make available milk and fruit juices for between meal feedings.

MONEY TALKS

by

Frederick W. Stamm, Economist and Director of Adult Education University of Louisville

Congress is now working on the new income tax law, and from all indications we are all going to turn over to Uncle Sam a much larger share of our incomes than ever before.

This proposed law will lower exemptions for single persons to $500 and for married couples to $1200 per year. When this law passes, as it undoubtedly will, from 7,000,000 to 10,000,000 persons who now pay no taxes at all will be taxed, on the average, about the equivalent of half a month's salary. The single person now making $600 a year, or $50 a month, will pay a tax of $14 under the proposed schedule while a single person making $1200 a year will pay $119 tax. Last year a married person with two dependents who earned $2400 annually paid only $6 federal income tax; if he made $2500 he paid only $12 tax. Under the proposed law these persons would pay $58 and $75 respectively.

The married person with no children who earned $2500 last year paid only $90 tax, but under the proposed law he will pay $219 next year.

The new law also proposes to raise the normal tax rate from 4 percent to 6 percent and to increase the beginning surtax rate from 6 percent to 12 percent.

You may ask why I am writing on this subject nine months before you will pay your tax, March 15th next. It is because I think you should begin planning for next year's taxes. Why not put aside out of each pay check an amount which will enable you to pay your tax in full next March? This plan should eliminate some financial worries when you are struggling with your tax return. To be on the safe side, just figure that your tax next year will be at least twice what you paid this past March. This is especially true for persons making between $800 and $5000 per year.

"Uncle Sam" needs money to carry on this war, and he is going to reach into our incomes for larger amounts. We had better face these facts now and prepare for them rather than wait.

HOW TO WIN THE WAR

The next time you hear a friend grumbling about the fix we're in, tell him to read, "How to Win the War," by Owen Lattimore, personal political adviser to General Chiang Kai-Shek picked by President Roosevelt, in the June issue of American Magazine. This most stirring lesson of the war brings home to the American people one of the most inspiring messages since the war began.

"The length of this war and the kind of world we shall have when peace comes depend considerably on China—and the lessons we Americans can learn from China," Owen Lattimore said.

"China, her best lands invaded, her cities sacked and looted has fought off Japan for nearly five years of bitter war," said Mr. Lattimore. "She lacks planes, tanks, artillery, machinery, steel. She has less gasoline in a year than we can burn in one Sunday of pleasure riding. Jap planes bomb her towns and villages at will. Millions of her people have been killed or wounded. Their morale is excellent. Sometimes they worry a little about the morale of the United States. They want to know what they can do to help us."

"An American, returning from China to his native land in these days," Mr. Lattimore said, "feels a sense of strangeness and unreality.

"He hears a young man complaining about the tire shortage—and he thinks of a long caravan of Chinese straining along rutted roads, each drawing a quarter-ton of freight toward the armies 500 miles to the front.

"He hears a housewife upset by the difficulties of getting a nurse because so many have gone into the Army—and in his mind's eye he sees the wounded Chinese soldiers dying in the field because China lacks medicines and ambulances which could have their lives.

"He hears a prosperous American moaning over how the war will cut into his income—and he remembers the millions of Chinese families whose savings have been cut 95 per cent by the inevitable inflation.

"He hears able-bodied men discussing nervously what would happen if the enemy obtained a foothold on our coasts—and he thinks of the Chinese who are completely undaunted by an enemy which long ago took over all their coasts and large cities and most fertile lands.

"I do not complain of this. It is natural enough. I have no doubt that we (under the same spur of danger, would do as well as the Chinese. But why must we wait for such a spur? If we can look on the Chinese with intelligence and imagination, if we can learn from them how they work miracles by teamwork, by self-sacrifice, by a proud new spirit of fighting for a better country and a better world—then we, too, can work miracles. We can win a quicker victory and a greater peace. If you want to know how to win the war, study China. . . "

BONDS FIGHT THE AXIS

The American people will decide whether or not the nation will be forced to adopt and accept compulsory purchasing of war Bonds. According to Secretary Morgenthau, it will be necessary for us to buy $1,000,000,000 worth of these bonds each month. If we do that voluntarily there will be no need for compulsion. If we don't compulsion will be inevitable.

Some may wonder why the government can't pay for the war simply by selling more bonds to banks. Secretary Morgenthau recently pointed out that excessively heavy bank purchases are inflationary, "because when commercial banks buy Government Bonds they do not pay for them with actual cash taken from their vaults, but by placing on their books newly created deposits to the credit of the government. When the government draws upon these deposits to pay for the goods and services it buys, the purchasing power of those to whom these payments are made is increased without any decrease in the purchasing power of those from whom the money is borrowed."

Increased purchasing power combined with a decreased supply of goods is the certain road to disastrous inflation. The government wants you to buy bonds with every nickel you can spare—and it wants you to deny yourselves luxuries so you can buy more. No man can make a better purchase than the securities which buy weapons to fight the Axis.

"SPARE THE DOCTOR"

"Patriotism need not be limited to such things as driving slowly and saving one's toothpaste tubes" says Medical Economics. "A 'Spare the Doctor' campaign might be promoted on similar grounds. Few people appreciate how many physicians are being siphoned off into the armed forces and how great an added burden this imposes on the doctor who remains at home. Few realize, therefore, that continued good medical service depends on helping the doctor to conserve his time. The more time the doctor can save in traveling to see his patients, the more time he will have to treat them."

Thousands of doctors are being called into military service. Thousands more will be called as the Army and Navy grow. So a doctor who stays home will have to take care of a great many more patients than in the past. The doctor will do his best. But there are only so many hours in the day, and each hour wasted means that an hour less can be given to people who really need attention.

Don't ask the doctor to make house calls when you are perfectly able to go to his office. Don't expect him to sit around and talk about extraneous matters. Don't try to turn a professional visit into a social occasion. The American people are used to the best medical service on earth—and they will continue to receive that kind of service if they give due consideration to the fact that the doctor is one of the busiest of men.

IT COULDN'T BE DONE, THEY SAID; HERE'S HOW TOMMIE WRIGHT DID IT

They—the neighbors—said it couldn't be done; that he couldn't succeed. That's just what they said, when Tommie Wright mortgaged his livestock for $300 to make a down payment on a 120-acre throw-out farm in Green county, Kentucky. The price was $1,600.

To the farm Mr. Wright moved his one Rastus plow in the spring of 1938 and began to clear thickets, to spread phosphate and lime and to sow clovers. Last spring he called on County Agent John H. Ewing, Jr. He wanted to know about burley tobacco—how to grow big yields and good quality. Following the county agent's advice, he broadcast 1,000 pounds of 20 percent superphosphate on the acre and nine-tenths allotment, drilled 500 pounds of fertilizer in the row and used all the manure he could obtain.

On January 6 of this year Mr. Wright appeared at the county agent's office with a big smile. He had sold 2,900 pounds of tobacco from the measured acre and nine-tenths for a net of $1,044.62, or an average of $36.02 a hundred. He had grown 1,526 pounds to the acre—rather good for throw-out land that cost $13.33 an acre.

In addition to tobacco bringing $1,044.62, Mr. Wright last year sold cream for $164 and hogs and calves for $179.79, and also produced most of the family food. Also, since 1938 he has accumulated a span of mules, a young mare, four milk cows, two calves, two gilts, and all the equipment needed to operate the farm.

CONSERVE FOR VICTORY

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE CARE OF YOUR Electric Washer

Your electric washer is a friend in need these busy wartime days. It not only saves you time and energy; it helps you conserve clothes and linens and reduces your laundering costs. Here are some timely hints that will make your washer last longer and give you better service:

Drain washer immediately after washing. Rinse tub thoroughly. Remove agitator or suction cups and rinse.

Remove any soap curd or lint that may have remained in tub, agitator or suction cups with soft cloth or sponge.

Rolls and frame of wringer should be wiped dry. Release pressure on rolls when not in use. Saves the spring and the rubbers.

Wipe connecting cord dry, coil and hang up carefully. Do not allow to kink and crack rubber insulation.

Leave cover off tub until all dampness has evaporated, to prevent mustiness.

Follow manufacturer's instructions concerning oiling and lubricating requirements. Consult dealer from whom you bought washer if in doubt.

If washer is stored outdoors, bring inside and let stand an hour before using in very cold weather. This gives grease in gear case a chance to soften and may prevent a burned-out motor.

Do not overload washer with too many pieces and do not use too much water. Follow manufacturer's directions.

Remove large buttons, buckles, etc., before running clothes through wringer. Otherwise you may break same or chew up wringer rolls.

Put a cover over your washer when not in use, if stored where dust can accumulate.

U. S. Treasury Department

A Week of The War

President Roosevelt, in a special message to Congress, reduced his WPA request for fiscal 1943 from $465 million to $283 million. He said the war effort is drawing workers from all available sources thereby reducing the need for a work relief program. To meet labor shortages, he said, even organized migration of workers may be necessary. The revised WPA program would provide for an average monthly employment of about 400,000 persons "who will not be hired by private employers because of age, lack of skills, or other handicaps."

Chairman McNutt of the War Manpower Commission directed the U. S. Employment Service lists of skilled occupations essential to war production in which a national shortage exists, and to make preferential referrals of workers to employers in war industries. He directed the WPB to classify war plants and war products in the order of their urgency to the war program. He also instructed Selective Service local boards to confer with local U. S. Employment Service offices before reclassifying any men skilled in war occupations.

Mr. McNutt said if it is possible to insure full utilization of manpower through voluntary means, "it will be necessary to put into effect legal controls" to limit freedom of action of workers and employers. He said compulsion "may from time to time be necessary," however, in the administration of the manpower program. He stated four-fifth of all jobs in vital war industries can be handled by women.

Rubber and Gasoline

The WPB said if Americans do not conserve the transportation miles in their tires it may be necessary eventually to transfer automobiles and tires to communities where they are needed more. The Board reported no rubber can be spared in 1942 or 1943 to make new tires for ordinary passenger cars, because the armed forces need all the rubber the nation can muster from its stockpile, synthetic program and greatly curtailed crude sources. The synthetic program might produce 30,000 tons of rubber this year and 350,000 tons in 1943, the Board said.

Price Administrator Henderson reported a preliminary count of car owners in the Eastern rationing area showed about 10 percent received "X" ration cards, 31 percent received "A" cards, 11 percent received "B-1" cards, another 11 percent received "B-2" cards, and 37 percent received "B-3" cards. The OPA ruled "X" cards must be surrendered if the essential purpose for which they were issued does not cover "substantially all" of the use of the car for which they were provided.

The Armed Forces

House and Senate conferees agreed on legislation to increase the pay of privates and apprentices seamen to $42 per month, and of privates first class to $48, and to provide pay raises for the other ranks of enlisted men. President Roosevelt set June 30 as the registration date for young men between the ages of 18 and 19 and for those who reached their 20th birthday between December 31, 1941, and June 30, 1942. Only men 20 or older are subject to military service under the Selective Service System.

The Navy announced it will begin recruiting about 1,000 Negroes a month on June 1. The Marine Corps first Reserve battalion of Negroes will recruit about 900 men during June and July. The Marine Corps also reported it will waive certain physical requirements in order to present commissions to civilian specialists 20 to 50 years of age. The Army doubled the quota of 111-A SS registrants it will accept monthly as volunteers for officer training.

Women's Army Auxiliary Corps

Recruiting for the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps first officer candidate school began May 27, the War Department reported. Application blanks may be obtained only by going in person to one of the 440 regular Army recruiting stations throughout the country. The term of enrollment will be for the duration of the war and for not more than six months thereafter. Officer candidates must be citizens of the United States, between the ages of 21 and 45, with a high school education or its equivalent, in good health and of excellent character. They may be married or single. The first class will consist of approximately 450 women, and will begin about July 15.

The War Front

President Roosevelt said the U. S. still faces the prospect of a long war, and overly enthusiastic optimism about its progress is not justified. The President presented the Congressional Medal of Honor to Brig Gen. James H. Doolittle who led the party of 80 men who bombed the Japanese mainland in Army B-25 bombers April 18. No U. S. planes were shot down in the raids. Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Australia reported the sinking of another Japanese cruiser, two cargo ships and two enemy transports. United Nations' planes in Australia destroyed 17 enemy aircraft and damaged nine other. Twelve more United Nations vessels were sunk by enemy submarines in the Atlantic and Gulf of Mexico.

Protection of Civilians and Essential Facilities

The President announced the Federal Security Agency, Office of Civilian Defense and Red Cross have agreed upon a coordinated plan to assist civilian victims of enemy action in this country. The OCD Emergency Medical Service will have immediate responsibility for care of persons injured by air raids or shelling, and emergency feeding and housing will be under OCD Local Defense Corps. The Red Cross will furnish supplementary equipment such as ambulances. The President directed the OCD to formulate (with War Department approval) a Facility Security Program to protect "essential facilities" such as highways, communication systems, utilities and mines against sabotage, and to correlate it with such programs already placed in effect by the Army, Navy and Federal Power Commission.

Transportation

The Office of Defense Transportation banned operation of all sightseeing bus service and restricted use of chartered buses to such essential operations as transporting members of the armed forces, war workers and school children. Four bus lines operating between New York City and Washington, D. C., were ordered to pool their services, stagger schedules, permit interchange of tickets and eliminate duplicating runs. The ODT also reported it has begun a survey of intercity bus and railroad passenger travel in 100 selected cities to determine necessary adjustments of travel requirements to available facilities. The office requested employers to help reduce week-end travel by arranging mid-week departure for employees who plan vacations.

Shipbuilding

The President, in a National Maritime Day statement May 22, said "we will perform this near-miracle of ship production. The nation's shipbuilding capacity has been increased more than 500 percent. That of itself is an outstanding achievement." War Shipping Administrator Land said 138 ships have been delivered into service so far this year. "Approximately 35 percent more than were delivered in all of last year. We have reached the stage of delivering two ships a day. By fall, we will be delivering three a day." Maritime Day was observed also with the mass launching of 27 cargo vessels.

Housing and Construction

Nineteen AFL building trade unions signed an agreement with the Government to stabilize wages on Federal construction for one year at rates paid under collective bargaining agreements in effect July 1, the Labor Department reported. A seven-man Wage Adjustment Board, comprised of Assistant Labor Secretary Tracy, three members of the building trade unions and three representatives of the Government agencies involved, will administer the agreement. The House completed Congressional action on legislation to increase from $300 million to $800 million the amount of housing loans which may be insured by the Federal Housing Administration. The Federal Public Housing Authority said it will receive bids in June on construction of 31,000 housing units.

ON THE OFFENSIVE AMERICA!
* * *
Wars are won by attacking, not by sitting in a fort!
And today America is taking the offensive against the Axis with hard-fighting, non-stoppable men and materials!
We're taking the offensive, too, against the enemy at home—the inflationary 6th column that blows prices sky high.
You can help in both fights by saving at least 10% of your money in U. S. War Bonds every pay day. Attack the Axis with your dollars today.
You can start with as little as a 10c War Stamp and you can get a $25.00 War Bond (maturity value) for only $18.75—at your local post office, bank or other convenient sales agency.

SERVICE that SATISFIES

NOW IN EFFECT

NEW WARTIME SCHEDULES
The transportation needs of America-at-war have made it necessary to change Greyhound schedules. This new service has been arranged in full cooperation with the wartime program of the Office of Defense Transportation.
Today the important thing is to make every bus work full time—keeping vital traffic on the move. To achieve this purpose, Greyhound is introducing many changes—diverting buses to more essential routes—reducing driving speeds—eliminating Expresses and Limiteds and many "second sections"—unifying service with other bus companies in some cases—conserving tires and vital materials in every way.
Be sure to ask about the new schedules before you take a trip. We hope you will not be inconvenienced, crowded or delayed. But if you are, please be lenient—the war effort comes first with Greyhound as it does with you.

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY

James Cagney ended 1941 with more travel behind him than in any previous year in his career.

Two trips to Martha's Vineyard knocked off 12,000 miles, his location jaunt to Canada for "Captains of the Clouds" set up 7,000, and he travelled 2,000 miles in the Dominion—total 21,000 miles by plane, train and automobile. He plans to stay at home in 1942.

Jimmy Durante asked Phil Silvers, between scenes of Warner Bros.' "You're In The Army Now," why he didn't buy a house and settle down near Hollywood now that he had established himself in motion pictures.

"I would if they'd give me an I. O. T. U. clause before building," replied Phil.

"What does that I. O. T. U. mean?" asked Jimmy.

"If option taken up," answered Phil.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Today's mammoth presses that send forth thousands of multi-paged editions per hour had a beginning far less glorified.

That humble beginning forged with sweat, brains and courage, is graphically depicted in the Gayety's new picture "Wild Bill Hickok Rides," which co-stars Constance Bennett and Bruce Cabot in a thrilling real-life story carved from the West's early days.

TUESDAY
Double Feature

"Hopalong" Cassidy has some expert help in thrilling making of "Riders of the Timberline," the fast-moving action film to be screened at the Gayety, Tuesday.

Set in a lumber camp in the High Sierras, the script called for lumberjacks to stage a fight hundreds of feet in the air on an overhead trolley line. For that scene Paramount hired the famous Mazetti troupe of acrobats.

Five top hit tunes in one picture is a pretty good record, and that's the score for Paramount's new full-length Technicolor musical comedy cartoon, "Mr. Bug Goes to Town."

Four of the songs were written by Hoagy Carmichael and Frank Loesser, both of whom are responsible for many a Hit Parader. The latest contenders for musical honors are their "Mr. Bug Goes to Town" melodies—"We're the Couple in the Castle," "Be My Little Baby Bumble Bee," "Katy-Did, Katy Didn't," "I'll Dance at Your Wedding."

Another well-known composer, Sammy Timberg, wrote the music for the fifth song, "Boy, Oh Boy!"

SURGICAL SUTURES SUPPLY ENDANGERED BY SHEEP DISEASE

A shortage of surgical sutures may come from the "nodular worm" infesting the intestines of sheep, warns the animal pathology department of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. In a special communication, attention is called to the fact that sheep intestines are used for sutures and also for sausage casings, but that nodules formed in the wall of the intestine renders it useless. The worms may be removed from the intestines by phenothiazine, but not the nodules already formed. A program of prevention is the only answer. The release follows:

A program for preventing nodular worm disease would consist of regular systematic treatments and a clean pasture every spring for the ewes and lambs. The control program must be carried out so that the lambs will never become infested with the nodular worm, because it is the very young worm when first taken into the intestinal tract that causes the nodule, not the adult worm.

Treat the ewes with Phenothiazine in July or August after the lambs are weaned. Treat the same ewes in the late fall or early winter, 30 to 60 days before lambing and again a week or ten days after they lamb. The ewes that have been treated and their lambs should go out on a pasture that has not been used as a sheep pasture for at least 12 months, preferably longer. Adjust farm practices so that there will be available each spring a clean pasture for the ewes and lambs. A clean pasture means a field that has had no sheep on it for 12 to 24 months. It may have been used as a pasture for other species of animals, a field from which hay was harvested, or a field that has been under cultivation and reseeded to grass.

It should be remembered that Phenothiazine is effective for the removal of nodular worms and stomach worms and somewhat effective for other intestinal round worms of sheep. Therefore, if sheep are treated with Phenothiazine more than one kind of worm will be eliminated. In addition to treatment, clean pastures are essential to make parasite prevention program effective. Clean pastures would help materially to control all round worm parasites including lung worms, for which there is no treatment.

If a parasite prevention program of this kind was followed for two or three years the number of treatments required could be reduced to two, or possibly one, annually. It should be put into effect even though the need for normal, healthy sheep intestines was not important at this time because of the conditions brought about by the war.

Inflation Control

farm people to understand how price ceilings and other measures designed to check inflation will affect them and other groups.

Prices have been rising because fighting the war requires huge expenditures for armaments and turns thousands of plants from producing civilian goods to producing war goods. This results in increased wage payments but small production of civilian goods, so demand is rising while supply is declining. The result is higher prices (Inflation).

Effect of Inflation on the Farm Family

1. Makes the farm family feel prosperous.
2. Causes farm family to incur long time debts.
3. Develops a habit of living beyond their income.
4. Increases the farm taxes and the public debt structure.
5. Reduces the value of life insurance.
6. Reduces value of farm family's savings causing loss of interest in sound thrift programs.

Farmers in the other World War will remember how good it felt to watch the prices of wheat, cotton, and hogs soar. Most people thought they were making money rapidly, workers were buying silk shirts, and farmers went into debt to buy more land and expand their business.

In 1920 it took 4 bushels of corn to pay the interest and taxes on an acre of good land; in 1921 when the price spree ended, it took 12 bushels. Thousands of farm families lost their farms—all because prices went up and then came down again.

How Farm Family May Cooperate in the Program

1. Understand the President's seven-point program.
2. Understand what will happen to the farm family if rise in prices is not controlled.
3. All farm families should maintain the farm plant—the soil and equipment.
4. All farm families should reduce demands on decreasing supply of civilian goods by: a. Buying as little as possible and only what is needed; b. Care, repair, and reconditioning of clothing, equipment, and machinery; c. Production and preservation of farm family food supply; d. Cooperation in rationing program.
5. It is important to buy carefully. a. Become informed regarding use of substitutes. b. Check quality and shop around for bargains.
6. All farm families should increase production; a. Should plan the farm and home work better; b. Do more with less labor; 7. Pay debts and keep out of debt; 8. Pay taxes promptly; 9. Purchase all war bonds possible; 10 Build reserves for post-war period.

Seven headings mentioned by the President on stopping inflation are:

1. Tax heavily and hold profits down.
2. Fix ceilings on wholesale and retail prices.
3. Stabilize wages paid to workers.
4. Stabilize prices received by farmers.
5. Encourage the purchase of War Bonds.
6. Ration essential commodities that are scarce.
7. Discourage credit and installment buying. Pay off debts.

Price celing is one of the seven mentioned to achieve over all price control and prevent further increases in the cost of living, a single sweeping order set the highest prices charged in March 1942 as an absolute ceiling over virtually everything that Americans eat, wear, and use. Among those controlled are prices of almost every processed food commodity, all clothing, shoes, dry goods and yard goods; soaps; every kind of common fuel (even firewood); pipes, cigars, cigarettes, and prepared smoking and chewing tobacco; drugs, toiletries and sundries; furniture and furnishings; appliances and equipment; and hardware and miscellaneous agricultural supplies.

Among those "expected" in the regular are:

Eggs and poultry; all milk products except fluid milk sold at retail, cream sold at retail, and ice cream; flour (but not packaged flour mixes); mutton and lamb; dried prunes, dry edible beans, leaf tobacco, nuts (but not peanuts), linseed oil, linseed cake and linseed meal, mixed feed for animals; living animals, whether wild or domestic; stumpage, logs, and pulpwood; used automobiles; securities; commodities grown and processed on one's farm, if the total of such sales or deliveries does not exceed $75 in any one calendar month. This covers the sale of small farm processing items as smoked ham, bacon, maple syrup, etc.

The maximum prices charged by a given retailer in March, 1942, for each of these items included must be displayed. These figures are not necessarily the same in all stores.

Control of inflation can succeed only if farmers and other important groups in the county cooperate to that end.

Why shouldn't war cause an increase in marriages; doesn't war develop bravery?

DISPELLING THE FOG

By Charles Michelson

Not so very long ago some of our hate-Roosevelt newspapers were solemnly warning us that because of the exercise of the President's war powers we might not have any Congressional election this year.

The idea was, of course, to scare people into a fear that dictatorship was on the way and that the American system of Constitutional Government was being torpedoed. This slopping over in the effort to discredit the Commander-in-Chief was only a political maneuver intended to help the fantastic design to bring about the phenomenon of a House of Representatives hostile to the Government. The authors of the absurdity failed to take into account the Yankee sense of humor. The suggestion was received with a nation-wide grin.

We have gone about our usual pre-election business in our usual way.

The Republicans renominated their isolationist Senator in Illinois; the Democrats defeated one farther West. The customary hectic primaries in Pennsylvania went off with the regulation fire works and there were no bayonets in the polling places anywhere. The rest of the procedure of choosing candidates for Congress is going along just as it always has gone on, with the aspirants asserting their own virtues in the manner they believe to be pleasing to their respective districts—or most satisfactory to the political organizations that handle the primary machinery.

One of the Chicago Tribune satellite newspapers launched the thought that "the President is a dictator now," and intimated that a suspension of Congressional elections was on the horizon. Thereafter the editorials on the subject in that section of the press consistently editorialized with such phrases as "If the regular Congressional elections are held.

The publisher of the New York Post thereupon offered to bet the publisher of the New York Daily News $10,000 to $1,000 that the elections would be held—and the McCormick-Patterson papers veered away, substituting the hypothesis that the administration would campaign with "the implication that you are some kind of a traitor, Quisling, Cliveden, Setter or Benedict Arnold if you think or say that the administration can make mistakes in its conduct of the war."

Just an Editorial Shift

The basis for this theory, it explained, was that the President at a press conference said that he felt the next Congress should be made up of members, regardless of party, who would support the Government.

Whenever other editorial topics become scarce, some newspapers begin clamoring about the liberty of the press. That has been going on ever since George Washington was President. For a century and a half they have been shadowboxing with a mythical threat against freedom of expression. Nobody in authority has ever suggested control of the press. Occasionally, through the years, some Congressman, stung by attacks by the newspapers, has fulminated about liberty being translated into license, but nothing has ever been done about it. I presume that a legislator has the same right to talk about the "copperhead press," as the press has to publish its disapproval of the statesman.

Just now, we being at war, newspapers have been asked and have complied, with the request that they publish nothing that would disclose military information, or otherwise furnish aid or comfort to the enemy. This mild censorship is voluntary. Naturally the newspaper folk and the army and navy do not always agree on what is publishable and what is not, and the decision of the martial departments must prevail.

Actually it would require an amendment to the Constitution to infringe on the freedom of the press.

It's Safe to Blackguard a President

Criticism, however acute, is outside the realm of censorship, as is fairly evident from the continuous assaults on the administration by the isolationist press. President Roosevelt has been accused of everything from treason down. However, there is nothing new about that. Washington, Jefferson, Jackson and Lincoln all had to face that sort of barrage—and nothing was done about it.

During the dark days of the war between the States, one great newspaper demanded that we let the erring sisters go. That must have come close to giving aid and comfort to the enemy, but the paper went right on publishing—and yelling about the threat to journalistic independence.

We had something of the same sort when the rubber shortage resulted in a limitation to the frequency of newspaper delivery, or when priorities called for a possible rationing of print paper. Those war necessities were denounced as a covert attempt to destroy hostile journals—though as the rule must apply to pro-administration equally with anti-administration publications, it was pretty far-fetched.

We must expect, and bear with patience, such yarns as the peril to constitutional government by calling off the elections and the twin bogie of domination of the vehicles for public information—or misinformation.

I, of course, speak without authority, but I feel safe in assuring Colonel McCormick that nobody wishes—even if some might like to have it done—the suppression of the Chicago Tribune or of its offshoots.

OLD LOUISVILLE POST OFFICE TO BE SCRAPPED

Mr. W. B. Hart of the Special Projects Division of the Salvage program anounces that following a conference with Mayor Wilson Wyatt, Mr. George Goodman, State WPA Administrator, and several engineers, a definite move has been made to salvage the old Louisville oPst Office. This building, a fine one in its day, contains several thousand tons of valuable metals, the salvaging of which is much more valuable than the retention of the building. All salvage workers in Kentucky will be gratified to know that this fine piece of work has been added to the long list of salvage victories.

One hundred and eighty-five Pulaski county farmers received "gold cover crop certificates" for growing cover crops on all their cultivated land. Somerset bankers cooperated in making the awards. More Balbo rye will be used as a cover crop this year.

ROBBERY CHARGE FACED BY YOUTHS

ARRESTED TUESDAY MORNING BY SHERIFF J. T. WILLIAMS BETWEEN IDLEWILD AND PETERSBURG.

Harding Mallicoat, 22 and Dennis Turner, 20, were arrested Tuesday morning by Sheriff J. T. Williams, between Idlewild and Petersburg, after being at large several months following the hold-up of Bailey Johnson, Erlanger truck driver near the Gunpowder bridge on February 19th.

Johnson, the hold-up victim was bound hand and foot after the youths forced him to stop at the point of a shotgun. Loot taken from the truck consisted of $10.00 in cash, cigarettees and other merchandise. Mallicoat and Turner escaped in a 1934 Plymouth bearing Ohio license plates.

Both youths were indicted at the April session of the grand jury and had been at large until apprehended Tuesday.

Sheriff Williams stated that the youths were arrested following a telephone call from Wm. E. Aylor of Taylorsport, who stated that his boat had been stolen, which he later found tied near the Dr. Crisler farm. Williams and Aylor, in search of the boat thieves found the youths walking on the Petersburg-Idlewild road.

Both Mallicoat and Turner were well armed, according to Sheriff Williams. He stated that upon searching the youths he found a pistol, blackjack, knives and several screwdrivers.

The men were brought to Burlington and placed in jail in default of $1,000 bond, where they will await trial at the next session of the Boone Circuit Court.

Sheep Breeding Stock Purchased By Local Men

Mr. Hugh Baker, Petersburg, and James Gayle Smith, of Burlington, recently purchased registered Hampshire sheep breeding stock and are planning to produce breeding stock for sale. Fred Siekman and Sons of Hebron are also breeders of Hampshire sheep and recently applied for membership in the American Hampshire Sheep Association.

Breeders who have superior stock and produce superior breeding stock for distribution serve a valuable place in the livestock improvement work in their communities and the county. Boone County has long been noted for its fine dairy cattle and swine breeding stock. We have in recent years many new breeders in beef cattle, Southdown sheep, saddle and draft stock and other classes of livestock. We appreciate the good work our breeders are doing.

COUNTY CLUBS RECEIVE AWARDS

AT JUNIOR WEEK HELD AT LEXINGTON — NEW HAVEN GIRL RECEIVES BLUE RIBBON IN FOODS JUDGING.

Boone County 4-H Clubs scored again when awards were made Friday evening at the close of Junior Week at the University of Kentucky, Lexington. Mary Katherine Shields, New Haven, rated superior in the foods judging contest and received a blue ribbon. Ellaine Gardiner, Florence, scored excellent, and received a red ribbon in clothing judging.

Wanda Pennington, New Haven, modeled her tailored suit in the Style Revue on Thursday evening in competition with 76 winners from other counties. Although no ribbon was received for this entry, Boone County had every reason to be proud of the showing she made. Many of the girls were older and much more experienced in the art of sewing. Wanda was complimented on her work and selection.

Other Boone County members who attended Junior Week were: Frances Bonta, Petersburg; Mary Hope Chipman, Verona; James Stephenson, New Haven; Calvin Kelly, Burlington; Melvin Ray McGlasson, Hebron; Earl Washmuth, Constance; Eugene Purdy, Grant. Delegates were accompanied by Mary Scott Moore, Acting Home Demonstration Agent; and Franklin Frazier, Assistant County Agent.

WOOL POOL BIDS ARE REJECTED

AT WALTON MONDAY—BIDS DID NOT REFLECT TRUE MARKET VALUE OF WOOL, ACCORDING TO COMMITTEE.

The Boone County Wool Pool Commitee rejected all bids offered for the county's 60,000 pound clip at Walton on last Monday, June 8. The bids did not reflect the true market value of the wool, according to the committee.

During the past two weeks the mills for some unexpected reason have not purchased any wool. This life the market temporarily depressed and in the hands of speculators who were willing to purchase wool only at a great discount on its true market value. The cooperative selling through the pool renders three important services to its farmers. First, because of its large size, it is able to sell more direct to the mill at a higher price, resulting from less overhead cost to the purchaser. Second, through its sales committee it is able to see that every farmer gets the same price and the same fair treatment and consideration from the buyer; and third, the pool through its volume and collective powers is better able to know the true market value and if necessary not sell until the market value is received. Your pool is better able to render these services for the individual than he would normally be able to do for himself.

The sales committee deeply regret that the bids offered did not justify the sale of the clip now, in that most sheepmen at this time of the year need their money. However, they are confident they acted in the interest and desire of all pool members. The assure all members that the clip will be sold at the earliest possible date at its true market value. It is hoped and expected that the sale will be completed in the very near future. Members are urged to cooperate with their sales committee in this work.

U. K. Grants 585 Degrees

Before nearly 5,000 spectators Dr. Herman Lee Donovon, president of the University of Kentucky, bestowed 585 honorary, advanced and bachelor degrees, the largest number in the history of the University, Friday night, May 29 at the 75th annual June commencement exercises held in McLean stadium on Stoll Field.

The Hon. Alben W. Barkley, U. S. senior senator from Kentucky and majority floor leader, himself the recipient of an honory degree, delivered the commencement address. BOONE COUNTY QUOTA IS $15,900

FOR MONTH OF JUNE—COUNTY COMMITTEE URGES CITIZENS TO PURCHASE BONDS IN BOONE COUNTY.

Boone County's War Bond quota for the month of June is $15,900.00 according to County committee. This quota must, and will be met by the people of Boone County. Boone County people have never failed in their patriotic duty, and now more than ever before they are being called upon to show their devotion to their country.

This quota may appear to be a large figure, but with everyone doing their part it will be met and Boone County will go over the top for the month of June.

Persons who are employed in work outside of Boone County and are buying bonds in the city in which they work are urged to purchase them from some agent in Boone County, if possible. Other local citizens who have purchased bonds outside of the County, are urged to buy their bonds in Boone County to help Boone County meet its quota.

LEADERS ASSIST IN PROGRAM

OF NATIONAL INFLATION CONTROL — LEADERS TRAINING AND COMMUNITY MEETINGS WILL BE HELD IN COUNTY.

Two hundred ninety-two Boone County Extension program leaders will assist in the National Inflation Control educational program, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

Inflation and cost of living control is an important part of our war program. The government has asked that every family be informed as to its purpose and what it means to our war effort.

Leaders' training and community meetings will be held in all sections of the county during the next two weeks.

Inflation was following the same general spiraling course followed in the last war until our Government recently took drastic actions to head off the evil effect of this great danger. The trend of inflation can be visualized from estimates that in 1942 we will have 17 billion more dollars with which to buy fewer commodities at higher prices. Already it is estimated that our war debt will be increased by 35 billion more dollars on war contracts already made as a result of inflation prices since 1939.

We are attacking the inflation evil from three main points: (1) By removal of individual buying power through (a) heavy taxation: (b) Purchases of War Bonds and Stamps; (c) discouraging buying on credit and encourage the paying of debts.

(2) Rationing of commodities so that there will be equitable distribution of all needed goods.

(3) Legal price restrictions thru (a) stabilized wages. (b) stabilized prices received by farmers; (c) ceiling on commodity prices.

Inflation does us little good and its after effect bring people, as a whole, much [illegible]

Conrad-Edwards

The Hebron Lutheran Church was the scene of a delightful wedding on Friday, June 5th, when Miss Evelyn Conrad and Mr. Wood Edwards were united in marriage.

Miss Conrad is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Conrad, of Burlington and has been teaching Home Economics at Hebron for the past two years. Mr. Edwards is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Edwards, of Burlington was recently graduated from the University of Kentucky.

The wedding was a quiet affair with only the immediate families and a few intimate friends present. The attendants were Miss Betty Yelton, Miss Lucille Edwards, Orville Conrad and Chester Edwards.

The bride was attired in a white afternoon street dress with white accessories and wore a corsage of pink roses. The attendants wore pastel shades of pink and blue with white corsages of carnation.

Rev. H. M. Hauter officiated at the ceremony, while The Wedding March was rendered by Mrs. Alice Dye at the organ.

A reception was held at the home of the bride for the wedding guests. Following the reception the couple left for a short honeymoon in Brown County, Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards will make their home in Pittsburgh, Penn., where Mr. Edwards has accepted a position as Electrical Engineer with Westinghouse.

Rouse-Huffnagle

Miss Isabella Rouse, of Ludlow, Ky., R. 2, near Limaburg, and Harry Huffnagle of the same address were quietly united in marriage at Burlington Saturday afternoon, May 30th.

The marriage ceremony took place at the home of Rev. T. O. Harrison, Burlington at 4:00 p. m. Saturday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Bennett, of Limaburg were attendants.

At the present the newlyweds have not announced their future plans, but all their friends thruout this community wish them much happiness and success and the very best that life has to offer.

NEW OPERATORS LICENSE ON SALE

AT OFFICE OF CIRCUIT COURT CLERK—DRIVERS MUST PRESENT THEIR OLD LICENSE —COST SAME AS USUAL.

Circuit Court Clerk, A. D. Yelton has advised us that he now has on hand the 1942-43 Operator's license and that any person who desires to do so may buy their new license now. The Clerk stated that the licenses were going on sale earlier than usual and that drivers could get their license at their convenience, when they were in the county seat and save gasoline and rubber by not having to make an extra trip.

The procedure for obtaining license is the same as last year. Persons must present their license and all persons under the age of eighteen must have their father with them to sign for their license before they can be issued. The license is $1.00; duplicate license 25c.

Persons who have not had a license may apply on Monday of any week. A member of the State Highway aPtrol is present on that day from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. (E. W. T.) to give the examination.

Suits Will Be Filed To Acquire Airport Land

Kenton Fiscal Court, at a special meeting Tuesday, authorized William E. Wehrman, Kenton County Attorney, to institute condemnation proceedings against two Boone County landowners whose property is needed for the Middle Ohio Valley Airport, near Hebron.

The owners refused offers of appraised value for their lands, and prices they asked were refused by the Fiscal Court. The land consists of 57.5 acres.

Wehrman said the suits would be filed in Boone County Court as soon as the petitions could be prepared. Additional suits will be filed if settlements cannot be reached with other landowners.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Conner had for their guests Monday evening, Mrs. Rufus Tanner and Mrs. Kit McHenry, of Florence, Ky.

FINAL DATE SET FOR RATIONING

OF SUGAR FOR PRESENT CANNING SEASON—BOARD WILL NOT MEET FRIDAY NIGHT OF THIS WEEK.

The last meeting of the Burlington Sugar Rationing Board for the present cherry and strawberry canning season will be Monday night at 7:00 p. m. at the courthouse. The Board will not meet on Friday night of this week.

The Sugar Board at the present time has only been permitted to issue sugar at the rate of six pounds per person for the cherry and strawberry season. However, it is thought that persons who desire sugar for canning will be able to obtain all of their sugar in a lump sum at the next registration, which will be announced at a later date.

The people of the Hebron community will be able to obtain their sugar by calling at the Hebron garage any week day. Mr. Earl Aylor is rendering this service to the Hebron community and persons may call at their convenience and receive their allotment for the present canning season.

The sugar rationing program has been delayed considerably due to the lack of sufficient printed forms and definite plans and organization for the various board to follow. The result of this has been that some folks have not obtained their sugar until after their fruit was gone. According to all indications at present, this will not happen again, since the various Boards over the county are prepared to handle the people who apply promptly, and will have sufficient material and supplies for everyone.

The definite date for the next registration for sugar in Boone County will be carried in this newspaper just as soon as it is made known from headquarters.

Judge Riddell Reports Fishing Good In Texas

A card from Judge N. E. Riddell, who is spending several weeks vacation in Texas, reads as follows:

"Yesterday we caught 24 like the picture—none as large as the largest, but all weighed an average of ten pounds. Lost that large hook that I had in the office, and did not check him. Best luck yet, hope for same this week."

That big one the Judge hooked might have been one of those one-man Japanese subs that we have read so much about. Better cut your line Judge when you hang another big one.

PRODUCTION BATTLE

"The battle of production has been won," wrote Paul Mallon recently. "American industry went over the top in April, out of the preparatory organizing phase, and into the great American stride of mass production which no one can equal anywhere. From now on the production line on our charts will go nearly straight up."

That is an incredible achievement, and it takes incredible statistics to describe it. In April, our war production was at the rate of $40,000,000,000 a year. The June rate will be about 25 per cent greater. And by the end of this year, the economists confidently predict we will be producing at the rate of $70,000,000,000 a year.

In time to come, many a learned book will be written telling just how private industry did this job—a job which is unprecedented in world history. Two years ago we were totally unprepared for war, for a decade or more. In Mein Kampf, Hitler says time and time again that the democracies are weak, spineless, unwilling and unable to fight. The Japanese also pinned abundant faith on that supposition. This country, along with the other United Nations, is showing Hitler how tremendously wrong he was.

American industry has done far more than turn its plants from the production of the necessities and luxuries of peace to the production of the instruments of war. It has boldly pioneered new techniques. It has thrown old production prejudices to the four winds. It has worked on the basis that nothing is impossible. The skeptics said, for instance, that the assembly-line principle could never be successfully applied to the manufacture of fighting airplanes. Ford, Boeing, Consolidated and other plants have proved otherwise—in Seattle, San Diego, Willow Run and elsewhere some of the finest military airplanes the world has ever seen are being made almost as swiftly as automobiles were made in the old days. Skeptics were certain forecasts of tank production were fantastically high. Chrysler and other makers to the contrary, are today well ahead of forecasts and are going farther steadily.

All over the country plants, little as well as big, are setting new production records in a hundred war-material fields. Delays still occasionally occur because of lack of materials, labor difficulties, etc. But those delays grow fewer.

There is only one dark spot—merchant ship output. The shipbuilders have done an excellent job in the face of staggering technical difficulties, but the fact remains that United Nations' losses are somewhat ahead of replacements. For some time delivery of steel plate was behind schedule. However, existing yards are steadily upping their output, and some gigantic new yards, on both the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards, will shortly go into operation. In this as in other war fields, some revolutionary changes are taking place in production methods. In the last war, it took close to a year to make the 8,800-ton Liberty ships we used then. A Portland, Oregon yard recently produced a 10,800-ton freighter of the standard type we are building now in 60 days. And it is believed certain that still faster production will soon become commonplace.

The warship building program is reported ahead of schedule. Special emphasis is laid on the production of the destroyers which are needed for convoy duties, and for protecting ships-of-the-line in naval squadrons. And the U. S. submarine fleet is growing satisfactorily.

Not until the war is over and the information is of no use to the enemy will it be possible to tell the whole story of America's production effort. What can be said now is that no nation or groups of nations ever did so much in so short a period of time. At the end of the last year, Von Ludendorff wrote, in bitter admiration, that the United States understood how to wage war. The cold production figures show that the United States understands it better still today.

DON'T STEAL CAR TIME

Business men can do much to help the railroads make the best possible use of their equipment, in the opinion of Joseph B. Eastman, Director of the Office of Defense Transportation. In a recent address, he suggested three specific steps that can be taken to prevent car shortages.

First, railroad cars are in possession of shippers a large part of the time. That time can be reduced by further speeding up loading and unloading operations. Much has already been done in this direction, he said, but there is still ample room for improvement.

Second, the heavier cars are loaded, the more work they can do. Most open-top cars are now loaded to capacity, but that is not true of box cars. Here again, a wide margin of improvement is entirely practicable, and it would be equivalent to adding thousands of cars to the total supply. To move a partly-loaded car amou its to a definite waste of vital tra sportation facilities.

Third, freight traffic is irregular throughout the year, and normally rises to a peak in October. At that time the danger of congestion and shortages becomes greatest. The more that peak can be cut down and the valleys filled up, the more work the cars and locomotives can do. The recent campaign urging consumers to buy their winter's coal during the summer, is an example of the kind of activity that should be intensified and expanded.

The magnificent job done by the railroads is without precedent in transportation history. The continuance of that job partly depends on maximum cooperation from everyone who uses rail service. We must keep the cars rolling—and keep them loaded to the limit.

AFTER THE WAR

Writing in Banking, Paul Cadman, Economist of the American Bankers Association, said this: "The whole spirit of the two tragic decades which followed World War number one, was one of restriction, regulation, control, super-government. The spirit of the post-war world should be one of release: Releasing the vast energies of the common man; creation of mass buying power through work rather than bounty; the courages extension of credit to men and nations for the reconstruction period. All this may sound both flowery and general but it stands up clearly against this fact; Post-war planning is going to be done on a large scale. It will be done either by the dreamers, the reformers and the inexperienced, or by men who know the immense difficulties involved in the production and conservation of wealth."

From the pioneer days to present ti[illegible] led in the development of [illegible] country. Banking helped push back the frontier—even as banking made possible the growth of the industries which are the source of our fighting power in time of war, and the creators of an ever-rising standard of living in time of peace. Banking has been at the forefront of the war effort, meeting with speed and efficiency the tremendous demands made upon it.

If we are to have a free world after the war is over, it must be a world in which private enterprise, in all fields, is protected and nurtured. It must be a world where there is full opportunity for the individual—not a world of privileged official classes who live off the people. That is the basic principle for which we are fighting today.

The oldest bridge in Minneapolis—a 70-year-old landmark, is going to war. The city has given it to the U. S. for its salvage value and its 450 tons of wrought iron will be processed into steel for military equipment.

INVEST IN VICTORY!

Our boys can take the War to the enemy, if we back them up with ships and tanks and guns! But that takes money!

Help your Government to put the tools of war into the hands of our soldiers by purchasing War Savings Bonds and Stamps. And remember . . . just one Bond can't lick the Axis any more than just one gun! It takes millions of Americans buying War Savings Bonds and Stamps every pay day!

Bonds cost $18.75 and up . . . and they pay you back one-third more in only 10 years! Stamps cost 10¢, 25¢, and up . . . soon total the price of a Bond if bought regularly.

Help our boys on the fighting fronts wherever they may be! Buy War Savings Bonds as an investment for yourself and your country.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

SUNDAY: THE RISEN CHRIST AND HIS DISCIPLES

LESSON TEXT—Luke 24:33-48.
GOLDEN TEXT—Ye are witnesses of these things.—Luke 24:48.

The glory and gladness of the resurrection morning drove back the darkness of the tomb and replaced the disciples' sadness with holy gladness. God's message to His people is one of assurance and hope. The night may be dark, but the dawn will surely come.

Two of Jesus' disciples had been walking sadly along the road to Emmaus when suddenly a stranger was with them, telling them what the Scriptures taught about the Christ—His sufferings and His glory. Their hearts burned strangely within them (Luke 24:32), but they did not recognize Him until He broke the bread of their evening meal—and then He was gone.

But now they had a joyous message which sent them hurrying back to Jerusalem to the eleven who had gathered behind locked doors to discuss the reports which had also come to them of His resurrection. And suddenly—

I. "Jesus Himself Stood in the Midst" (vv. 33-43).

What a blessed and conclusive confirmation of their report. He, their beloved Lord and Master, stood there before them, alive and speaking His tender message of "Peace."

The disciples, however, were bewildered and slow to believe. Observe how kind and patient He was with these frightened and unbelieving men. And note what a splendid testimony it is to the truth of the resurrection that they who knew Him best expected proof before they believed.

Before we condemn them for lack of faith let us ask ourselves if we would have done better, and let us be thankful that their hesitation made assurance doubly sure. He was really there—alive. Partaking of food (which He did not need), and giving them opportunity to touch His body, He demonstrated the reality of the resurrection.

He next gave them a sure foundation for faith.

II. "Then Opened He Their Understanding" (vv. 44, 45).

This He did that they might "understand the scriptures." Their minds had become confused and He literally "disentangled" them. We need to have the knots and kinks taken out of our thinking about God's Word. Then we too will understand.

Dealing with the entire Old Testament (divided by the Hebrews into law, prophets and psalms), He thus gave it His endorsement. Men may deny, but Jesus approved the Scriptures of the Old Testament—and we are ready to take His word. "All things must be fulfilled" is His statement concerning Himself. There is our Lord's guarantee that the promises of His second coming, and all that is associated with it, as well as with His future reign, will be fulfilled.

This time of fellowship with the Lord around the Word of God was strengthening to their faith, but it had another purpose. The blessings of God are not for our own satisfaction alone, for it is His will that there be—

III. "Repentance Preached in His Name" (vv. 46-48).

There is a message to go out through His disciples to all nations. He died for the sins of the world. He arose for the justification of those who believe. There is remission of sin for those who in repentance and faith turn to Him.

Fellowship with Christ and an understanding of His Word which does not result in aggressive witness for Him is quite useless. We meet Him and study His Word not only that we may grow in grace, but that we may be witnesses to all nations.

To be a witness involves knowledge of a fact, to the truth of which the individual can bear testimony. The disciples were called to be witnesses, "not speculators, philosophers, moralists or legislators. They had neither to argue nor to dissertate, nor to lay down rules for conduct, nor to ventilate their own fancies. They were witnesses, and their business was to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth" (Alexander Maclaren).

The Christian by life possibly more than by word is to "adorn the doctrine of God," as Paul put it (Titus 2:10), commending it to those round about him. Observe that such a witness is to start right at home, "beginning at Jerusalem" (v. 47).

It may be difficult in our times to send witnesses to distant lands, for ships are busy carrying the men and implements of war. But right in your Jerusalem there is a spiritual need, in your little town or rural community, in the city where you live, in your home, office, shop, or school. You who read this who are in the service of the country will find a "Jerusalem" in your camp or on your ship.

Just Let Me Tell You A Few Facts About Walking, So You'll Realize Just How Much It Can Do For You.

N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE
814-816 Madison, Covington

The normal heart, you know, beats about seventy-two times a minute and pumps about six ounces of blood with each beat. Now, in fast walking, or at the rate of four miles an hour—(which is how fast you should walk to do you some good)—you'll find the normal heart will INCREASE its beat ten times to the minute, pumping six ounces of blood at each beat, gives sixty ounces per minute or 3600 an hour, which is 225 pounds. You can easily see that 225 ADDITIONAL pounds of blood pumped DAILY through your veins means just that much more life to your whole body.

There's no use of my telling you to get out and walk if you are having trouble with your feet, because I know you won't do it, BUT—if I tell you how to get rid of those aching, paining feet, first—then there's nothing to keep you from walking every day and benefitting your health by this wonderful exercise.

It has also been found that millions suffer without knowing the reason why — those headaches, those leg pains, and even sleepless nights may be caused by the shoes you are wearing.—Adv.

Ten thousand tons of steel went into the metal tops of the 1,000,000 jars manufactured last year to hold cold cream and other cosmetic products.

SERMON OF THE MONTH

DISCOVERY

Are you confused in mind about what is right and wrong? Do you, in these days, doubt that "anything of merit can endure"? Is your faith in your fellowman weak, or on the verge of crumbling? Then meditate upon these encouraging words of the poet, L. M. Thornton:

Discovery

I whispered, change
Is making all things terrible and strange;
I am not sure
That anything of merit can endure.
And then I found
That faith, and truth, and honor still abound.

I tasted life
Before it withered in the blasts of strife.
I knew the days
Of lands at peace, and calm, untrouble ways;
But now as then
There is the love of God, and good in men.
It is heartening to all of us when we discover anew—as we need to do—that the things which are rooted in God will abide eternally, even thought for a time they are apparently "blacked out."

Who of us, also, will not benefit by repeating—with new faith and understanding — the Psalmist's glorious conviction—

"Lord, thou has been our dwelling place
In all generations.
Before the mountains were brought forth,
Or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world,
Even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God."

His love, even in judgment, still remains, and because that is true, the good in men, the truth, beauty and honor will be found in our world—today, and in the future. Let us pray, hope, and work in that faith, that God's will may be done.

"Fight! Work! and SAVE!"

A War Message on WAR BONDS from the President of the United States

"....The American people know that if we would raise the billions which we now need to pay for the war and at the same time prevent a disastrous rise in the cost of living, we shall have to double and more than double the scale of our savings.

"Every dime and dollar not vitally needed for absolute necessities should go into WAR BONDS and STAMPS to add to the striking power of our armed forces.

"If these purchases are to have a material effect in restraining price increases they must be made ont of current income.

"In almost every individual case they should be big enough to mean rigid self-denial, a substantial reduction for most of us in the scale of expenditure that is comfortable and easy for us.

"We cannot fight this war, we cannot exert our maximum effort, on a spend-as-usual basis.

"We cannot have all we want if our soldiers and sailors are to have all they need."

—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

GYPSY FEET

Back in the county where I was born,
Where work began with break O morn,
I should have stayed there—down on the farm
But I got gypsy feet.

I was never satisfied to sit
Around and rest, when work we quit;
And soon the roving trail I hit
On the paths of Gyspy feet.

They will hardly agree—most city folk,
That have ne'er paused to rest neath a great spreading oak;
The cities don't have them—just buildings and smoke,
And lights so alluring to Gyspy urged feet.

The yhave took me through byways of hunger and need,
And along the wide highway of rushing and greed;
If I ever get home again, no more shall they lead
On the wandering trails of Gypsy bent feet.

So you lads of the country—advice then please take,
And the peace of broad acres—never forsake;
Too often it makes you just a homeless old rake
Oh heed not the call of those Gypsy urged feet.

FINDS CONTROL OF STRAWBERRY BORER

Poison baits for destroying adult strawberry crown borers is the newest wrinke in the control of this serious pest of Kentucky strawberry plants. The method was developed by P. O. Ritcher of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station.

It was found that many adult crown borer beetles can be killed by the bait before they have a chance to lay their eggs in the plants. In one field experiment eight applications of bait between April 11 and June 25 reduced the number of borer-infested plants by over 80 percent.

The bait consists of dried apple pomace or cannery refuse coated with either sodium flousilicate or common lead arsenate. A commercial preparation may be used or the grower can make his own from pomace left over from cidermaking. The bait is practical only on newly set patches; about one-half teaspoonful is dropped in the crown of each plant. One baiting is good for a week to 10 days and between 50 and 75 pounds will treat an acre patch.

OWL HOLLOW

James E. Smith left Tuesday for Ft. Thomas, where he enlisted in the Army. James has been a teacher in the Boone County school system for a number of years.

Wilbur Abdon spent the week-end with his family.

N. H. Clements, Sr., is entertaining his grandson, Worth, who is with the U. S. Army. He is enroute to the eastern coast for promotion.

NAVY MEN HAVE OPPORTUNITY TO STUDY USEFUL TRADE

Men who enlist in the U. S. Navy and the Naval Reserve not only have a chance to travel and see something of the world, but in addition, are given every opportunity to learn a useful trade.

The Navy Service Schools are available to men who have completed their recruit training and have been selected from applicants who aspire to the Navy ratings of Electrician's Mate, Fire Controlman, Gunner's Mate, Torpedoman, Aviation Ordanceman, Aviation Machinist's Mate, Aviation Metalsmith, Aviation Radioman, Radioman, Pharmacists' Mate, Signalman, Quatermaster, Yeoman, Store keeper, Machinist's Mate, Shipfitter, Metalsmith, Boilermaker, Molder, Carpenter's Mate, and Patternmaker. All naval training stations send men to these schools.

The courses of instruction are short but comprehensive. They are so planned as to give each student the foundation on which the career of a finished artisan can be built. The graduate's training is continued and rounded out by practical experience on board a vessel of the fleet where the Navy develops skilled personnel.

Graduates from these schools are constantly needed in the Navy to fill vacancies left by men who have been promoted or have completed their naval service. Since graduates are expected to fill petty officer ratings in the Navy, qualities of ambition, education and character from which leadership can be developed are required of applicants for these schools.

A graduate, who perseveres in his ambition to become a petty officer in the Navy, obeys regulations, keeps his record clear, and puts forth the proper effort, is sure to be successful.

If these things appeal to you as a career, call at the Navy Recruiting Station, Post Office Building, 7th and Scott Streets, Covington, Ky. You will be given the fullest information and all questions gladly answered.

CENTRAL 4-H SHOW TO HAVE 600 LAMBS

Approximately 600 lambs from 14 counties will be exhibited and sold at the Central Kentucky 4-H club lamb show and sale at Lexington June 14. There will be two classes—pens of 15, and single lambs. A total of $250 in cash will be divided among the winners. Juanita Haydon of Jessamine county had the champion 4-H lamb last year, and Clark county furnished the top pen. Miss Haydon's lamb brought 25 cents a pound, and the average price for all 4-H lambs was $13.15 a hundred.

MILLION DOLLARS COST OF BAD EGGS

Just plain bad eggs are costing Kentucky farmers a million dollars a year, it is estimated. This is a loss which could be largely prevented, according to Stanley Caton of the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics, who offers the following suggestions:

Sell or can the roosters; they are not needed after the hatching season. Fertile eggs don't keep well.

Produce clean eggs by keeping a lot of litter on the hen house floor and in the nests. There should be a nest for every four or five hens.

Cool eggs before putting them into cases. This can be done by putting them in wire or split hickory baskets in the cellar orSHR—cool place for a few hours.

Place eggs in the case small ends down, and keep the cases in a cool place.

Gather eggs at least three times daily in hot weather.

Take eggs to town at least three times a week.

Protect eggs from the sun while taking them to market.

Mr. Caton adds that he has found some storekeepers who don't give proper care to eggs after buying them.

Farm Purchasing Power Stabilized By Price Ceiling

The purchasing power of farm products will be stabilized at an opportune time, if the price ceiling regulation recently announced by Price Administrator Henderson has the anticipated effect of generally holding retail and wholesale prices at present levels, according to Dr. H. B. Price, head of the department of markets and rural finance of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

The prices received by farmers since July, 1941, have been the most favorable in relation to the cost of farming and farm family living of any comparable period since 1919, he declares. In these past 10 months the relation of prices received to prices paid by farmers has averaged about 100, or parity.

In other words, continues Dr. Price, the prices of farm products have been going up faster than the cost of farming and farm family living. This situation was especially true during 1941, which was a prosperous year generally for Kentucky farmers. More recently the prices of things that farmers buy have been advancing rapidly, thus tending to offset some of the earlier advantage of rising prices of farm products. The price ceiling regulation was issued in the expectation that it would stop this unfavorable development.

BEST LAMB MARKET LAST WEEK IN MAY

Lamb prices usually reach their peak the last week in May, according to a study made by the markets department of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. The general tendency is down after June 1.

Sheep raisers attending the annual spring sheep meeting at the Agricultural Experiment Station were told that most Kentucky lambs are not ready to sell until June and July. To make more money, producers should endeavor to have their lambs come earlier, so they can be sold in the latter part of May.

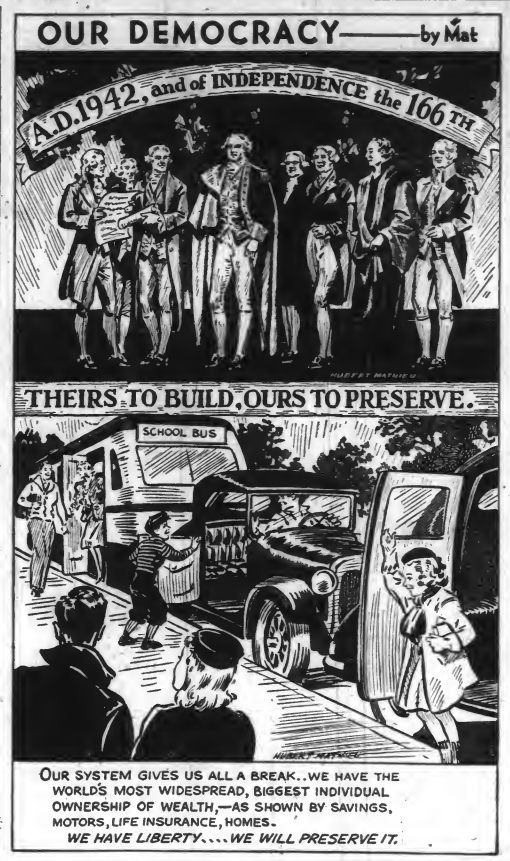
The need of pelts for aviation clothes will increase incomes from late lambs this year. By shearing late lambs the latter part of July, their wool should be about the right length when they are sold in October or November to permit the use of their pelts for the manufacture of suits for aviators.

To prevent growing chicks from piling during the night, low roosts should be installed when the chicks are three weeks old. The roosts can be made to fold back against the wall when not needed or when the house is to be cleaned.

On the basis of Purina Experimental Farm results, and using U.S.D.A. 10 year average prices, the yearly income from chickens per 100-hen capacity can be increased approximately $85, by starting four broods of chicks per year over the old-style plan of starting one brood a year.

Don't skimp on fresh air for chicks. They need it and it's cheap.

Late research has shown that vitamin G (flavin) is an essential part of the respiratory enzyme which plays an important part in the growth of chicks. If growing chicks do not get enough Vitamin G (flavin) in their feed, poor growth is the result.



The first six weeks, chicks need the best starting feed obtainable. By all means it should be fortified with Puratene, the rich pro-vitamin A concentrate; with Puri-flave, unusually rich in Vitamin G; and feeding oils that have had their Vitamin D content biologically checked by feeding them to baby chicks.

A new product introduced last spring has proved amazingly popular with local chicks raisers. Called Chek-R-Tabs, they are dissolved in baby chicks' drinking water at the rate of one tablet to each quart of water, to help prevent disease. They are obtainable from our local Purina distributor.

When chicks are three or four weeks old they outgrow chick-size feed hoppers. These should be replaced with larger hoppers and more of them. A four-weeks old chick is more than twice as broad as a baby chick and therefore, needs more than twice as much room.

The poultry raiser actually pays for a good growing mash whether he feeds one or not. Pullets improperly fed take longer to mature. This creates an egg loss—usually when egg prices are highest.

Letting young pullets "rustle" their own feed is very much like the Irish owner of a Terrier puppy. Not wanting to hurt the puppy too much, the Irishman cut off his tail a piece at a time. During war times especially, pullets need to have before them constantly one of the nationally recognized growing mashes.

This Week On The Home Front

Our nation at war on the seven seas is fast coming to grips with inflation at home.

With the General Maximum Price Regulation in effect and rent control an actuality in an increasing number of defense rental areas, the Office of Price Administration now finds itself in the thick of the fray.

While merchants work to comply with the price ceiling regulation, landlords in rent controlled communities this week are trying, a few with not very good grace, to reconcile their minds to the fact that OPA is not going to let them inflate rents.

For the retailer and the landlord, therefore, these are days of drastic adjustment to the necessities of a total war economy.

In the major departments of our emergency war effort on the domestic war effort on the domestic front, progress is reported.

* * *

OPA will begin this week a national checkup to see whether retail merchants are complying with the General Maximum Price Regulation by posting properly the selling and ceiling prices of the cost-of-living commodities. The Cleveland Regional Office which handles work on West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Michigan and Indiana, is now checking in Detroit. The OPA investigators will be in Columbus, Ohio, Charleston, West Virginia; and Louisville, Kentucky, in a few days. The checkup is officially described as educational, but records of results will be kept.

* * *

Process of adjusting pre-retail prices where retailers are being squeezed has begun. OPA is considered a "roll back" of wholesale prices of men and boys' work clothing at wholesale, manufacturing, and cloth stages. Maximum price of refined lard to wholesaler and retailer has been ordered cut back to the February level.

* * *

Government rent control is being gradually extended. During the past week, 24 additional defense rental areas were designated, bringing the total of designated areas to 366 with a population of 89 million people. March 1, 1942, is the maximum rent date for Mansfield, Ohio, area (Ashland, Crawford, and Richland Counties), and Parkersburg, West Virginia, area (Wood County in West Virginia and Washington County in Ohio).

* * *

Gasoline business is now brought into line with the General Maximum Price Regulation. Gas stations, by order of Price Administrator Leon Henderson. must post ceiling prices and the grade of gas, "premium, regular, third." The dealers must file their prices with the OPA on or before July 1.

* * *

A few days ago War Manpower Commission Chairman Paul V. McNutt released figures of the United States Employment Service showing that a growing army of physically handicapped men and women is taking a place in war production. "Performance records of handicapped men and women who have been hired in war industries," said Mr. McNutt, "—show clearly that in many occupations they produce as efficiently as the physically normal worker.

* * *

We cannot afford to waste manpower, nor can a nation fighting for the freedom of all permit discrimination against any group because of race or color or creed. The President's committee on fair employment practice, which has been hearing complaints that negroes weren't being trained to meet the shortage of shipyard workers in the Southeast, has called on educational authorities in Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, and Florida, to set up training courses for colored workers "in all major shipyard occupations."

* * *

Because we are pouring everything we have into the war effort, we are faced with shortages in vital materials, shortages which, according to WPB's Division of Materials, will grow more serious as the war progresses. This has meant and will continue to mean less and less for the civilian, widespread substitution, and an increasing necessity for getting scrap metals and other materials back to the processing plants.

That last necessity, more than ever before, indicates a spare-time job for each of us. WPB stresses the urgent need for civilian collection of scrap, especially metals and old rubber. Only by scraping the bottom of the barrel shall we have enough for victory. This was true some months ago, today, it is a matter of pressing, immediate, continual need. Unless we get in the scrap, furnaces will grow cold, and cold furnaces can lose wars.

* * *

The U. S. A. is going to have less melody so that our aviators may sing a song of destruction over Germany and Japan. A recent WPB order stops manufacture of almost all musical instruments in order that more guns may be fired, more bombs dropped. The 15,000 tons of war materials which went into pianos, saxophones and other musical instruments in 1940 would have supplied the iron for 11,500 6-ton army trucks, steel for 83 medium tanks, brass for 49,000,000 rounds of .30 calibre ammunition, copper for 500 155-mm field pieces, aluminum for 40,000 aircraft flares.

* * *

We're going to get along without any new carving sets, pen and pocket knives and manicuring scissors. WPB decided they aren't necessary in wartime, ordered their production stopped after June 30. WPB also cut, and sharply, manufacture of tableware and other cutlery.

Here's what the saving means in terms of metals and materials badly needed in the fight for freedom —6,000 tons of iron and steel, 2,000 tons of stainless steel, 600 tons of copper alloy, and smaller amounts of nickel, chrome, rubber and plastics.

* * *

The U. S. A. has put more materials and finished products into the United Nation's pool than any other of the democracies, because we have had more to give. We've sent and are sending vast quantities of weapons and supplies to our allies in the form of lend-lease shipments.

Now, however the adventure in cooperation is working both ways —we're getting help from these Allies as well as giving it. Lend-lease Administrator Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., the other day disclosed that the British are feeding our troops in Northern Ireland, furnishing them with supplies and building their camps and that Great Britain also has turned over much military equipment to us, including a complete gun factory.

Russia has sent us valuable data on building tanks and technical experts on explosives, Australia is serving our forces in the Far East. American warships are being repaired in British ports, just as British warships are repaired in American shipyards, and American airplanes are supplied at Australian airdromes. It's one for all and all for one, in the fight to lick the Axis.

Many orders for hybrid corn delivery already have been booked in Webster county.

OBITUARY

In the passing of John Jacob Lohline last week, Florence has lost a well beloved citizen. Mr. Lohline, whom everyone called Jake, was a carpenter and worked on many a building in Florence and Boone County for decades prior to his retirement. He was 79 years of age when he died.

Jake will always be remembered for his kind philosopherical personality, his kindliness and his good deeds to others.

His recollection of early Florence, or Stringtown on the Pike as it was then called, was very marvelous and he took pride in telling others of its history.

Younger generations and people from elsewhere are now building up Florence, but the kindly spirit of Jake will always linger on to the many friends he left behind.

His remains were interned in Hopeful cemetery, Florence.

He is survived by one daughter, Stella, of Florence, and nine nephews and three nieces.

DEARBORN COUNTY FAIR SET FOR AUGUST 24-29TH

The bigger and better Dearborn County Fair, which enjoyed such a tremendous success on their new location, last year, will be held this year August 24 to 29 inclusive, Lawrenceburg, Ind. It is not in the spirit of frivolity that this year's fair is planned by the American Legion, but rather with the hope that the fair might afford some relief to the strain and pressure under which all are laboring at this time; also that through the fair all efforts toward winning the war on the Home Front may be encouraged and helped to a successful conclusion.

A Week of The War

Army Air Forces Commander Arnold told a press conference in London that United States Fighter and bomber planes will soon join the British Air Force in bombing Germany. U. S. pilots will have their own air fields and ground crews, he said. "We shall hit the enemy hard and relentlessly until his military power has been broken," Gen. Arnold said. "It is obvious that no offensive against Nazi occupied Europe can succeed without air superiority and we mean to have it."

Army Services of Supply Chief Somervell, also in London, said U. S. and British officials are working on a program to standardize military equipment, including tanks and planes, so such equipment may be exchanged freely. Chief of Staff Marshall said American troops are "landing in England and they will land in France."

Production

Under Secretary of War Patterson reported the President's goal of 60,000 planes in 1942 will be surpassed "by a substantial margin," and tank and ammunition production are keeping pace with schedules. He said Army Ordnance monthly deliveries are 458 times as great as two years ago. The WPB said production of new machine tools is 72 percent above last year.

The House passed and returned to the Senate legislation setting up a smaller War Plants Corporation which would make loans to small firms to enable them to obtain war contracts. The Commerce Department issued suggested procedures for establishing Business Wartime Clinics to aid local business men in working out current problems of dislocation and changes in their businesses.

Army Expansion and Training

Chief of Staff Marshall announced there will be nearly 4,-500,000 soldiers under arms by the end of 1942 rather than 3,600,000 as originally planned at the start of the war. During the past four weeks alone the Army strength has been increased by 300,000 men, he said. The Civil Aeronautics Administration called for volunteers to be trained as glider pilots in the Army Air Forces. The glider training is open to men 18 to 35 holding pilot licenses of private grade or higher, to graduates of the CAA program and to pilots completing 200 or more glider flights.

The War Department said medical students who have completed advanced ROTC courses and have been accepted as matriculants in an approved school of medicine will be commissioned second lieutenants and placed on a deferred duty status. The Senate completed Congressional action on a bill increasing the number of cadets each member of Congress may appoint to the U. S. Military Academy from three to four, and increasing authorized strength of the Cadet Corps from 1,960 to 2,-496. The Army reported nine new infantry divisions will be organized before the end of August.

Selective Service

U. S. Commissioner of Education Studebaker reported about 430,000 men have been rejected for Army service so far because of illiteracy. Of these, 250,000 are physically fit. He said a program is being worked out to give the "functionally illiterate" basic training in reading, writing and arithmetic. The President told a press conference such rejects have a low mental level because of lack of opportunity. They need to be helped through improved nutrition and possibly through a manual vocational training process, he said.

Navy

The President asked Congress for an additional $600 million for expansion of naval aviation and of warship tonnage. The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill authorizing the Navy to acquire 24 non-rigid blimps, raising the present limit on the number of such ships to 72. The Navy Department authorized enlistment of 10,000 additional college juniors, seniors and graduates between 19 and 28 for Reserve midshipman training leading to commissions as ensigns.

The War Front

A Navy Communique reported U. S. submarines in Far Eastern waters sank two Japanese cargo ships, probably sank a third, and damaged one heavy cruiser. The Navy also announced the U. S. destroyer Blakely reached an undisclosed port with 10 of her crew missing and six injured after being torpedoed in the Caribbean area.

During the week the Navy reported one large, 11 medium-sized and four small United Nations merchant vessels (11 of U. S. registry,) and a U. S. trawler were torpedoed or sunk by shellfire in the Atlantic and Caribbean areas. Survivors were landed at East Coast and Caribbean ports. The State Department said the U. S. is abiding by the rules of the Geneva Prisoners of War Convention, and the German, Italian and Japanese Governments are apparently doing the same.

Civilian Supply

The WPB reported more than 400,000 scrapped automobiles from auto graveyards yielded 350,000 tons of scrap metal during April, approximately 200,000 tons more than the average monthly yield for 1941. The Board said American motorists have in the tires and the works of their automobiles a rubber reserve of about 1,-200,000 tons.

The WPB said Victory safety razor with a plastic handle, a zinc cap, and a zinc or plastic guard will go into production in a few months and will be offered to the public when the present supply is used up. The Board announced it invites specific inquiries from manufacturers as to how they may employ casein, a basic chemical made from skimmed milk, as a substitute product for scarce chemicals. Production of all musical instruments except violins, cellos and some guitars was halted. Piano manufacturers will turn out gliders, organ factories will make blowers for link gliders used in ground training of pilots, and factories which made french horns, trombones, trumpets, etc., will manufacture precision instruments for airplanes.

Rationing

Price Administrator Henderson said there will be more rationing of essential articles, but the country is a long way from a complete rationing system. He said there will be additional shortages in power, fuel reserves and transportation. WPB Automotive Division Chief Kanzler reported nationwide rationing of gasoline would help relieve potential rubber and automobile replacement parts shortages. Board Chairman Nelson said administrative difficulties will make it impossible to institute such gasoline rationing before July 1. The OPA reported the June ration quota for new passenger automobiles will be 40,000 plus carryover of unused quotas from March, April or May.

War Bond Sales

The Treasury said War Bond sales from May 1 to May 29 totaled $615 million, while the quota for the month was $600 million. April sales were $536 million. The June quota is $800 million, and the goal will be raised to $1,000 million in July. The Treasury said 1,000,000 retailers throughout the country are being asked to sell War Bonds and Stamps equaling the value of four percent of total merchandise sales in July, or approximately $160 million worth.

Labor Supply

The War Manpower Commission said it is considering a plan to bind management in critical labor areas to hire workers with certain skills through the U. S. Employment Service, in order to eliminate "piracy" in such areas. The Commission also said if workers refuse to accept suitable employment in war industries "without reasonable cause," the circumstances will be referred to the Selective Service System for consideration in connection with any request for occupational deferment.

LEVEL UP HEELS

If the heels of your shoes have become worn over, even an eighth of an inch, take them to the shop and have them "leveled." It is bad for your feet to wear worn-over heels, but it is not necessary to buy new heels immediately this happens. Having them leveled off will take care of the problem.—Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

With The Reds

Cincinnati—Uncertainty is one of the things that makes baseball such a great game. One never knows what's going to happen next, as evidenced by the events in Cincinnati. The Reds were feeling mighty blue after their Memorial Day doubleheader, as three players had been injured that day and four others also were on the disabled list. Bill McKechnie had only one 100 percent able outfielder and another still hurt but able to play for the twin bill the following afternoon.

Surely it looked like curtains for the Reds. The telephone lines were heated up in an effort to obtain some outfield help. A hurry call to Syracuse sent Clyde Vollmer, 20-year-old rookie on his way to Cincinnati, but Vollmer couldn't get there until after the first game started. Anyway, with a catcher in leftfield, the Reds won the first game, then in the second game, Vollmer pulled one of the greatest stunts in the history of the majors by swatting the first ball pitched to him on his first trip to the plate in his home town, over the left-field wall. That blow was all the Reds needed to change the entire aspect of the club, for everybody began to feel that the dark days were over. The Reds looked like an inspired ball club from that moment on.

Things like that can mean a lot to a ball club. Billy Myers' home run off Luke Hamlin, then with Brooklyn, late in 1939, was the blow that started the Reds off to the surge that produced their first penant. It was a stimulating sock that did more than yield victory.

It's too early to tell, of course, what effect Vollmer's sensational feat will have on the Reds, but the odds are that it will serve as the right kind of a tonic to help push the club up the ladder. Conditions are right for a climb, notwithstanding the siege of injuries. The Reds will be on their home lot until June 14, when they close their stand with a doubleheader against the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Tickets for all games are on sale at the ticket office at 307 Vine Street, Cincinnati.

HINTS ON THE CARE OF YOUR Vacuum Cleaner

Your electric vacuum cleaner speeds up housecleaning and helps prolong the life of rugs, draperies and upholstered furniture. It will serve you better and last longer if you follow these suggestions:

Empty dust bag every time cleaner is used. Dirt in the bag reduces power of suction.

Keep brushes free from lint and hair. Replace brushes if tufts become worn.

Avoid running cleaner over pins, nails, coins or other metal objects. Pick them up by hand.

Clean brushes, wipe off other attachments after using.

Follow manufacturer's instructions as to cleaning and oiling. Consult dealer from whom you purchased cleaner if you have lost instructions.

Vacuum rugs frequently. It removes embedded grit that cuts rug fibres under the pressure of constant walking.

Use hand cleaner or vacuum attachments to clean drapes and upholstered furniture. Don't use vacuum on down cushions. They don't like it.

If cleaner is not picking up threads, check belt to see if it is turning brush. If in doubt, replace belt.

Be sure that brush is properly adjusted. The bristles should extend an eighth of an inch below bottom of nozzle.

Official U. S. Treasury War Bond Quotas for June

The above map of the country shows the War Bond Quota by states for the month of June totalling $800,000,000. Everybody every pay day is expected to invest at least ten per cent of his income in War Bonds to aid in financing America's offensive against the Axis powers.

The ultimate quota for the nation will be on a basis of one billion dollars per month effective in July. This sum is necessary to provide for all-out production of planes, guns, ships and munitions adequate to arm our fighting men with the tools necessary to win the war.

OLDHAM GIRL WINS RECORDS CONTEST

Three things home accounts do, says Ruby G. Jesse, Oldham county, Kentucky winner of a blue ribbon in a national 4-H club accounting contest: They give facts on the cost of living; they show the value of a budget, and they improve buying ability.

Ruby lives with her parents and has completed six years of 4-H Club work which she values at $1,725. In recognition of her enterprise she will receive an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next November, which is provided through the cooperation of the International Harvester Company.

The glycerine produced as a by-product in making ten pounds of soap is the amount required for manufacturing six pounds of dynamite.

Gayety Theater News

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY

Just after signing the dramatic actress, Kaaren Verne, to a long term contract, Warner Bros. discovered that she can sing.

As a result her own excellent contralto is heard in two numbers in "All Though the Night," the new picture to be shown at the Gayety Theater in which she plays the part of a cafe singer opposite Humphrey Bogart.

The studio finds itself richly repaid for signing the young player, who is also playing an important role in "Kings Row."

• • •

SATURDAY

Freddie Rich, for more than ten years musical director for the Columbia Broadcasting System, wrote the original score for Paramount's romantic action picture, "Torpedo Boat." It was his first film work.

Rich personally conducted the orchestra for the film's scoring, it was announced by producers William Pine and William Thomas. The picture co-stars Richard Arlen and Jean Parker.

The exciting, swift-moving "Torpedo Boat" deals with the high adventure and romance in the lives of the men who design and build the Navy's swiftest—and tiniest—fighting ships.

• • •

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Gloria Warren, 15-year-old singing sensation, sings four numbers for her debut role in Warner Bros.' "Always In My Heart," which will be shown at the Gayety.

The aria "Uno Voce Poco Fa" from the "Barber of Seville," "Carnival of Venice," "Vieni Sul Mar," and "Always In My Heart," the picture's theme song. That song was especially written for her by Ernesto Leucona, and Max Rabinowitsh did the arrangement.

WED, THURS., AND FRIDAY

Sailors' sweetheart with a vengeance is beautiful Dorothy Lamour —not only in Paramount's gay new musical hit, "The Fleet's In," but in many another picture as well.

This is one of her best pictures and will be enjoyed by all who see this wonderful production.

STATE FIRE MARSHAL URGES CITIZENS TO PREVENT FIRES

Municipal authorities in every city in the State owe it to their citizens and to the nation at large to do everything possible to prevent fire losses at the present time, D. R. Peel, State Fire Marshal of Kentucky said in a statement released today.

"It always is the duty of public officials to try to protect the lives and property of their citizens," he said, "but today their obligation to do so is more urgent than ever. Fire is one of the greatest destroyers of lives and property. Fire under control is man's best friend, but fire that is out of control can be his worst enemy.

"Many communities are at work today building auxiliary fire fighting forces which may be needed to cope with enemy bombing attacks. Great as the destruction of property by aerial attack may be, it could hardly be more disastrous than the toll which fire takes in this country every year.

"Over a period of years, fire takes an annual toll of 10,000 lives and one-third of a billion dollars in property damage. Most fires result from negligence or carelessness. Just think how necessary those lives are to our present war emergency; and how large a quantity of bombers, tanks, anti-aircraft guns, or other fighting equipment could be purchased with the money which annually is wasted in fire losses.

"Most cities today have at least fairly good fire departments and water supplies. Few of them, however, have another instrument that is necessary to control fire—a modern fire prevention ordinance. A fire prevention ordinance permits fire department members to discover conditions which may lead to serious fires and to cause them to be eliminated. Included are sections on controlling the storage and use of explosives and flammables; the installation and maintenance of private fire alarm systems and fire extinguishing equipment; regulation and maintenance of fire escapes; requiring that places of public assemblage have adequate exit facilities, properly indicated and free of obstructions; and investigation of the origin and cause of fire.

"During the last few critical months, twenty cities in ten States have adopted model ordinances and more than a hundred now are working toward their enactment. No matter how large or how small the community, if it does not already have a fire prevention ordinance, it is part of its duty to our country today to see that an adequate one is put into effect."

Hay And Pasture Prospects Good In Boone County

Crop prospects in Boone County are the best in years, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Favorable rains in recent weeks have greatly improved hay and pasture prospects. New grass and clover seedings have made the best showing in four years. Most corn planting has been done and tobacco transplanting is well under way.

Farmers in most sections of the county were busy setting tobacco the first of this week. Warm nights cloudy days and abundance of rain have been most favorable for good stands. The rains over the week-end were especially heavy in sections. Farmers on the south side of Verona Monday had an excellent tobacco season, while around Verona it was so dry as to require water in transplanting, and farther north a good season was had.

Unusual heavy rains recently caused considerable washing of the soil in Richwood, Idlewild and other sections of the county. The rains as a whole have been good.

MONEY TALKS
by
Frederick W. Stamm, Economist and Director of Adult Education University of Louisville

The farmers of this country are likely to benefit more than they will lose from the recent price stabilization order, the Department of Agriculture said last week.

"It is probable," the Department reported in its monthly review of the farm income situation, "that the price order will affect prices paid by the farmers more than prices received for products sold so that the purchasing power of farm income during 1942 may be increased by price stabilization." You may recall that in the recent price stabilization order a rigid ceiling was placed on manufactured goods but the ceiling on farm products was made flexible. Thus we may expect a further rise in farm prices.

Cash income from farm marketings in April, 1942, totaled $973,000,000 as compared with $665,000,000 received in April, 1941. This was a 46 percent increase.

The nation's farmers received in April $263,000,000 from crops and $710,000,000 from all livestocks. In this month cash income from meat animals total $366,000,000; dairy products brought in $189,000,000; and poultry and eggs totaled $134,000,000.

The Department further stated that the total cash marketings of farm products from January to April, 1942, totaled $3,712,000,000 which was 49 percent higher than the first four months of 1941.

The outlook for the farmers remains excellent. The production on farm crops is much higher than that of last year, and prices are also on the increase. It appears that farm income this year will be about 50 percent higher than it was last year. If the present trend continues (and I believe it will), our farmers will receive the greatest cash income in the history of this country.

BOONE COUNTY HOME NURSING CLASSES

The home nursing class at Hamilton is progressing nicely, with the following members attending: Miss Mary Lou Jones, Miss Jeanette Edwards, Miss Ella Ruth Black, Miss Dorothy Shields, Mrs. Orene Black, Mrs. Carrie Ogden, Mrs. Edith Jones, Mrs. Mildred Carroll, Mrs. Mary Edwards, Mrs. Allie Baum, Mrs. Lena Binder, Mrs. Bertha Huff, Mrs. Sallie Moore and Mrs. Dora Jones.

The classes are held in the Hamilton school gymnasium where it is very cool. It is particularly fine that we have a fine place to meet, due to the fact that some of the ladies have walked several miles to the class.

This class is conducted for Big Bone and East Bend neighborhoods. Several more persons could be taken into the class as we are able to care for twenty. New persons may join next Wednesday, June 17 and can make up lost time. The meetings are held at 2:30 Eastern War Time.

U. C. SUMMER SESSION TO OPEN JUNE 22ND

The first summer session in the history of the University of Cincinnati Evening College will open the week of June 22, Dean Norman P. Auburn announced today.

All courses on the agenda will stress problems growing out of the war and many are designed especially to prepare men and women for service in the armed forces and for war industry.

All classes meet two nights a week and carry full college credit. Many students will be able to speed the day of their college graduation through the accelerated six-week program, Dean Auburn said.

Regular registration will be held from 6 to 9 p. m. June 18, 19 and 20 and the Evening College offices will be open the entire week of June 15 to consult with Cincinnatians on study problems.

A special invitation has been issued by U. C. officials to residents of Boone County to confer on the program which includes courses in engineering, commerce, liberal arts and applied arts.

A NEW STATE LAW BECOMES EFFECTIVE

In response to the urgent request of the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy and the Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, the American Social Hygiene Association and its affiliates, are assuming responsibility for stimulating adequate State and local enforcement of the recently enacted law, "Relating to Prostitution, Lewness and Assignation" which went into effect in Kentucky Tuesday, June 2nd.

This law is designated to close segregated districts and eliminate such other vice conditions as endanger the health and welfare of our armed forces, industrial workers and the civilian population in general.

Among the young men of the Army and Navy, veneral disease produces more disability than any other single cause, and among industrial workers, it is one of the most serious causes of disability and inefficiency. Remember, soldiers, sailors and industrial workers do not become infected in camp, on board ship, or at the work bench, but in the communities they visit in their leisure time. If we are to keep our fighting and production forces free of veneral diseases, we must first eliminate sources of infection among the civilian population.

Governor Keen Johnson has issued a statement calling on the State and local health officials, all courts and law enforcement officers, all welfare agencies and every citizen in the Commonwealth to inform themselves on this important measure and lend every assistance to prevent prostitution in Kentucky.

This law, which was enacted on March 3rd, was sponsored by the Social Hygiene Association of Kentucky, 620 South Third Street, Louisville, where further information regarding the measure may be obtained.

The help of everyone is needed to keep our communities clean and safe, not only for our armies in field and factory, but for the protection of the young men and women at home.

HERE'S HOW TO SAVE ON COFFEE

Coffee already is becoming a scarce commodity—stocks on hand are near normal, but imports may be limited for the war's duration. Therefore use of coffee must be restricted and perhaps rationed. At present, merchants are allowed only 75 percent of normal stocks and must pass the cut on to buyers.

The home economics department of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics gives the following information on coffee to "make it last:"

1. After being in a warm kitchen, coffee may lose almost half its original strength. Therefore, after the coffee can has stayed in a warm room, it takes twice as much to make a given amount to drink as it would if the coffee were properly kept . . . In other words, the home economics department urges keeping ground coffee in a cool cellar or in the icebox.

2. If you are using a large pot to make two cups of coffee, it is wasteful. The lay user may not realize it, but by test a 2 or 4 cup pot requires less coffee to make the same strength of drink. Use the large pot only when necessary.

3. Fresh coffee has more strength than coffee that has been on the shelves a long time. Buy where the turnover is rapid.

4. Soon tins for coffee will not be made; it will be packed in paper, glass or cardboard. By using proper care, this need make no difference.

5. Don't make more coffee than you need and then throw some away. Also, start now to make coffee less strong and get used to it gradually.

BUILDING PROBLEM IN STORING GRAIN

Because of the lack of public storages, many Kentucky farmers are faced with the necessity of public bins on their farms this season. A circular prepared by Prof. J. B. Kelley, head of the agricultural engineering department of the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics, stresses the importance of having grain as dry as possible when stored. Wheat, for instance, should have a moisture content of less than 14 percent. This will mean that treshing or combining cannot be done on damp days.

Thorough cleaning and fumigating to destroy weevil and other insects will be necessary where old bins are used. New bins should be so constructed that they can be fumigated.

To save materials, most farmers will make bins in tobacco barns, stock barns, cribs or other buildings. Consideration should be given to the fact that wheat, rye and corn are heavy. This means there should be good footings and strong joists, girders and walls.

Rat proofing is advisable, although not required by the government, due to shortage of metals. Bins should be so located and constructed that the grain can be measured.

Copies of Prof. Kelley's circular, which gives details on grain storage and bin construction, can be obtained from county agents or by writing to the college at Lexington.

DISPELLING THE FOG
By Charles Michelson

Civilian morale is an intangible, but nevertheless vital element in national defense.

Hence the warnings from military and governmental authorities that we should not be unduly elated by reason of recent heroic accomplishments of our forces in the South Pacific and elsewhere. When Japan made her terrific lunges that resulted in her conquest of the various British strongholds and Philippines, the Dutch East Indies, colonial possessions, we were likewise cautioned not to be unduly depressed by these reverses.

What the President and others have been doing is to impress on our people that this is a hard war; probably a long war. In the course of it, ups and downs must be expected. We are not arming millions of men, building up a super navy, creating hundreds of thousands of fighting planes, tanks, and guns for any easy conflict or one to be decided by a single victory anywhere. What the enemy has taken must be retaken in the faces of forces beyond anything the world has ever known, and the process of backing the enemies from their vantage points one by one, until they are forced to the final stand precedent to the war's end, is bound to be arduous.

During this gruelling period it is part of war strategy to maintain the spirit of the people at home.

They are hungry for victories, naturally; they scan the newspapers every morning hoping to find therein news of triumphs. Under such circumstances it is logical that our gains should be over assayed; just as natural as that when the news is the other way about discouragement appears in some quarters, at least. Such extremes of emotion are anything but good for us.

On the other hand, there is concern expressed for the country's complacency; a feeling that people have not yet realized the seriousness of the struggle. They are, of course, all determined that we must win, but so far have been rather passive than inflamed to do each his uttermost in the war effort. That too is natural. The country has not yet felt the impact of the catastrophic assault on liberty. Its hardships—and all war means hardship—have been limited to a little heavier taxation; to rationing of sugar and gasoline and such matters that are accepted as an interesting experience, so why, ask the people should we be expected to give up our ordinary diversions and change our habits of life?

Americans "Can Take It"

That is only a passing phase. When the bigger sacrifices are called for we may be sure that they will be accepted with even less grumbling than the half-pound of sugar allowance or the restrictions in the interest of rubber-saving on automobile pleasure driving. Actually, the grouching over the gasoline business was not much of a complant of the thing itself but was devoted mainly to resentment because some people were supposed to be getting more than a fair share of the suddenly precious fluid.

It might help some if spokesmen for the isolationist faction and other anti-Roosevelt statesmen developed a little complacency themselves.

Recently one newspaper published a hideous story involving a Senator. This was hailed as part of a monstrous plot against the whole group of those who opposed the President's preparedness measures. I doubt if anybody in the administration or in the Democratic organization ever heard of the story until it was published—and given wide circulation by the Chicago Tribune, newspaper junta under guise of defending the Senator. Even if word of the thing had reached the Government what could have been done about it? There resides no power in or out of the administration that can tell a newspaper what it can or cannot print, any more than it can dictate the contents of the columns of the newspapers that are constantly assailing it. The liberty of the press, which those papers are constantly proclaiming to be in danger, would certainly be nullified if the Government attempted anything of the sort.

The libel laws are supposed to take care of the publication of wanton falsehoods both criminally and civilly.

It Can't Be Done in a Hurry

But to get to the matter of civilian morale: In this country as in England there is rising a demand for a swift, if not an immediate assault on the Axis powers—an attack in force on Germany's Western front or something equally dramatic and decisive. In all probability that is bound to come about, but it cannot be undertaken until it can be done with certainty of success. The arm-chair strategists may visualize such a move, but the men who must direct it have to consider such problems as transportation and supply. It would take, probably, more allied ships than are now on all the oceans to provide for a million or two million men—to get them to their destination, in the first place, and secure for them food, ammunition and war machines in an unbroken stream.

Undoubtedly the enemy realizes the inevitability of such an attack, and in connection with their preparations for world conquest, which they were ten intensive years in completing, have made ready their resistance plans. We have to assume that our officers whose life business it has been to deal with such problems are developing our own program of aggression.

Meanwhile, we are launching something like two ships a day, are turning out planes and tanks and guns in volume so vast that the Axis spokesmen are calling our actual production a myth and an impossibility.

It is hard to wait, of course, but we have a job to do, and it can't be done in a hurry.

Hitler has been turned back from what he thought was a walk-over in Russia, and the part that the war things we sent to Muscovy played in the Russian campaign has not yet been told. Our people will have to be patient while they await the great day.

U. S. O. DRIVE BIG SUCCESS

QUOTA TO BE OVER-SUBSCRIBED IN FINAL COUNT IS BELIEF OF CHAIRMAN, WALTER FERGUSON

Final tabulation on the U. S. O. drive here last week shows that Boone County will reach the $1,000 goal and it is highly probable that the goal will be over-subscribed before all collections have been reported.

According to a statement made Tuesday afternoon by Chairman Ferguson, all but three communities had been reported and all indications lead to the belief that the quota would be reached and probably over-subscribed.

It is imperative now, that all contributions and pledges be paid at once to A B. Renaker, secretary, in order that a final tabulation can be made and final report be sent to New York. If you have any funds for this campaign, please contact Mr. Ferguson or Mr. Renaker at once as this money must be turned in as soon as possible.

Mr. Ferguson stated that he was forced to withhold a detailed report on the drive until all collections were made, but that a complete report on the entire county would be forthcoming next week.

Mowing Of Pastures Brings Improvements

The mowing of pastures just before most of the weeds bloom is a great aid in pastute improvement, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Research work shows that this practice not only side in weed control but increases the productivity and nutrional value of the pastures. It also greatly improves the looks of the farm.

The importance of pasture mowing was stressed by the leaders in the New Haven Agricultural Improvement Program of Work plans made early last spring. J. W. Huey, one of the leading farmers of near Union, was selected as propect leader on this work. Mr. Huey considers the timely mowing of pastures one of the most important jobs on the farm.

Now is an ideal time to mow pastures. Bluegrass seed is mature and if mowed will fall down to reseed. Most of the noxious weeds as oxeye-daisy, buckhorn plantian, and other weeds are blooming. Pasture mowing can be done when it is too wet to do other farm work. Farmers who can find other time should mow pastures at their earliest opportunity.

R. J. Akin is suffering from a strained arm this week, but is improving at this writing.

DOG OWNERS ARE WARNED

TO KEEP PETS CONFINED FOLLOWING SECOND OUTBREAK OF RABIES—CLEM KENDALL BITTEN SUNDAY.

Dog owners throughout Boone County were warned again this week by Sheriff J. T. Williams to keep their dogs confined, leashed or muzzled, due to a second outbreak of rabies in this section of the State.

Clem Kendall, of near Florence was attacked Sunday by a rabid dog. After Mr. Kendall was bitten the dog was killed and its head sent to the University of Kentucky for examination. A report received from the University Tuesday morning stated the dog proved positive for rabies.

Mr. Kendall is taking the pasteur treatment or anti-rabic treatment.

Another report was received here Tuesday morning from the East Bend neighborhood that a dog had been killed there, which was thought to be rabid.

Health authorities and County officials are requesting all persons owning pets to keep them in a kennel until the present outbreak of rabies has subsided. By following this order it is hoped that the disease will be checked.

Persons owning valuable dogs should have them vaccinated by a veterinarian. This vaccine prevents dogs from contracting rabies if given before being bitten by a rabid dog. The serum, however, does not destroy the germ if given after a dog has been bitten.

Painter Suffers Broken Arm In Fall

Gene Gordon, of Petersburg suffered a broken right arm Monday afternoon when he fell from a ladder while painting the ceiling of Burlington Methodist Church. The accident occurred when a ladder on which he was standing slipped from a bench, throwing him to the floor.

Mr. Gordon was employed to redecorate the interior of the local church.

$380.98 RECEIVED BY RED CROSS

FROM SALE OF TOBACCO AT CARROLLTON—HAND OF TOBACCO TAKEN FROM EACH BASKET FOR RED CROSS.

The Boone County Chapter, American Red Cross, has received the sum of $380.98 representing this County's participation in the fund created by the sale of tobacco in Carrollton, Kentucky. A hand of tobacco was taken from each basket after it was weighed at the tobacco warehouses in Carrollton and this tobacco was later sold for the benefit of the American Red Cross. Through the generous cooperation of the tobacco warehouses in Carrollton, the tobacco buyers, the tobacco companies, the Carrollton Board of Trade, and the Carroll County Chapter of The American Red Cross, this fund was made available.

Checks were delivered to the Boone County Chapter, American Red Cross by the three tobacco warehouses, from the Marshall-Harris Tobacco Warehouse Company $73.87, from the Big Burley Warehouse Company $39.31, and the Carrollton Tobacco Warehouse Company $267.80.

The Boone County Chapter of the American Red Cross wishes to express their appreciation for this splendid cooperation by the tobacco warehouses of Carrollton, and the other organizations and persons who made this fund possible.

Miss Anna Marie Gaines

Miss Anna Marie Gaines, 77, passed away at her home in Hebron, Tuesday morning. Funeral services will be conducted at the Hebron Lutheran Church, Thursday at 2 p. m. by Rev. J. W. Campbell

She is survived by two nieces, Mrs. Henry Souther and Mrs. Lee Aylor; two cousins, Mrs. Laura Jasper, of Richmond, Ky., and Mrs. George Kreylich.

Chambers and Grubbs, Walton funeral directors were in charge of arrangements.

Citizens Bank Announce Saturday Afternoon Closing

The Citizens Bank, of Grant, announced this week that the bank will close promptly at 12:00 noon on Saturdays during the months of June, July and August.

This announcement follows several of the other banks and business establishments in Boone County to close on Saturday afternoons during these three summer months. All patrons are asked to kindly cooperate with this change in banking hours.

FLORENCE HOMEMAKERS

The regular meeting of the Florence Homemakers will be held at the Town Hall, Florence, on Friday, June 19th at 10:30 a. m. All members are urged to be present.

SCRAP RUBBER DRIVE BEGINS

BOONE COUNTIANS ASKED TO TURN IN SCRAP RUBBER TO HELP UNCLE SAM AND UNITED SERVICE ORGANIZATION.

Mr. and Mrs. America, here's your chance to help in a big way to win this war. You've got scrap rubber, millions of pounds of it, lying unused and discarded in your attics and cellars, barns and garages and farmyards. Uncle Sam needs it quick to keep our planes flying, and our tanks pushing forward, and our army rolling on to smash the Axis!

That torn pair of rubber gloves is just so much junk to you . . . but 10 pounds of them, converted, are equal to 8 pounds of crude rubber! That big old tire the kids are using for a swing equals 6 pounds of crude rubber. Old inner tubes turn up with a great big conversion value of 67 pounds for every 100 pounds of worthless scrap!

County-wide Collection Plan

Sure, you've got the rubber and you're anxious to help! Now a plan has been worked out in cooperation with the County Committee of the War Production Drive for Waste Collection, whereby your rubber scrap goes to Uncle Sam without any collection cost to the Government. You just drop it off at your nearest Coca-Cola dealer . . . whether it's a grocery store, restaurant, drug store, refreshment stand or delicatessen. That place is a collection station. When the Coca-Cola truck calls on its regular round, the scrap will be loaded into a special container, and hauled to the proper salvage depot for reclamation. No extra truck trips, no extra mileage for anybody

All Proceeds to the U. S. O.

All the proceeds from the sale of scrap rubber to the salvage depots will be turned over to the U. S. O., the great war-time service organization that does so much good for our boys away from home.

Let's make this county a leader in pouring every scrap of disused and wornout rubber we can find into the nation-wide Victory Pool of Scrap Rubber!

Nothing's too small, too wornout, to contribute. The list is endless. See how many of the things in this list you can find around your place . . . and how many things you can add to the list. The need is vital and urgent . . . turn in your scrap rubber today.

Hot water bottles, rubber tubing, rubber heels, rubber soles, rubber boots, overshoes, rubber aprons, wornout tires, garden hose, rubber toys, rubber sponges, old inner tubes, rubber gloves, rubber sheeting, rubber cushions, rubber cane tips rubber crutch tips, rubber girdles, rubber sink mats, auto floor mats, old stair treads, bathing caps, rubber rain coats, rubber jar rings, weather stripping, rubber soap dishes, rubber ice bags, rubber buckets, bathing shoes.

Wayman Reunion Set For Sunday, June 28

"The Wayman Family of 300" will hold a reunion at Pleasure Isle, State Route 17, 3-L Highway, about eight miles south of Covington, Sunday, June 28.

This will be the first family reunion of the Waymans since Aren Wayman and wife, Rosalin, came on horseback and settled at Fowler's Creek and Banklick Creek, Independence Hill, in 1775 His descendants have settled in various parts of the United States, and every effort is being made to notify them of this reunion.

The 10-cent admission to the grounds will be refunded by the clerk of the day, and buses will leave from Covington for Pleasure Isle. Relatives who cannot attend should send name and address to Rel C. Wayman, 623 Washington St., Covington, Ky.

PHYSICAL REQUIREMENTS LOWERED BY U. S. NAVY

The Navy Recruiting Station, Covington, Kentucky announced today that physical requirements have been greatly lowered for the U. S. Naval Reserve. All who are interested in enlisting call at the Navy Recruiting Office, Post Office Bldg., 7th and Scott St., Covington, Ky. Office hours are from 8:00 a. m. to 10:00 p. m. daily. On Sunday from 8:00 a. m. to 10:00 p. m.

Utopia Club Holds Outdoor Meeting

Boone County Utopia Club members will hold an out-of-doors meeting this Thursday evening, June 18th, according to Elva Akin, Club reporter.

The chairman of the County Civilian Defense Board has been invited to address the club on Civilian Defense Needs and Progress.

The program planning committee for the last half of the year will submit its report to the club. The committee is composed of Elva Akin, J. O. Griffith, Wilton Stephens, Mary Rector, Lucille Cotton and John Crigler.

Florence Baptist Church To Hold All-Day Meeting June 21

There will be a Home Coming and welcoming service at the Florence Baptist Church on Sunday, June 21st, it was announced by Joseph Rouse, Supt.

The all-day meeting will be in honor of the new pastor, Rev. Harold Wainscott, who was called to begin his pastorate on June 14, 1942.

A basket dinner will be served in the basement of the church building at the noon hour, followed by some very prominent guest speakers from the association in the afternoon services.

The public is invited to attend.

REGISTRATION SET JUNE 30TH

FOR ALL MALE PERSONS BETWEEN THE AGES OF 18 AND 20 — FOUR REGISTRATION POINTS ANNOUNCED.

Boone County youths between the ages of 18 and 20 years will be required to register under the Selective Service Act, on Tuesday, June 30th. Registration will begin at 7 a. m. and continue until 9 p. m. Eastern War Time.

Places for registration in Boone County will be as follows:

Florence—Building & Loan Bldg.
New Haven—School building.
Burlington—Courthouse.
Walton—School building.

The following proclamation was issued by the Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky:

To all to whom these presents shall come:

WHEREAS, the President of the United States of America has issued a Proclamation setting the date of Tuesday, June 30, 1942, for the registration of all male persons residing within the United States, other than persons excepted by Section 5(a) of the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended by the Act of December 20, 1941 (Public Law 360, 77th Congress, 55 Stat. 844), who have attained their eighteenth or nineteenth birthday on or before June 30, 1942, or their twentieth birthday after December 31, 1941, and on or before June 30, 1942, and

WHEREAS, a state of war now exists between the United States of America and the Empire of Japan, Germany and Italy, and

WHEREAS, this and other registrations under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940 and the amendment thereto, will be required to insure victory, complete and final, over the enemies of the United States,

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Keen Johnson, Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, do hereby proclaim and

Call upon all state, county and municipal officials and members of Boards of Education, upon the members of the American Legion and all other Veteran organizations and their auxiliaries, and upon other patriotic societies and upon all civic organizations and upon all superintendents and teachers in the schools in the Commonwealth and upon all other citizens, to assist in and perform all acts and services necessary to accomplish effective and complete registration under the direction of the Chairmen of all Local Selective Service Boards in the various counties of Kentucky, and to volunteer their services and all public facilities, such as court houses, public buildings and polling places, for use in connection therewith.

FATHER'S DAY TO BE OBSERVED AT BIG BONE BAPTIST CHURCH SUNDAY

Special services will be given in observation of Father's Day at the Big Bone Baptist Church next Sunday. All fathers are urged to be present.

377 LEADERS TO AID IN PROGRAM

WILL CONTACT FARM FAMILIES IN COST OF LIVING CONTROL PROGRAM—TRAINING MEETINGS SET.

Three hundred and seventy-seven Boone County leaders have been appointed to contact 2027 farm families and 1397 non-farm families in our National Inflation Control and Cost of Living Control educational program, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Each leader will contact between five and ten families in his neighborhood and each non-farm leader will contact between 15 and 20 families in his or her town group.

Ten community leaders' training meetings will be held during the next two weeks in order to give leaders additional educational material and supplies for family visits. A schedule of these meetings is as follows, with all time listed as Eastern War Time:

Hebron, June 15, 9:00 p. m., Hebron school.
Grant, June 16, 8:30 p. m., Grant school.
Florence, June 17, 8:30 p. m. at Town Hall.
Burlington, June 19, 8:30 p. m., County Agent's office.
Verona, June 20, 9:00 p. m., at Verona school.
Walton, June 22, 9:00 p. m., Dixie State Bank.
Constance, June 23, 9:00 p. m., Constance school.
Petersburg, June 24, A:00 p. m., Petersburg school.
New Haven, June 25, 9:00 p. m., New Haven school.
Hamilton, June 30, 9:00 p. m., Hamilton school.

The understanding and necessity of the plans for the President's seven point control program by every family, whether rural or urban, is considered necessary for fullest cooperation in the war on the Home Front. The seven points in the program are: (1) Tax heavily and hold profits down; (2) fix ceilings on wholesale and retail prices; (3) stabilize wages paid to workers; (4) stabilize prices received by farmers; (5) encourage the purchase of War Bonds; (6) ration essential commodities that are scarce; (7) discaurage credit, installment buying. Pay off debts.

The seven point program may be summed up under three major headings:

1. Removal of surplus buying power through taxation, purchase of war bonds, paying cash for purchases and paying off debts.
2. Stabilize wages and prices.
3. The rationing of commodities to insure equitable distribution.

Osborn's Dept. Store Looted Thursday Night

Thieves entered the Osborn Department Store, Florence, sometime Thursday night and were successful in getting away with approximately $100 in merchandise.

The loot consisted of shoes, clothing, rifle cartridges, shotgun shells, cigarettes and tobacco.

Sheriff J. T. Williams was called to the store, and after a thorough investigation reported that entrance was gained through a rear window, but no clues were left as to the identity of the thieves.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Murray and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Glemron visited the Brittons on Tuesday evening. They drove out after a delightful dinner at the White Swan in Erlanger.

Sorry to hear that Bill Rudicill lost his fine pointer birddog last week. Many an enjoyable day has this writer spent with Bill and "Queen" in the great outdoors when the quail season was in full swing. Bill is a fine companion in the field and had as good a birddog as there was in the county.

Theimann Bros. Restock Lake With Catfish

Thieman Brothers' Lake, located one-half mile north of Hebron was restocked with a large number of channel cats last Sunday, according to the operators, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Menzes.

The lake has recently been cleaned of moss and is now in splendid shape for fishing. Tables and benches are prepared for those desiring to serve picnic lunches.

The public is cordially invited to spend the day fishing and picnicking here. Their advertisement appears on another page of this issue.

Vacation Bible School Being Well Attended

The Vacation Bible School at the Burlington Baptist Church opened Monday morning with a splendid attendance, eighty-two being presen the first day. This number had increased to 88 the second day.

Boys and girls throughout this section are invited to attend and enjoy this fine work. Every father and mother should be interested in seeing that their children attend.

The school will continue until Wednesday, June 24th. On the night of June 24th commencement will be held, and all are invited to attend.

Workers in the various departments deserve much praise for their cooperation in this work.

Youths Arrested Here Wanted In Kenton On Hold-Up Charge

Harding Mallicoat, 22 and Dennis Turner, 20, arrested here last week by Sheriff J. T. Williams, were identified by Herman Cushmen, operator of the Spur Station, Erlanger, as the men who held up his service station on the night of February 22.

Mallicoat and Turner are being held here on a hold-up charge and will be tried at the next session of the Boone Circuit Court.

KNITTERS ARE STILL NEEDED

BY RED CROSS—WILL SUPPLY GARMENTS TO SOLDIERS IN ICELAND AND OTHER FIELDS WHERE NEEDED.

Mrs. Joseph A. Huey, Chairman of the War Production Committee of the local chapter of the American Red Cross, says that we need still more knitters! If you are not now knitting for the Red Cross, please contact your community chairman of local Red Cross workers and ask for some yarn.

In response to numerous inquiries, R. R. Guthrie, Chief of the Textiles, Clothing and Leather Goods Branch, explained today the official position of the War Production Board on the question of women knitting sweaters for soldiers and sailors.

"The War Production Board," said Mr. Guthrie, does want women to knit sweaters where absolutely needed by the armed forces and where the commanding officers asked for the supplies.

"It is our opinion that the average sailor and soldier is adequately clothed by the Government and doesn't need additional clothing. However, there are exceptions. Our boys in Iceland are such an exception. They can make good use of additional clothing. The same may be true of soldiers sent into the field on long campaigns.

"On the whole we don't want a broad wave of knitting that will consume millions of pounds of wool that is needed for more essential purposes.

"This is the system we have set up with the Red Cross. When a commanding officer desires such additional clothing as sweaters, he will apply to the Red Cross, the Red Cross will then arrange for the sweaters to be knitted.

"In this way, every sweater knitted will serve a good purpose and there will be no waste of material, to say nothing of the labor of patriotic women. We welcome the cooperation of women in knitting for the armed forces the things they need, after the commanding officers have informed the Red Cross of these needs."

Allie Lawrence

Funeral services for Allie Lawrence, retired Grant County farmer, who died Friday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Powers Conrad, Walton, Ky., were conducted at 2:30 Sunday afternoon at the Chambers and Grubbs funeral home, Walton. Burial was in the Williamstown cemetery.

Mr. Lawrence, who was 66 years old, had been a resident of Grant County most of his life.

He is survived by three other daughters, Mrs. Florian Link, Keefer, Mrs. Katherine Zulager, Covington and Miss Etta Lawrence, New York; a brother, Joe Lawrence, Cincinnati; two half-brothers John and Joseph Lawrence, Dayton, O.; a half sister, Mrs. Heidenraich, Dayton, Ohio and nine grandchildren.

COURT RULES ON AIRPORT PLAN

HOLDING COMPANY PLAN UNCONSTITUTIONAL COURT OF APPEALS CONTENDS—ADVISE OTHER PLANS.

Kenton's County's plan to buy an airport site through a holding company was banned by the Kentucky Court of Appeals last week on the contention the debt thus incurred would exceed the county's constitutional limit.

The court said the war emergency "tends to induce us to stretch every nerve and even the constitution" to enable the project to be carried out. It added, however, that approval would not only stretch the constitution, but would be "tearing it completely asunder" and advised the county to try another way.

Passing on another phase of the test case, the high court upheld the right of a county to acquire land outside its own area for airport purposes. It said there was no constitutional ban against such authority granted by the 1942 General Assembly.

Kenton appropriated $50,000 to aid in purchasing an airport site in Boone County and formed a holding company to buy the land. Not having cash to pay for it, Kenton Fiscal Court agreed to pay the holding company for the land at the rate of $13,000 a year for 20 years from the rentals to be received from operating the airport, and pledged it would pay the sums stipulated whether or not the rentals were sufficient.

Establishment of such a debt, exceeding the county's revenue for the year in which it was contracted for, and without approval of two-thirds of the voters in an election, would violate Section 157 of the State Constitution the court said.

The test case was brought by John H. Richards, a Kenton County taxpayer. The opinion upheld Kenton Circuit Court's ruling against the debt but overrode that court's judgment that the county could not buy land outside its own territory.

REV. HUGHEY TO FILL FLORENCE METHODIST CHURCH PULPIT SUNDAY

Rev. Hughey will preach at the morning service Sunday at the Florence Methodist Church. No evening service will be held, Rev. F. E. Mosley, pastor, announced this week.

The Church will celebrate its 100th anniversary on July 19th.

SHEEP DIPPING SERVICE STARTS

MONDAY, JUNE 22, ACCORDING TO COUNTY AGENT — REQUESTS FOR SERVICE NUMEROUS.

The Carroll County Sheep Dipping Service will begin work in Boone County on Monday, June 22, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. This is about two weeks earlier than was formerly planned.

Already requests have been received for the dipping of more than one thousand head. Approximately seventy-five head are dipped per hour, after the equipment is set up. This means that approximately two days work to date has been requested.

The Cooper's dip used gives protection from ticks, lice and mites for one year. The control of external parasites results in an average of about one pound more wool per sheep. Most of our flocks are infested with these parasites which cause heavy losses of wool, and bad conditions of sheep and lambs each year.

Sheepmen for the past two years in planning their improvement programs have requested the service of a dipping vat. Few sheepmen can afford a dipping vat, or if they had a vat could not dip as cheap as this service is offered. The cost is ten cents per head for old sheep and ten cents per head for lambs. The charges are paid for in cash by the flock owner at the time of dipping.

Those sheepmen who have not already requested this service and desire their flocks dipped should contact the county office not later than Saturday of this week.

BOMBING JAPAN FROM CHINA

The Japanese manufacturing center of Nagasaki is only a three-hour flight from Chekiang, where the Chinese have built an air base. Major General Chu Shih-ming, Chinese military attache to the United States, begs the United Nations to act quickly to strike at Japan from Chinese bases now threatened by Japanese advances.

Certainly the people of the United States would be thrilled beyond measure by the news that important numbers of bombing planes had been located in China and were undertaking the routine bombing of Japanese manufacturing centers.

Impatient Americans, who probably have no idea of the difficulties involved, can take it easy. It may be assumed that such a plan is under development and that not many days will elapse before American bombers will duplicate the feat of General Doolittle and his volunteer band of airmen.

WE FIGHT IN SELF-DEFENSE

The truth may not always be what we want to hear but it is just as well to stick to it as closely as possible.

Just at this time there are many people telling Americans why they are in this war and the general burden of their song is that we are in it to save civilization and make permanent a democratic way of life.

To an extent this may be true, because a victory by our side would preserve our civilization and our way of life. Nevertheless, the United States is in the present conflict, despite strenous and almost cowardly efforts to stay out of it, solely because Japan attacked us and Germany and Italy declared war upon us.

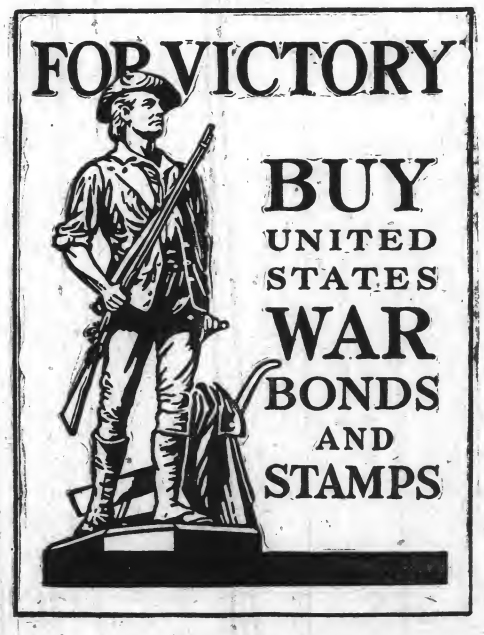
Now that we are involved, we will see it through to the end and, meantime, we are justifying our belligerency by proclaming various goals, none of which were important enough to persuade us to go to the aid of Poland, China, Great Britain or other hard-pressed nations.

While such slogans may be valuable for the purpose of stirring up war morale they may prove dangerous after the struggle is concluded. If we are fighting to save free peoples from aggression, it will be rather hard to explain why we did not help the Belgians and the Dutch, not to mention the Norwegians and the French, in the helpless hours of their peril.

If we are now warring for a free world, where all peoples will be the masters of their fate and enjoy equally the material blessings of life, we have a long struggle ahead of us, with considerable reformation necessary in the United States where our people have always bragged about a higher standard of living and boasted of their possessions.

The simple truth is that we are fighting in self-defense. The war requires no other justification. We would be fighting, just as hard, if we had a monarchy or a communist republic. We have been brutally attacked by a combination of rapacious and greedy enemies; naturally, we seek to protect our own and safeguard our future by defeating them.

—o—



BETWEEN THE BATTLEFRONTS

At war with Japan, Germany and Italy, the United States is menaced in the Pacific by the Japanese fleet.

The only reason this country is not threatened in the Atlantic by the German and Italian fleets is that, at this time, Great Britain is also at war with Germany and Italy. In the present war, the United States occupies a position between the two battlefronts. Strangely enough, the first direct attack, upon our soil, in Alaska, came from Asia and not from Europe.

For many decades, the people of the United States have stubbornly clung to a conviction that Japan would never attack us. The Japs, we believed, were "too smart" to risk an all-out struggle with this great and powerful republic.

What we forget is that the disarmament treaties permitted Japan to build up a Navy, in the ratio three-to-five. While we stood still, chanting about peace, the Japs built a fleet. When they reached the limits of a treaty, they calmly abrogated the pact and accelerated their preparations for war.

INVEST IN VICTORY!

Our boys can take the War to the enemy, if we back them up with ships and tanks and guns! But that takes money!

Help your Government to put the tools of war into the hands of our soldiers by purchasing War Savings Bonds and Stamps. And remember . . . just one Bond can't lick the Axis any more than just one gun! It takes millions of Americans buying War Savings Bonds and Stamps every pay day!

Bonds cost $18.75 and up . . . and they pay you back one-third more in only 10 years! Stamps cost 10¢, 25¢, and up . . . soon total the price of a Bond if bought regularly.

Help our boys on the fighting fronts wherever they may be! Buy War Savings Bonds as an investment for yourself and your country.

BOMBERS BLAST AXIS PRODUCTION

While few military experts believe that Germany can be defeated without an invasion to open a Western front the devastating bombing attacks upon industrial areas, seaports and war centers will weaken the Germany war machines.

The present struggle is an industrial contest. Without the "tools of war" soldiers and sailors are helpless. Every German factory, plant. bridge, highway or port blasted is a net loss to the Nazis.

If the Russians maintain the Red army in the field for the next six months, courageously continuing their process of "grinding" German men and material, there is no telling what effect the British bombing campaign will have. It might cause the collapse of the Nazi regime.

Citing Cologne, Prime Minister Churchill warns that it is "what Germany will receive, city by city, from now on." American bombers will shortly join the R. A. F. in its excellent performances. The result will be, as the British leader asserts, an attack, on a scale, "never experienced by any country in continuity or magnitude."

It is barely possible that the resulting destruction of Nazi production and war facilities will so cripple the industrial strength of Germany as to render her armies helpless in the field. This weakening will go almost unnoticed until the Axis armies collapse in battle and, when this occurs, the end will be just around the corner, even if the Red army alone is ready to make the turn.

Germany's great advantage in European fighting can be explained by her vast war industry, going at top speed when Hitler decided to strike. The arsenals of the United Nations are probably outproducing Axis plants today and growing rapidly. If this increase is accomplished by a reduction in Axis output, as a result of bombing operations, the situation will be worth observing in November.

FOR OUR PESSIMISTS

Pessimists in the United States will do well to consider the story of Floyd Corson, New Hampshire farmer, who recently enlisted in the Navy, leaving his sons to operate his farm for the duration.

Mr. Corson says that he was "down and out" the Farm Security Administration helped him to get back on his feet by lending him enough money to buy a team of horses, a few tools, some feed and fertilizer.

"I am anxious to get in there and add my bit," he says, "and I will consider it a privilege to go wherever I am sent."

WAR AND LIVESTOCK SUBJECT OF MEETING

The effect of the war on livestock production will be discussed at a meeting of farmers at the Western Kentucky Experiment Substation at Princeton June 16. The notice of the meeting says that "efficient livestock production is not only essential to our all-out war effort but also brings added returns during the present period of high prices." Speakers include S. J. Lowry, superintendent of the Experiment Substation, and Prof. E. S. Good, Dr. W. P. Garrigus, R. C. Miller and G. P. Summers of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics at Lexington. All farmers and other persons interested have been invited.

About a year from now some automobilists will begin to understand the wisdom of driving slowly to conserve tires.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for June 21

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE TASK COMMITTED TO THE DISCIPLES

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 28:16-20; Mark 16:14-20; Luke 24:49-53.
GOLDEN TEXT—Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.—Mark 16:15.

Witnesses of the resurrection—that privilege of the disciples carried with it the responsibility of declaring the good news of completed redemption to all the nations of the earth. In doing so they were destined to meet opposition and unbelief, to feel weariness and to know discouragement. So the Lord, before leaving this world for His present ministry at the Father's right hand (Mark 16:19; Heb. 7:25), prepared them by giving them a divine commission, which they accepted and acted upon with the assurance of His power and blessing. The lesson is summarized in the words, "Go ye" (Matt. 28:19); "They went forth" (Mark 16:20); "And He . . . blessed them" (Luke 24:50).

I. "Go Ye" (Matt. 28:16-20).

God's plans are never small plans. World evangelization, nothing less, was the goal He had in mind, and to which Christ commissioned this little group of humble folk who were His disciples. It was not only a great commission, but a daring one.

Back of such marching orders there must be authority and power—and Christ had them (v. 18)—all power and all authority. No need to measure or compare, for His is the ultimate and complete authority. This is the One who said, "Come unto me"; then, "Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men," and who now says, "Go." If we heed one command, should we not absolutely obey the others?

The message is His message, the gospel (Mark 16:15). It is the only message! The witnesses of Christ are not called to educate and civilize the heathen without winning them to Christ. To do so is only to prepare stronger and more skillful enemies of all that we count holy.

But a great program means nothing if it is not carried out; a great commission is only words unless it is accepted and obeyed. We read of the disciples that—

II. "They Went Forth" (Mark 16:14-20).

The call and command are given in this passage. The power is made clear and somewhat in detail, but the significant thing is that they actually went forth to preach.

The response of these early Christians was immediate and enthusiastic. Would that such a spirit had characterized the church through all the generations since then, for if it had, the commission would long since have been carried out. Dr. R. A. Torrey has estimated that if everyone in a church of 2,000 were to win one soul a year, and each convert win one soul each year, the world would be evangelized in less than 35 years.

But while on the whole the church has failed, there have been valiant souls all down through its history who have given themselves to the business of soul-winning. With them, as with these of the first century, the secret is ever "The Lord working with them." We read that as He was leaving this earth and His disciples, He lifted up His hands—

III. "And He . . . Blessed Them" (Luke 24:49-53).

God has always honored those who in faith have obeyed His command. The whole history of missionary endeavor bears eloquent testimony to that fact.

Sometimes we marvel at the success of a great movement, such as that founded by John Wesley. The answer is that God found a man, or a little group of men or women, willing to take Him at His word and step out in earnest purpose to obey Him. "For forty years John Wesley carried on his mission of canvassing for Christ 'as a parliamentary candidate canvasses for votes in his constituency in the strenuous three weeks before an election'" (Arnold's Commentary). Little wonder that with the blessing of Christ upon his work brings joy to many even to this day.

Note that the disciples who had been made sad and despondent by their parting with Christ at Calvary now went away in joy. The joy of the Lord is the strength of the Christian worker. It gives him abundant grace and power in the hour of need and makes him a fruitful servant.

A Warm Soul

I saw once lying side by side in a great workshop, two heads made of metal. The one was perfect; all the features of a noble, manly face came out clear and distinct in their lines of strength and beauty; in the other, scarcely a single feature could be recognized; it was all marred and spoiled. "The metal had been let grow a little too cool, sir," said the man who was showing it to me. I could not help thinking how true that was of many a form more precious than metal. — Canon Teignmouth Shore.

Stand Up Straight

N. TULCH

Foot Comfort Specialist at—

PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE

814-816 Madison, Covington

Standing and sitting erect require less muscular effort than the slumped posture for the normal, healthy person. With the body in an erect attitude the center of gravity passes more nearly through the center of the body and places the weight on bones and ligaments that are by nature equipped to meet this demand. When the head slumps forward, the shoulders droop, the spine curves and the abdomen bulges; then muscles must take on more and more of this burden of weight bearing, a burden for fatigue and later actual deformity of certain of the bones and joints.

The first necessity in good posture is good feet.

Show me a person with good posture and bad feet. It's almost impossible.

But show me a person with good posture and I'll show you a person with good feet, for good posture starts with good feet. The foundation of any super structure is the most important.

Don't suffer another day with your feet.

No matter how many shoes or trial supports you have tried, try just one more and have one of our foot comfort specialists make a free foot analysis and show you how to get rid of all foot pains, leg pains, backaches and headaches. Even arthritis and rheumatism pains are often mistaken—most times when feet are corrected the pains vanish. We know we can help you to stand up straight.—Adv.

TIPS ON THE CARE OF YOUR ELECTRIC RANGE

Properly used, your electric range can save you time, money, food and work. It helps conserve vitamins, too. Here are hints that will help you keep it in A-1 operating condition:

Clean outside of your range as you would a china plate. Wash, when cool, with warm soapy water; rinse and wipe dry. Do not put cold water or cold objects on outside finish when hot. It may crack or craze the finish.

Avoid letting spilled foods dry or harden on range. Food spilled on surface units should be burned off. Avoid using stiff brush or sharp instrument.

Most surface units can be raised and the pan beneath removed for scouring. This should be done every day.

To clean oven, first be sure it is cool and switch is off; then remove heating units by pulling them straight out. Wash oven linings with warm soap and water, scouring charred spots with steel wool. Rinse and dry. Scour oven shelves lightly with steel wool.

Never wash oven or surface heating units. Keep dripping rags away from switches. Use a rag that is merely damp.

Aluminum deep well cookers should be kept bright and shining by scouring with steel wool and soap and water. Porcelain enamel cookers should not be heated before adding fat, water or food, should not be permitted to boil dry, and should not be subjected to sudden changes of temperatures.

Have a competent serviceman check your range occasionally, to make sure it is "sitting level" on the floor, that the vent is clean, that the units are operating satisfactorily, and that wiring is in tiptop shape.

Remember — an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, so give that range of yours the best of care and it will last you longer and give you better service.

This Week On The Home Front

During the week, Americans at home read the news from the military front—the dramatic story of the defeat of the Japanese fleet and invasion forces at Midway Island.

At home, nothing happened so spectacular. The government by deed and word continued to stress with greater emphasis the shortages of critical materials, of metals of transportations, or rubber—always rubber—and of manufacturing capacity to make the things to which civilian America has always been accustomed.

At home, there were no ramparts to watch, no pyrothenics of battle. It is manpower mobilization, more work and more skimping.

Yet what Americans at home have accomplished in six months of hum-drum plugging—finally exploded and made history and heroes at Midway.

The privations which the Home Front will be called upon to accept in the next six months of war will be many. For the most part, they will be only extension of the sacrifices already being made. Generally speaking, where we now have had little, we shall have less.

A summary of six months of war is heartening.

We are now turning out ships and weapons at a rate that must give Hitler and Hirohito nightmares.

Production is one of the orders of the day, as well as the sinking of Jap warships off Midway, and the strategists of our war realize that this must be so.

• • •

A few days ago, officials of the War Production Drive journeyed to Rochester, N. Y., for a ceremony which resembled that which accompanies a citation on the battle front. They went to celebrate the victory won by workers in the war plant of a company, the Symington-Gould Corporation, which had increased its war production 14 per cent in a single month.

Official government statements did not omit to note that men in the Lima, O., plant of the American Rolling Mill Co. had for the third successive month broken all production records, announcement came from the War Production Board.

• • •

There are, however, production difficulties. The chief of these is the shortage of metals and rubber. The metal shortage threatens to close blast furnaces, and everybody by now knows what that means in terms of ships and guns and tanks and the motive power and machinery of modern war. The answer to the metal shortage is the salvage of scrap. More and more scrap must the auto grave yards produce. The scrap issue will soon boil down to the last man, woman, and child in the nation will be picking up every stray piece of metal, rubber, pastic and cloth.

• • •

Continued conversion of industrial plants from civilian to war manufacture will continue to cause shortages of many manufactured things for which materials might be theoretically plentiful. Crowding of our transportation systems, submarine sinkings on the high seas, will have the same result. In the coming months, these scarcities will cause us to change our lives so that war industry may have first preference—our habits of travel, of eating and the clothing we wear will change. Fish will be harder to get. Pork will be scarcer, because we are sending so much to our allies. The passage of the tin can will cause us to look to fresh vegetables, dried fruits and local crops.

• • •

Clothing will not be rationed this year, but we can expect further changes in style to conserve textiles.

• • •

As war traffic jams our railways and taxes every bus and truck with their vanish tires, travelling may be restricted to the bare bone of necessity, to day coaches and upper berths, instead of parlors, lowers and compartments.

• • •

If people don't conserve their tires in business and pleasures, gasoline rationing may do it for them. There's no prospect of synthetic rubber for civilian use before 1944. Joseph B. Eastman, Director of the Office of Defense Transportation, and Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the nation's foremost transportation authority, put the proposition in this quaint fashion before a meeting of Cleveland business men during the week: "If automobile operations are not restricted by some form of mandate, they must be restricted voluntarily."

• • •

Most of the country's milk trucks will be off the street in two years, a survey prepared by the Milk Industry Foundation and the International Association of Milk Dealers disclosed. The survey covered 389 milk distributors of which 206 reported tire shortage would stop their deliveries within a year unless conservation programs were put into effect.

• • •

Office of Price Administration inspectors are checking up on merchants in Louisville, Charleston, Columbus (O), and Indianapolis, this week to see whether they are posting their selling and ceiling prices on cost-of-living commodities correctly or at all. Many merchants are a little slow in finding out about the provisions of the General Maximum Price Regulation.

• • •

While OPA moves to tighten up on rent and price control, the Regional Office of the War Production Board issues a warning to manufacturers who violate priorities, allocations and limitation orders. Said Frank M. Aldridge, Regional Compliance Chief, for this state: "Viloations . . . when they are clearly established as willful, will be met with legal or punitive action.

• • •

So that farmers may "meet the food requirement goals set by the Department of Agriculture," WPB has ordered that products made under the farm machinery and equipment program, must actually reach the farm and not be diverted to any non-agricultural use. It was found that domestic water systems and garden tractors, for example, were being so diverted. WPB also has eased restrictions on deliveries on iron and steel for agricultural manufacturing purposes.

• • •

Said William R. Tracy, chief of WPB's Farm Machinery and Equipment Branch: "Sales for farm use do not require a rating. Whenever a sale is made on an unrated order for non-agricultural use, it deprives the farmer of goods which were intended for his use, and is flagrant and unjustified violation of the orders which make available preference ratings for materials going into the manufacture of farm equipment."

• • •

OPA is keeping a firm hand on prices. It denied application of the Lima, O., Packing Co., protesting the ceiling on dressed hogs and wholesale pork cuts. The Company filed too late, OPA rules. Appear for a higher price ceiling filed by a Nevada company was also denied.

Toast to men, given by Mrs. Kathleen Harris, on the occasion of the annual banquet in connection with the State Council of North Carolina:

MEN

MEN are what women marry. They are divided into three classes: Husbands, Bachelors, and Widowers.

A Bachelor is a man whose mind and soul are filled with suspicion.

Husbands are of three varieties: Prizes, surprises, and consolation prizes.

Making a husband out of man is one of the highest arts known to civilization. It requires science, patience, persistence, faith, hope and charity.

If you flatter a man, you frighten him to death; if you don't, you bore him to death. If you permit him to make love to you, he gets tired of you in the end; and if you don't, he gets tired of you in the beginning. If you believe all he tells you, then he thinks you are foolish and if you don't then he gets mad and thinks you are a cynic.

If you wear gay colors, rouge and a crazy hat, he hesitates to take you out. If you wear a little brown turban and a tailor-made suit, he takes you out and stares all evening at a woman in gay colors, rouge and a crazy hat.

If you join the gaieties and approve of his smoking and drinking, he says you are driving him to destruction; if you don't approve, he vows that you are snobbish.

If you are the clinging vine type, he doubts whether you have any brains, and if you are a modern, advanced and intelligent women, he doubts whether you have a heart. If you are silly, he longs for a bright mate, and if you are intelligent and brilliant, he longs for a playmate.

Most men are like worms in the grass; they wriggle around awhile—then some chicken or old hen grabs them.

HEBRON HOME ECONOMICS COMPLETE SUMMER PROJECT

The Hebron Home Economics girls are now completing a month of summer project work under the supervision of their Home Economics teacher.

A variety of projects were chosen this summer including clothing, foods, gardening, poultry, home improvement and personality.

The following goals were set up by the girls as a guide in the selection and completion of their projects:

1. To do the very best job I can.
2. To remember economy when choosing my project.
3. To choose a project that will be useful to me or my family.
4. To choose a project that I will have time to complete.
5. To choose a project from which I will learn something new.
6. To choose a project that will be interesting and worthwhile.
7. To choose a project within the limits of my own abilities.
8. To select a project that will involve thinking.
9. To select a project that will meet a need that I or my family has.

Plans are being made to terminate the summer project work with a "Get-together Day" to be held at the schoolhouse for the Home Economic girls and their mothers on June 17.

There is also a class being taught at The Church of the Brethren, Constance.

Mrs. Jimerson Aylor has been assisting the County Nurse with classes for sometime. Mrs. Aylor is an enrolled Red Cross Nurse, and this help is needed and very much appreciated.

PROCESSING BERRIES FOR ENGLAND BIG AID TO KENTUCKY GROWERS

The processing of nearly a million pounds of strawberries for shipment to England was a big aid to Kentucky growers this season, according to a report on inspection, issued by the College of Agriculture and Home Economics at Lexington. Most of the berries processed were No. 2, and many of them probably would never have been sold as fresh fruit. The growers received 8 cents a pound for berries for processing.

The English market for processed berries was provided through the aid of the Surplus Commodities Corporation. Processing was done by the Farmers Processors' Cooperative Association at Bowling Green and Frozen Products, Inc., Paducah. Inspection was furnished cooperatively by the State College of Agriculture and the Federal government.

Kentucky fresh strawberry crop totaled 816 carloads and about half as many were shipped by truck, according to the College's report. This would mean about 1,200 carloads, or almost three times last year's production.

To assure buyers and consumers of proper grading and labelling, and also to help farmers get top prices, the College of Agriculture's markets department secured and trained 24 inspectors for all the principal shipping points in the state.

FISHING REPORTED GOOD IN KENTUCKY STREAMS

Frankfort, Ky.—Fishing was reported as very good in practically every section of the state for the opening on the first of June, S. A. Wakefield, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, announced.

Fair catches were made in most of the streams where the waters were not muddy and the "take" at Herrington Lake was reported as average. Showers are continuing to keep the streams fresh and for that reason fishing is reported as being good in those streams remaining clear.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Greenup, Mrs. William Greenup and daughter, of Union, spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Claud Greenup.

The 70,628 tons of lead which were used last year in autos, golf clubs, toys and refrigerators figures out at about four pounds for each of 35 million American families. This four pounds of lead would provide all the lead needed in making five big shells for 240 mm howitzers.

2,557 AT DISTRICT HOMEMAKERS MEETINGS

The annual district meetings of the Kentucky Federation of Homemakers attracted a total attendance of 2,557 women, according to a report of the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics. An attendance of 679 in the Bluegrass district was the largest in any of the six districts. The Bell county delegation of 38 women traveled the longest distance, 265 miles. One hundred and fifty Shelby county women attended, the largest number for one county.

NO DISEASE WHERE PLANT BEDS TREATED

Commenting on calls from farmers who reported disease in tobacco plant beds, County Agent Wilmot Carter of Woodford county says: "It is interesting to note that no calls were received where the beds were treated with lime and bluestone. Due to the prevalence of disease in untreated beds, it is fortunate that a majority of farmers had treated their beds this year."

ALL FARM PEOPLE TO GET INFORMATION ON INFLATION CONTROL

Definite progress in the statewide program to inform all Kentucky farm people about the inflation control measures of the Federal government, is announced by Dean Thomas P. Cooper of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics. With the assistance of several thousand local leaders, arrangements have been completed to hold meetings in all counties, communities and neighborhoods in the state, he said.

Presenting to farm people, including those living in small towns, information about the national plans to hold down the cost of living was the job assigned by the government to the Extension Service of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics. There are 240,000 farm families in Kentucky, and thousands of families living in towns under 2,500 population.

"To reach all these people is a gigantic job," Dean Cooper pointed out, "but it is a job that must be done in the interests of the welfare of the entire country. We must not, if it in any way can be avoided, have another inflation such as followed the other world war."

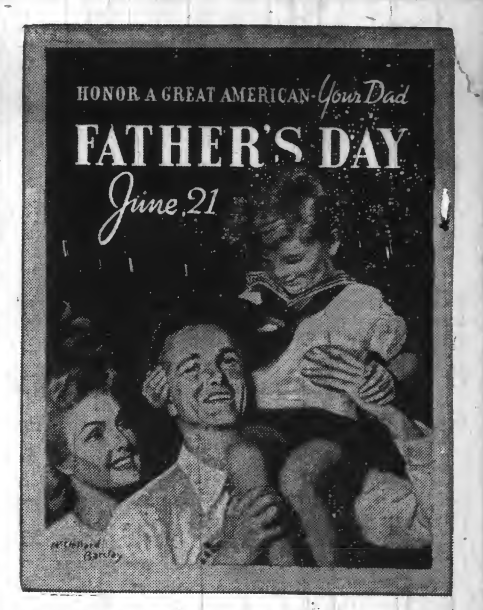
The President's seven-point program to check inflation and control the cost of living is set out at all meetings of farm men and women and 4-H club members. Various features of the inflation-control program are discussed, with special attention to the effect of inflation on farming.

Twelve district conferences of county farm agents and county home demonstration agents were held immediately after the College was notified that it was to conduct a thorough educational program among farmers. These conferences were followed by the organization of the 120 counties, and finally the program will reach into every community and neighborhood.

COMMEMORATIVE STAMP WILL AID IN WAR EFFORT

The issuance of Kentucky's commemorative stamp throughout the nation has caused thousands of requests for program information to pour in to the Kentucky Sesquicentennial Commission's headquarters in Lexington, it was learned today from H. I. Miranda, Executive Director for the Commission.

The publicity was aided when Governor Johnson made the first purchase of statehood commemorative stamps in Frankfort June 1, and contributed the sheet of fifty stamps to the Kentucky Historical Society.



H. S. Chamberlain, representative of the Post Office Department in Washington, stated that the stamp issued at Frankfort created more local and state-wide interest than had any other special issue which he has conducted in several years.

Chamberlain also said, "It is likely that more than 10,000,000 uncancelled stamps will be placed in stamp albums throughout the nation, which will contribute approximately $300,000 to the general fund, aiding the war effort."

SURPLUS AGENCY AIDS STRAWBERRY GROWERS

Yields of 200 to 300 crates of strawberries to the acre were common in Marshall county, Kentucky. Growers of the Blakemore variety secured additional cash by capping berries and selling them to the Surplus Marketing Administration for 8 cents a pound. C. I. Reid sold 159 crates for a net of $240, and other growers took in $50 to $75 a day for berries that could not have been sold in the regular way, because of the size of the fruit, reports County Agent H. E. Rothwell.

FINE FISHING

Our fine fish lake was restocked last Sunday, June 14th with more channel cats and is now open to the public for fishing.

BRING THE FAMILY

We have a large area around the lake for picnics, with tables and seats for all, and a good place for the entire family to spend the day.

The lake has recently been cleaned of all moss, and is now clean, and ideal for fishing.

BIG BONE BAPTIST W. M. S.

The Big Bone W. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. Edith Sebree for their June meeting. The morning hours were spent in sewing for the Red Cross. After the noon feast our meeting opened with song, "Take My Life and Let it Be."

Mrs. Branham, our president, brought the devotion from Deu. 6;4-9, followed by prayer. We were happy to have Mrs. Malone, our Association Superintendent and Mrs. Higdon, our Association Young People's leader, each giving a very interesting talk on our work.

We then repeated our Watchwords and the program was rendered as follows: "Think on These Things; Whatsoever Things Are of Good Report," from Royal Service. Those taking part were Mrs. Huff, Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. K. Aylor. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Joe Aylor.

The business session, reports of chairmen and other business was brought before the meeting.

Many visitors were present besides the above mentioned, which were welcome, and two new members, Mrs. Emma J. Aylor and Mrs. Ollie Baun were added to the roll.

We were made happy by presence of Miss Georgia Shinkle, one of our shut-in members who was able to meet with us.

Mrs. Huff led in a special prayer for shut-ins. We were dismissed with a prayer by Mrs. K. Aylor.

The Y. W. A.'s met with us for the day, but had their own separate meeting in the afternoon.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

..The Scott county sheep program includes the purchase of 2,000 western ewes and 200 registered rams, dipping of 12,000 sheep, 50 drenching demonstration for the control of stomach worms, a lamb tour during May, and insurance on 8,000 ewes.

WALTON HOMEMAKERS

Mrs. Marie Hughes was hostess for the Walton Homemakers in June, which was held at her beautiful country home.

Before noon plans were made for the dinner for the soldier boys from Camp Ft. Knox, who are on a recreation trip.

After a delicious lunch business was called to order by the president. Mrs. Moore our leader gave a report from the Advisory Council meeting. She also stated that Boone County Clubs were asked to be responsible in beautifying the floral hall in the new County Fair building. Our club voted to give our quota.

Mrs. Gaynelle Flynn gave a review on Meal Planning, stressing nutrition, wise buying, and proper food balance. The club decided on a variety program for the following year.

The following members answered roll call: Mrs. Lula Lusby, Mrs. Ora Stone, Mrs. Louise Rouse, Mrs. Edna Vest, Miss Leisha Neumeister, Mrs. Pearl Bedinger, Mrs. Ora Fry, Mrs. Nannie Ransom, Mrs. Mary Stephenson, Mrs. Mable Stansifer, Mrs. Blanche Franks, Mrs. Mollie Sturgeon, Mrs. Carrie Rouse, Mrs. Fredrika Mann, Mrs. Gaynelle Flynn, Mrs. Anna Pearl Gaines, Mrs. Hope Vest Mrs. Mary Scott Moore, our leader and the hostess and four visitors.

Mrs. Hope Vest was elected president of the club during a brief business session; Mrs. Glenna Cleek, vice president; Mrs. Nannie Ransom, secretary and treasurer.

This was the final meeting of the current year. The opening meeting will be held September 10 at the home of Mrs. Hope Vest. Club members will enjoy an outing at Camp Hutton on the next regular meeting day in July.

Mrs. W. O. Rouse, Reporter.

BULLITTSVILLE HOMEMAKERS

The Bullittsville Homemakers will hold their June meeting at the home of Mrs. Huey Aylor on June 25th, instead of the 18th, due to the county canning demonstration being held at Burlington on that date. All of the members are urged to be present, as the election of officers for the coming year will be held at this time.

The project leader asks that each one come prepared to report on their accepted practice, as this is the last lesson of the foods project and the leader wishes to complete her report.

HEBRON HOMEMAKERS

The July meeting will be in the form of a picnic on July 8th at Butler State Park. A bus has been chartered to take us there. All who are interested in attending please call Mrs. Sue Rogers for reservations.

Take a basket lunch and enjoy the day. The bus will leave Hebron at 9 a. m. E. W. T. Don't forget to make your reservations not later than July 1, with Mrs. Sue Rogers.

Katherine Peel, Sec'y.

W. M. U. NEWS

The W. M. U. of the Union Baptist Church held their June meeting on Wednesday afternoon June 10th. This meeting was held at the church and was opened by Mrs. Kirtley McWethy at 1:30 p. m. by the singing of W. M. U. hymn "The Light of The World Is Jesus."

The Watchwords were repeated in unison followed by our secretary, Mrs. Winston Mason's reports and roll call, with 15 members answering. A beautiful prayer was offered at this time by Mrs. Sally K. Hicks. Mrs. Austin Gschwind, young peoples' leader gave her reports which was followed by a discussion on the selection of material for our Mission Study books, and a motion to change our meeting time to 2 o'clock E. W. T. on each second Wednesday. We sincerely hope this later hour will enable more of our members and friends to attend all future meetings.

Plans were discussed in regards to the group meeting to be held late in July at the Hickory Grove Baptist Church in Kenton County, at which time, we of this society hope to be well represented.

These discussions closed our business hour, and our program, under the direction of Mrs. William Greenup was as follows:

Devotional and a beautiful interpretation of the book of Ruth was given by Mrs. Sally K. Hicks, followed with prayer by Mrs. Myrtle Marshall with the group singing "Take Time To Be Holy." The topic for June being, "Think On These Things: Whatsoever things are of good report," with members taking part as follows: Mrs. Greenup, "Things Of Good Report"; Mrs. Marshall, "Christian Graces in Women"; Mrs. Mason, "Stories of Christian Graces"; Mrs. Smith, "She Serves Faithfully"; Mrs. Newman, "She Stands For The Right and She Lets Her Light Shine"; Mrs. Anna Bristow, "Good Report of the Margaret Fund"; Mrs. Gschwind closed with the poem "Broader Fields" from late issue of Western Recorder. Singing the hymn "We've a Story to Tell to the Nations" and a closing prayer by Mrs. J. T. Bristow dismissed us until 2 p. m. E. W. T. on Wednesday, July 8th, when all members are urged to be present, and a standing welcome extended to visitors.

Mrs. Friend, Reporter.

A Week of The War

Pacific Fleet Commander Nimitz reported two and possibly three Japanese aircraft carriers and a destroyer were sunk, and three battleships, six cruisers and three transports were damaged in the battle of Midway Island. All planes on the two carriers definitely known to be sunk were lost, Admiral Nimitz said. One U. S. carrier was hit and some planes were lost, but casualties among the U. S. personnel were light, he said. Admiral King, commander in chief of the U. S. fleet, said the enemy fleet has apparently withdrawn from the Midway area but battle maneuvers are continuing in the Hawaii-Dutch Harbor area. The Navy said the first Japanese attack on Dutch Harbor on June 3 resulted in few casualties and no serious damage, appearing to have been made "primarily to test our defenses." The Japanese planes which flew over the harbor six hours after the initial attack were "engaged solely in reconnaissance," the Navy said.

Gen. MacArthur reported within six days Allied naval and air forces sank seven and possibly eight enemy submarines, two heavily loaded armed supply ships and an armed transport, and also badly damaged a 7,000-ton vessel. Allied losses in the Southwest Pacific were two cargo vessels. In air raids over Rabual, Lae, Salamaua Atamboea, Tulagi, Kelopang and Dili, and Burma, 12 enemy planes were destroyed, one enemy tanker sunk, and runways, airdrome installations and parked planes damaged. Three allied planes were lost.

The Navy said Allied merchant ship losses totaled 21 during the week, including nine U. S. ships.

Production

U. S. production of planes has reached the level of "nearly 5,000 a month," and by next year we will have reached the President's goal of 10,000 a month, the Senate Appropriations Committee announced. Army Air Forces Commander Arnold congratulated the Vega Aircraft Corporation at Burbank, Calif., on being six months ahead of schedule on production. WPB Chairman Nelson, after a tour of the automotive industry in Detroit, said American industry could "more than double present production by 1944." He also said the Government synthetic rubber program would be able to take care of "all war production and essential civilian needs" by 1944. Despite the fact that almost twice as many light arms are required per man since the development of parachute troops, the Army has enough weapons to arm every soldier in the U. S., and all it can send abroad under present shipping conditions, War Under Secretary Patterson reported. He said over-optimism regarding production schedules is unwarranted, however, because of rubber, nickel and copper shortages.

A record total of 58 ships were delivered into service during May, while 65 other ships were launched and keels were laid for 75, the Maritime Commission reported. This compared with 36 delivered and 51 launched in April. The President asked Congress for an appropriation of $1,100,000,000 for the WSA to acquire and operate merchant vessels to carry American arms.

Federal agencies asked labor-management committees in 800 war production plants to keep American workmen fit and healthy because sick and injured war production workers are now causing a loss of 6,000,000 work days every month.

War Declared Against Balkan States

The U. S. declared war against Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania. The President said the three countries previously declared war on the U. S. as instruments of Hitler, and currently they are engaged in military operations against the United Nations and are planning to extend those operations. The Justice Department said enemy Alien restrictions will be applied against nationals of the countries in the United States. Assets of these countries here have already been frozen.

Foreign Relations

The U. S. signed a Lend-Lease agreement with China, substantially the same as its aid to Britain, and proposed Lend-Lease agreements on the same terms with the Norwegian, Belgian, Polish, Greek and Netherlands Governments in exile. Lend-Lease Administrator Stettinius said under the joint control of the combined boards in London and Washington and resources of the United Nations are now, in effect, one big pool, with each nation contributing to the extent permitted by its resources and military position. Reciprocal aid from nations receiving supplies from the U. S. is providing material for American troops abroad without dollar payments, he said. The Agriculture Department reported 5 billion pounds of farm products were delivered to United Nations' representatives between April 1941 and May 1, 1942. The American Red Cross said it has aided almost 750,000 war victims in the Middle East and distributed more than $2 million worth of relief material there, largely purchased with U. S. Government allocated funds. The State Department said 193 persons, including many U. S. citizens who have been awaiting passage in Sweden, arrived in New York on the S. S. Gripsholm, and 10 Axis officials and approximately 930 Axis civilians sailed for Lisbon on the Drottningholm.

The Armed Forces

The House passed and sent to the Senate a $3 billion supplemental Naval appropriations bill to provide 200,000 tons of submarines, 500,000 tons of auxiliary vessels, $150 million for aviation plant facilities, and other funds. Chairman Vinson of the House Naval Affairs Committee said approximately 99 more combatant ships will be commissioned during the remainder of 1942. Three more destroyers were launched. The CAA and the Navy completed arrangements to train 20,000 Naval Reservists as pilots at 600 CAA training centers during the coming year, if money is appropriated. U. S. Army training films, especially those showing mechanism and tactical use of U. S. equipment, are being recorded in Universal Spanish, Portuguese and Chinese, the War Department said, for exchange with other members of the United Nations.

Civilian Supply

WPB materials Director A. I. Henderson said vital materials can no longer be used except for war and maintenance of those things necessary to the war because from now on "it will be a continuous problem to provide materials to meet the needs of our fighting forces." The WPB said preferred applicants for new telephones cannot obtain service unless they prove the service is essential to the discharge of their responsibility for public health, welfare or security. The Board issued an order relieving from restrictions lumber deliveries for more than 100,000 of the most essential housing units now under construction. The FHA authorized its field offices to begin insuring to the extent of $500,000,000 loans of private lending institutions for construction of housing for war workers. A Food Requirements Committee, headed by Agriculture Secretary Wickard, was set up to control production and allocation of all civilian and military food supplies.

Rationing

All motorists will receive A books containing a year's base supply of 48 coupons under the new permanent gasoline rationing system which will be established in the East about the first week of July, OPA said. Supplementary B books with an additional 16 coupons will be issued to motorists who prove need for extra rations, providing they are members of a car pool. No unlimited privileges will be granted any one, but C books containing 96 coupon will be issued to some motorists. S books for trucks and buses, good for a four month period, will cover just enough fuel for the mileage allowed in forthcoming ODT regulations. Motorcyclists will receive D books, good for 40 percent as much gasoline as A books. Under the new system service stations and distributors will be required to turn in collected coupons when purchasing new stocks. The OPA released about 10,000 bicycles to war production plants qualified to buy them for transportation of workers.

Gayety Theater News

SATURDAY

Joe E. Brown returns to the Gayety Theatre in Columbia's "Shut My Big Mouth" howlarious new laughfest with Adele Mara, Victor Jory and Joan Woodbury A laugh-loaded story of a gun-shy tenderfoot in the wild and woolly west, "Shut My Big Mouth" was directed by Charles Barton from a screen play by Oliver Drake, Karen DeWolf and Francis Martin.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Two years ago Ginger Rogers took off her dancing shoes and decided to use her head instead of her feet, a decision which puzzled her screen admirers.

Her reputation had been assured. Her following was enviable. Yet she chose to temporarily close the dancing phase of her career in favor of the untried and unexplored field, for her, of straight dramatics.

Ginger Rogers, who is starred in "Roxie Hart" the 20th Century-Fox comedy, got her first theatrical break when she won a Charleston dancing contest in Texas.

Adolphe Menjou and George Montgomery are featured with her in the outstanding new film.

TUESDAY
Double Feature

There's a killer-diller of a thriller coming to the Gayety Tuesday. It's Paramount's "No Hands on the Clock..55 Someone asks, at the beginning of the picture why there are no hands on the clock. Because one of the cast explains, "death is timeless."

After that little explanation things get going. They're exciting things, and in spite of the ominous title, hilarious things. The story tells of the efforts of private detective to locate a kidnapped man. The detective is played by Chester Morris and aiding and abetting him are Jean Parker, Rose Hobart, Dick Purcell, Astrid Allwyn, Rod Cameron and James Kirkwood.

Plus

Hollywood's "queen of the juke box girls" known to thousands of music box hep-cats in the film capital under the pseudonym of "Miss Penny," served the Universal studios as technical advisor for "Juke Box Jenny."

The musical romance stars Ken Murray, Harriet Hilliard, Charles Barnet and his band, Wingy Manone and his orchestra, and the Milt Herth trio.

Iris Adrian, Don Douglas and Marjorie Gateson are featured.

WED., THURSDAY and FRIDAY

Boner-hounds, those movie fans whose chief delight is to detect errors in pictures, are going to have a tough time with "Kings Row," the Warner Bros. film version of the best-seller novel, the new picture at the Gayety for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Months of research went into the making of this film to assure absolutely authentic settings and costumes for Ann Sheridan, Betty Field, Robert Cummings and Ronald Reagan and the large supporting cast. Every word of dialogue in Casey Robinson's masterly script was checked, rechecked and double checked to make certain that only colloquialisms peculiar to small-town Missourians and in vogue during the period were used.

THE WORLD MOVES ON

The World moves on at a fast, indifferent pace,
Setting a goal, for the whole human race,
Making no effort to speed him on his way,
She moves on, and leaves him to follow, or be lost on the way.
She grants him no favors, she's cruel 'til the end,
Yet, yielding sometimes, to the effort he spends;
But the gains are swept back in her hard iron grip,
And the man moves back, for the blow makes him slip,
But God made man, to lord over the land,
To partake of the food, given by His generous hand;
And in return, He expects the best of us all,
To walk in His footsteps, to stumble, but never to fall.

—Bobby C. Ryle.

MONEY TALKS

by

Frederick W. Stamm, Economist and Director of Adult Education University of Louisville

The retail merchants of this country (especially the small retailers) are beginning to feel the effect of the federal price stabilization ruling. The National Retail Grocers Association at its Chicago meeting called for a "mandatory national price policy," under which retail price ceilings would be accompanied by effective controls over all major items of costs, including the price of farm products and all wages.

"Unless relief (from conditions caused by price ceilings) is speedily forthcoming, tens of thousands of retail grocers face bankruptcy within six months," the organization stated. The report also stated that grocers were contending with an estimated overall average increase of 10 percent in replacement costs over those on which the March ceilings were established; that the prospect of at least a 50 percent increase in taxes over last year would be accompanied by an increase in wages and delivery costs and by a scarcity of merchandise. The report went on to say that "the cost of farm commodities and labor costs represent approximately 85 percent of the total cost of food to the consumer" and "are subject to no effective controls but on the contrary are everywhere advancing."

The plight of the retail grocers indicates the trouble that always arises when a government agency tries to regulate some prices but lets other run wild. How can we expect a healthy condition in our economic system if we say to one class of people, "You can charge only so much for your products," but let other classes charge what they please? If we are to regulate prices, let us recognize the necessity of regulating all prices, including prices of farm products and the prices (wages) which labor charges for its services.

War economy often calls for strict regulations, but let it fall on all groups as evenly as possible so that no classes are unduly favored at the expense of any other class. To secure economic justice we must regulate all prices and all wages.

HAMILTON

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Ryle were shopping in Covington, Saturday.

All fathers are asked to attend a special service at Big Bone Baptist Church, Sunday morning, given in honor of Father's Day.

LEAFLET QUESTIONS
GRINDING OF FEEDS

Cows need their grain ground, but the value of grinding or chopping hay and other roughages is questions by authorities at the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. A. A. Spielman, extension field agent in dairying, has prepared a leaflet answering the questions: Does it pay to grind or chop feeds for dairy cows? Which feeds should be ground or chopped and which should not?

Cottage cheese is a valuable food that can be made in the farm home from surplus skimmilk. When properly made, it is a desirable food alone, or can be used to make delicious combinations with other foods. Dr. Henry B. Morrison of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics has written a leaflet giving directions for making cottage cheese.

Both leaflets can be had from county agents and county home demonstration agents, or by writing to the college at Lexington.

There must be no peace of vengeance, just for the sake of expressing hatred, but there must be no peace of silly sentimentalism, releasing the aggressors from the consequences of their free-booting.

DISK UNDER MANURE AS SOON AS SPREAD

Where he disked under manure as soon as it was spread, J. T. Russell of Taylor County got 200 pounds of tobacco more to the acre than where he let the manure lay seven weeks before turning it under. Now, alfalfa on the land where the manure was immediately turned is green and rank and may cut two tons to the acre, County Agent C. V. Bryan thinks, while alfalfa on the field where the manure lay seven weeks is yellow and may not cut more than a ton to the acre.

$1285 COLLECTED IN USO DRIVE

BOONE COUNTY OVER-SUBSCRIBES QUOTA BY $282.86 WITH POSSIBILITY OF FURTHER COLLECTIONS.

A total of $1282.86 was subscribed to the USO drive by the people of Boone County, with the possibility of this being increased by some precincts that still have some pledges outstanding.

The campaign to raise $1,000 was launch Thursday, June 4th, under the leadership of Walter Ferguson as County Chairman. The fine spirit of Boone County citizens has shown their willingness to cooperate in any movement to improve conditions in the camps of our armed forces.

Amounts raised by the various communities are as follows:

Florence	$292.25
Burlington	184.71
Union	166.35
Walton	200.00
Petersburg	110.25
Bullittsville	52.75
Hebron	48.15
Beaver	92.50
Constance	39.35
Belleview	19.15
Verona	75.00
County at Large	2.00
Total	$1,282.86

The chairman and members of the local USO committee wish to thank the workers who, through their untiring efforts made the drive a success. Boone County can be justly proud of the manner in which her citizens have come forward in accepting their share of responsibility in winning this war.

Red Cross First Aid Class Is Completed

Under the instructorship of Mr. Clyde Steelman, Taylorsport, Ky., an authorized First Aid instructor, a class of nineteen have completed the standard course in First Aid in Petersburg.

This class was started March 9 and the last class period was held on May 18. The final examination was conducted on June 3rd under the supervision of Mr. Steelman.

Those completing the course and receiving credit are: Mrs. Owen Watts, Mrs. Emma Helms, Hildreth Dolwick, H. R. Hensley, Mary Rector, Mrs. Julia Rector, Carrie Mahan, Gladys Klopp, Jessie G. Louden, Viola Louden, Lois L. Klopp, Mary Walton Carver, Mrs. Howell Hensley, Mrs. Edgar Snyder, Laura May Mathews, Julia Berkshire, Dorothy Gaines and Louise Gaines.

This is the second class in First Aid in Boone County to be completed, the first having been at Florence. Classes are now in progress at Walton, New Haven, Constance, Hebron, Burlington and two additional classes—one an advanced course at Florence. The first class completed was under the leadership of Dr. G. R. Coe, of Union.

NEW PONDS BEING BUILT

IN BOONE COUNTY DURING PAST THREE WEEKS—PONDS ARE CHEAPEST SOURCE OF WATER SUPPLY.

There have been a number of new ponds constructed in the county during the past three weeks, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Most of these ponds have been constructed by J. G. Robertson and sons, of Eminence, who worked in the county last fall.

Equipment for pond construction is becoming more difficult to get. The Government has requisitioned much of this type of equipment for war construction work.

Mr. Robertson plans to leave the county in the near future unless new work is requested. His price for bulldozer equipment is $7.00 per hour. Mr. Voising of the J. G. Exterkamp Construction Co., has also built a number of good lakes in the county. Mr. Wheatcroft who constructed a number of good lakes in the north section of the county is reported to be moving all his equipment to Paducah for a road job.

Farmers who have ponds constructed should be sure they core down to impervious clay soil before starting to construct their dams and that there is a clay core center. This prevents leaks.

Ponds on most farms are our cheapest source of abundant supply of livestock water.

Hebron Girl Graduates From School Of Nursing

Diplomas were granted to twenty eight nurses at the St. Elizabeth School of Nursing June 20th. The graduates were addressed by Col. William S. Keller, Regional Medical Officer of the Office of Civilian Defense of the Fifth Region who declare that "Civilians will have to do without luxury nursing in hospitals as the result of extraordinary demands for trained nurses. The army now has 8,000 nurses and is asking for 10,000 more at the rate of 1,000 per month."

Lorraine Reimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reimer, of Hebron was among the graduates. She expects to enter the government service within a few months and take special training to become an anesthetist.

CELEBRATION PAGEANT SET

FOR KENTON COUNTY AT THE HOLMES HIGH SCHOOL STADIUM—PROCEEDS WILL GO TO WAR RELIEF FUND.

On Friday and Saturday, July 3 and 4, at the Holmes High School stadium in Covington, the Kenton County Historial Society will present the pageant-spectacle "Cavalcade of Kenton County." This pageant and the accompanying events are in honor of the Sesquicentennial Celebration.

Mr. Harry B. Mackoy, prominent lawyer and historian, has written the basic script of the pageant. It will trace the history of Kenton County from the time of the Indian to the present day.

C. Lisle Kays is executive chairman of the committee which has engaged the John B. Rogers Producing Company, who enjoy national fame for the presentation of historical spectacles, to rehearse and stage the production of "Cavalcade of Kenton County." The cast will number well over 500 participants dressed in brilliant and authentic costumes. With the cast will appear the Holmes High School Acapella Choir, the Holmes High School band and the drill teams of the Kentucky Active Militia. Governor Keen Johnson, Judge Samuel M. Wilson and Mayor Beuttel of Covington will act as the coronation officials in the ceremony during which the winner of the popularity contest will be crowned Miss Kenton County.

The advance tickets are now available from the girls competing in the contest, from cast member, or from Celebration Headquarters in the Covington YMCA, HI. 1866.

The entertainment on both evenings has been so arranged so that people driving any distance may arrive in time to see everything. The activities will not start until 8:30 and there will be a great deal of available parking space very near the Holmes stadium.

The girls competing in the popularity contest are: Martha Wellbrock, Margy Black, Doris Sipple, Nancy Foster, Mildred Dietz, Anna Frank, Helen Johnson, Esther Granneman, Eddie Jane Piondexter, Margaret Pendergast, Gloria Frazier, Ruth Schroeder, Joy Mccollum, Billie Collier, Doris Benson, Hallie Graven, Jean Stewart, Luella Ruth Nash, Mary Wigglesworth, Dorothy M. Kenney, and Virginia Dare Snowden.

The episodes of this spectacle will be enacted in the following order:

Prologue: Salute to the Colors.
Episode I: Dawn of Creation.
Episode II: Peace with the Indians.
Episode III: Kenton Rescues Daniel Boone.
Episode IV: Scene I: Capture of Commander Rochblave; scene II, Kenton Runs the Gauntlet; scene III Fifty Year Pledge.
Episode V: Laying out Covington
Episode VI: Reception for Lafayette.
Episode VII: Establishment of Kenton County.
Episode VIII: An Early School.
Episode IX: Civil War.
Episode X: American Unity.
Episode XI: The Suspension Bridge.
Episode XII: The Gay Nineties.
Episode XIII: World War I.
Episode XIV: Guardians of our Future.
Episode XV: Twentieth Century.
Episode XVI: Salute to Victory.

The proceeds of this event will go to War Relief agencies. The support of everyone in Boone, Kenton and Campbell Counties is solicited.

SCRAP DRIVE TO CLOSE JUNE 30TH

FILLING STATIONS AND COCA-COLA DEALERS COOPERATE IN RUBBER CAMPAIGN—DO YOUR PART.

The scrap rubber campaign which has been under way thruout the nation will close Tuesday, June 30th, it was announced this week.

Boone County citizens are requested to comb their attic, cellar, closets, yard, fields, bathroom, garage, shed and barn for this precious material, which is greatly needed by our government.

When you have collected all your scrap rubber you may deliver it to any filling station which will give 1 cent per pound, or to any Coca-Cola dealer who will turn the scrap over to the Coca-Cola Co., with all proceeds being donated to the USO.

There was a time when you used to throw away no-longer-used things like rubber bottles, rubber heels, rubber tubing, old garden hose, wornout tires and tubes, rubber gloves, sink mats, stair treads, auto floor mats, rubber bands, and hundreds of other things made out of rubber. But now that President Roosevelt has asked for scrap rubber, the public realizes it is worth its weight in lives! The nation is responding wholeheartedly by playing a patriotic new game called, "bringing in the rubber."

The Coca-Cola Bottling Co., has volunteered the use of all its trucks making regular trips thruout the county to pick up your rubber scrap from Coca-Cola dealers. Salvage containers have been installed on each truck, and all co-operating dealers have similar containers on hand. Collections are being made only on return trips of regular calls, running up no extra mileage. Pickups are also being made at anyone's place of business, regardless of whether or not he sells Coca-Cola, if the dealer calls the Coca-Cola Bottling Company and asks the driver to stop.

Let's get behind President Roosevelt's appeal for rubber scrap. Let's keep our fighting forces rolling! Let's show the Axis enemy how Americans can really lick the rubber shortage when they make up their minds to do it! Take your rubber scrap to your nearest Coca-Cola dealer or gas station, today!

As members of the State Salvage Committee, representing the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. James C. Layne, Mrs. Allan Gaines and Mr. J. B. Hizer co-chairmen in Boone County, urge every man, woman and child in the county to carry their scrap rubber to the nearest filling station. where you will receive 1c per pound for same.

Mrs. Lora L. Morgan

Mrs. Lora L. Morgan, 67, died Thursday, June 11th at St. Elizabeth Hospital. She was the widow of the late James L. Morgan, retired Western and Southern Personnel Director.

She was a former resident of Boone County, having purchased the Long property on Highway 42 ten years ago. She moved to Pleasureville about two years ago.

Mrs. Morgan was a member of the Madison Avenue Christian Church, moving her membership to the Florence Christian Church when she bought the Long home.

She is survived by a number of neices and nephews.

Funeral services were held at the Florence Christian Church, Saturday at 10:00 a. m., with Rev. Kenneth Bowen, pastor Madison Ave. Christian Church, and Rev. Carter of the Florence Christian Church officiating. Burial was in the Owenton I. O. O. F. cemetery.

Pallbearers were C. F. Blankenbeker, Lloyd Aylor, Harold Martin, Fred Hammersmith, Joe Berkshire and Edgar Aylor.

Tharp and Stith, Florence funeral directors were in charge of arrangements.

Retailers Must File Statement Of Ceiling Prices By July 1st

Every retailer must file a statement of his ceiling prices for all cost-of-living commodities carried by him with the Local War Price Board of Boone County, by July 1, 1942.

You may call at the Board at Walton, Ky., and receive a bulletin of instructions on how these reports must be filed.

Petersburg Boy Arrives In Australia

Robert M. Hodges

Robert M. Hodges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hodges, of Petersburg has arrived in Australia according to word received here this week.

His letter follows:

"I'm in Australia, working in the office. Like it fine here. Don't worry about me. Give my love to Cindy. Am thinking of you all."

This is the message received by his parents, after failing to hear from him for three months.

Kottmyer-Huey

The marriage of Miss Ruth Kottmyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kottmyer, Jr., to Mr. Robert Duncan Huey, son of Mr. Howard Huey and the late Laura Porter Huey of Petersburg, was an event of Saturday, June 20th at the Constance Christian Church, with Rev. Arthur Tipton, officiating.

The church beautifully decorated with ferns, flowers and candles.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Paul Craven played several piano selections and Mrs. Gilbert Dolwick sang "Because" and "O, Promise Me."

With the first notes of the Wedding March came Bro. Tipton, next Mr. Richard Kottmyer, brother of the bride as best man, followed by the groom.

Miss Nancy Huey sister of the groom and only bridesmaid was smartly dressed in blue organdy and carried pink roses.

Entering on her father's arm, the bride was beautiful in her sheer nylon gown, carrying a bouquet of white roses.

Ushers for the occasion were the Misses Izella Kottmyer, Ruth Shinkle, Carra Lou and Wilma Huey.

This young couple were both members of the 1939 graduating class of Hebron high school. The bride has attended Eastern State Teachers' College and will receive her A. B. degree in August, is a member of the Kappa Delta Pi, Elementary Council and Y. W. C. A. organizations. The groom also attended Eastern for two years, and at present is employed at Seagrams in Lawrenceburg, Ind.

A reception was held at the home of the bride immediately after the ceremony. The happy young couple left for their wedding trip at a late hour.

We wish for them a long, happy married life.

Bradburn-Rogers

Mr. and Mrs. John Bradburn announce the marriage of their daughter, Dorothy Alice, to Sergeant Kenneth F. Rogers, on January 17, 1942.

Sgt. and Mrs. Rogers are making their home in Lincoln, Neb., where he is stationed at the present time.

Their many friends congratulate them and wish them many years of happiness.

CANNING SUGAR AVAILABLE JULY 1

MAXIMUM OF NINE POUNDS PER PERSON TO BE ISSUED FOR REMAINDER OF CANNING SEASON.

The second and final registration for canning sugar for this season was announced by the Local Rationing Board No. 8, Monday and dates and places were made known for the registration of this sugar.

A maximum of nine pounds per person will be allowed for this final canning and all persons will be required to bring their sugar rationing cards to the places of registration when they want to register for sugar.

In order to accommodate the people and to help save tires, the Burlington Board has volunteered to hold registrations at the various towns on the following dates so that persons living in these communities can register without having to travel a great distance. The time of registration in each community will be from 7 to 10:00 p. m. (Eastern War Time).

Wednesday, July 1—Burlington.
Thursday, July 2—Florence.
Friday, July 3—Union.
Monday, July 6—Petersburg.
Wednesday, July 8—Grant.

The Burlington Board will also meet at the courthouse on each Monday and Friday beginning Friday, July 10th from 7 to 10 p. m.

Residents of the Hebron community will register for canning sugar at the Hebron Garage, Monday through Friday, between the hours of 4 p. m. and 10 p. m. E. W. T., from July 1st to July 25th. No registration on Saturday.

Walton residents will appear before the Board at City Hall between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. E. W. T., Monday Through Friday from July 1st to July 25th. No registration on Saturday.

Cress Brothers Return Home For Brief Visit

Harry Cress, and Everett Cress returned home for a visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Cress, of Burlington. Harry has been promoted to Sergeant in the U. S. Army and is located at Ft. Devins, Mass., while Everett has the rank of Chief Petty Officer in the U. S. Navy.

Harry spent fifteen days with his parents, while Everett had only fourty-four hours from the time he left Norfolk, Va.

Both of these boys have the best wishes of their many friends in Burlington and Boone County.

Staff Sergeant Rank Given Two Youths In Army Air Corps

Mr. and Mrs. George Kottmyer received word last week that their son, Sergeant James Woodford Kottmyer, who is with the Air Corps, MacDill Field, Tampa, Fla., had been promoted to the rank of Staff Sergeant.

Harold Johnson, son of Rev. and Mrs. Roy Johnson was recently promoted to Staff Sergeant. Harold is stationed at Williams Field, Chandler, Arizona in the U. S. Army Air Corps.

Local Youths Enlist In United States Navy

Red Cross First Aid Instructors Appointed

Red Cross First Aid instructor appointments for Mrs. Della B. Dils and Mrs. Nora G. Layne, both of Florence, have been received by Rev. J. Russell Cross, Chairman of the Boone County Chapter, from Mr. A. W. Cantwell, Director of First Aid, Water Safety and Accident Prevention for the Eastern Area Headquarters.

These two instructors, Mrs. Dils and Mrs. Layne, successfully completed the course conducted for instructor-training held in the Campbell County Chapter by Mr. T. C. McDaniel, Jr., Red Cross Field Representative, May 11-15, 1942.

Mrs. Layne is already busily engaged in teaching a class in Fir[st] Aid for the New Haven Civili[an] Defense program. It is hoped th[at] other classes will be started thr[ough] out the county in the near futur[e].

REPORTS DAMAG[E] HEAVY TO CROP[S]

IN IDLEWILD COMMUNITY FROM GRASSHOPPERS—CONTROL MEASURES LISTED BY COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE.

Grasshoppers are reported as abundant in many sections of the county, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Idlewild community, which suffered last year probably the worst infestation that ever occurred in the county, is reporting considerable damage already starting this year.

The following information on grasshopper control is supplied by the College of Agriculture:

Grasshoppers, content to feed and remain in the meadows and along the road sides as long as the grass remains green, are now leaving the tough, dry grass in many parts of the state and moving into fields of corn, tobacco and vegetables where the plants are tender and succulent. The migration is comparatively slow. The insects usually start feeding on the edge of the planting and gradually move deeper into the field, consuming the plants as they go.

It often happens during migration that there is a fence-row between the field left and the one invaded. In this instance, the grasshoppers, are feeding during the day, return to the fence row to pass the night. Advantage of this knowledge is taken in applying control measures. Apply the bait to that part of the field where the grasshoppers are feeding and to the space between their bed and breakfast—or between the fence-row where they spend the night and the plants upon which they feed.

If the grasshoppers are now in clover, timothy, and alfalfa fields, it is suggested that these hay crops be harvested as soon as possible. In harvesting the crop, leave an uncut swatch around the margins and in the middle of the field. The grasshoppers will congregrate in the uncut grass where they can be poisoned. A poisoned bait should be scattered in the uncut swatch and on either side of it for a distance of several feet. The bait should be spread at the time cutting starts since the purpose of this procedure is to kill the insects before they migrate to other fields.

Control—Poisoned Bait

The poisoned bait is made by mixing while dry 100 pounds of wheat bran and 5 pounds of Paris green or white arsenic and then adding and mixing well 2 gallons of fresh (not use) lubricating mineral oil such as is used for automobile crankcases of 30 to 30 S. A. E. rating, the latter being preferable in very hot, dry weather. This bait should be broadcast by hand at the rate of 10 to 12 pounds dry weight to the acre. ((For a small garden 50x100 feet use 1½ pounds brand, 1½ ounce of poison and ½ pint of oil). Scatter the poison in the morning between 6 and 8 a. m.

Do not look for results until about three days after applying the bait. Two or three applications may be necessary. Dead grasshoppers will be found under trash and litter—few of them die in the open spaces.

Since grasshopper migrate readily, it is strongly advised that control measures be undertaken cooperatively on a neighborhood or community basis.

BIDS REJECTED ON LAKE PROJECT

ONLY TWO BIDS SUBMITTED FOR CONSTRUCTION OF FAIR GROUNDS LAKE—BIDS ARE TOO HIGH.

The 4-H and Utopia Club Fair Grounds building committee received only two sealed bids for the construction of the proposed lake on the grounds. One bid was $1239.50 without the spillway and the other was $1600.00 for construction of both the lake and spillway. Both bids were rejected.

Five hundred dollars was allotted in the fair grounds purchasing program for the construction of the lake. The war will necessitate a higher expenditure for the lake and the 4-H and Utopia Club Council was prepared to meet a reasonable increase expenditure.

The fair ground is Boone County's own, bought and paid for by 327 public spirited citizens, deeded to the county with a perpetual lease to the 4-H and Utopia Club Council. These same public spirited citizens are still just as interested in the ideals of the fair grounds program, but appreciate the difficulties encountered as a result of the war program. They are just as patriotic in their duty to their country in the emergency as they were interested in the improvement of our county.

The 4-H and Utopia Club Council feel that those who made the purchase of the grounds possible want our war effort to have first choice of all other programs. While the completion of some of the plans for improving the grounds may have to be postponed until after the war, the council pledges full support to the completion of the fair grounds program and recognition to all who gave it their most loyal support.

Covington Girl Injured In Automobile Accident Near Big Bone, Sunday

Miss Wanda Brewer, 222 Berry Street, Covington, was seriously injured in an automobile accident Sunday night on the Big Bone Union road while returning home after participating in a special B. Y. U. program sponsored by the Southside Baptist Church.

Several other members of the group who were in the same car received slight injuries. The injured were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by Paul Branham and Ralph Maurer, who were returning from the services.

2,000 BOONE CO. SHEEP DIPPED

URING WEEK BY CARROLL COUNTY FARM BUREAU—COST OF DIPPING IS TEN CENTS PER HEAD.

Two thousand head of sheep for more than 53 farmers in the county will be dipper for the control of ke, mites and scab, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The sheep are being dipped with the portable dipping vat secured from the Carroll County Farm Bureau and Sheep Protective Association.

The securing of sheep dipping service to control external parasites has for years been a problem with local sheepmen. External parasites and not feed is the greatest cause of wool losses. The dipping service comes to the county highly recommend. If the program is successful, there is a possibility that the local Sheep Protective Association may take steps after the war to secure their own local vat service.

The cost of dipping is ten cents per head, the same price being charged both for old sheep and for lambs. The Carroll County service furnishes all labor and equipment from the barn door. Efficient service is rendered and the cost for the average size flock is much cheaper than the service could otherwise be done.

"For Over Fifty Years"

VICTORY DEPENDS UPON US

"Neither optimism nor pessimism will win this war," wrote Dorothy Thompson recently, "but meticulous preparation, audacious action, taking advantage of every weakness of the enemy, and ingenious nation can muster. In a war like this one, we must assume at every moment, from start to finish, that its entire outcome depends upon us. In favorable moments we must not relax; in distressful moments we must pull ourselves together. At no moment must our efforts be affected by our moods."

It is undoubtedly true that many of us have given way to unjustified optimism of late. That is only natural. We exaggerate United Nations victories and minimize Axis victories. A high government official said not long ago that, judging by the headlines in some newspapers, General MacArthur's forces must be knocking at the gates of Tokyo. Even the best of editors succumb to wishful thinking at times, and their papers reflect that attitude.

The plain truth is that, unless the completely unlikely occurs, we have barely started our war effort. The maps of the world tell the whole sorry story. Japanese dominance in the South Pacific is complete. China is in extreme danger, and Burma has been lost. British Asiatic forces have fought bravely, but they have constantly been overwhelmed and forced into retreat. The complete loss of the Philippines has released crack Jap divisions for service elsewhere.

In Europe, Hitler is still supreme. The Russians have performed wonders in holding back the Nazi legions. But the fact remains that much of Russian territory is still in Hitler's hands, and it's a long way from the fighting lines to the German border.

There is no cause for pessimism in all this. The Axis was ready for war and the United Nations were not, and serious reverses were inevitable. And at the same time, we must not make the fatal mistake of thinking that all is going perfectly, and that there's nothing much to worry about. It has been observed, with great accuracy, that the United Nations won't lose the war unless they start thinking they can't lose it.

The Burma campaign illustrates our difficulties. Lieutenant General Stilwell and the other commanders planned brilliantly and their forces fought brilliantly. They just didn't have the equipment. General Stilwell had this to say: "I claim we got a hell of a beating. We got run out of Burma and it is humiliating as hell . . . The Japanese are not supermen. If we go back properly proportioned and properly equipped we can throw them out." The invader, in belief, had the material that a modern war demands. The defenders didn't.

Here at home, as the commentators have been saying, we have got over the production hump. Within a few months the production of war materials of all kinds will reach fantastic dimensions. What we still have to do is to win the battle of transportation. The task of supplying forces which are fighting on battlefronts in every section of the world, thousands of miles from the production lines, is staggering. We have not yet solved the U-boat problem. We haven't enough naval craft to keep the convoys going with minimum losses. This is going to take time—and it is going to take stupendous, undivided effort as well.

In short, we are still fighting delaying actions for the most part. We are not yet in a position to start the gigantic counter-offensive which will recapture the many vital positions the United Nations have lost, and carry the war to the home of the enemy. But we are moving swiftly toward the day when that will be possible, and the long-pull outlook grows steadily brighter. In the meantime, it is obviously the part of wisdom to figure on a very long, very arduous war. One thing we can't afford is overconfidence.

AIR BASES AVAILABLE

Time observes that experts are convinced that "China has been a great military opportunity which the U. S. has neglected—an opportunity which if not grasped may not exist much longer."

China's greatest need now is planes, pilots, mechanics and gasoline. And Chinese airfields provide the perfect take-off points for raids on Japan proper. The great industrial city of Nagasaki, for instance, is only three hours by air from Chekiang. Formosa is closer still. All important military objectives in Japan can be reached with relative ease.

The raid on Japan made by Brigadier General Doolittle's squadrons demonstrates that Japan is really vulnerable to air attack. He and his flies reported that every target was hit according to plan, and that Japanese defenses didn't amount to much. The fact that every American plane reached a friendly field is proof of that.

Japanese radio broadcasts following the raid was obviously designed to buck up civilian morale—which certainly indicates that the Japanese people didn't enjoy the American air visit at all.

Many an American bomber, with crews and spare parts, is likely to go to China in the near future. Tokyo hasn't seen the last of United Nations growing air power.

WAR AND AGRICULTURE

Much is heard of current high prices of agricultural products. What people often overlook is the fact that war has also brought the farmer many a tough problem.

The price of everything he must buy is substantially higher now than in pre-war days. His taxes, like everyone else's are at record highs. Shortages and priorities make it difficult and sometimes impossible for him to obtain new equipment and needed repairs, and building and maintenance materials.

Most serious of all, the agricultural labor situation is actually desperate in many localities. The best men have gone to work in war industry, attracted by big wages. The draft has taken many who would normally work on farms. Even when labor is available, the price demanded is beyond the average farmer's power to pay.

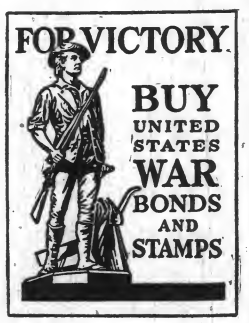
So all isn't milk and honey down on the farm. The farmer and his organizations, such as marketing cooperatives, have a mighty big and difficult job on their hands.

—o—

DON'T ROCK THE BOAT

We have a President who was elected by a majority of the people. He is our commander-in-chief. We have every reason to believe that he is intelligent, far-sighted, capable and devoted to the basic principles of democracy.

Now let's get this straight: Every time the President is distracted from his job of directing our war effort it adds days to the other end of the war. It adds nobody knows how many names to the casualty list.



The commander-in-chief and his staff need both hands free to fight this war. Today they do not have both hands free. They must use one hand to smooth ruffled feathers and pat shaky backs and slap treason-talking mouths among the civilian population.

Mistakes are being made in Washington today. Do you seriously suppose that a job as big as this one can be done without mistakes? But it's time we learned to differentiate between two kinds of mistakes: (1) those that can't possible lose or prolong the war, and (2) those that can.

Nobody has a right today to distract the President for one instant with complaints about mistakes that can't lose or prolong the war. Let them be made. We can correct them later. We can save lives by ignoring them now.

The other kind of mistake—the war-losing or war-prolonging kind—should be brought to the President's attention by any citizen who honestly considers himself competent to advise. But the men whose words reach millions of people should remember that they have the power to distract the President enormously—and by distracting him, to cause the deaths of nobody knows how many young Americans in that last month of the war.

Many Americans must die in this war, but none should die simply because the President had to take time out to repair damage done by a phony public servant who could not resist whipping up the populace every time he got what he thought was a bright idea.—William McCleery, The Newspaper PM.

INVEST IN VICTORY!

Our boys can take the War to the enemy, if we back them up with ships and tanks and guns! But that takes money!

Help your Government to put the tools of war into the hands of our soldiers by purchasing War Savings Bonds and Stamps. And remember . . . just one Bond can't lick the Axis any more than just one gun! It takes millions of Americans buying War Savings Bonds and Stamps every pay day!

Bonds cost $18.75 and up . . . and they pay you back one-third more in only 10 years! Stamps cost 10¢, 25¢, and up . . . soon total the price of a Bond if bought regularly.

Help our boys on the fighting fronts wherever they may be! Buy War Savings Bonds as an investment for yourself and your country.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for June 28

ALCOHOL FACTS VERSUS DRINKING PROPAGANDA

LESSON TEXT—Proverbs 21:17; 23:32; Isaiah 5:20-23; Hosea 4:11; Joel 3:2, 3; Ephesians 5:18.
GOLDEN TEXT—If sinners entice thee, consent thou not.—Proverbs 1:10.

The facts are on the side of the one who opposes the liquor traffic, and they are so plentiful and so devastating that the industry does not care to face them. Their "best bet" is to use propaganda so skillfully prepared as to disarm the reader. If the propaganda is truthful, it is only because it has to be, and only in that measure.

Our lesson suggests several points in the liquor propaganda, each of which we can prove to be untrue.

I. They Say, "Enjoy Life, That's What We Are Here For" (Prov. 21: 17).

Consider the ads of the liquor trade. They carry the beautiful lady, the brilliant young man, the socially correct surroundings, riches, ease, etc. They suggest that even the grandmother in the home approves the use of intoxicants to bring comfort and pleasure to the breadwinner in the home.

What is the truth? Man is not here for pleasure; he is here to serve God. History demonstrates that the nation that lives for pleasure, especially in connection with the use of intoxicants, is doomed to extinction.

II. They Say, "Liquor Is Not Dangerous" (Prov. 23:32).

It is presented as a pleasant and harmless stimulant, when in fact it is known to science, to police and social welfare workers as a narcotic which not only upsets digestion and deranges physical processes but, most vicious of all, "affects personality by its action upon the certain specific brain area. It disturbs, confuses, slows down, and removes the restraints, the checks and balances which make a well-rounded personality. It is the highest functional level of the brain, the personality level, which is first put into eclipse by the action of alcohol" (Carson Taylor).

III. They Say, "Those Who Oppose Liquor Are Fanatics" (Isa. 5: 20, 21, 23).

The prophet answers that claim by pointing out that those who favor the use of alcohol are the ones who call evil good and good evil, etc. A little study of liquor propaganda as it appears in the advertising of the industry soon demonstrates that fact. Of late they have been trying to convince us that beer is just a soft drink for the home. Any policeman who has seen a man drunk on beer, and any social or religious worker who has seen the destruction it has wrought in the home and in society, knows that is not true.

IV. They Say, "Strong Men and Leaders Are Drinkers" (Isa. 5:22).

Sadly enough, many of our leading men do indulge in liquor, but if the truth were out, it would be known that they are less capable as leaders and weaker men for their use of it. And who has not seen a leader become a poor derelict by the alcohol route, or a strong man become a jittery mental, moral, and physical wreck in the same way.

The work of a nation in both war and peace is done by sober, steady, trustworthy men who have a "clear head," not because they use a certain whisky but because they do not use it.

V. They Say, "The Pleasure Is Worth Price" (Hosea 4:11; Joel 3:2, 3).

The wicked ones who captured Israel felt they made a good trade when they gave a boy for a harlot, or exchanged a girl for wine. The modern system of making merchandise of boys and girls is not as openly crass as that, but when you figure the cost of alcohol to our land, be sure to add in the girls who have gone into iniquity by the way of tavern hostesses and the boys who have lost everything sacred because of "booze."

Remember too that the beer makers are deliberately using this war to cultivate a taste for beer in millions of young men—their future customers—and we are letting them get away with it, right in the army camps.

VI. They Say, "Drinking and Religion Go Well Together" (Eph. 5:18).

The contrast of Paul gives that claim the direct brand of falsehood. Being drunk with wine is the exact opposite of spirituality.

Liquor interests know that if church members can be led to believe that wine at dinner, beer as a soft drink—and an occasional social cocktail—is not incompatible with religious life, they will have effectually shut the mouth of the opposition they fear the most—the church.

Let pastors and church boards deal plainly and drastically with drinking church members, and the church will profit spiritually, and and again become an effective means of stemming the tide of social iniquity which is engulfing our nation.

The Blood Stream

N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE
814-816 Madison, Covington

The blood stream has several important functions. For instance it feeds the tissues from the products of digestion; it carries away waste matter and it aids in equalizing the temperature and the water content of the body.

Blood is not just plain fluid, but has two parts. A yellowish fluid called PLASMA, in which float solid particles called corpuscles. Then there are three kinds of corpuscles; red corpuscles; white corpuscles, and blood platelets. The red corpuscles are the oxygen carriers of the body. The white corpuscles are the protectors of the body and multiply at a great rate of speed. In other words, the white corpuscles enable the body to resist infections and throw off contagious disease.

Friends, now that we understand how important a part our blood stream plays in the health of our entire body, it is easy to see that we should be careful not to choke or cramp this bloom stream in any way.

When you cramp blood vessels and shut off blood supply to any part of the foot, every school physiology book tells us that you not only deprive it of the food it should have to keep healthy, but the slower blood stream cannot clear away waste matter as it should. We find chemical deposits form at the joints of the feet and the legs and then inflamation develops leading to pain and discomfort that makes you miserable all over. These symptoms are often mistaken for arthritis, rheumatism or some other ailment. Backaches, headaches and many body ills may be traced to the feet.—Adv.

How to Get Better Service

FROM YOUR ELECTRIC TABLE APPLIANCES

With electric table appliances out of production due to war, you'll want to take good care of the ones you have in order that you can continue to enjoy their step-saving convenience. Here are some suggestions that will prove helpful:

ELECTRIC TOASTER

Be careful in cleaning your toaster. Never put it in water. Wipe outside with damp cloth, using mild abrasive if necessary. Heating element cleans itself when you turn on the current.

Most toasters have removable crumb trays. Use a small brush to wipe out crumbs if your toaster has no tray.

Be careful not to drop your toaster; it may break connections or damage thermostat.

COFFEE MAKER OR PERCOLATOR

Never immerse a metal percolator in water. Stand on dry drainboard, wash inside with warm soapy water, rinse and dry. Wash outside with damp cloth, being caseful not to let water get into electrical connections.

If you have a glass coffee maker with cloth filter, rinse filter cloth thoroughly with cold water after each using. Between usings, keep cloth in glass of cold water.

If you have a metal coffee maker or percolator, substitute a tablespoonful of baking soda for coffee occasionally and proceed as though you were making coffee. This will remove coffee oil adhering to metal and eliminate that bitter taste.

If your percolator refuses to heat, a fuse may have burned out. Remove bottom plate and replace with spare fuse or get another from your dealer.

WAFFLE BAKER

To clean waffle baker, wipe edge of grids with clean dry cloth. If any particles stick to grids, remove with wire brush. Never wash grids. It removes absorbed grease that prevents sticking.

Wipe any spilled batter from outside with damp cloth, then polish with soft polishing cloth. Never put waffle baker in water.

If waffles stick, due to improper preheating or insufficient shortening in batter, remove all particles from grids with wire brush, then with a small brush thoroughly cover grids with salad oil or unsalted melted fat. Connect iron and heat until grid begins to smoke. Pour in enough batter for one waffle and bake until done. Discard this waffle — as it has absorbed excess conditioner — and you won't have to grease waffle baker again if you take good care of it.

This Week On The Home Front

This week, the nation's brief but intensive drive to collect and send to the reclaiming plants every available fragment of scrap rubber is now in full swing. It will be over June 30. Popular response to the President's recent appeal on rubber salvage is reported excellent.

In millions of homes in some of the larger centers, the housewives are stepping on the tin cans so that they may be collected for the recovery of tin for bushings which reduce the friction in the engines of our military aircraft and for other vital military purposes.

* * *

OPA is getting down to cases with price and rent control in effect. Cost of living no longer goes up.

Thus take in the belt, tightening our national economy, so that nothing useful in war may be wasted on non-essential or by inflation.

* * *

Bureau of Labor Statistics reports that the increase in living costs, which mounted 17½ per cent between the beginning of the war in Europe in 1939 and price control was stopped in its tracks during the May 15 to June 2 period, and actually declined .1 per cent on the average for 21 cities surveyed. In some cities where a net increase was found, higher prices on items not under ceiling were given as the reason.

* * *

Commenting, Price Administrator Leon Henderson said: "The battle against inflation can be won. But the battle is not won yet. If future reports are to be as good, we must have the unremitting vigilance of everyone. To hold living costs stable is the people's battle. The people must be on guard, and I may say they are not yet sufficiently on guard.

Our experience during the first month of general price regulation has shown us all too clearly that there are still a few people who do not believe in keeping the cost of living down as a part of the war job, or who would like to see controls applied only to the other fellow. There are some who would like to see the administration of this program ham-strung or crippled. I feel sure that public opinion will scuttle the efforts of these groups, but the public must be vigilant."

* * *

Interviewing newspaper men in Cleveland, David Ginesburg, OPA general Counsel, said that retail dealers were generally complying with the price regulation, but that a large portion of them were not observing the provision for proper posting of ceiling prices and keeping records. This situation, he said, calls for "additional educational work, rather big stick enforcement."

* * *

Landlords are slow in filing their registration for rent control, OPA reports. Rowland B. Schell, regional rent executive for Ohio, West Virginia, and Kentucky, said in a statement: "We hope the landlords will file as promptly as possible. The deadline for filing is midnight, July 1."

* * *

OPA in the Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky area is aiming at July 1 as the date when the reorganization of the local War Price and Rationing Boards must be complete. West Virginia and Kentucky are among the states making good progress. State OPA directors by nomination of local Defense Councils name the boards, and designate the chairmen. Paid clerical staffs are selected by the local chairmen and not by OPA. These boards will have adult bicycles as one of their rationing jobs.

Passenger transportation, like freight, is becoming more and more a problem. Shortage may hit that great old American institution, the state and county fair, for the duration. Office of Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman is asking for the postponement of the fairs this year, and in a statement, requests deferment for the duration of all meetings, conventions, and group tours not closely connected with the war effort. Staggering of vacations and terminating them on week days rather than on the customary week-end, is suggested. Said Mr. Eastman: "If the American people will voluntarily impose certain restrictions upon their travel . . . there is good reason to hope that no drastic control over travel will be necessary."

* * *

OPA has made a count of all the new bicycles for grownups in the country. Not quite complete, the inventory adds up to 150,688. These bikes will be rationed soon.

* * *

OPA announces that stamps Nos. 5 and 6 in the sugar rationing books will be valid for four weeks instead of two. Stamp 4 is good till midnight, Saturday after which stamp No. 5 becomes good for two pounds of sugar for a period extending until midnight, July 25. Stamp No. 6, also good for two pounds, may be used from July 26 to August 22. Stamps Nos. 1, 2 and 3 are no longer good, and OPA asks all housewives to tear them out of their books and destroy them.

* * *

Families whose members registered for sugar rationing but were not issued war ration books because they had excess amounts of sugar supplies will be permitted to obtain books on application to the local war price and rationing boards, if their excess sugar has been depleted by home canning.

* * *

Do you own or claim to own any rights in foreign or formerly foreign-owned patents? Then, for your own protection and to assist the government in locating foreign held patents, write to the Alien Property Custodian on or after June 29 to get Form APC-2, and instructions.

* * *

The war may bring gack the "Old Oaken Bucket." WPB has issued an order encouraging manufacture of wooden pails and tubs to save metal.

* * *

WPB is permitting continued manufacture of baby carriages, but they must contain none of the scarcest metals and a minimum of iron and steel. The answer, probably, is wood.

* * *

Retailers may sell stocks of gift toilet kits without requiring that used tin tubes be turned in—if the box is sent directly to a soldier, sailor, marine, or coast guardsman.

* * *

The billion-dollar distillery industry met in Louisville during the week and agreed to cease manufacture of whiskey after November 1, or sooner if possible. To meet the War Production Board's goal of 240,000,000 gallons of industrial alcohol for 1942 and 1943, their plants will be converted.

* * *

Some males took the loss of cuffs from their pants legs very hard. They bought their ready-to wear suits unfinished, and then took them to tailors to have cuffs finished on them. But WPB caught up with this. Amendment to the new clothing order now forbids tailors from finishing trousers with cuffs.

* * *

Auto Grave Yard owners of Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky received a pat on the back from the Regional Office of the War Production Board during the week. In populous Ohio, they produced in May, 36,862,000 pounds of auto scrap; in Kentucky 11,030,000 pounds, and in West Virginia, 3,-146,000.

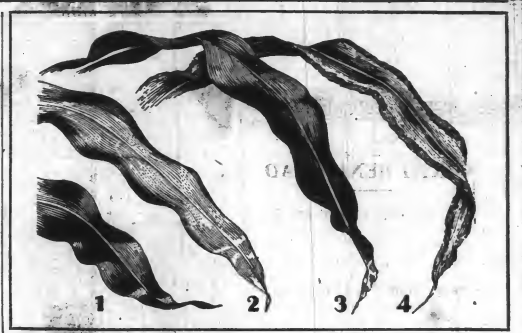
Hunger Signs Reveal Corn's Need for Plant Food

YOUNG corn, like young children, reveals definite hunger symptoms when the diet is lacking in sufficient nourishment. By the time corn is halfway to the "knee-high" stage, these starvation signs are plainly visible to the alert farmer's eye.

Steps can then be taken to correct the condition by applying nitrogen, phosphorus or potash, and the plants restored to healthy, vigorous growth.



Watch out for the following hunger signs once the corn is 8 inches above the ground, says a statement of the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee. They will tell you whether famine is rampant in your fields.

1—If the corn is stunted and undersized; if the leaves are greenish-yellow or orange-yellow instead of deep green; and if the tip ends are withered, then the plant is starving for nitrogen. A side-dressing of nitrogen fertilizer, applied at the rate of 40 to 50 pounds per acre along the row, will quickly remedy this condition.

2—If the leaves and stem show a tendency to become purplish and if the young corn plant is spindly and unthrifty, then it lacks sufficient phosphorus. Under conditions of severe phosphorus starvation the leaves may show symptoms similar to those resulting from nitrogen deficiency.

3—If the margins and tips of the leaves appear scorched or fired; if growth is slow and the young leaves are yellowish-green or streaked with yellow, then the corn is crying for potash, the balance wheel of plant foods. The remedy is a side-dressing of 150 to 200 pounds of muriate of potash per acre in the row or hill, before the final cultivation.

If a combination of these symptoms appears, a mixed fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potash will provide an effective prescription.

Typical effects of plant food hunger, contrasted with normal leaf. No. 1—A healthy corn leaf; No. 2—Nitrogen starvation; No. 3—Phosphorus deficiency, chiefly indicated by a purplish hue, often very noticeable on under side as well as top, and a "firing" of the leaf tip; No. 4—Potash hunger. (See details in story.)

TO GIVE PRESIDENT CHAMPION 4-H LAMB

The champion 4-H club lamb at the Central Kentucky lamb show will go to the President of the United States at the opening of the "Eat-More Lamb" month July 1, it was announced by Jay D. Weil of Lexington, who paid 60 cents a pound for the animal. The lamb, raised by Miss Juanita Hayden of Jessamine county, was rated the best of the 740 lambs sent to the show by 4-H club members in 12 counties.

Clark county boys and girls furnished the best pen of 15 lambs. They brought 17½ cents a pound from the Producers' Cooperative Commission Association, sponsor of the show. Mercer county was second and Montgomery county third. Mary Frances Green and Raymond Green, Clark county, placed second and third, respectively, in the single lamb division. The Lafayette hotel in Lexington paid 44 cents a pound for Miss Green's lamb.

Thirty Jefferson county farmers are growing 120 acres of hemp for seed.

LIST WAYS TO SAVE WOMEN'S CLOTHING

Speaking of women's clothing and the war, Miss Verna Latzke, clothing specialist in the home economics department of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, offers the following suggestions:

THINGS TO DO NOW:

Have winter tailored suits and topcoats, etc., cleaned and pressed and then store them in bags for the summer.

Moth-proof bags by taping every opening so that no moths can enter. Be sure no moths or larvae are on clothes when they are put in bags. Insert moth balls or other moth-proofing materials before closing bags.

Have hat cleaned and also sealed against moth damage for the summer.

Clean winter shoes thoroughly with saddle soap, leaving a little of the soap on the leather. Put in shoe trees. Do not put on polish before storing as it may crack and injure the leather. Have heels straightened and resoling done. Keep in shoe boxes until fall.

Clean gloves before storing.

Before storing anything, see that mending is done if needed, and clothes are ready for instant use in the fall.

THINGS TO KEEP IN MIND:

Many of last summer's clothes can be used again. If clothes on hand can be made to last, do not buy new ones.

In many cases, while on the farm, stockings are not necessary in summer.

Wear work clothes or slacks on the farm. Keep good clothes for town wear.

Mend, polish, repair, "make do" the clothes on hand.

American troops are being equipped because of that radio-phonograph Mr. and Mrs. America didn't buy this year. The steel in an average radio-phonograph would make close to a dozen bayonets.

MUNITIONS PRODUCTION IN U. S. PLANTS SPEEDS AT AN INCREDIBLE RATE

"This is America going to war—a streamlined spirit of '36," said Ben H. Miller, in the Baltimore Sun, after nearly two weeks of first-hand inspection of plane factories, shipyards, gun arsenals, ammunition producers, chemical and machine tool plants, submarine builders, precision instrument designers and a miscellany of much smaller but no less important war efforts. The article published in a recent issue of the Baltimore Sun was approved by the Army and Navy censors.

It seems incredible, Mr. Miller said. American labor and management have bared their arms and whetted their ingenuity in determination to fulfill President Roosevelt's gigantic program for the production of planes, tanks, guns and ships for the United Nations.

In twenty-one major plants visited to date, each of which produces some essential sinew of war, added Mr. Miller, plant officials, sub-executives and foremen have been unanimous in their praise of labor's cooperation. At the same time, there have been ample demonstrations of the willingness of management to put its best brains to work to evolve short cuts to the objective—production of munitions and production of them right now whatever the sacrifice.

There can be no doubt that the munitions needed for the soldiers and sailors of the United Nations, far-flung from Australia to Iceland, are rolling off the production lines by the hundreds and thousands, the millions and the billions—yes, actually, in the case of rifle and machinegun bullets, billions—a year, added Mr. Miller.

It is unfortunate that the exact figures on the production of the last year, which would show the great strides made in bringing this country up from far below scratch in the munitions field, cannot be disclosed. It is obvious, however, that this is information which the enemy would like to have.

But nonetheless, said Mr. Miller, the tools of war and the tools with which to make those tools now really are flowing.

"Substantially," said Fred Kroeger, general manager of the Allison Airplane Division of General Motors, which is producing monthly in the Indianapolis area over three times the number of engines it produced last year, "we have our production problem licked," Mr. Miller reported.

At Glenn L. Martin's in Baltimore, it was disclosed that warplane production was over four times that of a year ago.

And regarding thirty-ton tank production in one plant, Major Arthur J. Seller, chief of industrial services in the Philadelphia ordnance district asserted:

"In April, 1941, when we first talked of production of medium tanks, we set a certain rate. Last month, we actually produced three and a half times what we planned. And another increase of almost three times over last month's production will be reached several months before the end of the year."

Victory ships already are sliding down the ways at an astounding rate which is way ahead of contract schedule and close to two a week, said Mr. Miller.

In the Norfolk area, the familiar cruisers, seven aircraft carriers specially designed ships of one type or another are either afloat or in far more advanced stages than was anticipated a year or even six months ago.

In fact, counting the four other carrier building at Bethlehem Yards at Quincy, Mass., and the seven afloat, production will give this country a total of twenty of these craft in the not very distant future.

Far up north, at Manitowoc, Wis. submarines have started sliding sidewise down the ways—the Peto, first of a group of ten sister ships, will be completed some nine months ahead of schedule.

There are many other cheering things which could be written about, if they would not give aid and comfort to the enemy, but on the whole, the picture of war production is truly bright, concluded Mr. Miller.

FARM BUILDING LIMITED BY WPB

The Department of Agriculture at Washington has made the following statement about farm construction:

"No new agricultural construction may be started without permission if the cost is $1,000 or more for the building or project involved. This in effect exempts all farm construction costing under $1,000, which will cover a large percentage of farm building. No agricultural construction in excess of the $1,000 limitation will be eligible until individual applications are approved by the WPB. USDA War Board will certify applications locally.

"Second, farm houses are affected by a provision under which the exemption is limited to an estimated cost of $500, unless the purpose of construction is to rebuild or restore construction damaged or destroyed under specified conditions."

FEEDING TO HEAVIER WEIGHTS PROFITABLE

Due to the favorable corn and hog ratio there is a tendency for hog men to feed their hogs longer and to heavier weights before marketing. In other words, the price of hogs has advanced more rapidly than the price of corn, which makes it more profitable to feed hogs to heavier weights.

Then too, there is another very important factor, which causes the farmer to hold his hogs in the feed lot a little longer. Heavier weight hogs are selling relatively higher than usual. This narrowing of the spread of prices paid for the different weight hogs, is also playing a big roll in making it more profitable to feed hogs out to heavier weights.

Fats are needed now, and from a patriotic standpoint, as well as from a money making standpoint, hogs should be made to weigh heavier before marketing. Lard is in great demand and the heavier fat hogs produce a greater percent of this product than the lighter weights.

These heavy weights should not be too long in the making by limited feeding. Full feeding a balanced ration on pasture is good practice. It requires little more feed for each pound of gain, and by pushing the hog there will be less risk from death. There will be a quicker turnover of your invested money. The hogs will be out of the way so more attention can be given to other farm operations.—E. J. Wilford, Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

BELLEVIEW CHURCH OF CHRIST
Sam Hamilton, Minister

Bible School 10:00 C. W. T. Tommie Stevens, Supt.

Worship Service 11:00 C. W. T.

The fathers of the congregation were well represented at the service in their honor last Lord's Day. The auditorium was decorated with flowers, many of which bore a dedication to some father's memory or honor. A resume of the early history of the congregation and the heroic efforts of the founding "Fathers" was delivered by Bro. W. G. Kite and a moment of prayer was offered in thanksgiving for their faith in the mission and purpose of the New Testament Church of Christ.

Due to the unseasonable weather the party at Purdy's Lake was postponed until Monday night of the current week. A similar affair will be held each Saturday evening for the duration of the summer. Bring your bathing suits, lunch and Bibles. We have provided a table and benches at the camp and intend to add to the equipment from time to time. The fun begins at 5:30 C. W. T.

The sermon subject for next Lord's Day will be "Boaz and Jachin." This sermon should be of special interest to a certain class of people. Come and hear this discussion of "The house not made with hands, eternal in the Heavens."

MANY PULLETS "GO COASTING"!—THEIR RIDE ALWAYS DOWNHILL ONE

"Not all 'coasting' is done in winter", warns J. H. McAdams, poultry specialist with Purina Mills. "In summer many, many poultry raisers allow their young pullets to 'go coasting'—and these pullets' ride is always a downhill one.

"What usually happens is this," says McAdams. "Baby chicks cost good hard-earned money, so the first few weeks most poultry raisers give their chicks the very best in starting feeds. But as the chicks get larger and eat more, the tendency is to stop feeding mash altogether, or to feed a poorer one. Both practices are costly," McAdams claims, "for downhill go their young pullets, and with them go their fall chances for eggs when prices are highest.

"What they should do", recommends McAdams, "is change from the very best in starting mashes to the very best in growing mashes, when chicks have eaten two pounds of starting mash each. And he claims this recommendation is not over expensive for the cost per hundred for growing mash is usually less than for starting mash.

Where the poultry raiser grows no grain, McAdams recommends feeding a nationally recognized all-mash growing ration. If the poultry raiser grows a limited amount of grain, he should feed a nationally recognized growing mash that is meant to be fed with farm raised scratch grain. If he grows a lot of grain, he should have it ground and mixed according to one of several formulas, depending on the grain he has:

PG 17-01
200 pounds ground corn
100 pounds Purina Chowder

PG 17-02
100 pounds grown corn
100 pounds finely ground oats
100 pounds Purina Chowder

PG 17-22
150 pounds coarsely ground wheat
100 pounds finely ground barley
100 pounds Purina Chowder

PG 17-24
500 pounds ground sorghum grains
200 pounds Purina Chowder

A Week of The War

The Office of Price Administration fixed July 1, 2, and 3 as the dates for motorists in the Eastern states and the District of Columbia to register for their new gasoline ration books. The permanent rationing system in the East becomes effective July 15, and the unit value of existing ration cards was doubled to six gallons to carry motorists to this date. The OPA said motorists who hold A or B cards and have used all the units on them will not be able to get any more gasoline for the next 30 days unless they show need to a local rationing board.

Only A books will be issued by school registrars. Supplemental B and C permanent ration books, and bus and truck S books, will be issued by local rationing boards any time between July 1 and July 15. These books will be "tailored" to fit needs of individual motorists and companies, the Office said. B books containing 16 additional coupons will have a variable expiration date; C books containing as many as 96 additional coupons will be issued for three months, but coupon in excess of a motorist's actual needs will be removed before the book is issued. Bus and truck S books will be good for four months and will cover just enough fuel for the mileage allowed in forthcoming ODT regulations. Gasoline service station operators will be required to turn over to suppliers the exact number of stamps for the amount of gasoline delivered to their stations.

Rubber and Oil

President Roosevelt ordered an intensive drive to collect from homes, offices, farms and factories all articles of rubber that have been or can be discarded. The scrap rubber is being collected by the nation's gasoline filling stations, transported to central collection points by petroleum industry trucks and sold to the Rubber Recovery Corporation. Filling stations are paying a cent a pound for the rubber. Under Secretary of War Patterson reported Army and Navy crude rubber requirements during the 21 months after April 1, 1942, will be 800,000 tons, compared with the present U. S. reserve of 600,000 tons. He said he hoped the difference would be made up by the synthetic production program.

Commerce Secretary Jones said the RFC will finance the construction of a 24-inch pipeline from Longview, Tex., to Salem, Ill., at an estimated cost of $35 million. The pipeline will be completed December 1 and will have a capacity of 300,000 barrels a day. It will require 125,000 tons of steel, the WPB said, but will not interfere with steel deliveries for Army, Navy and Maritime Commission needs. Mr. Jones said necessary personnel to construct and operate the line will be furnished by the industry.

Civilian Supply

The WPB limited the use of steel in the manufacture of baby carriages and prohibited the used of any other metal, except gold and silver, in such manufacture. The Board placed similar restrictions on production of liturgical articles such as crucifixes, chalices and candlesticks. Deliveries of welding rods and electrodes were restricted to order with high preference ratings, or to specified government agencies and accredited schools of welding. The Board prohibited use of any but low-alloy steels in manufacture of chisels, hammers,, punches and other tools and prohibited, after September 1, production of mattresses or pads containing iron or steel.

Office of War Information Established

President Roosevelt created an Office of War Information, headed by Elmer Davis, writer and radio commentator, who was given authority to direct all the war information functions of the Government. The new agency will consolidate the functions and duties of the Office of Facts and Figures, the Office of Government Reports, the Foreign Information Service of the Office of the Coordinator of Information, and certain activities of the Division of Information in the Office for Emergency Management.

Foreign Relations

The White House announced the President and Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov reached "full understanding with regard to the urgent tasks of opening a second European front in 1942" at discussions held in Washington from May 29 to June 4. In addition, the President and Mr. Molotov discussed measures for speeding U. S. war aid to the Soviet Union and the fundamental problems of post-war cooperation to safeguard "peace and security to the freedom loving peoples. Both sides state with satisfaction the unity of their views on all these questions," the announcement said. The State Department reported the U. S. and the Soviet Union have signed a Lend-Lease agreement similar to those between the U. S. and Britain and China.

The President announced the U. S. and Britain have established a Combined Production and Resources Board to bring together "the production programs of the United States and the United Kingdom into a single integrated program, adjusted to the strategic requirements of the war . . . and to all relevant production factors." Mr. Roosevelt also announced this country and Britain have established a Combined oFod Board to investigate and formulate plans on any question, common to both countries, "relating to the supply, production, transportation, disposal, allocation or distribution, in or to any part of the world, of foods, agricultural materials from which foods are derived, and equipment and non-food materials ancillary to the production of such foods."

The Armed Forces

The Senate completed Congressional action on legislation to raise the base pay of members of the armed forces to $50 a month, retroactive to June 1. The House passed and returned to the Senate a bill authorizing a basic allowance of $50 a month for dependents of members of the armed forces, $28 to be paid by the Government and $22 to be withheld from pay. The War Department reported arrangements have been completed for voluntary transfer to U. S. armed forces of Americans serving with Canadian armed forces.

The President asked Congress to appropriate $40 billion for the fiscal 1943 Army Supply Bill, including approximately $11 billion for the Air Forces, $10 billion for Ordnance, $7 billion for Quartermaster and Transportation Services, $4 billion for Army pay, $3 billion for the signal Corps, and $3 billion for the Corps of Engineers. The Senate passed and returned to the House an Appropriation Bill providing $650 million in cash and $2 billion in contract authorizations for the Navy Department. The House passed and returned to the Senate a bill authorizing the Navy to acquire a total of 200 lighter-than-air craft, an increase from 72 specified in the Senate legislation.

The War Department announced that previous flying experience has been eliminated as a necessary qualification for glider pilot candidates. Applicants must be between 18 and 36. Those without prior flying experience will receive five weeks instruction in light power-driven airplanes. The Department said applicants for WAAC commissions will not be accepted if they have persons who are dependent on their pay.

The War Front

The Navy announced the Japanese "have made landings on a small scale on Attu Island, at the extreme tip of the Aleutian Archipelago and . . . Japanese ships have been reported in the Harbor of Kiska in the Rat group." Continuing Army and Navy aircraft attacks have forced the enemy to retire from the populated regions of the islands, the Navy said. These U. S. attacks are continuing, despite unfavorable weather conditions. The War Department announced arrival of additional units of the U. S. Army, including Negro troops, in the British Isles. Results of the Coral Sea Battle showed U. S. Naval task forces and land-based bombers sank one enemy aircraft carrier, three heavy cruisers, one light cruiser, two destroyers, several transports and small vessels; severely damaged and probably sank a cruiser and a destroyer; seriously damaged 20 additional vessels and shot down more than 100 enemy planes. U. S. losses were the aircraft carrier Lexington, the destroyer Sims and the tanker Neosho. In the Battle of Midway Island two of the largest enemy aircraft carriers were sunk, two other medium-sized carriers were sunk and at least 250 Japanese planes were destroyed, the Navy said.

A BUSTED HOT WATER BOTTLE MAY HELP WIN THE WAR!
REMEMBER the old time ballad which says, "For the want of a rider a battle was lost?.. Well, we're not going to lose this war, but a leaky hot water bottle may supply the extra ounce of scrap rubber that will more quickly give the Axis the axe.
Uncle Sam wants that old rubber right now!
Yes, the government wants every disused or worn out article made of rubber that can be sent to the nation's stock pile, and wants you to help get it there in a hurry.
Oil Industry is collecting it!
The scrap drive which started June 15th, will continue through June 30th, with gasoline stations from coast to coast helping collect scrap rubber and paying . . . .
A penny a pound in spot cash for every pound contributed by you . . . so take all the old rubber you can collect to the nearest gas station today.
None of the oil companies will receive one penny of profit for this service to the nation. Through the cooperatin and efforts of thousands of dealers and gasoline company employees, the scrap rubber will be turned over to the government and will be paid for by Uncle Sam on the basis of $25 per ton (2000 pounds). The difference between the amount paid by the oil companies and the amount paid by the government has been pledged to the USO, Navy Relief, Army Relief and, American Red Cross.
May help avert gasoline rationing in Central West
Since a shortage of rubber is considered the main reason for the threatened rationing of gasoline in the central states, this is one important way to do your part, and it may help to ward off the need for curtailment of this vital commodity.

VETCH GREAT CROP, SAYS HENRY FARMERS

Henry county farmers grew approximately 1,000 acres of vetch this season, about four-fifths of which was turned under to enrich the soil.

Bob Mason has 75 acres of vetch and small grain, of which he will harvest 25 or 30 acres for seed. He is planning to grow tobacco continuously on the same ground, with the aid of vetch.

Paul Boyer has 40 acres of vetch, some of which he will plow under. Minor Maddox has 30 acres of vetch and abruzzi rye. Linden James has a field of vetch and barley.

In several places in the county, County Agent W. B. Howell found vetch four to five feet high.

RETURNS FROM ONE EWE TOTAL $40.61

There's money in sheep, says County Agent Ralph D. Winchester of Russell county. Here's why: Chester Gosser of Russell county received $40.61 for lambs and wool produced by a three-year-old ewe. She had triplets. She cost $9.75 when Gosser took her out of a band of northwestern ewes two years ago.

SILO SAVES ALFALFA HAY

Argo Clagett of Warren county put seven acres of balbo rye and vetch in a silo, adding two bushels of corn meal to the ton of hay. Will Sloss filled a silo with alfalfa, using 70 pounds of blackstrap molasses to the ton. County Agent Ray Hopper says thousands of tons of alfalfa hay were ruined by rain this spring. As a result, farmers are interested in making silage out of their alfalfa and other hay crops.

Gayety Theater News

SATURDAY

Cowboy star Gene Autry of Republic musical westerns, who never appears in anything other than cowboy regalias, uses just the opposite of what the average citizen would wear for formal garb. When attending important functions, Gene wears an all-white cowboy outfit, with a white wide-brimmed hat, and white boots. "Cowboy Serenade," latest of the Autry westerns, will be at the Gayety, Saturday.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Olivia de Havilland was having difficulties in timing her entrance for a scene of Warner Bros.' "The Male Animal," the picture scheduled for the Gayety, Sunday and Monday. It is a slambang action scene, and Olivia was to rush down a long flight of stairs and reach the foreground at a crucial second. After being late on two tries, she fairly ran down the stairs for the third. Again, director Elliott Nugent pronounced her tardy.

"All right," said Olivia. "This time I'm going to come down by parachute."

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

It took Russell Simpson 42 years to do it, but he finally made his trip to Alaska in the gold rush pay off.

When Simpson was 17 in Seattle, Wash., he joined the trek to the Klondike, and spent weary months of fruitless digging.

He never forgave himself for the experience.

But when Frank Lloyd began casting for Universal's "The Spoilers," starring Marlene Dietrich, Randolph Scott and John Wayne, the producer promised to make up for this disappointment in the old timer's youth.

Lloyd saw to it that Simpson played a prospector who makes a big "strike" in "The Spoilers."

LEARN TO DO YOUR PART

Wouldn't this country be in a "fix" if it weren't for the women? Now that this war is on and we're up against a stiff opposition, don't you think you could help out just a little?

In many of our large factories, where guns, tanks, airplanes, and ammunitions are made, it's the women behind the machine. With our boys risking their lives on the front, the women and young girls have to take over at home to keep the flag waving over the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Wouldn't you like to be behind one of the machines, such as a lathe, miller, planer, grinder, etc., and know how to operate it? That little piece you make on the machine may save a life.

You can learn to operate a machine at the NYA War Production and Training Project in Covington, Ky. If you feel that you would like to work in the machine shop, the NYA offers power sewing and radio training, also. All you have to do is apply at th's office or any U. S. Employment Service Office. Come in today and learn to do your part.

By enrolling in one of these shops you are helping your country in this hour of crisis as well as being paid while in training.

STRESS DAIRYING IN MONTGOMERY COUNTY

A dairy committee is assisting County Agent Floyd McDaniel in a program to stress the importance of quality in milk production in Montgomery county. Round-table discussions, pictures and charts are used at meetings. Mr. and Mrs. Isom Osborne of Montgomery county report that their five cows are producing an average of $80 worth of milk a month, plus the family supply, and plus the calves. "Their cows receive sensible handling, in addition to bountiful feed and water," says McDaniel.

Approximately 30,000 tons of agricultural limestone will be distributed in Graves county this year.

CALLING DRAFTED MOTHERS
By Eraine Turin

The other day I went into a five-and-ten-cent store to make a purchase. After the purchase was completed, I stood at one of the counters glancing at the merchandise there. Suddenly my attention was drawn to a heated argument between a man, standing at the next counter, and the salesgirl. Later the manager intervened. Since the argument concerned a war problem, I remained where I was, feigned further interest in the merchandise and listened in. As nearly as I can remember the following is what I heard:

"The salesgirl said, "But I can't sell you a tube of shaving cream unless you turn in another tube."

"That's a hell of a note when you can't even buy a tube of shaving cream now," the man snapped back at her.

"But you can," the girl tried to assure him, "if you'll just give me any kind of empty tube, I'll be glad to sell it to you."

"Empty tube!" The man almost roared. "Haven't got one with me, didn't I tell you? I want a tube of that shaving cream now. I told you that didn't I?"

By this time the manager appeared on the scene. "Don't blame the girl," he said. "It's government orders."

"But I tell you I've got to have a tube of that shaving cream. They advertised it on the radio. If I can't get it, I'll turn you in."

"Say listen, Buddy, I don't care what you heard advertised on the radio." The manager apparently forgot his diplomatic role, as he was opening up on him. "You get no tube of shaving cream unless you go home and get me another tube."

"To hell with it. You've got to sell me what's advertised."

"Say, don't you know we're in a war and need the tin?" The manager was furious by now. "I just came back from the army where men are men—men who'd be glad if that's all they had to do—to turn in a measly tube for shaving cream." But the man walked out on him. Yet the manager stood there mumbling something I could no longer hear.

Then the salesgirl said, "You never told us you'd been a soldier. How'd you get back so soon?"

"Oh, that!" He seemed depressed as he spoke now. "The hospital gave me a discharge when I wanted to stick it out. And I had to come back to listen to men like that, who gripe when they can't get what they want. And my Buddies back there have to take so much." He walked away from the girl, and I left the store.

It is truly amazing that people can exhibit such lack of co-operation in our war effort as did this man. Obviously it pained me to see that the manager, a returned soldier, was made to realize such lack of cooperation. Each and everyone of us in civilian life should be more tractable, and not let ourselves be irked by inconsequential deprivations which war imposes. The returned soldier must be made to feel we are cooperating one hundred percent, to help his pals who still may be fighting on the battle front.

Drafted mothers of our nation, today, more and more of your sons will be returning from that battle front. And when they do return, they should not be made to encounter incidents like the one just cited. Manifestly your efforts should be directed not only toward giving your sons on the battle front what they require to win the war, but also toward giving those who have returned full cooperation to keep their spirits up. For when a soldier has given so much and returns, he should feel that civilians are as willing to do their part as he has done.

The lumber in two average desks would provide enough material to build a trailer for a war worker.

One electric dry shaver will keep one man well-groomed, but the copper in a hundred electric dry shavers would make a smoke tank for an airplane—a smoke-tank which by throwing a screen around a fighting ship, might save many American lives.

With The Reds

By Ford Frick, President, the National League

Cincinnati won the world championship in 1940. In 1942 Cincinnati's Army-Navy Relief program, the first twilight-night doubleheader in major league history, sets up June 30 as a landmark in baseball annals which the fans of Cincinnati and the rooters for the Reds from all along the Ohio Valley can make forever memorable.

The basic idea of the major league series of Relief Games is in line with baseball's place as the National Game in the life of our country. Baseball is more than a hundred years old, but it's real lifetime as a civic institution involving community prestige unquestionably dates from the Cincinnati Red Stocking of 1869, the first all-professional nine representing any of America's great cities.

I feel that the pioneer enterprise of those days has not only marched along into the present day in Cincinnati baseball, but has grown stronger and more active through the public-spirited operating programs of the Reds, with Powell Crosley as President and Warren Giles as General Manager.

The schedule of events programmed for June 30 indicates that no effort has been too great for the club to undertake in doing its part in the assignment to get together funds for the families of the men who are on our battlefronts, air, land and sea. I feel sure the world champion baseball fans of Cincinnati's home territory, which extends far beyond its actual city limits, will do their's just as enthusiastically and in great enough numbers to put Cincinnati at, or very near, the top of the club standing in point of total contribution to Relief.

All this year the American people, through many different avenues, have been and are, subscribing to the cause of keeping the home fires burning in the homes of the fighters while the fighters are fighting for us and our homes.

Baseball wants every American to be part of this patriotic movement, whether or not as a patron of baseball's Relief Fund games. In Cincinnati, however, the program for the evening is such that I feel every baseball fan who can get to Crosley Field that evening will be making his or her contribution as effectively as it can be made anywhere.

Total receipts, remember, go to the Army-Navy treasury. Buying a ticket to Crosley Field for June 30 is exactly equivalent to putting that same sum of money directly into the fund. The players themselves are paying, the newspapermen, the park policemen, ticket-sellers, refreshment vendors.

What better way is there for a baseball fan to help the Army-Navy Relief?

LETTER OF APPRECIATION

The following letter was received by Mrs. James C. Layne, Florence, from one of the soldiers entertained recently by a number of the Florence women. The letter follows:

Ft. Knox, Ky.
June 16, 1942

"Mrs. James C. Layne
Florence, Kentucky
My dear Mrs. Layne:

"My purpose in writing this letter is to try to express my gratitude and appreciation for your kindness and hospitality this past Sunday.

"When I made a reservation on the USO sponsored week-end tour from here to Cincinnati, little did I dream that I would enjoy myself as much as I did. In the four months I have spent in the Army this past week-end was really the grandest.

"Above all the manner in which you received us, catered to us, and cheered us with your pleasant conversation, will be an everlasting and pleasant memory. The meal was simply delicious, and I really felt that I was at home—especially with all the attention I received. Several times during the meal I would close my eyes for a second and actually feel that I was at dinner back in my own home in Brooklyn.

"And all this was possible because of the effort on the part of the very sweet women and young girls of your community. Now, I really know what is mean by 'Southern Hospitality.'

"I should like to write individually to everyone and express my gratitude, but that isn't possible at the moment. It is my understanding, my dear Mrs. Layne, that you were in supervision of the reception which greeted us in your fair town, and I wish you would accept my sincerest heartfelt thanks, relaying them to the others who are doing so much for soldiers like myself.

"In closing I again wish to thank you, and may God bless you all.

Sincerely,
(Signed)

YOU DON'T HAVE TO BUY BONDS
By J. E. Jones

Washington, D. C.—The United States Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., does not believe that high pressure methods are necessary to sell war bonds and stamps.

The Secretary didn't attempt to conceal his pleasure over the success within the motor industry in putting its pay roll plan of wage deductions for bonds over the top. He said to General Motors: "The goal you have all set for yourselves is indicative of the results which can be attained when employees and employers work as one mind toward the interests of our country." Mr. Morgenthau stated further that the success of the preliminary experiment showed very clearly that the employees want to hold an investment in our war effort, and I have confidence that their goal of 100 percent participation each month throughout the war will be maintained to help meet the increased demands of our gigantic war machine which require we raise a billion dollars each month."

The Treasury takes the position that the financial support of the citizenry is definitely behind the voluntary pay roll plan. In that case you don't have to buy bonds but you probably will agree with the head of the Treasury and "want to hold an investment in our war effort."

The latest news reports received in Washington indicate that several thousand firms are participating in the voluntary pay roll for investments in war bonds. Post-offices and banks all over the country are adding additional testimony to the news that the Treasury is being backed by the American people.

Three-Corner Row

It is generally estimated that there are 11,000,000 union members in the United States. A dozen years ago there was only one great union—the American Federation of Labor, now headed by William Green.

When John L. Lewis became the thorn in Green's flesh he raised the issue of "industrial unionism" versus "AF of L crafts." Lewis got aboard the NRA, which matched his pattern for "industrial unionism." In recent years CIO has gathered in a total membership that put it in the same class with AFofL. The two organizations seemed to hate each other.

Finally, after the last Presidential election John L. Lewis voluntarily retired as president of the CIO, devoted his talents to United Mine Workers and succeeded in landing his entire coal miner membership into a "closed shop" with full Government recognition. Philip Murray succeeded Lewis as President of CIO.

Lewis had grown to regard himself as a sort of a patriarch-counselor, and he may have had the best of intentions when he addressed Presidents Green and Murray and recommended that they get together, kiss and makeup. Both resented Lewis's suggestion, and when President Roosevelt agreed with them that Lewis was talking out of turn, the guns of AFofL-CIO started shooting at Lewis's fortress. After the noise piped down Lewis and Murray began calling each other, "you're 'nuther.'"

They are still at it, quarreling in the wide open places about more than a million dollars that Lewis claims CIO owes the Miners union, and Murray demanding that Lewis's Miners union must pay CIO several months back dues for 435,000 coal miners.

The three-cornered quarrel could be entertaining in times of less stress.

The really serious part of these internal explosions is that they seem to furnish fresh threats against the continuance of peaceful relations between management and workmen in many war industries. While we haven't heard so much about strike troubles the fact remains that labor quarrels are brewing in many places, and in establishments where planes, bombers, tanks, ships, and other activities in production must not be interrupted or stopped at this time.

Industrial Relations

The building of war materials is providing American industry with the greatest opportunity it has had since the beginning of mass production techniques to create a sound basis of permanent understanding with average worker, George W. Wilson, vice president of International Correspondence Schools, said in reviewing co-operative training agreements held by the schools with 2,300 leading companies.

"A degree of unity is being achieved in war production plants and factories that will be the basis for sound industrial relationships when the war ends," Mr. Wilson said. "Workers are more eager to understand management. Management is making a real effort to acquaint employees with many facts heretofore not made available to them.

"Obviously, every worker in the nation knows by now that this is a war of production, and that victory for the Allied Nations depends largely upon the efficiency and speed shown by our industrial plants. Likewise every worker knows in what manner the product he is helping to build will be used. In most instances, he knows where the product will be used. He also realizes, or should, that he will have to pay the costs of this war. In a very real sense he is helping pay for the very thing he is helping produce. There is not much question about profits by either the company or its management."

Optimism Grows

Leaders in Washington are growing more and more optimistic. The Russians told us months ago that the war could be won in 1942. British Ambassador Halifax is talking the same way, and the people in London are demanding invasion of the Continent. Next thing you may expect to hear will be as big a surprise as the Armistice of 1918.

The present speed of the war should bring it to a finish this year, in the opinion of our Washington correspondent.

HEBRON HOMEMAKERS

The Hebron Homemakers met with Mrs. Marie Asbury for their June meeting. The meeting began at 10:30 with the singing of the first and last verses of "America," followed by the reading of the "Collect." The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The leader's bill was presented and paid.

It was decided that we would have a picnic for the members and their children on the regular meeting day, Wednesday, July 8, and that we would hire a bus to take us on the trip to Butler State Park. The bus leaves Hebron at 9:00 a. m. The motion was made by Mrs. Wohrley that each adult pay 50c and each child 25c, the balance to be taken from the treasury. The motion was seconded by Mrs. Marietta Garnett, and carried.

Mrs. Moore showed some slides on nutrition and explained how a person can feel satisfied and still have a "hidden hunger."

Mrs. Hilda Hogan gave the review lesson and gave out the lesson sheets.

Thirteen members answered the roll call "interesting facts about the flag and what this flag means to me."

Mrs. Sue Rogers gave the Exterior Beautification report for Mrs. Elizabeth Youell who was absent.

The September meeting will be held at Mrs. Virginia Pope's on September 8. The hostesses are Mrs. Henry Anderson, Lorena Clore, Myrtle Crutcher and Marie Asbury.

Mrs. Moore told of the county-wide meeting on inflation control to be held at Burlington June 11. There will be community meetings also.

The major project for the coming year will be the Variety program; Three lessons renovation and remodeling clothing, 1 lesson each on home dry cleaning, care and repair of electrical appliances, and money regulations.

Mrs. Sue Rogers made the motion which was seconded by Lorena Clore that we take the birthday money $7.17 and make up the balance from the Treasury, to amount to $9.00 to be paid as the club's share on the Floral Hall at the Fair Ground.

The motion was made, seconded and carried that the meeting adjourn.

While we waited for the bus Mrs. Moore told us some interesting things about Junior Week at Lexington.

Katherine Peel, Sec'y.

INFLATION CAME IN ALL PREVIOUS WARS

Extreme price fluctuations have accompanied every major war in which the United States has engaged, according to Dana G. Card of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station.

During the Revolutionary War prices rose to more than double what they had been a few years earlier, largely because of expanded currency. So much paper money was printed, with which to pay for the war, that it became nearly worthless. People still sometimes say a thing is "not worth a continental."

Again in 1864 it took $2.50 to buy what $1 had bought in 1860. As a result of World War I, conditions were even worse when in 1920 it took $2.25 to buy what $1 had bought in 1912. Prices rose to these peaks in a relatively short time and dropped precipitously afterwards.

A government must buy large quantities of materials for the armed forces to carry on modern warfare, continues Dr. Card. Frequently manufacturers are offered higher prices for military supplies than they can get for civilian goods. Commerce in farm and other products is interrupted. Peacetime goods become scarce. Factories attempt to meet the increased demand by employing more people and increasing their payrolls. Thus workers, farmers and others have more money to spend for fewer goods, and prices rise.

If inflation and the evil effects which follow are to be avoided the causes of inflation must be attacked at their source. Present programs of the Federal Government involving heavier taxes, priorities for industry, ceiling prices, rationing of consumers' goods and the campaign to encourage the purchase of war bonds and stamps all are designed to counteract inflation and aid in the war effort.

PLAN YOUR VACATION AFTER JULY OR AUGUST

If you are one of the fortunates planning a vacation this year try to pick a time other than July and August, commonly accepted as vacation months, suggests the Office of Defense Transportation, Washington.

Stores, factories and other companies with a large number of employes are asked to schedule leaves and vacations throughout the year instead of during the summer months. War needs, which is making a tremendous demand upon bus and rail facilities, is the reason for the request.

"And in addition to governments request let me urge that people going on vacations leave and return on Tuesdays, Wednesday and Thursdays," said P. L. Radcliffe, General Traffic Manager for Great Lakes Greyhound Lines, operating in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky.

"This leaves the week-ends open for those who must travel and will assure greater comfort for those taking vacations. The adoption of staggered vacations throughout the year, and mid-week starting and ending of these vacations, will enable common carrier facilities to be utilized most efficiently," declared Mr. Radcliffe.

THE BOONE COUNTY RECORDER

ESTABLISHED 1875

VOLUME 67 | BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY THURSDAY, JULY 2, 1942 | NUMBER 4

REGISTRATION IS FAR SHORT

OF EXPECTATIONS IN FIFTH CALL—198 REGISTER BETWEEN AGES OF 18 AND 20½ YEARS.

Registration under the Selective Service Act, Tuesday of Boone County youth 18 to 20½ years old was extremely light. The total number registering was 198, about half the number expected to be registered in this county.

Burlington had a total of 99 to register, Union 26, Florence 34 and Walton 39.

Including Tuesday's registration Draft Board No. 9 has registered a total of 3,415 men. There are 1,981 men between the ages of 21-45 register; 1236 between the ages of 45 and 65 and 198 between the ages of 18-20½.

Youths Inducted June 25th

The following is a list of men inducted in the army from Boone County Draft Board 9 as of June 25: Florian V. Lusby, Walton; Elmer G. Lea, Hebron; Michael Prusack, Verona; Chas. Howe Cleek, Beaver; Robt. Collins Scott, Florence; Robert Berkshire Walton, Petersburg; William Owen Watts, Hebron; Warren G. Kirkpatrick, Burlington; Wm. Edw. Bagby, Cincinnati; Roy Doering Scothorn, Burlington; Virgil Rice Franks, Dry Ridge; Carl E. Hays, Verona; Robert Meyer Rouse, Florence; Wm. G. Clore, Constance and George Earl Fogel, LaGrange.

According to officials of the Draft Board fifty-two men will be called for induction July 3rd. This will be the largest number called during any single month.

Allowance Act Passed

Under authority of Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, Draft Boards throughout the State were advised that the Servicemen's Dependents Allowance Act of 1942 has been passed by Congress and signed by the President. This Act provides for family allowances for dependents of enlisted men of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard. These allowances accrue from date of induction or June 1, 1942 if date of induction preceded that date. These allowances will not be paid until after November 1, 1942.

Until this work can be completed and in order to give immediate effect to the general intent of Congress, registrants will be selected for induction from the following broad categories in the order in which they are described below.

Category One: Registrants otherwise qualified who do not have dependents entitling them to be placed in category two and who do not maintain a family relationship entitling them to be placed in category three and four.

Category Two: Registrants otherwise qualified who do not maintain a family relationship entitling them to be placed in category 3 or 4, but who have persons financially dependent upon them who qualify as dependents under the Selective Service Regulations.

Category Three: Registrants otherwise qualified who do not have children but do have wives with whom they maintain a bonafide relationship in their homes provided marriage took place prior to December 8, 1941 and a time when selection was not imminent.

Category Four: Registrants otherwise qualified who with their wives and children, or with their children alone, maintain a bonafide family relationship in their homes provided marriage took place prior to December 8, 1941 and at a time when selection was not imminent.

Reimer-Graves

A very impressive wedding ceremony was performed at the Hebron Lutheran Church, Saturday night by Rev. Noble Lucas, when Miss Virginia Reimer and Billy Graves were united in marriage.

The bride was attired in white organdy and carried white roses. Her maid of honor, Lorraine Reimer, wore lavendar organdy and carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses. The bridesmaid, Dorothy Angle, wore green organdy and carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses. The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, Robert Reimer.

The best man was James Gordon Bullock and Chester Edwards was usher.

The ceremony was preceded by a recital with Miss Lillian at the organ. Mrs. Lucy Barbe Stephens sang "I Love You Truly" and "O, Promise Me."

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony.

They will make their home with the grooms parents until September, at which time the bride expects to return to the University to complete her degree in Home Economics.

FIFTEEN DOGS BITTEN MONDAY

BY MAD DOG IN WALTON, ACCORDING TO REPORT—RESIDENTS WARNED TO BE ON LOOK OUT FOR STRAY DOG.

An apparent mad dog on the loose in the town of Walton, late Monday afternoon, caused considerable excitement. It was reported that fifteen dogs in and around the town had been attacked by the dog.

Before the dog was discovered, it had done its damage and escaped. Sheriff Williams was called, and a diligent search was made for the dog, but according to reports late Tuesday afternoon, it had not been found and was thought to still be at large.

Persons living in this community are warned to be on the lookout for this animal which was described as being a large yellow and white crossbred dog.

The quarantine on dogs in Boone County has not been lifted, and all dogs running at large are a menace and should be killed at once.

Mrs. M. E. Powers Johnson

Mrs. Maude E. Powers Johnson, 69, passed away Monday of last week at Christ Hospital, Cincinnati, following a major operation for stangulated hernia, performed several days before.

Mrs. Johnson was a native of Boone County and had spent most of her life in Kentucky. She united with the New Bethel Baptist Church at the age of 15, and remained an ever faithful Christian—believeing in prayer and trusting in her God.

March 1, 1893 she was married to Rev. A. K. Johnson. To this union five children were born, four of whom survive: Mrs. N. F. Pinner, Norwood, Ohio; Mrs. B. C. Griffith, Burlington; Mrs. A. T. Hunt, Verona and Mrs. O. L. Hamilton, Winchester. The only son, John L., died at the early age of 10 months.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday at 2:00 p. m. at the Walton Baptist Church, with the Rev. C. J. Alford officiating, assisted by a number of Baptist ministers.

Pallbearers were her four sons-in-laws and two grandsons.

Many flowers tributes were evidence of the esteem in which this lady was held.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of J. L. Hamilton & Son, of Verona.

Rev. Roy Johnson left Monday morning of this week to begin a two weeks meeting at the Lawrenceville Baptist Church, Grant County.

CONTRACT LET FOR LOCAL LAKE

FOUR-H AND UTOPIA CLUB FAIR GROUNDS LAKE CONSTRUCTION TO BEGIN WITHIN NEXT TWO WEEKS.

The contract to construct a large lake on the Boone County 4-H and Utopia Club Fair Grounds has been let, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Construction is to be done by the hour and will begin within the next two weeks if the weather permits.

Construction of a minimum of essential buildings will begin as soon as materials can be secured. Friday night the 4-H and Utopia Council voted to proceed with plans for a county picnic and educational fair to be held on the tentative date of August 22nd. All people of the county and their friends are invited to plan to take part in the event.

The Fair Grounds Construction Committee is composed of John L. Cofner, John E. Crigler and H. R. Forkner. Their activities in this program are directly under the supervision of the county 4-H and Utopia Club Council.

JULY 4, 1942

Each generation has its task to perform, ours has been allotted as the winning of the peace in the greatest and most devastating war in the history of the world.

As a part of this task, we are being called upon to do many things we have not done before. We are making sacrifices gladly to do our part.

In the celebration of July 4th, Independence Day, would it not be a grand thing to have the purchase of War Stamps and Bonds to our credit, and to act as a tonic to our conscience? Having the knowledge that the silence created here by the absence of fireworks would give the axis nations a burst of shell fire and a fireworks demonstration that would last in their memories throughout their short careers. Think as well of the hands and fingers that could otherwise turn to useful tasks, if they were not burned or mangled by a foolish celebration at a time such as this. Spend your money for the Victory to come! Honor the Independence we have by exerting every effort to speed the day of Peace and end the slaughter of your people, to the end that the Historians of our day can write for posterity.. It was a great job, well done. Enjoy the peace they earned for you.

Pastor Enters Second Year Sunday, July 5th

Rev. Sam Branham will begin his second year on Sunday, July 5th as pastor at Big Bone Baptist Church. All members are urged to be present next Sunday.

The church has enjoyed a prosperous year, and it is expected that it will continue to grow during the coming year.

The public is cordially invited to worship at this church.

Taylorsport Boy Arrives In Ireland

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sprague, of Taylorsport have received word of the safe arrival of their son Geo. Sprague in Northern Ireland.

George received his basic training at Ft. Knox, and is now a technician with the armored forces. He sends greetings to all his friends in the county.

WORK ON AIRPORT TO BEGIN JULY 10

ACCORDING TO OFFICIALS OF KENTON COUNTY FISCAL COURT—IS REGARDED AS CERTAINTY.

Construction work on the 750-acre Middle Ohio Valley Airport in Boone County will start not later than July 15, officials of the Kenton County Fiscal Court and Airport Holding Company announced last week, following a meeting in the Kenton County Courtroom, Covington.

The airport project, in and out of the fire several times in the last few months, is now regarded as a certainty, 90 percent of the Boone County landowners having agreed to a fair price for their holdings, and the sponsoring groups having received an acceptable contract for the sale of bonds to finance Kenton County's portion of the project.

Real estate men who have been interviewing owners of property atop the plateau, near Constance, just opposite Anderson's Ferry, made the report that 90 percent are ready to sell at fair prices.

The Work Projects Administration, co-sponsor of the project, already has allotted $225,000 for initial drainage, grading and grubbing work. Later appropriations are expected to bring the total expenditure to nearly $1,000,000.

Immediate facilities call for four 4,600-foot runways, with the probable addition later of four others, ranging up to 6,600 feet in length. The initial outlay, however, is adequate to obtain the Civil Aeronautics Authority's highest rating, known as Class 4.

J. Y. BROWN TO BE CANDIDATE

IN RACE FOR UNITED STATES SENATOR—RESIGNS POSITION TO MAKE RACE FOR SENATE SEAT.

John Young Brown, former Congressman and former Speaker of the House, this week announced he would oppose Senator A. B. (Happy) Chandler for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate. His declaration papers were filed at Frankfort shortly before the dead line Monday night.

In an advertisement released to papers throughout the State, Brown implied that he would have sensational charges to make as the campaign advanced.

"Two weeks ago," he said in a personal statement, "I had no idea of running. I was out of politics. I had a comfortable job. I was satisfied to let the other fellow have the office.

"Now, I am back in politics. I have quit my job. As a loyal American, I can't be satisfied to see our Junior Senator returned to Washington."

Brown will supply the "shocking" reasons for his decision in a series of advertisements and in radio speeches.

"It is enough to say now," he explained, "that information came to me that made it seem unpatriotic and cowardly to let the nomination go by default to the man who holds the office.

"I believe Kentuckians, remembering Bataan, and the Coral Seas and all the theatres of war where Kentucky boys have distinguished themselves in the service of country, will rise up when they hear the news I have to tell. I believe they'll be outraged, one and all, remembering the old and tragic report, 'too little and too late.' I believe their blood will boil, as mine has boiled.

"Read your papers!" he advised in closing, "Tune in on your radios! I have more to say."

Brown served two sessions in the Kentucky House of Representatives, one as Speaker and one term in the United States Congress as representative from the State at large.

Throughout his political career, he has been known for his serious approach to public questions, for his candor, and for his fighting qualities.

To make the race for the senatorial nomination, he resigned his position as attorney for the United Mine Workers of America.

Elmer Kelly is somewhat improved from a paralytic stroke suffered Friday of last week. He has been removed to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kelly. His many friends wish for him a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Sallie Finnell Hance

Mrs. Sallie Finnell Hance, age 80 years, passed away at her home, 1321 Michigan Avenue, Hyde Park, Cincinnati, early Sunday morning after a brief illness.

The remains were brought to the Chambers & Grubbs funeral home for preparation, and remained there until Tuesday afternoon at which time services were conducted by Rev. R. F. DeMoisey at 2:00 p. m. in the presence of a host of relatives and friends. Burial was in Highland cemetery.

She leaves three sons, Milton, of Indianapolis, Ind., Evan, of Walton and David, of St. Louis, Mo.; four daughters, Mrs. Wilelda Gardner, of Carlisle, Ky., Mrs. Jane Sleet, of Beaver Lick, and Julia and Sue Hance, of Cincinnati, with whom she made her home; and six grandchildren. Her husband preceded her to the grave several years ago.

Verona Man Sells Lambs At Top Price

Charles Dennler, of Verona, Ky., sold 16 mixed lambs at the Cincinnati Union Stock Yards that weighed 85 pounds and brought $15.00. Mr. Dennler took particular care of these lambs as to diseases, especially worms. He has been shipping to this market for 40 years and his father a great many years prior to that.

R. C. Crisler of Burlington, had 21 Hampshire hogs at the Cincinnati Union Stock Yards that weighed 219 pounds and brought $14.80, the top.

LARGE CROWDS IN ATTENDANCE

AT COST OF LIVING CONTROL MEETINGS—EVERY FARMER TO RECEIVE DIRECT INFORMATION ON PROGRAM.

Two hundred and thirty out of 369 appointed leaders in the National Cost of Living and Inflation Control educational program attended leaders training meetings held in ten community centers during the past two weeks, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. All leaders were eager to serve but circumstances prevented many from attending the meetings.

The National program calls for every farm family and every non-farm family in America to receive direct information through leaders on the purpose and working of the cost of living and inflation control program. The success of this program is considered vital to the war program.

Both leaders and citizens are showing a splendid cooperative and patriotic spirit in this program. An analysis of the reaction show that the people are 100 per cent patriotic in their attitude and are ready to meet any and all sacrifices necessary for the successful conclusion or winning of the war.

Tupman-Fox

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Ardelle Tupman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Rouse to Mr. Ausbon Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Fox, of Latonia, was an event of Saturday, June 27th at the home of Rev. DeMoisey, Walton, Ky.

The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Beeten, of Florence. The bridesmaid was dressed in pale yellow and carried red roses.

The bride was dressed in pale blue and white and carried pink roses. The groom wore blue and the best man was attired in light grey.

The bride was a member of the Florence graduating class of 1941. At present she is employed by the Shillito Co. The groom is an employee of the General Tire Co.

After a brief honeymoon they will make their home in Latonia.

We wish for them a long, happy married life.

Hart-Walton

The marriage of Miss Mildred Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hart, formerly of Richwood, to Mr. John Turner Walton, Jr., son of Mrs. John Walton, of Birmingham, Ala., was solemnized Saturday at 8 p. m. at the home of the officiating minister, Rev. O. J. Steger, pastor of Southside Baptist Church, Covington.

RATE INCREASE GIVEN APPROVAL

FOR CONSOLIDATED TELEPHONE COMPANY BY STATE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION.

Slight increases in Consolidated Telephone Company rates for Boone County were approved by the State Public Service Commisson, Frankfort, Wednesday of last week.

The Consolidated Telephone Co., Toledo, Ohio, operator of the Boone County system, asked to increase the rates on business, private lines, and rural party lines because of the increased cost of equipment and payment of higher wages.

No objections were filed by the county against the rate increase. Ralph L. Morgan, Rushville, Ind., Treasurer; E. G. Stephenson, Florence, Ky., Boone County telephone manager, and Harry McChesney, Jr., Frankfort attorney, represented the company.

The rate increase is effective August 1, 1942 and will amount to a few thousand dollars a year.

The Company has made substantial additions to its property during the past five years which has resulted in improved service. Monthly rates charges by the company have been substantially lower than those charged by other companies in adjacent territories and communities. Increases in rates are small and in no doubt will meet with the approval of subscribers, and many of the rates have not been changed.

Record Rubber Collection Made At Union Station

The scrap drive to collect old rubber for our government has made considerable progress thru out Boone County, with all communities making good reports on their scrap collections, and the old rubber is still coming in to our filling stations and stores.

The record collection to come to our attention to date has been made by Malone Ligon's Station at Union, Ky. Mr. Ligon reported Tuesday that he had collected over five tons of scrap rubber since the drive started and that it is still coming in. This is a fine record and is the largest collection by any single station in Boone County to be reported to date.

President Roosevelt has extended the scrap rubber campaign through July 10th and persons are being urged to make a second search for any old rubber around your homes and deliver it to your nearest filling station at your earliest convenience.

The W. M. U. of the local Baptist Church will meet at the Church Friday of this week, at 11 a. m. At this time Mrs. Walter Guth, of Belleview will teach a book. All members are urged to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Huey, of Louisville were visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Huey, Sunday afternoon.

57 SHEEPMEN DIP FLOCKS

SERVICE SO FAR HAS PROVEN HIGHLY SATISFACTORY—J. E. GROSS, FORMERLY OF WALTON OPERATING VAT.

Fifty-seven Boone County sheepmen have listed their flocks to be dipped for external parasite control in the Boone County portable vat dipping program, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Thirty-two of these flocks, representing approximately 1800 sheep, were dipped last week.

The dipping service so far has proven highly satisfactory except for the time element on the routing and in a few instances difficulty in getting the dipping equipment to locations on certain side roads. Because of the difficulty in getting new tires, the operators have requested that the sheep be located in an accessible place.

J. E. Gross, formerly of Walton and now of Carrollton, is operating the vat. The cost to the farmer is ten cents per head with the full dipping service furnished after the farmer puts the sheep to the starting point on the chute to the vat.

DISTRIBUTING THE LOAD

The American people are at last learning one inescapable fact—everyone must help pay for this war. The old slogan, "Soak the rich," no longer has any meaning.

The new tax bill goes down into income brackets never before reached. And, in the view of economists who deal with facts, not hopes, it will not be long before the people of small and moderate means will have to be hit harder still. The people in the middle and high income brackets are already paying just about all the traffic will bear without total confiscation of income. We can't substantially increase taxes on industry without depriving it of the money that is vital to its progress, expansion and solvency. Nothing is left save to turn to the lower-income groups—and those groups are the groups which, for the most part, are receiving the bulk of the vastly increased purchasing power resulting from war expenditures.

The annual income tax will not be adequate. Some system for collecting taxes, in part, on a monthly basis will be put into effect. Dire necessity is also likely to force the passage of a general sales tax.

This should have one good effect on the American people. It will give many of them, for the first time, a knowledge of their own stake in the government. It will prove to them that governmental spending comes out of their own pockets and is their own business. Every American, wheather he earns ten or a thousand dollars a week, must join in demanding that all government non-war spending be cut to the bone—and that every frill, every luxury, every non-essential, be immediately eliminated. It is essential to curb government spending, as well as personal spending, to check inflation.

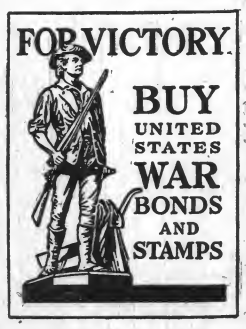
CHANGES MADE BY WAR

We are at last beginning to feel the colossal changes war has forced on the economic and social life of the nation. And, in the next six months or so, changes in a far greater degree than anything we have yet experienced will inevitably take place.

It should be clear to everyone by now that the American standard of living, which has been infinitely luxurious by comparison with that of most of the rest of the world, will be largely abandond for the duration. This year, our national income will be the largest in our history. But the amount of money which the people will have to spend for goods and services will be down to the lowest depression levels and perhaps lower. There are three principal reasons for that. First, and most important, is the tax burden, which will be felt in the lowest income groups, and will reach staggering proportions in the middle and high income groups. Second, War Bond purchases, wheather voluntary or enforced, will take a substantial part of everyone's remaining income. Third, the price level is far above that of 1932 and 1933.

For the most part, we have not yet felt any particular lack of "luxury goods." While manufacture of such goods was stopped some time ago in most lines, stocks on hand have kept store inventories adequate. Soon it will be impossible to buy a refrigerator, an automatic heating plant, a radio, an office machine, and ten thousand and one other items, unless you have a first-class priority rating, and the item is needed for a purpose directly connected with the war. Rationing of public transportation services may make pleasure travel impossible. And it is generally expected that a card-rationing system, similar to that now in effect for sugar, will be extended to other foods, to clothes and to many additional necessities.



Whole professions are being virtually wiped out. For example, there is the plight of the salesman. There is no need for his services if his industry is engaged in war work. If his industry is not in war work, its production is swiftly declining and he has less and less to sell. These people are being absorbed by war industry, for the most part. After the war they will face another difficult problem of readjustment.

Whole industries are in the same position. The mortality, for instance, in the businesses which have been built up about the automobile—service stations, repair shops, roadside restaurants, resorts, etc.—is great, and before long it will be tremendous. All their proprietors and employes can do is to close shop and get a war job. There is no place for their businesses in the war picture.

The face of American communities of all sizes is changing swiftly. Gigantic war plants are being developed in sections where there was little industry before. In many defense areas, population growth — unprecedented in its rapidity—has created an exceedingly severe housing and transportation problem. These problems have not yet been adequately solved, and they will grow worse. They constitute a major headache to governmental authorities.

The population trend from country to city is intense. Agricultural workers, attracted by the big wages by war industry, are literally leaving the farms in droves. The farm operator can't get enough labor, and, even when he can, he must offer wages that in many cases are beyond his ability to pay. This has offset a good part of the benefits of increased farm income.

The foregoing simply illustrates a few of the almost revolutionary changes that are occurring in this country. And they illustrate, by inference, what our post-war problems will be. Authorities in both business and government seem convinced that none of the problems are insoluble. They know that there will be many mistakes, many errors in judgement. But they believe that, after the war, this nation's incredible industrial plant will be able to provide jobs for all employables, and will in time bring the general standard of living to a level well beyond anything we have known. It is healthy sign that, even as we grapple with the immense problems of war, we are also thinking ahead to the peace to come.

INVEST IN VICTORY!

Our boys can take the War to the enemy, if we back them up with ships and tanks and guns! But that takes money!

Help your Government to put the tools of war into the hands of our soldiers by purchasing War Savings Bonds and Stamps. And remember . . . just one Bond can't lick the Axis any more than just one gun! It takes millions of Americans buying War Savings Bonds and Stamps every pay day!

Bonds cost $18.75 and up . . . and they pay you back one-third more in only 10 years! Stamps cost 10¢, 25¢, and up . . . soon total the price of a Bond if bought regularly.

Help our boys on the fighting fronts wherever they may be! Buy War Savings Bonds as an investment for yourself and your country.

CALLING DRAFTED MOTHERS

"Our country always has risen to every emergency, and always will. And now I have full confidence in our people to overcome any situation which can block our war effort like the rubber shortage for example." So spoke a soldier to his family, while on a furlough before being shipped to foreign shores.

Drafted mothers of our nation, when your sons have such faith in the ingeniousness and fortitude of our people, it should make you rise even to greater heights to come to their quick aid. And now that our President has appealed to us to give him full cooperation in the nation-wide rubber salvage drive, you are given another opportunity to help those sons. For by urging our people to support the President on this, you will be assisting your sons, who require rubber as much as they do munitions to win the war. Without the planes, ships, tanks, field artillery, trucks and cars, which require rubber, munitions are of little value to them. Of course most of us should realize by now the gravity of the rubber situation, and should give full cooperation here. Yet it must be owned, drafted mothers, that many persons may not turn in all the rubber they should—and especially those who have no dear ones on the battle fields.
